CRASH IN NIGHT.

CAR AT FULL SPEED FLIPS FROM CURVE.

Two Passengers and Motorman Injured in Accident Which Takes Place in Pasadena Early This Morning—Motorman Dazed.

PASADENA, May 19.—A South Loop car going south on Los Robles avenue early this morning took the curve at California street at full speed. The car leaped over the tracks, struck a tree and a telegraph pole and tipped on to its side.

Glass was shattered and things about the car were smashed generally.

There were two passengers who were injured by the accident. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Freeman. Mr. Freeman is head of a detective agency and protective patrol which serves Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Freeman were seated outside in the front part of the car.

As the heavy vehicle tipped over Mrs. Freeman was thrown against Mr. Freeman, and then a door was jolted open and Mrs. Freeman was shot inside and toward the rear of the car, where she fell.

Mr. Freeman says that the motorman, after the accident, seemed to be dazed and kept walking about the place abstractedly, although Mr. Freeman kept calling on him to assist in taking care of his wife.

The injuries to Mr. Freeman were chiefly cuts on the head and shoulders and cheek. Mrs. Freeman was severely wrenched and bruised about the body.

The motorman was cut behind the ear.

It is believed the motorman lost his bearings, for the brakes were not applied as the coach approached the curve.

Conductor No. 236, who was in charge of the car, telephoned to the barns and a wrecking crew was sent to the scene of the accident.

It is expected that there will be an investigation of the case today.

ULTRA CONVENTIONAL.

HIS GUEST OF HONOR BALKS AT HIS DINNER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The innermost circle of St. Louis society received a jolt tonight which all but threw it into a fit of apoplexy, when Miss Mary Fullerton, St. Louis' richest girl, a niece of J. Pierpont Morgan, balked at attending a dinner in her honor because she had not been consulted about the list of guests until it was too late to make any changes.

Dining rooms, lavishly decorated for the occasion, where costly viands ordered and prepared went untasted, guests who had dressed for dinner, and who were notified of an indefinite postponement at the last minute, ate their accustomed meal at home, and the host, McNair Inglefritz took a ham sandwich at Union Station, and left hot haste for Chicago tonight. A sick mother served as the excuse for which the twenty-four invitations were replied by as many special messengers. All this is but a small part of the social tragedy which came about because Miss Fullerton failed to discover, until the last minute, that her hostess's selections had been made apart from the close personal friends of herself and her fiancé, Paul Bakewell, and because Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison, who was to have been the chaperon, according to first information of the dinner reaching Miss Fullerton, did not appear among those who had accepted invitations, and another matron had been sent her place.

Mr. Bakewell, when seen at the home of Miss Fullerton tonight, gave out this statement as their version of the affair:

"Mr. Inglefritz asked Miss Fullerton some time ago what evening, between that time and the date of our marriage, would be convenient for a dinner party. She named the date after some specifications relating to a chaperon, it being agreed that Mrs. Morrison was to be asked to chaperon the party. Tonight I heard about the list of guests and called up Mr. Inglefritz, asking who was invited and who was to be chaperon.

"The list was short the name of Mrs. Morrison and another matron had been invited. I felt that the list had been compiled more with a view of having friends of Mr. Inglefritz than friends of Miss Fullerton and myself. We were unwilling to be guests at a dinner which savored of exploiting the social or professional career of any one, and I told Mr. Inglefritz, for Miss Fullerton, that the dinner had best be called off."

Miss Fullerton was highly amused at some of the reports of the affair, and laughed when told a friend had seen Inglefritz bolting a sandwich at the station. "I don't see who could have told about him going to Chicago," she said. "Nobody knew about that because we had to fix up that excuse for him." Then she decided to let Mr. Bakewell do the explaining.

COLLAPSE UTTER.

PARIS SIGHS RELIEF AT STRIKE'S FAILURE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Parisians drew sighs of relief this morning when they learned that the efforts of the leaders of the postal strike had failed to obtain the coöperation of the immense railway Employés' Union, the leaders of which had been forced last week to promise to call their men out if the government did not yield to the demands of the strikers.

When the question finally came to a issue at a monster meeting last night, the railway contingent's orators began calling the postal contingent liars and willful misleaders of the rank and file dependent upon them for guidance, and unworthy exponents of the cause of united labor. The postal leaders retorted with equally forceful remarks, calling the railway delegates cowards.

Thus the public judges that it may safely leave the warring elements of the trade unions to destroy any effectiveness they might otherwise have in the situation, particularly since, in spite of the small kernel of truth beneath much talk of the possibility of general strikes, it by no means seems sure that a majority of the employés in other branches of industry represented in the general work of the confederation, would obey their leaders.

Although the general confederation of workmen, including all the unions in the country, put itself on record last night as desiring that a general strike be "prepared," much of the former apprehension of this outcome now is quieted, for the defection of the railway union made a bad impression on the labor ranks.

If the powerful railway union would not coöperate, it is argued, why should the weaker labor bodies draw the chestnuts out of the fire for the postal employés, who, after all, are in a much better material situation than any other organized employés? Serious leaders of public opinion warn the people that France always has been the country in which large general theories have first been put to a practical test, and that there is no doubt that the specter of general strikes will walk through the land here before appearing elsewhere.

For the moment, however, all fear is over, though letters are still delivered late and papers and registered mail hardly at all.

The committee of the General Federation of Labor today adopted a compromise attitude. It decided to ask the postmen to return to work, but with the assurance that the General Federation of Labor would begin the organization of a series of manifestations in different branches of industry to emphasize the general claims of the working class.

The daily meetings of the State postmen are now attended only by dismissed employés. Speakers at these meetings declared today they had been betrayed by the proletariat, or organization, but they had refrained from raising the white flag in the hope that the General Federation of Labor would decide to declare a general strike.

WANTS TO KNOW.

VON BUELOW AGAIN TO CONFER WITH KAISER

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the second time in the course of the present historic session of the Reichstag, Chancellor Von Buelow has left Berlin to meet the Kaiser and ask for fresh assurances of favor and support, or, failing to get them, to ask for permission to retire. The German public is eagerly awaiting the outcome. Before leaving for Wiesbaden last night the Chancellor conferred with the Reichstag leaders and took a final survey of the situation to report the result to His Majesty.

The discouraging finance question is no nearer solution than it was six months ago, when it was first taken up and the "block," which is the foundation of Prince Von Buelow's internal policy, was shattered. The parliamentary situation generally is in a hopeless muddle. The Reichstag Steering Committee voted last night to adjourn in a month, hoping in the meantime to patch up compromises on the new revenue schemes, including a tax on matches. An increased tax on coffee is also proposed. The value of urging, with reason, that no progress is possible unless Kaiser Wilhelm reaffirms in some signal way his confidence in the Chancellor and gives him the moral backing which will enable him to deal firmly with the situation. There is a widespread impression that since last November Prince Von Buelow has fallen into disfavor, and is slated for early retirement, and this expected event is cited as the chief reason for his present failure. The Kaiser thus again becomes the pivot of the entire internal situation.

Whatever course the Kaiser takes, the solution of the difficult problem of increasing the revenues before late in the summer is now considered highly improbable.

SLOZAK TO GET BIG SALARY.

PARIS, May 18.—Leo Slozak, the noted tenor of Vienna, who is to appear at the Metropolitan Operahouse in New York next season, will, it is understood, receive a salary second only to that of Enrico Caruso, and his contract provides for an increase in his compensation if he makes the success that is expected. HARVARD INSTRUCTOR MISSING.

Dr. Hutchinson Leaves Notes Saying He's Going Away and Threatening Suicide.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Posses are scouring the Middlesex Falls and Metropolitan Park police dragged the pond today for the body of Dr. Percy A. Hutchinson, the Harvard instructor who suddenly disappeared last night from the New England Sanitarium. This afternoon W. E. Bliss, superintendent of the sanitarium, received a note which said:

"I am sick of this life. I am going to commit suicide. You need not look for my body in the pond. I am going away."

Mrs. Hutchinson, wife of the missing professor, received a letter telling her not to worry and not to get excited. Dean Briggs of Harvard has received a letter written from a local hotel, in which he [redacted]

"I am going where there are less people and more trees and flowers."

Taking into consideration the suicide threat and the reassuring words sent to his wife and to Dean Briggs, the Harvard man's disappearance is all the more perplexing.

TRAGIC-COMEDY.

WIDOW OF ANNIS GOES ON STAGE.

WILL PLAY IN SKIT UTILIZING HUSBAND'S MURDER.

Signs Contract for One Year to Appear in Musical Act—Capt. Peter C. Hains Taken to Sing Sing to Begin Serving Eight-Year Term. Is Little Interested in Proceedings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The vaudeville curtain went up on the last act of the Hains tragedy at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when Mrs. William E. Annis signed a contract with William L. Lykens of the United Booking Offices to appear for one year in a musical act. She is to play the piano accompaniment for a skit specially arranged, designed to utilise to the utmost the advertising value of the celebrated murder.

As the curtain was run up, with a parlor scene and the setting of a home musicale for its scheme, the curtain dropped at Sing Sing on Capt. C. Hains, Jr., and convict No. 2002 took his place in the tragic-comedy of life. Eight years will elapse between the entrance of No. 2002 and the reappearance of Peter C. Hains, Jr. Ten days will probably elapse before Mrs. Annis brings her statuesque and pleasing person before the footlights.

Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., who was sentenced yesterday, on conviction of manslaughter of killing William E. Annis, left the Queens County Jail today for Sing Sing prison to begin serving his term of from eight to sixteen years.

Eugene L. Young, one of Capt. Hains's attorneys, said no application would be made for a certificate for reasonable doubt, but that an appeal in the captain's behalf would be taken to the higher courts in the regular way.

Capt. Hains left the jail in custody of a keeper. His bearing was not materially changed from his first appearance in the courtroom. He walked beside the keeper in a dazed manner and showed no evidence of emotion. On the way to the Grand Central Station, he neither recognized nor spoke to any one. None of his relatives were at the jail when he departed.

DONS THE STRIPES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OSSINING (N. Y.) May 18.—Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., is now a prisoner in Sing Sing. As he arrived at the station unexpectedly there was no curious crowd assembled. Although he manifested considerable interest in the prison buildings, he preserved absolute silence. On entering the prison Hains's pedigree was taken, the number, 2002 was assigned him, he was given a suit of prison clothing, and then sent to the prison barber shop to be shaved. Later he was sent to his cell. Tomorrow he will be examined by the prison physician, and if found able to work, will be assigned to the task which will be his perhaps for the next eight years.

PRESIDENT OFF FOR SOUTH.

Mrs. Taft Unable to Accompany Him, Although Condition Is Improved; Charlie at Home.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—President Taft boarded the private car Olympia tonight, preparatory to starting on a trip to the South at 4:20 tomorrow morning.

It will be his first visit to the South since his inauguration. His first stop will be at Petersburg, Va., at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

Tomorrow night the Presidential party will go to Charlotte, N. C., to attend the Mecklenburg celebration on Thursday.

Mrs. Taft, who is unable to accompany the President because of a nervous breakdown, is steadily recuperating. It was announced at the White House just before the President's departure.

After the call of Dr. Delaney, the attending physician, at the White House this morning, it was announced that the President's wife had rested comfortably and was much better.

Charlie Taft, the youngest son of the President, whose tonsils were removed yesterday, has returned to the White House from the hospital and is getting along nicely.

President Taft will make an address to the faculty and pupils of the Hamilton Institute, an institution for negroes and Indians at Hampton, Va., next Sunday. The President, accompanied by Mrs. Taft, will leave Washington on the yacht Dolphin and reach Hampton Sunday morning. The party will sail from there Sunday afternoon and get back to Washington Monday morning.

AFTER BRANDENBURG.

Father of Kidnaped Lad Before Grand Jury—May Make Writer Stand Trial for Life.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James Sheppard Cabanne, Jr., has been before the grand jury here twice, the second time today, as the result of which it is rumored that an attempt will be made to bring Broughton Brandenburg from New York to this city, to answer an indictment charging him with the abduction of Cabanne's 5-year-old son, James Sheppard Cabanne III, who, it is alleged, was smuggled to the Union Station here in a basket, and taken to San Francisco by Brandenburg.

Missouri's new law provides the death penalty for abduction. Brandenburg and Cabanne's wife, it was reported, were married in Honduras. She was a Kentucky banker's daughter.

PATTEN AGAIN WHEAT KING.

Stands Quiet While May Jumps Higher.

His Pet Option Reaches New High Water Mark.

His Firm Alone Can Stand Pressure of Shorts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] May wheat reached $1.30 today, a new record for the Patten deal.

Excitement of the wildest description rules in the pit as frantic shorts bid the price up on themselves in eager efforts to cover trades.

May wheat, which closed at $1.28⅝ last night, opened at the new price, and stuck, there while thousands of bushels were being bought and sold. The Patten-Bartlett house was the heaviest seller. The shorts were given many thousands of bushels at the top price. There was heavy trading in the July option, with prices advancing from yesterday ⅝ cent.

July wheat closed Monday at $1.14⅛, and most of the early sales today were at $1.14⅞.

Patten today was non-committal, and the impression was given out that most of his wheat had been sold, and that the heavy selling by the firm with which he is connected was done by customers.

The new record for the Patten wheat deal, and the highest since Joseph Leiter cornered the market, and later got cornered—came unexpectedly. Almost in a twinkling the price went above $1.29, and before the shorts could grasp their astonishment it leaped to the $1.30 mark.

REAL TOADS FOR HATPINS.

Latest Fad for Ladies Headgear to Be Metalized by Chemicals.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Real toads for hatpins promise to displace the metalized roses and other ornaments. A manufacturing firm here has accepted an order from Chicago millinery jobbing houses for fifty thousand metalized toads. By the same chemical process whereby rosebuds are turned into metal, the toads, first killed by gas fumes and then impaled upon a long pin, will be turned to metal, practically retaining their individual color. The process makes them as light as so much pasteboard would be, and they retain a greenish bronze hue and perfect shape, except that they shrink a trifle in the chemicals. The toads will be cultivated at a swampy farm near this city.

At the sound of the trading gong there was a deluge of buying orders.

The shorts bid frantically, and the price, without any other support than that given by the bears, was boosted upward. At $1.30 the Patten brokers apparently were ready to sell the world's visible supply of wheat. No bids were refused. Apparently it was only Patten brokers who had the temerity to sell at all against the tide of such a market.

The flurry was one of the wildest in months, and pandemonium ruled the big exchange once more.

HUNT FOR PYROMANIAC.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—Four fires today, believed to have been incendiary in origin and in which one life was lost and property valued at $100,000 was destroyed, caused increased activity for the search for Andrew Hanson, who recently escaped from the asylum at Elgin, Ill. In all, since Hanson's escape, there have been nineteen fires of questionable origin, the losses aggregating close to half a million dollars. Hanson is a pyromaniac.

HURT IN "L" COLLISION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—Several persons were injured, one seriously, in a collision between two south-bound trains on the Northwestern elevated road today. William G. Schroeder, cashier for the Continental National Bank had both legs broken. The collision is supposed to have been caused by the failure of an air brake to work.

KING JAMES'S TEXT OBSOLETE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—King James's version of the Bible was held to be obsolete by Prof M. S. Terry, of the Garrett Biblical Institute, in his address before the Methodist ministers at the Methodist Episcopal church conference. More progress has been made in biblical investigation in the last 150 years than in 1000 years before, he said, and this has changed the wording of King James's version, although it has not destroyed its doctrine or facts.

DISCUSS THE DEVIL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—Whether or not Beelzebub appeared in person on earth in the scenes depicted in the Bible stories, was a mooted point brought out by Prof. Andrew C. Zenos, of the McCormick Theological Seminary, before a conference of Presbyterian ministers. "A great many people are troubled with the idea," said Prof. Zenos, "that there must be an evil personality at the head of all evil. Let us remember that the Bible has a language of its own. I do not believe that it is necessary to believe that a physical man came to Christ and tempted Him, but I believe in the personality of the devil in the Bible. This personality, however, is not one of the cardinal doctrines. The evidence is in favor of a personal devil. The man who denies this, however, is not necessarily to be pronounced un-Christian."

STUDENTS WILL GET EVEN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—University of Chicago students at last have an opportunity to revenge themselves on unpopular professors. The faculty must submit to being questioned and criticised and advised by their own pupils, according to a recent university rule just made public. Under the latest Midway dictum, the students are expected to turn in their candid opinions of the professors, who lecture to them, together with suggestions for improvement in teaching methods. Prof. R. A. Milliken of the physics department, explained the new system. "We wish to obtain the sincere views of the students upon questions relating to their courses," he said. "The names of the critics will be kept secret." The opinions, which are expected to be vigorous in some instances, will be considered by a special faculty committee, and it is expected that changes may be ordered in several departments.

TEMPLE OF BAHAISM.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—With contributions received from every corner of the globe, the Bahaists are planning to build a temple in Wilmette, a suburb of Chicago, which will cost more than $500,000. The temple is to be called "Mashrak-el-Azcar," which is a mixture of modern and oriental architecture. It will be modeled after a similar temple. Eshkobad, in Russia, the plans for which were drawn by Baha-Ullah, father of the Abdul-Bahel of Galilee, the present leader of the Bahaists. The building will have nine walls and contain nine fountains. The temple is to symbolize perfect man and the perfect world, and each fountain is to typify a world religion, as the Bahaists insist that through their religion all others will be unified. The Bahaists now number more than 1,000,000 believers, and each has made a contribution toward the proposed Chicago temple. Although the majority of its members are in the Orient, Chicago has been selected by the Bahaists as the mecca and world center of their religion.

BIG SURPRISE FOR STOCKTON.

Democrats Make Clean Sweep of the Election.

Bourbons Carry Their Ticket Top to Bottom.

Vote Polled Is Largest for Many Years.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

STOCKTON, May 18.—In one of the most exciting and surprising elections ever held in Stockton, the Democrats made a clean sweep of the ticket from top to bottom, with the exception of two school directors, who were on a mixed Democratic-Republican ticket. H. R. Reibenstein was elected Mayor by 628 votes, and the other candidates on the Democratic ticket ranged from 1 to 500.

The vote was the largest cast for many years, 4616 ballots being cast.

The winning candidates were George Beivers, for Recorder; Oscar Wright, for Superintendent of Streets; M. Brisco, Dennis O'Keefe, George Heimann, J. Armstrong, for Councilmen; L. Ledoire Davis, M. J. Henry, C. H. Campbell, A. J. Turner and Dr. Ray, for school directors.

A band paraded the streets at a late hour tonight playing "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

The Democratic platform pledged the calling of a special election to resubmit the question of Sunday closing. The Republican platform contained a plank indorsing Sunday closing, but pledging its candidates to call an election if it was petitioned for. The Democratic government platform demanded an unqualified maintenance of the ordinance commanding Sunday closing of saloons.

The Royal Arch, an organization of saloon men, indorsed the Democratic platform, and as the leaguers were beaten 30 per cent, Republican, the Democrats had a sweeping victory.

CHERRIES ARE RIPE.

GROWERS REAP HARVEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Heavy shipments of cherries are being made from the Northern San Joaquin country to various eastern markets. The crop this year is unusually large and the fruit is of very fine quality.

The growers are reaping large profits and hustling the fruit to market at a fast rate. The warm weather of the past few days has caused the cherries to ripen very fast, and a lot of them have to be disposed of to the canneries, which are running overtime to use all of the pick.

The black Tartarian is the early variety, and by the time the crop is exhausted the Royal Anns will be ready for shipment, which will be in ten days. The orchardists are employing a large number of pickers and packers throughout the Acampo and Langford districts. No break in the price is anticipated for the next few days, when they will gradually decline until the end of the season, when the last lots will again bring top prices.

BUILD OWN PARK.

ELGIN CITIZENS BUSY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELGIN (Or.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Donning overalls and jumpers, citizens of every vocation and station in life are turning out daily to make Elgin a public park of which it may be proud. After effecting a permanent organization and raising funds, the Elgin Park Association requested the residents to contribute their labor. Merchants, preachers, bankers and laborers responded generously and set to cutting brush and pulling stumps. The work is progressing rapidly, and the volunteers are now ready to lay out graveled driveways and flower beds, which will be followed by the installation of fountains.

EDITORS IN COURT.

SPRECKELS GIVES BAIL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Ernest A. Simpson, managing editor of the Evening Call and C. W. Hornick, general manager of the same paper, charged of libel by P. H. McCarthy, president of the Building Trades Council, appeared before Judge Shortall today. On stating that demurrers would be filed, their attorneys were given until 10 o'clock tomorrow, when arguments will be heard.

John D. Spreckels, owner of the Call, against whom a warrant on the same charge was issued yesterday, surrendered himself today and was released on depositing $50 cash bail.

CROSSES MATRIMONIAL TAPE.

Forrest Smithson, Breaker of Records and Hearts, Quietly Weds Portland Girl.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Forrest Smithson, sprinter, sprinter, breaker of records and incidentally breaker of hearts, crossed the line of his bachelor career last night at Seattle, when he was married to Miss Katherine Tracy of New York, reputed to be an heiress.

Among others, Smithson leaves, in particular, Miss Edna Murphy of No. 650 Clackamas street, Portland, to whom his engagement was announced last fall, and who, at the present time, is wearing his fraternity pin. When Smithson, with Kelly and Gilbert, made his triumphal return to Portland, after the Olympic games in London, a member of the party who accompanied the athletes remarked on the number of telegrams Smithson sent ahead, and the number of pretty girls who were at the stations the train passed through.

Mr. and Mrs. Smithson are planning a trip abroad after a very quiet wedding, at which only the officiating clergyman, Dr. M. A. Matthews, and the best man, Brailey Gish of Seattle, were present.

James Murphy, a local milling man and father of the girl Smithson is said to have jilted, denies that any engagement existed between the athlete and his daughter.

STATE AERIE MEETS.

Fraternal Order of Eagles Gather in Force at Santa Cruz and Elect Officers.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SANTA CRUZ, May 18.—The State Aërie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was called to order at 9 o'clock this morning, and despite the entertaining features that lasted late into the preceding night, the important business of electing officers for the State organization was proceeded with. The following officers were elected unanimously:

State president, C. A. Grover, San Francisco; vice-president, J. R. Shafer, Los Angeles; chaplain, Dr. T. Carpenter, Alameda; secretary, G. Poehlman, San Francisco; treasurer, Morgan Fitzpatrick, Oakland; conductor, Theodore Moyles, Crockett; inside guard, E. E. Brown; trustees, C. F. Kimball, Redding; H. H. Wickersham, San Pedro, and W. F. Briggs.

As a conclusion of last night's entertainment, the committee awarded prizes for the competitive drill work of the drum corps as follows:

Oakland, No. 7, first prize and San Francisco, No. 5, second prize.

There was no business session this afternoon, the time being given over to recreation at the casino. A report is expected from the Judiciary Committee tomorrow, when some radical changes in the conduct of the order may be made.

FAITHFUL TO SWEETHEART.

Not Even Tale of His Wrongdoing and Arrest Can Break This Girl's Allegiance.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The passing of bad checks by her fiancé and the cold dark jail of Oakland, where he now resides temporarily could not shake the allegiance of Miss Winnie Rhoades, and she is now in Portland, staying at the Portland Hotel with her mother, Mrs. I. O. Rhoades, as a result. She was brought here in the hope that a change of scene might efface her affection.

Miss Rhoades was engaged to marry Carl Vretman, known in San Francisco and in Portland as "the Swedish Prince." Everything had been planned for the wedding, and then the prospective groom, it is alleged, passed a check for a considerable amount of money without having a balance to meet it in the bank. He was arrested and put in the Oakland jail. The young lady was loyal and persisted in believing in and comforting her sweetheart.

The father, I. O. Rhoades, purchasing agent for the Southern Pacific, demurred, but not being able to shake the faith of his daughter directed that she and her mother come to Portland until the young lady was able to forget. They arrived yesterday.

CROWDS ATTEND FUNERAL.

Many Tacoma Citizens Follow Hearse of Man Decoyed to His Murder by His Wife.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TACOMA (Wash.) May 18.—Attended by a large number of people, the funeral of Martin Kvalshaug, who was decoyed to the roadside by his wife shortly after midnight last Friday night and there murdered by Charles F. Newcomb and the woman, was held here this afternoon.

Mrs. Kvalshaug, who, according to a statement made to the police by Newcomb, conceived the plot in order to get rid of her husband, was refused permission to attend the funeral. She did not appear to be much affected by the denial of her request.

If convicted of murder in the first degree, Mrs. Kvalshaug may be the first woman in this State to suffer the death penalty. An act passed by the last Legislature leaves it to the jury to recommend the penalty to be inflicted for conviction of murder, but this law has not yet gone into effect, and the trial of Newcomb and Mrs. Kvalshaug will take place under the present law, which provides the death penalty for murder.

SAVES BABE, BUT DIES.

Nevadan Hurls His Child Aside as Boulder Crashes Upon Him—Wife Sees Tragedy.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

RENO (Nev.) May 18.—Crushed to death by a boulder, while his 2-year-old child, which he had held in his arms, escaped unscathed, was the fate which befell James R. Caldwell, a rancher near Austin, today.

Caldwell was repairing a fence in front of his house when a big boulder on the mountain side became unloosened and crashed down upon him. He threw the child from him, saving its life. The rock crushed Caldwell almost to a pulp. The man's wife witnessed the accident and it is feared she will lose her mind.

SANTA CRUZ WINS.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS TURN DOWN REDONDO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WATSONVILLE, May 18.—The Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, selected Santa Cruz today as the next meeting place, by a decisive vote over Redondo, and San Francisco. The result was a surprise to the delegates, as it was generally believed Redondo would win.

The report of the Grand Chancellor showed an increase of only 126 members in the State during the last year, and three new lodges having been instituted.

Among the recommendations by the Grand Chancellor were:

The establishing of an official publication for the Knights of Pythias and auxiliary branch, in place of the present publication issued by the California syndicate, and the building of a permanent home for the order in San Francisco.

According to the report of the Keeper of Records and Seals, one lodge surrendered its charter last year, and five lodges consolidated with other lodges.

The Treasurer reported $440,000 to the credit of the subordinate lodges, and $25,000 in the treasury of the Grand Lodge.

The election of officers will take place tomorrow.

The Rathbone Sisters, the woman's auxiliary branch of the order, held its first session tonight. Memorial hour was observed, followed by the reading of the reports of the various officers.

The report of the Grand Chief showed that two new temples were instituted during the year and ten surrendered their charters.

Officers of the Rathbone Sisters will be balloted for tomorrow. Hattie S. Frey has the lead for Grand Chief, and Maud May Sheehan for Supreme Representative.

Tonight the Uniform Rank of the Knights held a brigade reunion.

UNPRECEDENTED.

JURY WILL NOT CONVICT.

Refuses to Find Bullion Shipper Guilty of Forgery.

Sends Bar to Mint Under an Assumed Name.

No Question as to Ownership of Treasure Involved.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

RENO (Nev.) May 18.—A jury in the United States District Court at Carson City refused today to return a verdict of guilty against George C. Waite, formerly Wells-Fargo agent there, charged with forgery, for having sent a bar of bullion to the United States mint at San Francisco under an assumed name, receiving a check for the same and indorsing it with the assumed name which he had given to the mint authorities.

The case was without precedent, as the bullion was the property of Waite and the government simply sought to convict him on the forgery charge for making use of the assumed name and affixing it to a government receipt.

The Federal authorities charged that, as the assumed name was not rightfully Waite's, he committed forgery when he affixed it to the check sent him in exchange for the bullion.

Attorneys for the defendant contended that he had adopted that name for the occasion, and was entitled to sign it to the government voucher. The jury, refusing to believe he was guilty of forgery, first decided to return a verdict of not guilty, and then concluded to disagree.

"PHILOSOPHER" FLITS.

Bride of Less Than Fortnight Asks Tacoma Police to Find Her Missing Spouse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prof. J. W. Marsh of San Francisco, self-styled ethical philosopher, child culturist, anthropologist, hygienist and physical culturist, married to a Denver widow at Sacramento May 7, is wanted by the Pierce county authorities on a charge of wife desertion preferred by the bride of less than a fortnight.

Introduced, courted and engaged by correspondence, the couple met for the first time only a day before the wedding. The deserted wife, who was a widow before this last marriage, had several grown children, and when she went to California she took a 15-year-old son along. This young son is her only relative or close friend in Tacoma.

The "professor" vanished last Saturday. During their brief honeymoon, the little woman says his kindly treatment of her was unfailing. On Saturday he appeared exceptionally generous and kind-hearted, she says; when he gave her 50 cents and told her to go to Bismarck, a suburb, and spend the day. She accepted his counsel and when she returned the bridegroom had packed his "duds" and flown.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Chinese Granted Divorce.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—A divorce was granted today by Judge Van Rostrand to Monn Sing, a Chinese, from Lee Shean Sing, to whom he was married in Oakland last July. The husband in his complaint, declared that his wife deserted him, leaving a note saying that he was too old, and did not have enough money to afford her a suitable home.

Heavy Damages for Widow.

TACOMA, May 18.—Mrs. C. Ohrstrom, widow of John Ohrstrom, who was accidentally electrocuted on February 1, while attempting to switch off an incandescent lamp in the wholesale store of the Youngiove Grocery Company, was awarded $27,000 damages against the city of Tacoma, the jury being out only twenty minutes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Willard P. Calkins filed today a statement in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. His liabilities are placed at $543,624 with assets of $17,423. The assets consist of bills due, notes and stocks, with nothing exempt.

Heroic Fireman Injured.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Strapped to his seat and with little chance to escape injury, William Wonderlich, driver of chemical engine No. 2, deliberately overturned his engine today in order to avoid a collision with a crowded street car. He paid for his heroic act with a broken leg. Had the engine collided with the car, it is probable that a serious wreck would have occurred.

TARIFF.

SENATE PASSES AMENDMENTS.

Upper House Makes Progress on Payne Bill.

Gore Talks on "Extortionate Retail Prices."

Committee to Be Named to Probe Subject.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—After devoting the greater part of the day's session to debate, the Senate passed upon a number of important committee amendments to the tariff bill. It also rejected an amendment by Mr. Stone, restoring the Dingley rates on razors. On that vote most of the "progressive" Republicans voted in the affirmative, with the Democrats.

More than two hours were devoted to a discussion of a resolution by Senator Gore to investigate the cost of production at home and abroad, and the relative price of commodities at wholesale and retail. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Considerable progress was made in the adoption of several sections of the tariff bill that formerly had been passed over. Several of the amendments decreased duties formerly reported by the committee, but some of the other amendments adopted increased duties.

Seeking to have his resolution adopted, Mr. Gore said he wished to have statements concerning the extortionate prices of retail dealers fully probed so that the country might know just where the responsibility for high prices rests.

Senator Aldrich said he had no objection to such an investigation being undertaken.

Senator Carter pointed out that in doing this work the Finance Committee would cover the same ground which the proposed tariff commission would cover.

That the cotton manufacturers sell their products with an agreement as to the prices at which they are to be sold at retail was the substance of a charge made by Mr. Owen.

Demanding proof of this assertion, Mr. Gallinger said that what the country is demanding is prompt action on the tariff bill. He added that it had been asserted that the business interests of this country were losing $10,000,000 a day by the holding up of the tariff bill.

Suggesting a select committee to obtain information desired by the Senator from Oklahoma, Mr. Bailey said he did not wish to make any charge against the Republican members of the Committee on Finance, as the committee adopted a rule that the Democratic members might employ all the experts they wanted.

"They," said Mr. Bailey, "are bad enough at best, and I am not willing to charge them with being more than they are."

At times provoking much merriment by his ready retort and denouncing the protective tariff policy, Mr. Gore spoke at length.

Before the tariff bill was taken up in response to an appeal from Mr. Bailey, the Senate agreed to vote on Mr. Gore's resolution, amended as suggested by Mr. Bailey so as to refer the appointment of a select committee of four Republican and three Democratic Senators, to conduct the investigation asked for, and by a vote of 50 to 29 it was referred to the Finance Committee, Senators Bristow, Crawford and LaFollette voting no with the Democrats.

The Republicans voting in the negative with the Democrats on Mr. Stone's amendment were Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Gamble, La Follette and Nelson.

ON KNIVES AND RAZORS.

On an amendment offered by Mr. Bacon, reducing the rates of the section relating to knives, razors, scissors, etc., below the rates of the Dingley bill, nearly all the Republicans who had voted in favor of reduction to the level of the Dingley rates, voted no, the amendment being rejected, 28 to 51, Senators Clapp and La Follette alone of the Republicans voting with the Democrats.

On table and butcher knives, etc., the committee had reduced the rates of the Dingley law about 30 per cent., and Mr. Bacon sought by amendment still further to reduce them, which secured no support from low-tariff Republicans, being rejected by a vote of 23 to 58.

The committee had increased the duty on needles to $1.25 per 1000 and 25 per cent. ad valorem, which Mr. Gallinger declared was so low that foreign needles were driving the American article out of the market. The paragraph was adopted.

An increase of 5 per cent. on the House duty on steel plates, and increases on wooden screws of various sizes were adopted.

The adoption of committee amendments without aye and nay votes being called for, the bill proceeded rapidly in reading, until the section relating to umbrella and parasol ribs and stretchers was reached, and then Mr. Dolliver objected to any increase. The committee rates were sustained.

FIGHT ON INCOME TAX.

CONTEST WILL BE SHARP.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—That there will be a sharp contest in the Senate over the proposition to refer to the Judiciary Committee the amendment to the tariff bill, introduced by Senator Bailey, providing for an income tax, is indicated by a coalition of the Democrats and some of the "progressive" Republicans, which became known today.

The vote will be close, probably the closest that will occur in the making of the tariff bill.

The Democratic strength is thirty-one votes, all pledged to support the amendment. Mr. Bailey is counting upon sixteen or seventeen Republican votes for the amendment. Fifteen would be sufficient if the Democrats would vote solidly for the amendment.

On the other hand, the "conservative Republicans," in charge of the tariff bill, say they have made some inroads upon the "progressive" camp and that on the question of referring the subject of an income tax to the Judiciary Committee for a report at the next regular session, they already have forty-five votes pledged.

Until recently, the Democrats and "progressive" Republicans were far apart over the form of the bill. Senators Cummins and Borah, who were the chief Republican advocates for an income tax, favored a graduated tax, and opposed a tax on corporations. As they surrendered these contentions in order to get a vote, it was said today that an agreement would be reached upon the principal features of the Bailey amendment.

The plan is to provide for a flat tax of 2 or 3 per cent. upon individual and corporate incomes above $5000. In order that there shall be no double taxation, provision will be made for deductions where the tax upon corporation stock has been paid through the corporation itself.

ACTRESS WHO MADE MILLION, AND DAUGHTER.

Anna Held and Daughter Lily, who sailed yesterday for Europe. The actress says she will retire next year at request of husband, Mr. Ziegfeld, and will invest the million made on stage in American music hall.

SANG AND SAVED.

ANNA HELD TO QUIT STAGE WITH MILLION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With a stocking full of American dollars and a determination to quit the stage, and "make her eyes behave," Anna Held, in everyday life Mrs. Florence Ziegfeld, sailed away today on the North German Lloyd steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie. Her dollars, she said, she would invest in a music hall here.

The actress was accompanied by Mr. Ziegfeld's parents, and her daughter Lily, and the Misses Maud and Beatrice Van Brunner, who are going abroad to study music, and whom she will chaperone in the French capital.

Before sailing Miss Held said: "After my tour on the road next season, there will be no more Anna Held behind the footlights.

"Every dollar of my money I made because my work was good. I didn't speculate much. I was a piker, but I have saved and invested. I have bought government bonds and real estate. This money I have made in this dear United States. I shall invest it here.

"My agents made arrangements today by which I buy 200 acres near Fort George—the Billings estate, I think you call it. There I shall have a place where nice people can come and enjoy themselves. There will be a restaurant, some shows—all very high class—and gardens. It will not be for the crowd. It will be for the people who pay $2 for their theater seats and sometimes buy a box, and who are not afraid of champagne. Near that I shall build a home for myself."

"What is your advice to young girls?" she was asked.

"I have made $1,600,000, but my advice is the same. Keep away from it. The limelight is too strong."

"Is it because the stage is immoral?"

"No, no. But it is too much in the limelight for real happiness. Nevertheless, I love it. I hate to say I will stop. But Mr. Ziegfeld is a very severe man. He says next year is the end. So, perhaps it is."

SUPREME COURT STRAINED.

INNOVATIONS UNPLEASANT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court was compelled yesterday to submit to a severe strain.

Ordinarily the court does not on Mondays receive applications for admission to the bar until after the delivery of opinions. Knowing that a number of Senators were waiting to move the admission of clients while they felt that they should be in their seats, in the Senate, the chief justice announced the court would so far depart from its custom as to permit Senators to present their motions in advance of the delivery of opinions.

The chief justice's decision was not generally understood and other attorneys than the Senators undertook to take advantage of the court's liberality.

Included in the list were Representative Burton Harrison of New York and Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood, who was once a candidate for the presidency. The court readily granted a dispensation in Mr. Harrison's behalf, but Mrs. Lockwood was not so fortunate. She arose to introduce another woman who also desired to become a member of the Supreme Court bar. By the time Mrs. Lockwood had addressed the court the patience of the chief justice had become so taxed he declined to admit her friend as a member. Later in the day, however, she was admitted with a number of other applicants, who, like her, had been compelled to wait.

There was another innovation in the court yesterday when the new Attorney-General, Mr. Wickersham, appeared in the court in his official capacity, in a light drab suit. Nothing but black had ever been known in the way of garbing for the government's principal representative before this high tribunal.

REDMAN LEARNING.

HIS EDUCATION ADVANCING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The annual report of the superintendent of Indian schools, Miss Esteel Reel, recently submitted to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, shows marked advancement during the past few years, in the general field of Indian education.

The policy of giving industrial training foremost place in the schools has given satisfactory results, and the encouragement of native industries, rug-making and basket-making is an important feature in the school.

The elevating influence of the day schools upon the older Indians becomes more apparent each year, and special emphasis is laid upon the need of more of these schools.

The urgent necessity for increased effort to protect the Indian against tuberculosis is being impressed upon the agents and physicians.

Among the evidences of Indian education, are the reports of the careers of returned students, which show that they are endeavoring to overcome the desire for camp life and prove themselves worthy of the education they have received.

A feature of the report is the evidence that it gives that the Indian is altering his ways of living, to meet the requirements of civilisation through the educational influence of the government schools.

MOSQUITOES PROVE DEADLY.

Sea Captain Tells of Hardship and Suffering Caused by the Insect Pests.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—A story of death and hardship due to mosquitoes, was told by Capt. Frederick Weeks, navigator of the Vereston, a small British steamer now in port, from Kingston. The vessel was brought to New York by a crew of negroes, because nearly all of the regular crew are dead or recuperating from malaria fever, due to the insect bites.

The Vereston had gone up the Maderia River, a branch of the Amazon, 1700 miles from Para, with railway supplies. There was a stop at Porto Velpo for twenty-one days, and although the men were screened in at night, they were bitten in the day by huge mosquitoes. Of the twenty-three members of the crew, seventeen contracted the fever. Two firemen who weighed 200 pounds each, were so emanciated when they got to Kingston, that their relatives failed to recognize them.

The day before Kingston was reached another man died, and the next night a fireman died just as the ship was making port.

RAILROAD RECORD.

REACHING OUT FOR TAMPICO.

Harriman Said to Be After New Texas Line.

May Take Over San Antonio and Rio Grande.

Would Give Him Connection Straight Through.

[BY LIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KINGSVILLE (Tex.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Great interest was created in railroad circles here today by the supposedly well grounded rumor that E. H. Harriman would either absorb the St. Louis, Brownsville and M. Railroad, of which B. F. Yoakum is president, or else take over the San Antonio and Rio Grande, the new road now under construction between San Juan, a point on the Hidalgo branch of the St. Louis, Brownsville and M. to Fulferras, the southern terminus of the Alice branch of the Aransas Pass Railway.

This new road has already been built a distance of ten miles from San Juan to Chapin, the new county seat of Hidalgo county, and north of Chapin considerable grading has been done. From San Juan it is proposed to build a branch to Brownsville, while the main line is to go straight to Tampico, crossing the Rio Grande about forty-five miles above Brownsville.

That Mr. Harriman is more likely to take over the new road than the St. Louis, Brownsville and M. is evidenced by the fact that E. B. Cushing, chief engineer in charge of maintenance of way of the Southern Pacific lines of Texas, and two resident engineers of that road, are now in Lower Rio Grande Valley taking observations.

They left San Juan today on a tour of inspection over the preliminary survey, made some time ago by the San Antonio and Rio Grande road from San Juan to Tampico.

It has long been known that Mr. Harriman has had his eye on Tampico, for the completion of the Panama Canal will make that one of the greatest deep-water ports in the world, and with this proposed road he would have a short direct line from Tampico to Fulferras and from here over the Aransas Pass, a supposed Harriman road, to Southern Pacific connections both at San Antonio and Austin.

SNOW CAVES IN TUNNEL.

Avalanche of Loose Earth Started by Thaw Breaks Down Walls of Famous Tennessee Cut.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DENVER, May 18.—The Tennessee tunnel over Tennessee Pass, on the line of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, located about five miles from Leadville, and constructed at a height of about 10,200 feet above sea level, was caved in for a distance of nearly 500 feet this morning by a slide of melting snow and loose earth. The tunnel was clear when the accident occurred, and there were no casualties. The cave-in occurred 1000 feet from the portal of the tunnel and extended to a height of eighteen feet from the bottom. The discovery was made by a track walker.

Believing that the vast mass of dirt and snow had buried a train, he hurried back to the first station, and gave the warning. A train bearing engineers and officials of the road was rushed to the scene, but in the meantime, the wires had been at work, and it was found that there had been no loss of life nor any one hurt. Arrangements have been made whereby traffic will be taken care of by the Colorado Midland Railroad.

At the offices of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, it was stated this morning that the cave-in at the Tennessee Pass tunnel was probably less serious than first reports had indicated. The cave-in, it was said, occurred at one of three ventilating shafts. It is confidently expected that traffic through the tunnel will be restored within forty-eight hours.

The Tennessee Pass tunnel was completed in 1890, and was part of the work of reconstruction of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway when that road was changed from a narrow-gauge to a standard-gauge line. The tunnel is heavily timbered throughout, and always carefully patrolled, but watchfulness has been doubled of late, owing to unprecedented snow falls.

HARRIMAN GOING TO EUROPE.

Magnate Will Sail June First and Will Be Absent Three or Four Months.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. H. Harriman will sail for Europe June 1 on the Kronprinzessin Cecile. He will be absent three or four months.

Mr. Harriman was at his office today for a round of meetings and looked to be in much better health than he was upon his return from his 10,000-mile trip through the West and Mexico. Although he has visited his office here less than usual in recent months, on an average of one day each week, he has in no sense of the word retired, and has done a great deal of his work at home.

Following a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Southern Pacific today, it was announced that only routine matters had been considered.

BIG FOUR USING 'PHONES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CINCINNATI, May 18.—The telephone has partially supplanted the telegraph instrument in the dispatching of trains on the Cincinnati division of the Big Four, the operation of the new system having been inaugurated Sunday.

For the present, a double system for communication between the order stations is being maintained, the men working the systems being telegraph operators.

The brief experiment is said by Big Four officials to have proved satisfactory. The Big Four is the first Cincinnati line to give the telephone dispatching line a test.

RAILROADS FIGHT RULING.

ASK COURT FOR INJUNCTION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—A petition was filed in the Federal Circuit Court here today by seven western railroads, asking for an order restraining the Interstate Commerce Commission from enforcing its order reducing the class rates on merchandise shipped from Chicago and St. Louis to Denver. The order will become effective June 1.

The railroads insist the new rates will give Chicago shippers an advantage of 25 cents a hundred in rates over Missouri River shippers, and an advantage to St. Louis shippers of 23 cents.

It is declared that the loss to the seven railroads annually will amount to $1,000,000.

Matter of Convenience.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission announced today that railways may transport free the men and material of express companies employed in the business of the express company on the line of railway. Express companies may transport packages of a railway company between points on that line without reference to tariff rates.

KILLS HIS BRIDE OF FOUR DAYS.

Oregon Rancher Finds Marriage a Failure Immediately After Ceremony—Piles Straw on Her Dead Body and Burns Down House Before Committing Suicide.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 18.—According to advices from Princeville, Or., today's most important development in the mystery surrounding the death of L. H. Worley and his bride of four days, whose bodies were found on Worley's farm near Dedmond, Crook county, consisted of the making public of a letter left by Worley, addressed to one of his neighbors, which contained statements showing that the married life of the couple was inharmonious from the very start, and seemed to fix the responsibility of the two deaths on Worley himself.

The Wedding occurred on Wednesday last. On Friday and Saturday the house was closed. It was burned on Sunday. This, it is believed, fixes the date of the tragedy as last Thursday.

There is evidence that some one spent nearly all of Saturday night in conveying bundles of straw from a stack near by to the house, where they were piled on the woman's body, after which fire was set to the straw. At least a ton of straw was piled on the corpse.

Two women neighbors went to the Worley home Sunday evening to leave a present there. They found the house burned, and on going to the barn found a note pinned on the door, with the words: "Find me in the stable."

Another letter was found pinned to the gate post, addressed to J. E. Lamb, a neighbor of Worley, who made the match between Worley and his bride, who came here from Lincoln, Neb.

Mrs. Worley's maiden name was Ruth Leroy. The letter found at the gate reads:

"Mr. Lamb—This is all a mistake. Ruth said this morning she did not want to live with me. She did not like it here. This morning my pocketbook with all my money was missing. I did not say she took it until I was certain that nobody else took it. She asked me how far it was to Shaniko and this morning said she was going to Shaniko to earn a living and go back East again. I treated her as good as I could and then robbing me of all my money I had and going to leave me I could not stand it any longer, so think we both are better dead.

[Signed] "L. H. WORLEY."

"P. S.: Please let my sister know it. Address Charles Lessmer, Beaufort, R.F.D. No. 2, Franklin county, Missouri. Also let Mr. Burkhart, his neighbor, and Bert Friend know. Dear Mr. Lamb, you are not to blame in any way for this. Before God, I just found my purse in Ruth's stocking with all my money and she denied it. This is more than I can stand, so good-by to all. Come and you will find us.

[Signed] "L. H. WORLEY."

The authorities do not believe that money was the cause of the quarrel, as the amount in the purse was only $14.

Fire Destroys Big Akron Building, Endangering Lives of Many Employees, But All Escape.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

AKRON (O.) May 18.—Fire in the Hower block today practically destroyed the building and its contents, causing a loss which it is thought will aggregate $1,500,000. Several girls employed in the building had a narrow escape from falling walls.

The building was occupied entirely by manufacturing companies. There were more than 200 employés in the building when the fire was discovered. The blaze was discovered in the basement and the occupants of the block had plenty of time to escape, although the young women were thrown into a panic. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown.

There is about $800,000 insurance on the building and contents.

ARMY BALLOON READY.

OMAHA (Neb.) May 18.—Dirigible balloon No. 1, known as the Baldwin airship, the property of the United States Signal Corps, arrived at Fort Omaha today. A detail of Signal Corps men will come here from Fort Leavenworth and experimental flights will begin next week and last all summer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Nettie E. Shaw, wife of Senator James F. Shaw, and her father, H. Fisher Eldridge, arrived here today and are now at Mr. Eldridge's summer home at Chatham.

H. Keno Marble, chauffeur, with whom Mrs. Shaw eloped to Santa Barbara, arrived today, also, but not with the party, and has been seen about Boston.

Senator Shaw stated that while he did not know the whereabouts of his wife and boy, he had no doubt that his agreement with Mr. Eldridge regarding the Shaw boy would be carried out.

Marble looks to be in a bad way physically, and his clothing looked seedy.

"CHRISTIANS" HIS MURDERERS.

Evidence Points to Semi-Civilized Natives as Slayers of Dr. William H. Jones.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 18.—Information that Dr. William H. Jones, of the Field Museum, who was murdered at Dumabatu, in the Philippines on March 20, might have been killed by so-called Christians instead of by savage head hunters, has been received by George A. Dorsey, of the museum, in a letter received a few days ago from the interior of the island.

Secretary Worcester intimates the Christians may have had motives of revenge. According to Worcester, it is improbable that the head-hunting Ilongotes, with whom Dr. Jones lived and worked, were in any way to blame for the death of the scientist.

These savages brought the man's body to the authorities and all evidence points to their innocence, the secretary declares.

Dr. Dorsey recalled the fact that Dr. Jones had told him in one of his letters that certain Christian native traders had followed him into the wild Ilongote country, having feared to penetrate this district before his arrival.

"When I first heard of his death and learned that it was attributed to Ilongotes of Dumabatu with whom I knew that he had lived with on friendly terms," the letter states, "the idea occurred to me that the real murderers were in all probability Christians natives, whose abuse of the wild people he had reported."

Sends Verse to Be Read to Nurses at Opening Exercises of Training School.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—John D. Rockefeller blossomed out as a poet at the opening exercises of the Metropolitan Training School for Nurses, on Blackwell's Island last night, when William Rhinelander Stewart read the following lines by Mr. Rockefeller to the 114 nurses:

"A wise old owl sat on an oak;
The more he saw the less he spoke;
The more he spoke, the less he heard,
Why can't you be like that wise old bird."

Joseph A. Choate, formerly Ambassador to Great Britain, who was also a speaker, declared that both Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Stewart possessed more courage than he did to address 114 women in that manner.

"To tell 114 women to hold their tongues and not fight," said Mr. Choate, "is something I never dared to say to one woman, and I know if I did, I'd get as good as I gave."

Later Decides to Surrender to the Police.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PERTH AMBOY (N. J.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A man walked into police headquarters here this morning and, addressing Sergeant James Mulligan, who was at the desk, said quietly:

"I killed my wife yesterday morning."

The sergeant at first thought the man was insane, but the stranger offered to show where the body of his wife was, if the sergeant would send policemen with him. He said he was George Ves, a native of Hungary, and that he was 32 years old.

Sergeant Mulligan sent two policemen with Ves, who led them to a clump of bushes near St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery, on the outskirts of Perth Amboy. There the body of the woman was found.

The Hungarian was taken back to police headquarters, and Recorder Pickersilli was notified. Later the Hungarian told the recorder that his wife ran away from their home in Franklin Furnace several weeks ago, for the third time since last September.

He heard that she was working in a Perth Amboy cigar factory and came here two days ago, determined to punish her. He waited until she started for her place of employment yesterday morning and then followed her and induced her to go with him until they reached the bushes where the body was found.

There he shot her twice and placed the body in the bushes. After wandering around until this morning Ves decided to give himself up. He added: "I killed my wife because she was a bad woman, and deserved her fate. I expect to die for my act."

ANOTHER BLACK HAND VICTIM.

Italian Cigarmaker Shot Down Because of His Friendship for Slain Detective Petrosino.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—Marked for death, the police believe because he had been a close friend of Lieut. Petrosino of the New York Police Department, who was assassinated in Palermo, Italy, Piago Puccia, a cigar maker, was himself assassinated early today, as he was trying to enter his apartments in East Seventy-fifth street.

He dropped dead on the threshhold as a bullet fired over the balustrade on the floor above, crashed into his body. By the time the police arrived the assassin had escaped, presumably over the roofs and through an adjoining house. The police say the man who shot the cigar maker had been lying in wait for him for several hours.

Before going to Palermo, Petrosino frequently visited Puccio's home. When the body of the detective was brought to New York for burial, Puccio took an active part in the arrangements for a demonstration in honor of Petrosino, for the funeral and the benefit for the widow. He helped to form some of the Italian societies, which paraded in the Petrosino funeral procession, of which he marched at the head of the Columbus Lodge of Foresters, of which he was an officer.

Puccio also was a leading spirit in arranging the benefit for Mrs. Petrosino, which was held in the Academy of Music. While he was engaged in this work, he received several letters threatening him with death unless he discontinued his activity, but he ignored them and declared "he did not fear the cowards."

Several detectives from the staff formerly commanded by Lieut. Petrosino have been authorized to search for the murderer.

MYSTERY SHROUDS CRIME.

Charred Body of Four-Day Bride and Slain Groom Found in Oregon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 18.—Information has reached here of the finding, four days after their marriage, of the bodies of Louis H. Worley and his bride, at their home near Redmond, a town located in the vicinity of Prineville, Or.

The tragedy, which is believed to have occurred Saturday, is shrouded in mystery.

Mrs. Worley's charred body was found in the burned ruins of the house, while that of her husband was found in the barn with a bullet hole in the temple.

According to the verdict of the Coroner's jury, Mrs. Worley came to her death accidentally. Whether Worley committed suicide, or whether the couple were victims of a double murder has not been decided.

Worley came to Oregon from St. Louis where he was born. He owned one of the best farms in the district, and was considered prosperous. Recently he sent for Miss Ruth Leroy of Chicago, his sweetheart, and she came here and married him, the wedding taking place Wednesday last.

JAP BOSS DYING.

SHOT IN ROW OVER PAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Benzo Suzuki, Japanese representative of the Alaska Canning Company, was mortally wounded early today during a dispute with H. Kanguchi, and the latter's 14-year-old son, H. Kanguchi. The elder Kanguchi and Suzuki quarreled over the amount of wages due the former. Young Kanguchi, seeing that his father was getting the worst of the encounter, procured a shotgun, the contents of which he discharged into Suzuki's stomach. The affair occurred at a house on Post street. Suzuki is dying at the Lane Hospital, while the two Kanguchis are in custody.

WELL KNOWN IN ALASKA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 18.—A cable from Cordova, Alaska, says that J. W. McNamara last night killed T. R. Carpenter by shooting him in the throat and cutting the jugular vein. It is alleged McNamara had been drinking and was put out of the house by Carpenter. Carpenter was well known all over Alaska, and was a heavy property owner. A strong guard has been placed around the jail to prevent lynching.

J. W. McNamara is known among the old-timers of Portland. He was the first Exalted Ruler of Portland Lodge No. 142 of the B.P.O.E., and instrumental in organizing the lodge. He left Portland about fourteen years ago.

FOR PROTECTION.

HOT REBUFF WILL BE GIVEN BAD MEN.

THE first step toward purging the city of criminals who may flock here to reap a harvest at the time of the Elks' convention, was taken by the police yesterday. A number of suspicious characters were arrested and are being held in the City Jail.

The appearance of "con" men is causing the police to take the early action in cleaning up for the big convention. Pickpockets, bunco workers and con men of every description will be thrown into jail as soon as they arrive. The railroad stations will be closely watched and every gateway to the city will be guarded.

Men of this type will either be given straight sentences of ninety days on the chain gang or will be given a like term, suspended on their promise to keep out of Los Angeles. If they are found here during the term of probation they will have to serve out the entire sentence.

This will hold them over until after the convention. For two or three weeks prior to the arrival of the Elks, a special squad will be on duty, night and day, rounding up the suspicious characters.

DIZZY CHECKING LEADS TO JAIL.

YOUNG ATTORNEY, SPENDTHRIFT, IN LAW'S HANDS.

Nephew of Former Governor of Minnesota Goes Rapid Pace—Sisters Come to Aid Repeatedly Till Fortune Left by Father's Life Insurance Is Dissipated.

Following three months of high flying in resorts where good fellows meet and lights burn bright, expending with lavish hand his own portion of a rich legacy left by his father, and dipping deeply into cash bequeathed to his two sisters and younger brother, Paine Taylor, a young attorney and nephew of former Gov. S. R. Van Sant of Minnesota, was arrested last night on a charge of passing worthless checks which he had drawn to maintain his dizzy pace after all his funds were gone.

In the Central Police Station last night the young barrister confessed to uttering the worthless paper and admitted shamefacedly that his oldest sister, Miss Olive, who is executrix of the estate left by his father, T. B. Taylor, when he died last August, had made good thousands of dollars of debts which he and his brother, Ralph, had contracted since the death of the parent. The funds came from the intact estate which has never been distributed.

Young Taylor also admitted that Robert F. Hawley, an insurance agent, with whom Taylor has offices in the Stimson block, holds worthless checks and notes for $1800 which the young man had issued and which Hawley took up for the young fellow when persons to whom Taylor had given the paper found it worthless and appeared at his office to secure reimbursement for money advanced.

Close friends of the family say young Taylor and his brother, Ralph, have practically gone through the $10,000 in life insurance left by their father when he died. Their two sisters have made good every indebtedness which the boys incurred until all the cash is practically gone. Both the women are now teaching school, Miss Olive in Vernon and the other sister at Fallbrook.

Although the will provided that the youngest brother should be educated at Stanford University, friends say that the estate is so depleted that the fund set apart for his benefit is exhausted and that the young man will be compelled to leave school or continue his studies by his own resources.

When questioned by detectives, Taylor said that altogether he and his brother had spent only about $3500. Friends say the sum is nearer $8000. Hawley has in his possession a great bundle of checks and notes which Paine uttered and which are worthless, but which were made good either by Miss Olive or Hawley.

Last January Paine Taylor was arrested on a charge of issuing a worthless check for $85, but on making good the amount the complainant refused to prosecute and the case was dismissed. About that same time Ralph Taylor left the city for Portland, leaving behind a string of notes which he had signed jointly with Paine, many of which have been taken up by Miss Olive and some of which are still due.

About a month ago young Taylor began drinking heavily, since which time bad checks have been written by him in numbers, although he said last night that at the present time only about $80 in checks is outstanding against him. So pressed was he last week for money that he went to his sister with an appeal for funds.

As usual when he begged for money the sister advanced it; although on his last appeal she asked the nature of his debts. Saturday she deposited $100 to his credit in the Broadway Bank & Trust Company for him to check against, he stating he owed that much. To one person he mailed a check for $80 that afternoon, his sister watching him while he wrote it. Monday morning he went to the office of the person to whom the check was sent and said he believed he had made a mistake in writing the check. He owed the party but $50. Accordingly he destroyed the check, wrote another for $50 and pocketed the difference of $30 which the sister had deposited. The sister has always advanced money when demands were made by her brother. Hawley has always also made good claims against the young man until yesterday when he asked Taylor to make good his shortages and was told that he could not do so. It was on complaint of Hawley that Taylor was arrested.

The Taylors came here about four years ago from Hampton, Iowa, where the elder Taylor had practiced law for thirty years, having for his partner the present Justice Evans of the Supreme Court. He accumulated considerable property, including building lots in his home town and 2000 acres of rice land in Louisiana, valued at $25,000.

On coming to Los Angeles, Mr. Taylor organized the Iowa Realty Company, and became interested in properties in the southeastern part of the city. When he died, last August, his holdings were so encumbered that when creditors were taken care of the property brought the heirs but little. Life insurance brought $10,000, however, and it is this which young Taylor and his brother have squandered, because their sister doled it out to them to the cost of the other members of the family. The property in Iowa and Louisiana is tied up, so that it cannot be touched by Taylor.

Shortly after the affairs of the estate were adjusted young Taylor and his brother took to high flying. There were automobile rides, café stunts, Turkish baths, wine, women and every pastime of the gay world. Money went right and left, but the demand was kept supplied by the sister.

When she would interpose objections at the extravagance, Paine would write a check or sign a note with his brother and the sister or Hawley would meet the obligation. The first stumbling block came when Paine was arrested in January, but friends' pleadings saved him.

Not warned by that experience, Paine kept up his fast pace until in the last month he admits he has given numbers of worthless checks. Last night he said he could not determine how much money he owes on paper in the city.

Taylor is related to former Gov. Van Sant of Minnesota on his mother's side of the family, she having been a sister of the former State executive. Young Taylor is about 26 years old and has been practicing law here for two years. He studied law in the University of Iowa.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel and Rear-Admiral Nebogatoff have been released from confinement in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, by order of Emperor Nicholas. The health of both men has been gravely affected by their confinement.

Gen. Stoessel was found guilty by court-martial of surrendering the fortress of Port Arthur to the Japanese, and was serving a sentence of ten years' imprisonment. Nebogatoff was sentenced to be interred in a fortress for the same length of time, for surrendering to the enemy at the battle of the Sea of Japan. Stoessel began his sentence March 20, 1908, while Nebogatoff took up his quarters in the fortress April 15, 1907.

Rear-Admiral Gregeroff and Lieut. Smyrnoff, subordinate officers under Nebogatoff in the Russo-Japanese War, were pardoned and released from the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul a month ago. These officers had been sentenced to death for having surrendered their commands, but in view of the extenuating circumstances, their sentences were commuted.

BURNING ECZEMA QUICKLY SPREAD

Started Like Ringworm on Hand—Hand Swelled and Then Humor Spread to Arms, Legs and Face—It was Something Terrible.

PRESCRIPTIONS FAILED: CUTICURA CURED HIM

"I have used the Cuticura Remedies for a very bad case of eczema with complete success. About fifteen or eighteen years ago the disease developed in the shape of a large pinhead on top of my hand. It burned and itched so much that I was compelled to show it to a doctor. He pronounced it ringworm, and made very light of it. He gave me a wash and told me to apply it before going to bed and all would be over in the morning. But the next morning my hand was all swollen up and I poulticed it. When the doctor came to his office I showed him the hand and to my surprise he told me that he had never experienced such a case in his practice and said it was well I poulticed it. After trying his different remedies the disease increased and went up my arms and finally to my thighs and legs generally and finally on my face. The burning was something terrible. After I had tried this doctor, as I thought, long enough, I went to another doctor who had the reputation of being the best in town. He told me it was a bad case of eczema and that it would take quite a while to cure it. His medicine checked the advance of the disease but no further.

"I finally concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and found relief in the first trial. I continued until I was completely free from the disease and I have not been troubled with another attack since. I still use the Cuticura Ointment in my family as it is one of the best remedies to heal a sore or other injury rapidly. I can freely and truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are the best so far as my experience went with them and I am still recommending them, feeling sure I am not making a mistake. C. Burkhart, 236 W. Market St., Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 19, 1908."

GREAT NINTH INNING RALLY.

Angels Beat Beavers in Very Exciting Game.

Koestner Heaves High-Class Ball Throughout.

Johnson Drives Another Homer Over Fence.

Los Angeles, 3; Portland, 1.

The baked bean market surely took an upward leap last night after the news was posted on Boston Common about that game yesterday out at the Vernon grounds, for the thought must have surged through the brains of those old blue-law manufacturers on the classic shores of the Back Bay that there must be some way for them to get heaver Koestner out of the cowboy wilds of California and back to the land where they do little but write ethical essays for a living and read Walt Whitman's very blank verse at each other instead of fighting.

And well they might, for the Koestner of yesterday would make Cy Young, Arrelanes, Mattern and the others look like a 3-cent loaf of boiled brown bread set before the football squad at Cambridge. They are wise like a fox back in that big town and as they cannot secure the local flinger with money Henry Berry may expect this week to receive a grave and dignified offer of a case of codfish, a copy of Rose Cleveland's last book on the Whichness of the Howsomever and a picture of John L. Sullivan in sixteen different colors, in addition to all the money that Berry may need for the remainder of his life.

Even these tempting bonuses may not move the local magnate, for his young heaver won a game yesterday that brought great joy to the hearts of 500 wildly cheering fans at the Vernon grounds and yet with all his class he needed the help of Slugger Beall in the last of the ninth inning to make the Beavers behave and lie down. Koestner held the enemy to three hits in as many innings but because one of these happened to be a home run punch by Johnson over the left fence, Koestner had to pitch his head off for four more exciting rounds and then trust to his fielders to slug the ball, after he had done more than his part. One of them did help him and with the kindly assistance of an error by one of the Beavers, the locals won the game when hope was about gone.

SOME SLUGGER.

Just to show what kind of slinging Koestner was doing, it is only necessary to state that in nine innings but three Beavers reached second base. One of these got there from a single and a sacrifice; another from an error and a pass, and the third one was Johnson on his home-run swat. Johnson was the only one to reach third base and but seven men got to first. This is slinging the ball in high-class manner and as four travelled to first on passes it indicates that a little wildness was necessary for them to make any kind of a showing.

Harkness heaved for the Beavers and while he was not as good as Koestner it took almost nine innings of hard ball, an error, a steal and two hard swats to trim him, although he was punched rather freely in the latter part of the game. He struck out six, walked three and hit one, and this soak in the solar plexus was what put Harkness to the bad.

Strange to state there was little spectacular fielding, for in pitchers' battles the fielders do not have much chance to glisten. Speas was kept busy preventing Jud Smith from knocking the ball over the left fence, and Daley made a pretty running catch back of shortstop, but aside from these two stunts the fielders had a comparatively easy time of it. Olson at short for the Beavers did not have an assist, while Delmas had but one for the locals, and it must be a freak game in which the two shortstops can get but one assist between them.

The only Beaver to reach first base in the first inning was Speas, who walked, and Johnson got there in the second on a single, but both were thrown out stealing second. Nothing happened in the third, but in the fourth Ryan singled, advanced on Olson's sacrifice, and then after Speas had been passed, McCredie forced Ryan at third and was doubled out at first.

Johnson came to the rescue of the Beavers in the opening of the fifth inning by hitting one of Koestner's worst for a home run over the left corner of the left fence. Then there were two easy outs and after these Godwin muffed Fournier's fly and Harkness walked, but Ryan was an easy out. The only other Beaver to reach first base in the final four innings was Speas, who was passed, but he was out stealing second.

Although the locals might have scored in the sixth inning by working the squeeze play with Koestner on third, they lost the chance and when the last half of the ninth inning came the fans were very nervous over a possible shut-out and let out a fearful roar of cheers and encouragement for the home team.

Dillon was the first man up and he was an easy infield out. Then he put in Ross to bat for Orendorff and Harkness soaked Artie in the stomach with the ball. Ross is a fast runner and stole second just as Koestner came to bat for his third hit, which was a hard single through Johnson's legs. This brought forth loud yells, which were increased in volume when Daley hit a long fly to left, which Speas muffed. This put Ross on third and he and Godwin worked the squeeze play, Ross beating to the plate Godwin's grounder to Johnson. Koestner landed on third from this and scored the winning run in a din of applause when Beall drove a hot single past Breen at second.

SCHAFER HIT HARD.

PERHAPS SHUT OUT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, May 18.—Browning's curves and his team-mates's ability to hit the ball early and often, proved the undoing of the Vernon players today, San Francisco taking the first game of the week, 8 to 0.

The southerners were at the mercy of Browning, who allowed them one hit in the first inning, and one in the third and no more. Browning passed but one man and struck out three.

Meanwhile San Francisco was piling up runs almost at will. Zeider carried off the honors for long hitting with a three bagger that brought in two runs. Score:

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—Boice allowed hits and walked men at the right moment, for Sacramento, today and Ragan assisted with an error which meant four runs and won the game for the locals.

Although Fred Brown was touched for ten hits, two more than allowed by Boice, and walked three men, he was good in the pinches and with the aid of fast fielding prevented the visitors from scoring more than one run. Score:

GOES DOWN SIX TIMES.

McGann Takes Count of Nine in Several Encores.

Ketchel Gives a Terrific Beating to Kansan.

Middleweight Champion Unable to Finish Him.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PITTSBURGH, May 18.—Six times tonight Hugh McGann was down for a count of nine seconds in his six-round bout with Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight of the world. Five times in the sixth round he was saved from a knockout by a second. Twice he was knocked through the ropes, once clear across the press table into the seats of the spectators.

Ketchel apparently toyed with his opponent, and probably could have knocked him out had he tried hard. For the first three rounds McGann fought hard and landed several times on the champion, but he apparently exhausted himself early and could not face the powerful blows of his antagonist after the first half of the bout.

No decision was permissible under the laws. The fight by rounds:

First round: McGann landed a light left to the face and clinched. Ketchel led left to head and McGann came back with left and right to body. Ketchel swung a hard left and missed. McGann landed a light left to face. Ketchel landed a left to face and stomach. Ketchel landed a left to body. McGann landed left to face. Ketchel landed two hard lefts and they clinched.

Fifth round: Ketchel rained blows on McGann who apparently was helpless. Ketchel put his right to the head, following with a left to the jaw and a left to the body, then swung left to the jaw. McGann took the count of nine. McGann fought back and struck Ketchel several times on the head. Ketchel dropped his man with a hard right to the jaw. Ketchel then knocked him through the ropes.

Sixth round: Ketchel landed left and right to body and left to the jaw and dropped McGann for a count of nine. Ketchel rained blows on the jaw and body and soon McGann was down for nine seconds again. Ketchel landed a left and a right to the head and knocked McGann over the press table. McGann made a desperate rally, but fell from a left to the jaw. He took the count of nine for a third time. Ketchel landed a hard left to the jaw and right to the body. McGann went down from a right to the jaw for the count of nine once more. McGann again went down from a left to the jaw and took the count of nine for a fifth time. McGann landed two lefts to the jaw.

Ketchel had much the better of the bout, but no decision could be given under the law.

SEVERAL NEW ONES.

M'CAREY DIGS 'EM UP.

Fistic fans will see several new faces at McCarey's pavilion Friday evening, when the Pacific Athletic Club will stage seven contests.

Kid Myers will be put on with Roy Rogers, who has improved considerably since he was seen in the Naud ring. Harry Housler is a 148-pound lad who is anxious to get into the local game, and he will have for his first opponent Norman Stone, who has graduated from a lightweight to a heavy welter.

Kid Batt and Young Earn also are newcomers. Batt has had some experience in the East, but Young Earn is to make his debut in the fight with Batt Friday night.

All of the fourteen boys who are to take part in the show Friday worked hard Tuesday and the length of time given all of them in which to train will leave no excuse for any of them on the ground of lack of condition.

Frankie Sullivan worked in the morning and Willie Mack, Young Togo and Norman Stone all put in a busy afternoon at Doyle's camp. Stone essayed to box with Jim Flynn, but the fireman was too rugged and heavy for him, although Stone stayed the limit.

Steeple Jack Martin is guarding his hands in this preparation, as he does not want to have any excuse when he meets Willie Mack in their six-round contest. Mack is working hard at Vernon and will be in better shape than ever before when the time comes for the gong to sound.

Eddie Robinson is wrapped up in his lighter Jap, and he sees victory for Togo. He has put the Jap through some hard paces and it is easily seen that the lad has improved over his form when he last appeared in the Naud ring. Kutchos is training at the pavilion and yesterday he showed good work in his boxing, using his right freely and giving evidence of startling the fans by some real active fighting.

Herb White and Kid Barnes will have it out in their six-round bout Friday evening, and as both of the boys have promised to stand up and fight, there will be a pretty time while they are in the ring. They have met before, but in the longer route there was much covering up, so the encounter was unsatisfactory. The boys like the six-session length and each one looks for a knockout.

Breaks His Shoulder.

BOSTON (Mass.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jimmy Clabby, the Milwaukee welterweight, was beaten in twelve rounds at the Armory Athletic Association tonight by Tommy Quill of Brockton. Clabby appeared in a fair way to make good until in the fourth round, when he threw out his right shoulder, and for the rest of the bout had to do the greater part of his work with his left. Even handicapped as he was, he showed the class of the pair.

Referee Stops Bout.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Two pugilists in the heavyweight class, Jim Savage, of Orange, N. J., and Charles Mann, of San Francisco, met tonight for a 10-round bout at Brown's gym, but the referee stopped the fight in the seventh round to save Mann from a complete knockout. Mann was knocked down a dozen times and held on frequently.

AUCTION SMUGGLED "DREAMS."

Fifty-two Thousand Dollars' Worth of Contraband Gowns to Be Sold by Government.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—The government's much-heralded sale of costly smuggled gowns will start June 1, when the contents of one trunk, containing sixty-seven shirt waists, will be offered at auction. These waists, appraised at from $50 to $300 each, are said to be among the finest produced in Paris in many years.

Trunk No. 3, the contents of which will be offered for sale on June 4, contains thirty magnificent lace waists, each one described as a "dream," and not one appraised at less than $200.

In trunk No. 3, there are forty-nine Princess gowns, the minimum appraisal being $250. They will be offered at auction on June 3.

Forty-three Princess costumes, in trunk No. 4, will be offered at auction on June 10. Among these are several dinner gowns, appraised at $1000 and more.

On June 12 the shirt waists in trunk No. 5 will be offered at auction. The total appraisal of the smuggled gowns was $52,000.

JURY SENTENCE OVERRULED.

Missouri Supreme Court Reverses and Remands Finding of Lower Tribunal in Bribery Case.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.) May 18.—The two-year penitentiary sentence of Ferd Warner, a former member of the St. Louis House of Delegates, fixed by the jury which convicted him of bribery, was reversed and remanded by the Missouri Supreme Court today. Warner and Fred Priesmeyer, a member of the City Council, were arrested in the House of Delegates Chamber October 18, 1907, after a transaction with marked bills furnished by Henry Ascher, who was seeking the passage of a bill.

ROOSTERS BANISHED.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Following the opening of Coney Island, all owners of poultry in that vicinity have been ordered by the Board of Health to get rid of their roosters. Until Coney Island opened on Saturday, roosters in that neighborhood never crowded until sunup, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning. Since then, however, they have mistaken the bright lights from the famous resort for daylight, and have persistently crowed from 1 o'clock until the sun has risen. The noise caused many complaints to be made to the Health Board.

WISE TALKS

BY THE "OFFICE BOY"

"Cheerfulness," says Ruskin, "is as natural to the heart of man in strong health as glow to his cheek, and wherever there is habitual gloom, there must be either bad air, unwholesome food, improperly severe labor, or erring habits of life."

If children were taught that one of the great life duties is to unfold the fun-loving side of their nature, the humorous side, there would not be so many suicides, so many unhappy, discordant, miserable people, so many failures in the world.

Why shouldn't we develop the humor faculty, the fun-loving faculty, just as much as the bread-earning or any other faculty?

Why should we think it so very necessary to spend years in going to school and college to develop other mental faculties, and yet take practically no pains whatever to develop the humorous, the fun-loving side of our nature?

There was a time not so many years ago, when nearly every advertising man in the country said my Office Boy Advts. would not build business, but the Old Man believes in sunshine, in happy, contented salesmen, in kindness, in good, wholesome stories and jokes, and he said: "Willie, show them that they're wrong." And without the least little bit of egotism, I can tell you truthfully, we've doubled and tripled the Silverwood business while others were talking hard times and having fake sales and trying to make money while they told you in their advts. they were selling goods less than cost just to get new customers. If you want to succeed, be honest and cheerful, keep your conscience clean and wear Silverwood guaranteed goods. Either store.

HOWLING SUCCESS.

DOG SHOW TO OPEN TODAY.

Southwestern Kennel Club Has Sixth Exhibit.

Many Good Animals Entered in All Classes.

Basement of Hamburger's to House Bow-wows.

The sixth annual bench show of the Southwestern Kennel Club is to open today in the Hamburger Building, and from the number of entries made and the class of the dogs, there will be much that is worth seeing for the remainder of this week in the show quarters in the basement. The judging is to begin at 1 o'clock and continue until finished.

The many classes have filled remarkably well and every "taste" in sporting, utility or lap dogs can be satisfied, for in addition to the many local animals that have been groomed for the occasion, quite a number of dogs have been sent down from San Francisco and other points in the North, where they have been exhibited at recent shows.

Miss Jennie Crocker has a notable collection of French bulls, Bostons and other breeds and is sure of more than her share of first prizes, for her dogs are always winners. J. W. Brooks has entered a number of his winning Bostons. Others who have exhibited heretofore have entered new ones in this show.

George S. Thomas of Hamilton, Mass., is to judge the show. The bench show committee consists of Paul Paipers, W. K. Peasley, Wm. Kennedy, James Ewins, Wm. J. Morris, Geo. E. Nicholl, B. McDonald.

HANDS ACROSS BORDER.

FROM TROWEL TRIP RETURN.

MASONIC BODY IS BACK FROM CEMENTING TOUR.

Journey Connected With Many Unusual Features, Among Which Was the Great Reception Given to the Token in the Mexican Capital—Elks Entertain Party at El Paso.

Triumphal was the tour of the silver trowel from Los Angeles to the Ciudad de Mexico in the southern republic under the escort of highest among the Masons of Southern California, and many were the foundations of brotherhood that it cemented. The party, which left here a little over a week ago on a special train over the Southern Pacific, returned over the Santa Fé yesterday to tell of the many bands, banquets and barbecues which passed into memories of the trip.

The tour was redundant with many unusual features, among which was the great reception given to the trowel in the Mexican capital, which included some of the most brilliant events ever seen there, the record-breaking gathering of Masons that witnessed the trahsference of the custody of the trowel and the uproarious welcome given the party, and its return to El Paso, by the Elks of that city.

On the going trip the party stopped at Tucson. At El Paso the visitors were entertained by Lodge No. 130 of that city with automobile rides, noonday luncheons to the ladies and a banquet at Hotel St. Regis to the gentlemen in the evening.

They were received at Chihuahua by Master Bramon of the lodge there. Trolley rides were in order, and they visited the Cathedral and the penitentiary of the State. In the evening the Foreign Club kept open house in their honor.

Torreon, a small place, showed them around on foot, they being received in the little town by Deputy Grand Master W. H. Jamison. The American Club banqueted them in the evening. Aguas Callentes was the next stop, and the last before the City of Mexico was reached.

In the City of Mexico the silver trowel was transferred to its new custodian, Charles R. Fuller, with splendid ceremonies. Some of the most noted dignitaries of the Masonic order were present, among them being J. D. Richardson, Sovereign Grand Commander (Scottish Rite,) Washington, D. C.; José Castellot, president of the Mexican Senate and the Sovereign Grand Master in that republic; Arnold Shanklin, Consul-General of the United States, and also Ambassador Thomas. There were sixteen Past Grand Masters in all present.

Automobiles and trolleys were used in showing the visitors around the city and the reception tendered them on the first night of their stay was said to be the most brilliant ever given in that city. President Diaz sent the Mexican Police Band of ninety pieces, one of the most famous bands in the world, and a specially-prepared programme was rendered.

They were received by President Diaz at Chapultepec upon Wednesday, and that evening started on the trip back.

On the way returning they visited Guadalajara, and were received by Gov. Ahulado of the State of Jalisco. Upon their return across the border at El Paso they were given a great welcome by the Elks of that city, and much good cheer was bestowed upon them by those who are expecting other banquets in Los Angeles in July. Monday was spent at the Grand Cañon.

The deputation from Los Angeles in charge of the trowel during its southern trip consisted of E. B. Spencer, the custodian; Motley H. Flint, James A. Foshay and D. R. Weiler, and there were ninety-one in the party that escorted them.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS.

One Filed by Lawyer Once Prosperous. Jaeger Supply Company Alleged Insolvent.

Creditors have filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy against the Jaeger Supply Company, of this city, in the United States District Court. It is alleged that the concern is insolvent. The principal local creditors are the American Silver Company, $1501.38; J. Nadleman & Co., $76.14; and the Koken Barber Supply Company, $128.38.

W. W. Allen, Jr., formerly an attorney with an extensive practice, filed a bankruptcy petition. His stated liabilities are about $3000. This sum represents money loaned him. His assets are nominal.

Henry Stover,

Arizona cowboy under sentence in Arizona on counterfeiting charge, who got his idea from trashy moving picture shows in this city.

BAD START.

"QUEER" COIN HIS UNDOING.

Arizona Cowboy Is Sent Up for Counterfeiting.

Los Angeles Picture Shows Cause of Downfall.

Local Secret Service Agent Sends Others Over.

Henry Stover, the young Arizona cowboy who conceived the idea of making counterfeit coins from seeing a moving picture in Los Angeles, has been sentenced to eighteen months in the Arizona Territorial prison, according to George W. Hazen, head of the Secret Service bureau in this district. The Secret Service operator has just returned from Arizona, where he played an important part in securing the conviction of several offenders against Federal laws.

Young Stover came to Los Angeles a little more than a year ago on account of his health. While here he saw at a moving-picture show a representation of French counterfeiters at work in a carefully-guarded cave. The picture appealed to the imagination of the cowboy and he at once gathered all possible information concerning the methods of making alloys and moulds. He secured works on the subject at the public library and returned to Douglas with a well-laid scheme for making bogus coins.

After experimenting for some time he turned out $1200 worth of bogus $20 gold pieces and started in to pass them in the mining camps. For a time he managed to pass the coins without detection. At the mining camps the men are paid in gold and it is no unusual sight for a miner to throw a $20 gold piece on the bar of a saloon.

HAZEN "NAILS" HIM.

Stover was at last detected and turned over to the local authorities at Douglas. They in turn telegraphed to Secret Service Operator Hazen. The officer patiently followed up the clew and finally secured sufficient evidence against the young counterfeiter to warrant conviction.

Stover's brother is a wealthy cattle man, with a big ranch near Nogales. He did all he could for his wayward brother, but was unable to obtain his release on probation. In view of the young man's previous good character, the court imposed the comparatively light sentence of eighteen months, in addition to a $500 fine. The defendant admitted his guilt, and attributed his downfall to the criminal impulse which found root in his brain after he had seen the apparently easy way in which counterfeiters made bogus coin, as enacted by moving-picture pantomimists.

Hazen also helped secure the Federal indictment of Fred and Charles Wieland, who were sentenced to serve two years in the Territorial prison, some time ago, upon conviction of counterfeiting, under the Territorial law.

SOCIALIST DEVOTEE.

The Wielands formerly lived in Los Angeles. Charles was devoted to socialism and often was one of the wild-eyed groups which used to gather on the street. Fred, the younger brother, studied automobile mechanism at the Y.M.C.A. school in this city and prepared for a chauffeur's license.

They finally took up counterfeiting and after months of practice started in to pass the bogus coin at Douglass. A clothier became suspicious when Fred Wieland tried to pass a counterfeit $20 piece on him and notified the authorities. Hazen went to work on the case and unearthed the evidence.

The third Federal case with a local end was that of Blueford Rapier, at one time an industrious student in one of the best business colleges of this city. He was taken into custody shortly after the arrest of his brother, Philip Rapier, who was formerly in the government service. The latter was sentenced to seven years in a government prison for passing forged checks of the Reclamation Service, but Blueford Rapier has escaped punishment for a time, owing to the disagreement of the jury.

Beware of Imitations.

Cheap Substitutes and "Just As Good As."

Unscrupulous dealers, mindful only of profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low-grade, impure concoction, which they tell you is as "good as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey." This is done to deceive the people. Of course, when a remedy has been before the public so long, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in all the prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus producing a liquid food requiring no digestion, in the form of a malt whiskey, which is one of the most effective tonic stimulants and invigorators known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Beware of Frauds!

Any firm that will sell imitation or substitution goods will sell impure goods. The firm that is dishonest is one thing would not hesitate to be dishonest in another. Whenever you see imitation and substitution goods offered for sale by a firm, beware of anything and everything put up by that firm. You endanger your own life and the lives of your family and friends by dealing with them.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. A fac-simile of the genuine bottle is printed here so that you may easily recognize it. It is our own patented bottle—round, amber colored and with the name "Duffy Malt Whiskey Company" blown in the glass. The trade-mark—the Old Chemist's Head—is on the label, and over the cork there is an engraved paper seal. Be certain this seal is not broken.

It is the only whiskey recognized by doctors everywhere as a family medicine. At all druggists, grocers, dealers, or direct. $1 a bottle.

PER ACRE. WITH WATER.

¼ CASH, BALANCE 1, 2 AND 3 YEARS.

Here is the opportunity to own a ranch of ten and one-half to five acres upon which you may raise oranges, lemons, berries, alfalfa, in fact, everything to make you independent.

There is an abundant supply of crystal artesian well water piped in steel mains to each acre from the cement reservoir containing over half a million gallons, supplying one-half miner's inch to the acre.

All of the land is nearly level with a gradual slope to the south. The soil is a rich, sandy loam that has raised large crops, and $50 per acre is being realized from alfalfa at the present time.

Adjoining property is selling from $800 to $1000 per acre.

These acres will, undoubtedly, bring over $500 each in sight of three years.

During the hot summer months, the ocean breeze sweeps over this elevation, making the temperature about the same at all seasons.

The macadamized Main Street Boulevard from Los Angeles to San Pedro will go through these acres.

This property will not be on the market long at present prices.

Take the Moneta-avenue Redondo car any time on Broadway to Rosecrans avenue.

FOR SALE—

ORANGE AND LEMON GROVES.

Well located and good income groves.

DISTRICTS—La Verne, San Dimas, Charter Oak, Claremont and Upland. We are and have been for many years engaged in the orange and lemon growing business. Planted our first trees near what is now Claremont, year 1875.

Some real estate agents advertise themselves as having twenty years' experience in growing oranges, when we know it to be a positive fact they never grew and sold a single box of oranges in their lives. We do not try to sell our 6 groves by adopting such methods. We have never as yet frozen our feet while engaged in this industry, as many others imagined they had, or were about to. Today our faith in the industry finds us equipped as owners of as good groves as can be found in Southern California. As agents we at all times have a good selection of groves to show and sell our patrons. One of our firm having been called East on account of serious illness of near relative, our city office, 204 Coulter Bldg., will be closed on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS of each week during month of May. Come in on MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS and FRIDAYS and you will find the senior member, the old man, at the office, ready to answer almost any question you may ask about raising oranges, how they pay, and how to spend the money.

"LINER" ADVERTISERS—Starting from June 1, classified advertising in The Times will be charged by the word at present established rate of 1c per word in daily issue and 1½c Sunday. Our calculations, covering a period of seven months, develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are 8 fractions over seven. This basis for charge, before, will prevail after June 1. Much "want" advertising has always been related by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. Our present "want" ad rate has been in force many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 50,000 daily and 70,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. The paper in the United States, outside of Los Angeles, that compares with The Times in "want" service is

Name a Committee to Probe Their Conduct.

Action Is Outcome of Legal Fight in Missouri.

Trust and Anti-Trust Attorneys Fighting.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorneys, led by [illegible] C. Crow and W. K. Amick, of this city, who are antagonistic to Federal Judges John F. Philips, of Kansas City, and Smith B. McPherson of Red Oak, Iowa, by a vote of 33 to 3 this afternoon carried a resolution to name a committee of three to investigate the conduct of the Federal judges while off and on the bench, and report at a future meeting of members of the bar at a date not named.

The committee will be appointed by Judge W. D. Rusk, who in the first place opposed the calling of the meeting. Tonight he declined to state who he would place on the committee before the meeting closed. Judge Rusk consented to accept the advice of Crow and friends and name W. K. Amick, author of the resolution, John D. McCarty and H. K. White. Amick and McCarty are unfriendly to the judges.

The meeting was called as a result of the action taken by Congressman J. F. Murphy of Missouri, in demanding upon the floor of the House of Representatives, the investigation of the conduct of Federal Judges Philips and McPherson.

Several copies of the Murphy resolution were in the courtroom today, being circulating among the lawyers. Generally speaking, the meeting of today was a contest as between those attorneys who make a practice of bringing damage suits against corporations, and the attorneys who defend the corporations in such suits. They were referred to as "Filipinos" and "stand patters."

Y.M.C.A. Requests Municipal Appropriation That Will Permit Organized Effort to Remove Temptation to Drink and Gamble—Course Followed in Panama Favored.

Of the United States government [illegible] to aid the Y.M.C.A. in its work in behalf of workmen in Panama, the Y.M.C.A. of Los Angeles has asked the city to do for the thousands employed on the aqueduct. D. C. Collier, secretary of the local association, accompanied by Gen. Chaffee of the Board of Public Works and Will[illegible]holland, chief engineer of the aqueduct, appeared before the Council yesterday and asked the necessary appropriation for organized effort to protect the morals of the aqueduct forces.

Mr. Luther explained that President Taft when Secretary of War, had asked the expenditure of $250,000 in the Panama canal zone for the creation of an environment that would foster thrift and industry among men employed there.

The Los Angeles aqueduct from [illegible] 000 men are at work and there has been little done to provide comforts for them. The labor is hard and surroundings barren of the things to amuse, instruct or uplift. The reading-rooms are poorly supplied with current literature, and the pool-rooms, the saloons and the gambling dens attract hundreds who would, but for other circumstances, keep away from temptation.

The effect of evil conditions is telling on the aqueduct officers in more than one way. The changes in men run to hundreds monthly and the inefficiency of the work is not such as it would be if the laborers were not indulge in drinking and gambling.

The Y.M.C.A. directors offer to undertake the surroundings of the workmen with moral influences, following the plan adopted in Panama, which proved to be a paying investment for the government.

To properly officer and organize the [illegible] work, Mr. Luther estimated that $1800 will be required and he asked the Council to provide this sum in the next budget. It is proposed to have a secretary in charge and three assistants. Reading-rooms and gymnasiums will be established.

Councilman Yonkin doubted the wisdom of the appropriation, saying that what is to be spent for men, many of whom are not citizens of Los Angeles. He understand the Santa Fé Railroad has spent half a million in Y. M. C. A. work," said Councilman Healy, "and found that it paid. The aqueduct workmen may not all be citizens of Los Angeles, but they are human beings and if giving them $7500 will help them, why, I am for it."

"Right you are," said Councilman Richard.

Councilmen Wallace, Pease, Clampett and Lyon also expressed themselves in favor of the appropriation, and Dromgold wanted the appropriation investigated in the regular way, though they favor the scheme. They wanted to know whether the city could spend the money legally.

City Attorney Hewitt said he would advise such an expenditure from the aqueduct funds, as the plan was not contemplated when the bonds were voted, but he thought the Council could make an appropriation under the "general welfare" section of the charter. He asked time to thoroughly advise himself on this point and promised an opinion at the next meeting of the Council.

In the meantime, at the request of Councilman Dromgold, Secretary Luther will submit to the Council a detailed statement as to the scope and cost of the proposed undertaking. The Y.M.C.A. directors are sure they can show conclusively that the carrying out of their purpose would put money in the municipal pocket in the form of the appropriation is made it will be available July 1.

The Y.M.C.A. has had an expert in the aqueduct zone for three weeks and the result of his investigation will be embodied in the report of Secretary [illegible].

GAUNTLET DOWN.

TONGS, AT BAY, DEFY POLICE.

PREPARE TO REOPEN GAMBLING IN CHINATOWN.

Brazen Attempts to Outwit the City's Finest in the Efforts of the Latter to Keep the Lid on—Robbers of Vegetable Peddlers Show Desperation.

Desperate because of the tight rein kept upon the fan-tan playing and other forms of gambling in Chinatown the members of the big tongs and many mercantile firms of the yellow quarter have banded together to reestablish gambling at any cost.

Where in former instances the utmost secrecy has been observed, the Chinese are now brazen in their determination to outwit the efforts of the police to keep the lid on.

Chief Dishman was apprised of the action on the part of the Celestials yesterday. Several days ago he learned that a petition for an injunction was being prepared to keep the police out of various properties in Chinatown. This petition was to be filed in the United States Courts, and great preparations had been made to see that it proved successful. The fact that the Chief learned of the legal proceeding before it was ready for filing caused the Chinese to drop it.

They then adopted the bold course which they are now pursuing, and have flung down the gauntlet in the very faces of the police. Like wolves at bay, they have turned to fight for their lives. In years past, the yellow men kept away from the officers, dreading the jails. Hunger has made them desperate, their pleasures have disappeared, their death-dealing societies are on their last legs and they are ready to take any kind of a chance, do anything they can at any risk to open up the gambling quarter again.

Chief Dishman made a hurried investigation of the affair yesterday. "The lid has been on in Chinatown for some months past. There will be no gambling in that district so long as a Chinese remains," he said.

And the Chief means just what he says. There have been many attempts to oust Sergt. Sebastian, the present officer in charge of the quarter, but these have failed. An attempt was made on his life in the course of the last tong troubles, but he escaped without injury.

In the old days there was a long row of gambling houses on the south side of Apablasa street. This was known as gamblers' row. The doors were five and six inches thick and ribbed with steel. A lookout sat on the outside of each door and another within.

The Chinese carried on wholesale games and the tongs thrived. There were scores of smaller games in various sections of the district. When Sergt. Sebastian was put in charge things changed rapidly. A blockade system was made effective on the lotteries and they were put out of commission. Then the fan-tan joints were raided and kept closed. About that time the tongs began to suffer. All gamblers belong to the tongs and look to them for protection. Without gambling the tongs cannot live.

Many of the merchants also desire to see the games reopened because it means prosperous times for all but the vegetable peddlers, who are usually the victims.

For the past week, Chinese have been at work repairing the interiors of the gambling dens, reinforcing the doors and carrying on preparations for the big opening with a cool impudence that promises trouble.

REWARD TOO LARGE.

Excites Jealousy Among Officials and no Clew Is Found of Train Robbers.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) May 18.—The police, the Sheriff's office and the big force of detectives brought here by the Great Northern, confess they have no clews whatever to indicate the whereabouts of the bandits who held up the Great Northern passenger train near Spokane on Saturday night.

The Sheriff discredits the detention of four suspects at Deer Park, and asserts that he has not sent men there to investigate. There is a woeful lack of cooperation between the Sheriff, the police and the railroad detectives and apparently the magnitude of the rewards has excited jealousy and petty rivalry

LAWYER JAILED FOR CONTEMPT.

CHESTER SMITH BEHIND BARS FOR SHORT PERIOD.

Charged That He Used Name of Justice Without Right in Trivial Case—Gains Release Through Habeas Corpus Proceedings—Grilled Unmercifully by the Court.

One of the bitterest scathings ever administered by a local court to a lawyer was that which Township Justice Ling passed out yesterday in the case of Attorney Chester Smith, charged with contempt of court. A few minutes later Smith was in the County Jail, determined that he would not pay the $100 fine imposed by Justice Ling, nor yet serve the fifty days behind the bars, which the court had fixed as the alternative.

Habeas corpus proceedings got Smith out of jail; now he must appear at 10 o'clock Friday morning before Judge Willis to show cause why he should not serve the sentence imposed by Justice Ling.

It came pretty near to being a charge of forgery against Smith, but when Justice Ling and members of the District Attorney's staff looked into the law they found that there was little likelihood of making such a case stick, and the upshot of it was a charge of contempt.

Smith was an attorney in a petty case in the justice court and in the course of his operations he affixed the name of Justice Ling to a copy of a summons, assuming, as he said, that the justice would sign the original.

In doing this he may have followed the practice of other lawyers, but he overstepped the bounds of his rights, and when the matter came to the attention of the court there was something doing.

Smith was haled before the court for contempt and was given a severe lecture; then sentenced to serve time in jail or to pay a fine. It is intimated that the matter will be brought to the attention of the bar association in an effort to have Smith disbarred.

"There is no question," said the court, in sentencing Smith, "but that you falsely and designedly abused the power and authority of the court by pretending to act under authority issued by due process of law. Your conduct is most reprehensible, indeed.

"You, a member of the bar of Los Angeles county, to permit yourself to unlawfully practice deceit and cunning upon the court in order to gain some small and mean advantage, calls for the most positive and stinging rebuke that I am able to find words to utter.

"You, who have taken an oath to uphold the laws of the country and to never mislead or deceive the court, to so far attempt to commit such an outrage upon decency, should receive all the law in its wisdom anticipates.

"Instead of having a high regard for your appreciation and putting forth every honest and honorable endeavor to obtain distinction among its many honored members, you have adopted a directly opposite course and if something does not happen to check you in your dishonorable course, but one result will be inevitable. You will be disbarred and disgraced in the eyes of the community, whereas you might have been an ornament to society, and a decent, useful citizen."

This and much more Justice Ling said; then he imposed sentence on Smith, who took the pill, then got out of jail under the habeas corpus proceedings. The end of his troubles has not yet come.

NORTHERN TEXAS STORM-BEATEN.

HAIL BEATS DOWN COTTON AND BREAKS WINDOWS.

Church and Schoolhouse Partially Wrecked by the Fierce Gale and Many Houses Are Blown Down by Weight of Wind—Hailstones Kill Cattle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENISON (Tex.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] North Texas was swept by a most severe hail, wind, rain and electrical storm today, the southern portion of Grayson, Cooke and Fannin counties suffering greatly. Near Van Alstyne hail broke hundreds of window panes and cut down young corn and cotton to the ground. Antioch Church and Lone Star schoolhouse were partially wrecked and numerous houses blown down. At Eagle Point, near Van Alstyne, T. M. Williams reports hail driven through the roof of his residence, gardens beaten down and trees entirely stripped of fruit and foliage.

At Bonham, Octavius Gouge, a farmer, went to his field during the storm to look after his stock and was found an hour later dead, beneath a tree. He was struck by lightning. Cloudbursts flooded the entire Red River Valley.

This was the first general rain throughout this section in six months.

HAIL KILLS CATTLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Severe hail and electrical storms swept many sections of Texas today. In Bexar county near San Antonio, the hail stones were larger than eggs and killed many cattle.

Fruit was badly damaged and corn and cotton were virtually obliterated over a wide area. At Van Alstyne the peaches were stripped from the trees and the crop immediately ruined. Corn, cotton and other crops were greatly damaged. At Nacogodoches the crops were badly damaged and the young watermelons were beaten to pieces. An acreage that would have produced 200 carloads of melons was wiped out. At Uvalde great damage was also done, and many windows were broken by the hail stones.

INDIGNANT TOWARD KING.

"Sale of Pictures to American Meat Packers" Arouses People of Belgium.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BRUSSELS, May 18.—The matter of the sale of King Leopold's collection of pictures and works of art, came up in the chamber of deputies today. In reply to a question by Deputy Vendervelde, the socialist leader, Baron Deschamps, Minister of State, said the government was not able to interfere in the direction of acquiring the collection.

Deputy Vandervelde then intimated that he would transform the question into an interpellation in the "scandal of the King's sale of the King's pictures to American meat packers."

It is now stated that King Leopold is selling the Egyptian antiquities presented by Ismail Pasha in 1854.

The newspapers express great indignation at the sale, which they say will realize $2,000,000, and this sum they allege will be settled on a son born out of wedlock.

CATHEDRAL IN DANGER.

COLOGNE, May 18.—The architect of the Cologne Cathedral has informed the authorities that the condition of the building is unsatisfactory, although there is no immediate danger. Necessary repairs will cost many million. The architect says the stone is crumbling rapidly.

he said, 'to tie up this town in the biggest strike it ever had. Then I'd like to see any banker or capitalist bid except yourself—or those that were in the know.' I said: 'Do you mean to say that for the purpose of making money you would bring on a strike that might possibly result in bloodshed?" He flushed up and said: 'Oh, no, I was only joking.'"

COURTROOM CROWDED.

The bitter altercations that have always followed the injection of Mr. Spreckels's name into the trial had prepared a crowded courtroom for a succession of angry disputes between the opposing attorneys, but the examination was virtually concluded with no breach of decorum beyond a few brief exchanges.

Heney, who had promised repeatedly to permit the widest possible scope in cross-examination, offered scarcely a dozen objections throughout the day, and the inquiry, soon after it was instituted, developed into a duel of wits between the witness and his interrogator.

A dozen times during the day Spreckels took exceptions to Rogers's remarks and flatly declared they were untrue.

Late in the day the cross-examination came to a temporary stop and Spreckels was excused until tomorrow, with the understanding that he would produce in court his personal account of the many thousands of dollars he had expended in advancing the cause of the graft prosecution.

"Is it not true that you owe the firm of Heney & Cobb, not $20,000, but $25,000?" asked Mr. Rogers, at the close of the day.

This was one of the few occasions when Heney objected. "That is your statement," he said, "and it won't go into the record that way. The witness has said the money is due Mr. Cobb, not the firm."

"That is correct," volunteered Mr. Spreckels. "I made this agreement with Mr. Cobb personally."

"Did you make the arrangement whereby Mr. Heney was not to receive any salary for his services from the city?" was asked.

"No, I knew that such was the case, but I believe Mr. Heney personally volunteered his services," said the witness.

"Do you know that Mr. Heney draws a salary which is turned over to Asst. Dist.-Atty. Robert Duke, who is an extra number in the District Attorney's office?" asked Mr. Rogers.

This was one of the unexpected allegations furnished by the defense, but Mr. Spreckels said he had no information on the subject.

"Have you paid Mr. Heney any money except for office expenses?"

"I have not," said Mr. Spreckels, who then admitted that he had undertaken to continue paying these expenses for an indefinite period.

In reply to another question, the witness stated that he had requested Dist.-Atty. William H. Langdon to appoint Heney a member of his staff after he had obtained from the prosecutor an agreement to accept.

Mr. Spreckels added that he understood other citizens had joined in the request. Further, he said, he had authorized Mr. Heney and Asst. Dist.-Atty. John O'Gara to employ additional counsel during one stage of the investigation, and they had engaged Hiram Johnson, who, Mr. Spreckels said, he had paid for his service.

"Did you ever have a conversation ove rthe telephone iwth a member of the firm of Goldberg, Bowen & Co. and threaten to withdraw patronage if they did not alter their attitude toward the graft prosecution?"

"I did not," said the witness.

"Did you cause such a conversation to be addressed to them?"

"I did not."

"You are sure you never threatened Goldberg, Bowen & Co.?" repeated Mr. Rogers.

"I have answered," said Mr. Spreckels, sharply. "I am under oath and I have said no."

"You never said you would withdraw your patronage because you had heard a member of the firm had said a monument should be erected to Mr. Calhoun in this city?"

"That is absolutely false," declared Mr. Spreckels.

"Is it not true that the check given for office expenses in April of this year, amounted to $1194.45?" Mr. Rogers asked Mr. Spreckels.

"I don't think any such payment was made in a single month," said Mr. Spreckels. "It was probably drawn to cover a period of two months."

"Will you furnish us the names of those subscribers to the prosecution fund who did not ask that their names be kept secret?" asked the cross-examiner.

"Not unless I am forced to do so," was the reply. "I will treat them all alike."

"Did James D. Phelan give anything?"

"Yes, I don't think Mr. Phelan will object to having it made known that he contributed $10,000."

"How about J. Daizell Brown?" inquired Mr. Rogers, referring to the banker recently convicted of misappropriating funds.

"He did not give a single dollar," said the witness emphatically.

LEGALITY QUESTIONED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Superior Judge Sturtevant heard arguments today against the payment of the salaries of William J. Burns and his assistants as special agents of the District Attorney's office. It was contended that the District Attorney had no authority to employ special agents to perform work which could be done by the regular detective department.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. Cook replied that under at least two sections of the charter the District Attorney could name additional assistants. The matter was continued until tomorrow.

Stinging Reception.

Efforts to extract honey which bees had stored between the ceiling and floor over the grocery at No. 1214 West Pico street yesterday afternoon resulted in an abundant egress of bees, but no output of sweetness. The insects with their pointed protests made their presence uncomfortable to men, women and horses thereabout for several hours.

Members of the Sequoia Club, an organization of county Republicans which has exhibited signs of renewed activity of late, will be hosts at another smoker tomorrow evening at their rooms on the second floor of the S. F. Coulter building on Broadway, near Second street. There was a large attendance at last week's meeting and it is believed that many more will put in an appearance tomorrow night. The club just now is sponsor for a movement to give Saturday afternoon holidays to all laborers engaged on public work. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Dexter Samson undertaking rooms.

BREVITIES.

To "Liner" Advertisers: Dating from June 1st, classified advertising in the Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday. Close calculations covering a period of several months develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1st. Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The present "want" ad rate has been in effect, for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 50,000 daily and 80,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares with The Times in "want" ad service. The Times-Mirror Company.

Remember the slogan: "Buy and Boost Home Products." When these artists play for the Welte-Mignon every characteristic is retained by exceedingly sensitive appliances, the secret of which is known only to the Welte Company. Another secret process enables these performances to be reproduced time and time again, always expressing every characteristic of tone and touch, phrasing and volume as were expressed in the original performance. The Welte-Mignon is operated electrically and needs no attention after the music roll has been placed in position.

GREEN-EYED MONSTER?

SCOUTS RUMOR THAT SHE SEEKS DIVORCE.

Wife of Prominent Theatrical Manager Faints, Then Declares Misconstructiou of Her Visit Here Is Inspired by Enemy in the East.

WHEN informed that a New York dispatch attributed her presence in Los Angeles to a well-laid plan to seek legal separation from her husband, Felix Isman, a well-known theatrical manager and real estate operator of New York and Philadelphia, Mrs. Isman fainted in her luxurious apartment at the Alexandria last evening.

When she revived under the tender ministrations of her companion, Josephine Drake, an actress, Mrs. Isman dramatically exclaimed: "This is the work of my mysterious enemy who has been pursuing me for years.

"Once before the same rumor was circulated in theatrical circles and several New York papers got hold of the story. It was emphatically denied then, and both my husband and myself have been trying to find the source of the cruel attack upon me—I am sure that it is some woman who cherishes a secret grudge against me."

Mrs. Isman, who, before her marriage, was Irene Frizelle, a leading woman of much promise, is the type of woman that a man seldom neglects and never deserts.

DAINTY, FRAIL, EMOTIONAL.

She is very dainty and frail looking, has big blue eyes that appeal almost tragically, and is intense in her emotions. In the depth of her feeling, yesterday, she forgot her former art and was merely a pretty, sorrowful woman.

She was immaculately clad in a white serge frock and wore a big white millinery creation that set off her aristocratic little face to the best advantage. As she sat on the mezzanine floor of the big hotel, she dabbed at her tear-filled eyes with a wisp of cambric and lace that was scarcely big enough to catch even one tiny tear.

"Don't imagine that I am trying to make you think I am overcome with grief," she sobbed, "for anger is uppermost in my heart. I would have seen you sooner, but when you telephoned the terrible news to me, I just got limp, and everything became black around me. I was advised to refuse any information, but I believe in frankness to newspaper men. You will please remember that I was a professional woman before my marriage," she added with the ghost of a smile.

"I came out here for my health, upon my doctor's advice. Though I would dearly love to live in Los Angeles, my plans do not permit a prolonged stay.

WILL MEET DEAR HUSBAND.

"Miss Drake and I leave here in a few days for the North. We expect to tour the Yellowstone and may visit other points of interest en route to Chicago, my former home. There I expect to meet my dear husband.

"I can tell you positively that nothing would induce me to leave him for even a day, if it were not for my health. You can easily imagine that I am not strong, when a telephone message made me faint."

Her words were tragic in their intensity when she told of the, as yet, unidentified enemy who has made herself felt in other ways than in spreading malicious and cruel reports. She said she did not dare tell a stranger of the ways in which this person had struck at her in the dark. She denied that it was some woman who was infatuated with Mr. Isman, and who took this way to retaliate for his marriage to the beautiful actress, though she admitted that it was strange that the report of her alleged estrangement from her husband appeared almost as soon as she had left New York.

"We will get to the bottom of this some day," she said thoughtfully, "for this ridiculous rumor is identical with the one given out a year ago."

WOMAN OF RESOURCE.

Mrs. Isman showed herself a person of considerable resource despite her physical frailty. As soon as she was told all the particulars of the alleged separation, she hastened to the hotel telegraph office and hastily wrote three dispatches. One was to a prominent New York paper, another was to her husband, and the third was addressed to a theatrical magnate who is a power all over the country.

She refused to divulge the contents of the messages, but intimated that she had begged her husband to take immediate steps to locate the author of the rumor and secure the services of detectives to aid him in his efforts.

"I don't blame you newspaper men for following up what you call a good beat," said the little woman resignedly, "but it does seem rather hard that one's private affairs have to be pried into on account of a baseless rumor. Time was when I welcomed the limelight, but that was years and years ago," she added with a smile. "I was on the stage just long enough to yearn for a domestic life, and I have never regretted my marriage—no, not for one single instant, in spite of what the papers may say."

And that was all she would say as to the rumor that a cloud was over her dream of bliss.

Mrs. Felix Isman, nee Irene Frizelle, former well-known actress, who denies that she has come here to seek divorce from manager husband, declaring that report is inspired by woman enemy in the East.

OIL STOVE DEADLY.

Old Man Almost Instantly Killed by Explosion and Inhalation of Flame.

N. Morrow, 60 years of age, of No. 226 North Bailey street, was almost instantly killed yesterday by the explosion of a small oil stove which he was endeavoring to light.

He was burned about the face and head and inhaled the flames. He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, but died almost as soon as he arrived there.

The details of the accident are meager. It is thought that Morrow left the plug of the feed tank open and dropped a lighted match into it.

PAY MILK FINES.

G. W. Fitch, R. F. Benge, J. F. Clark, M. Hausen and J. S. Sars, grocers, were fined $10 each by Justice Williams yesterday after conviction on charges of selling milk below the standard required by law.

CHASING BLACK APHIS.

Horticultural Commissioners Going After Newly-Introduced Pest That Threatens Peaches.

Horticultural Commissioner Erwin Dingle is at the head of a squad of "bug chasers" who began yesterday a campaign for the extermination of the black aphis, a pest that has just made its appearance in this section and which is said to be creating havoc in the peach orchards around Lankershim. A crew of fumigators is now working under the direction of Dingle, and it is believed that they are meeting with success, though it is yet too early to predict that the foe has been conquered.

The white aphis is pretty well known to every florist and horticulturist, but the black variety is a comparative stranger, and it is not yet known just how to greet the newcomer. Dingle says, though, that the treatment administered seems to be the proper thing.

In connection with the fighting of insect pests, the District Attorney has been asked to prepare an ordinance, providing that all persons who make a business of fumigating and spraying be compelled to take out a license and that they be in a measure under the control of the horticultural commission. It is believed that this regulation will result in good to ranchers, who are obliged to expend large sums yearly in fighting insect pests, and who are not always sure that professed sprayers and fumigators understand their business.

LAST HOPE.

RACE-TRACKERS ON QUI VIVE.

Rumors of Reopening of the Santa Anita Course.

"Racing Without Betting" Is the Alleged Trick.

That Tia Juana Proposition Not Showing Up.

Horse race circles are equally agitated by the recent reports that racing will be resumed at Baldwin's ranch next fall, as usual, and that the Tia Juana project has fallen through.

For some time there have been rumors that the owners of Santa Anita Park would attempt to race again in November. A race track man arriving yesterday from San Francisco renewed these reports.

George Rose has confided to his friends that "something will be doing." One of the men in his employ says that Rose's attorneys have found a flaw in the law; and that Rose stated before leaving California that the law could be attacked successfully.

Furthermore, the law is not directed against racing, but against bookmaking and such forms of gambling. Horsemen say that if the ponies get a chance to race, bets will be framed up in some way.

"As long as there is no law against racing, why not have races and let the betting take care of itself?" was the suggestive question put to The Times yesterday by one of the shrewdest racing men in the State.

It is probable that the track owners will be guided largely by the result of the pending attempt of the New York gamblers to evade the anti-gambling law.

Samuel Haskins, one of the attorneys who represented the race track owners, stated yesterday that he knew of no serious proposition looking to the reopening of the track.

Sporting men are beginning to look upon the Tia Juana track project with misgivings.

A representative of The Times who recently visited Tia Juana was unable to find any symptoms of race tracks.

The people of that town grinned and shrugged their shoulders.

Although the Tia Juana races are supposed to open in the early fall and it requires many months to grade a track, not a shovel full of earth has been turned.

In spite of the proximity of the opening date, the location of the track is still a matter of conjecture. Some of the gamblers who were connected with the project stated that it would be on the American side of the river but across the Mexican border.

At Tia Juana, the location was pointed out as being about 2500 yards back of the town under the high hills to the south.

The track was described as being rather generally "over there." No evidence could be found, however, that any land has been purchased.

About a week ago some of the promoters of the track were in San Diego, and, upon the occasion of leaving gave forth a quantity of hot air about the opening, but the officials at Tia Juana were frank in expressing the belief that the track will never be opened.

It is reported that stock for the new track is being sold, or has been sold in the saloons of Los Angeles.

Both American and Mexican officials at Tia Juana state that the promoters really visited the City of Mexico and asked for a concession.

The concession is said to have been fastened up with numerous strings. The stipulation was that the government of Lower California should have a heavy percentage from the receipts, and that a bond of $150,000 be given.

A significant feature of the Tia Juana arrangement is that the gamblers who were to have had the concessions for sure-thing games have suddenly "blown the town."

At any rate, it seems now assured that the track, if it ever should be opened, would not be a genuine race track; the character of at least one of the men connected with the track makes it impossible for reputable owners to enter horses.

None of the backers are men of standing in the race world. The whole thing smells of a fraud.

The big stablemen will never go there, which makes it seem more probable that the Santa Anita track may be reopened for "racing without betting."

HEAVY PRICE.

FOUND IN RAGS AND EXHAUSTED

SCHOOLGIRL WHO RAN AWAY IN PITIABLE CONDITION.

Discovered in Orchard Near Burbank—Lips Puffed and Tongue Thick from Thirst—Taken to Hospital on Improvised Stretcher—Sobbing, Begs Forgiveness.

Suffering from hunger and thirst and exhausted by her wanderings in the foothills, 16-year-old Gladys Ellery, who left her home at No. 71 West Thirty-second street, Friday, was found in an orchard near Burbank yesterday morning.

The girl's condition was pitiable. Her face was scratched by brambles and her clothes were in rags. She had lost her skirt and her light petticoat did not serve to keep out the cold. Her lips were puffed and her tongue thick from the thirst. She did not know where she was, or what she had been doing. She was taken to the Burbank Hospital on an improvised stretcher and soon recovered sufficiently to recognize several friends, but she could tell them little of her wanderings.

Miss Ellery is the second school girl who has run away and wandered about the hills during the past two weeks. She started, ostensibly, for the Polytechnic High School, Friday morning, but instead of going there, spent the day in a park and finally went to Burbank.

Early Saturday morning, she came upon the camp of hunters, four miles north of Burbank. They fed her and took care of her until evening, when she left them, stating that she intended to return to the Burbank Hotel, where her mother was waiting for her. She gave the name of Virginia Sheldon.

Upon the return of the hunters to Los Angeles, Monday, they read of the missing girl and immediately notified the police they had seen her. Searching parties were organized and scoured the hills and cañons near Burbank.

Frank Ogier and Al Hedaker came upon Miss Ellery in an orchard near Fulton Cañon. She was lying on the ground, her head resting on her hands.

When Mrs. S. M. Kiser of the Chateau Frontenac, learned at noon yesterday that her ward had been found, she ran out to the street and stopped an automobile driven by Wesley Wright, a real estate dealer. She told him her story and he helped her into the car and made the run to Burbank in thirty minutes.

There was a touching scene between Mrs. Kiser and Gladys, the girl sobbing and begging forgiveness.

In the afternoon Miss Ellery was put in an automobile and taken to the Chateau Frontenac. The attending physician states that she will probably recover from the effects of her outing in a few days. She has not explained why she ran away.

LOYAL LEGION ASSOCIATION ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS.

Regard Is Expressed for the Memory of Col. Montgomery, the Late President, and Sympathy Is Extended to Gen. John L. Beveridge for the Death of Mrs. Beveridge.

At a special meeting of the Southern California Association of Companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, at the Hotel Alexandria, last Saturday, resolutions were passed by the 105 companions present, expressive of their deep regard they held for the late Col. James E. Montgomery, and in sympathy with Gen. John L. Beveridge, for the death of Mrs. Beveridge. The resolution offered by Col. Gilbert D. Munson for Col. Montgomery was unanimously adopted. It follows:

"Resolved: That in the death of Col. James E. Montgomery, the Companions of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, State of California, lost one of its most distinguished and valued members. He was at the time of his death the oldest member of the order.

"He died while holding the office of president of the Southern California Association of Companions of the order, his being the first death, during the twenty years of its existence, of a president while holding that office.

"Col. Montgomery had all the lovable attributes a true man should have; and it is doubtful if in our order an officer could be found more respected and loved by those who knew him. In the great war for the Union, he was always the gallant gentleman; eager to meet and beat our foe; but as ready to greet and clasp hands with him on his surrender and salute to our glorious flag.

"We extend our deepest sympathy for their irreparable loss, to his widow and family, and present them with a copy of these resolutions."

Gen. O. H. La Grange offered the resolution of sympathy and condolence to Gen. John L. Beveridge, which was in part as follows:

"Our association extends to our companion, Gen. John L. Beveridge, its sympathy and condolence on the loss by death of his beloved wife, Helen May Beveridge. She was the chosen companion of his youth, the helper of his manhood and the stay and comfort of his later years. She shared his life work, with its honors and its rewards, and she has gone to prepare a place for him."

The resolution was adopted unanimously, and a copy ordered sent to Gen. [illegible] expressions in connection with radio-

PUTTING ON BRAKES.

JAIL ORDINANCE FOR SPEEDERS OF AUTOS.

WAR UPON the speed maniacs of Los Angeles and vicinity was declared yesterday, when City Prosecutor Guy Eddie announced that an ordinance is being prepared making mandatory a jail sentence in all cases where the driver of an automobile is arrested for the second time.

This proposed rule will be a sad one to the speeders. About 90 per cent. of those automobile drivers who frequent the downtown streets have been arrested at different times on charges of violating the ordinance.

Plans are now being made to cinch them. Accidents of various kinds and reckless driving is the direct cause for the planning of the new ordinance.

Clerks are now at work on the Police Court cases checking up the names of those drivers who have already been arrested. When the new ordinance is passed, then this list will come in handy and it will mean jail for any driver arrested whose name is found on the list.

"We are planning to put this speed game out of commission," said Prosecutor Eddie yesterday. "The chauffeurs have regarded the law with contempt for some time past, but we now intend to see that they observe all the details, and woe to the man who takes chances. We do not want to be hard on them. This new ordinance, as planned, will contain the clause making it mandatory for a justice to sentence a second offender to jail. Probably this sentence will not mean more than two or three days, but it will have its effect and be a good lesson to the drivers.

"Accidents have become more frequent of late and the downtown streets are not safe. In the residence districts these speed maniacs imperil life and limb with impunity. We are going to do what we can to stop it. In years past they have been arrested and brought before the police justices and fined $5 or $10. This has had no effect upon them. Justice Williams has inaugurated a system of straight jail sentences suspended, in other words, of putting the drivers on their good behavior for a certain number of days. If they violate this probation they will go to jail for the sentence.

"That in itself is doing good, but we are going to draw the reins tighter and put an end to this speed business. Yesterday a driver was fined $100. It was his third offense and he deserved a jail sentence. He had not been warned of his probable fate so he was let off with the heavy fine. When we get this new law into effect I think there will be a great decrease in the number of accidents and also in the number of arrests. We have the names of those already arrested and fined and we are going to use them as reference cards."

George H. Bill, Jr., was put under fifty days' probation; Charles O. Goodwin, twenty-five days; Alvin Frank, twenty-five days, and William Barrington, twenty-five days, in Justice Williams's court yesterday. George H.

BONE BREAKING EVENT IN FISTICUFF BOUTS.

A BROKEN jaw and four knockouts were results of the first round of bouts in the amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Los Angeles Athletic Club at Turner Hall last night, and as much gore was spilled as usually gives color to professional fights. Ivan Kahn, the L.A.A.C. welterweight champion, received a jolt in the first round of his bout with D. B. Edwards, an unattached scrapper, that cracked his right jawbone, but he finished the fight and earned the decision. The crowd did not know he had been seriously injured until afterward.

W. L. Turner, the 125-pound representative of the Y.M.C.A., was knocked out in the third round by A. Jones, an unknown husky, who was much older and stronger. Turner received a heavy swing on the jaw that sent him spinning about the ring, and he was led away before he fell.

L. O'Neil, a youth about 16 years of age, was put on with Jimmy Hayes, a full-grown man, and the lad was sent to the mat in less than a half-minute. The crowd saw that a slaughter was imminent as soon as the pair stepped into the ring, and after they had made two or three exchanges, O'Neil received a hit in the eye that dumped him down in a corner. His seconds grabbed him before the husky could administer any more punishment.

Both men showed that they had had considerable experience at the game and they mixed in great style. Beauchamp had a vicious left jab that he shoved into Coulter's face about the

the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and sent him to the floor. Deitrich got up on his knee, intending to take the limit of the count before arising, but he was counted out before he got to his feet. Roy Snyder of the L.A.A.C. also suffered a knockout, at the hands of Rocco Wigo, who came in from somewhere in the outlying precincts, and showed that he was about ready for the professional ranks.

Except for the lack of "class," the bouts differed little from professional scraps. Most of the men went at it hammer and tongs, and split eyebrows and smashed noses yielded plenty of claret. The amateurs had it on the professionals, although, as a decision was given at the end of each bout. The regular length of the amateur mix-ups is three rounds, but in two bouts the referee had to order an extra round before the judges could decide which was the better man.

The big fight of the show was the wind-up between Sam Coulter of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, amateur lightweight champion of Southern California, and C. Beauchamp of the Broadway Athletic Club. At the end of three rounds, honors were even, and in the extra period Beauchamp outpointed his opponent and won the decision.

GREEN-EYED MONSTER?

SCOUTS RUMOR THAT SHE SEEKS DIVORCE.

Wife of Prominent Theatrical Manager Faints, Then Declares Misconstructiou of Her Visit Here Is Inspired by Enemy in the East.

WHEN informed that a New York dispatch attributed her presence in Los Angeles to a well-laid plan to seek legal separation from her husband, Felix Isman, a well-known theatrical manager and real estate operator of New York and Philadelphia, Mrs. Isman fainted in her luxurious apartment at the Alexandria last evening.

When she revived under the tender ministrations of her companion, Josephine Drake, an actress, Mrs. Isman dramatically exclaimed: "This is the work of my mysterious enemy who has been pursuing me for years.

"Once before the same rumor was circulated in theatrical circles and several New York papers got hold of the story. It was emphatically denied then, and both my husband and myself have been trying to find the source of the cruel attack upon me—I am sure that it is some woman who cherishes a secret grudge against me."

Mrs. Isman, who, before her marriage, was Irene Frizelle, a leading woman of much promise, is the type of woman that a man seldom neglects and never deserts.

DAINTY, FRAIL, EMOTIONAL.

She is very dainty and frail looking, has big blue eyes that appeal almost tragically, and is intense in her emotions. In the depth of her feeling, yesterday, she forgot her former art and was merely a pretty, sorrowful woman.

She was immaculately clad in a white serge frock and wore a big white millinery creation that set off her aristocratic little face to the best advantage. As she sat on the mezzanine floor of the big hotel, she dabbed at her tear-filled eyes with a wisp of cambric and lace that was scarcely big enough to catch even one tiny tear.

"Don't imagine that I am trying to make you think I am overcome with grief," she sobbed, "for anger is uppermost in my heart. I would have seen you sooner, but when you telephoned the terrible news to me, I just got limp, and everything became black around me. I was advised to refuse any information, but I believe in frankness to newspaper men. You will please remember that I was a professional woman before my marriage," she added with the ghost of a smile.

"I came out here for my health, upon my doctor's advice. Though I would dearly love to live in Los Angeles, my plans do not permit a prolonged stay.

WILL MEET DEAR HUSBAND.

"Miss Drake and I leave here in a few days for the North. We expect to tour the Yellowstone and may visit other points of interest en route to Chicago, my former home. There I expect to meet my dear husband.

"I can tell you positively that nothing would induce me to leave him for even a day, if it were not for my health. You can easily imagine that I am not strong, when a telephone message made me faint."

Her words were tragic in their intensity when she told of the, as yet, unidentified enemy who has made herself felt in other ways than in spreading malicious and cruel reports. She said she did not dare tell a stranger of the ways in which this person had struck at her in the dark. She denied that it was some woman who was infatuated with Mr. Isman, and who took this way to retaliate for his marriage to the beautiful actress, though she admitted that it was strange that the report of her alleged estrangement from her husband appeared almost as soon as she had left New York.

"We will get to the bottom of this some day," she said thoughtfully, "for this ridiculous rumor is identical with the one given out a year ago."

WOMAN OF RESOURCE.

Mrs. Isman showed herself a person of considerable resource despite her physical frailty. As soon as she was told all the particulars of the alleged separation, she hastened to the hotel telegraph office and hastily wrote three dispatches. One was to a prominent New York paper, another was to her husband, and the third was addressed to a theatrical magnate who is a power all over the country.

She refused to divulge the contents of the messages, but intimated that she had begged her husband to take immediate steps to locate the author of the rumor and secure the services of detectives to aid him in his efforts.

"I don't blame you newspaper men for following up what you call a good beat," said the little woman resignedly, "but it does seem rather hard that one's private affairs have to be pried into on account of a baseless rumor. Time was when I welcomed the limelight, but that was years and years ago," she added with a smile. "I was on the stage just long enough to yearn for a domestic life, and I have never regretted my marriage—no, not for one single instant, in spite of what the papers may say."

And that was all she would say as to the rumor that a cloud was over her dream of bliss.

Mrs. Felix Isman, nee Irene Frizelle, former well-known actress, who denies that she has come here to seek divorce from manager husband, declaring that report is inspired by woman enemy in the East.

OIL STOVE DEADLY.

Old Man Almost Instantly Killed by Explosion and Inhalation of Flame.

N. Morrow, 60 years of age, of No. 226 North Bailey street, was almost instantly killed yesterday by the explosion of a small oil stove which he was endeavoring to light.

He was burned about the face and head and inhaled the flames. He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, but died almost as soon as he arrived there.

The details of the accident are meager. It is thought that Morrow left the plug of the feed tank open and dropped a lighted match into it.

PAY MILK FINES.

G. W. Fitch, R. F. Benge, J. F. Clark, M. Hausen and J. S. Sars, grocers, were fined $10 each by Justice Williams yesterday after conviction on charges of selling milk below the standard required by law.

CHASING BLACK APHIS.

Horticultural Commissioners Going After Newly-Introduced Pest That Threatens Peaches.

Horticultural Commissioner Erwin Dingle is at the head of a squad of "bug chasers" who began yesterday a campaign for the extermination of the black aphis, a pest that has just made its appearance in this section and which is said to be creating havoc in the peach orchards around Lankershim. A crew of fumigators is now working under the direction of Dingle, and it is believed that they are meeting with success, though it is yet too early to predict that the foe has been conquered.

The white aphis is pretty well known to every florist and horticulturist, but the black variety is a comparative stranger, and it is not yet known just how to greet the newcomer. Dingle says, though, that the treatment administered seems to be the proper thing.

In connection with the fighting of insect pests, the District Attorney has been asked to prepare an ordinance, providing that all persons who make a business of fumigating and spraying be compelled to take out a license and that they be in a measure under the control of the horticultural commission. It is believed that this regulation will result in good to ranchers, who are obliged to expend large sums yearly in fighting insect pests, and who are not always sure that professed sprayers and fumigators understand their business.

LAST HOPE.

RACE-TRACKERS ON QUI VIVE.

Rumors of Reopening of the Santa Anita Course.

"Racing Without Betting" Is the Alleged Trick.

That Tia Juana Proposition Not Showing Up.

Horse race circles are equally agitated by the recent reports that racing will be resumed at Baldwin's ranch next fall, as usual, and that the Tia Juana project has fallen through.

For some time there have been rumors that the owners of Santa Anita Park would attempt to race again in November. A race track man arriving yesterday from San Francisco renewed these reports.

George Rose has confided to his friends that "something will be doing." One of the men in his employ says that Rose's attorneys have found a flaw in the law; and that Rose stated before leaving California that the law could be attacked successfully.

Furthermore, the law is not directed against racing, but against bookmaking and such forms of gambling. Horsemen say that if the ponies get a chance to race, bets will be framed up in some way.

"As long as there is no law against racing, why not have races and let the betting take care of itself?" was the suggestive question put to The Times yesterday by one of the shrewdest racing men in the State.

It is probable that the track owners will be guided largely by the result of the pending attempt of the New York gamblers to evade the anti-gambling law.

Samuel Haskins, one of the attorneys who represented the race track owners, stated yesterday that he knew of no serious proposition looking to the reopening of the track.

Sporting men are beginning to look upon the Tia Juana track project with misgivings.

A representative of The Times who recently visited Tia Juana was unable to find any symptoms of race tracks.

The people of that town grinned and shrugged their shoulders.

Although the Tia Juana races are supposed to open in the early fall and it requires many months to grade a track, not a shovel full of earth has been turned.

In spite of the proximity of the opening date, the location of the track is still a matter of conjecture. Some of the gamblers who were connected with the project stated that it would be on the American side of the river but across the Mexican border.

At Tia Juana, the location was pointed out as being about 2500 yards back of the town under the high hills to the south.

The track was described as being rather generally "over there." No evidence could be found, however, that any land has been purchased.

About a week ago some of the promoters of the track were in San Diego, and, upon the occasion of leaving gave forth a quantity of hot air about the opening, but the officials at Tia Juana were frank in expressing the belief that the track will never be opened.

It is reported that stock for the new track is being sold, or has been sold in the saloons of Los Angeles.

Both American and Mexican officials at Tia Juana state that the promotors really visited the City of Mexico and asked for a concession.

The concession is said to have been fastened up with numerous strings. The stipulation was that the government of Lower California should have a heavy percentage from the receipts, and that a bond of $150,000 be given.

A significant feature of the Tia Juana arrangement is that the gamblers who were to have had the concessions for sure-thing games have suddenly "blown the town."

At any rate, it seems now assured that the track, if it ever should be opened, would not be a genuine race track; the character of at least one of the men connected with the track makes it impossible for reputable owners to enter horses.

None of the backers are men of standing in the race world. The whole thing smells of a fraud.

The big stablemen will never go there, which makes it seem more probable that the Santa Anita track may be reopened for "racing without betting."

FOUND IN RAGS AND EXHAUSTED

SCHOOLGIRL WHO RAN AWAY IN PITIABLE CONDITION.

Suffering from hunger and thirst and exhausted by her wanderings in the foothills, 16-year-old Gladys Ellery, who left her home at No. 71[illegible] West Thirty-second street, Friday, was found in an orchard near Burbank yesterday morning.

The girl's condition was pitiable. Her face was scratched by brambles and her clothes were in rags. She had lost her skirt and her light petticoat did not serve to keep out the cold. Her lips were puffed and her tongue thick from the thirst. She did not know where she was, or what she had been doing. She was taken to the Burbank Hospital on an improvised stretcher and soon recovered sufficiently to recognize several friends, but she could tell them little of her wanderings.

Miss Ellery is the second school girl who has run away and wandered about the hills during the past two weeks. She started, ostensibly, for the Polytechnic High School, Friday morning, but instead of going there, spent the day in a park and finally went to Burbank.

Early Saturday morning, she came upon the camp of hunters, four miles north of Burbank. They fed her and took care of her until evening, when she left them, stating that she intended to return to the Burbank Hotel, where her mother was waiting for her. She gave the name of Virginia Sheldon.

Upon the return of the hunters to Los Angeles, Monday, they read of the missing girl and immediately notified the police they had seen her. Searching parties were organized and scoured the hills and cañons near Burbank.

Frank Ogier and Al Hedaker came upon Miss Ellery in an orchard near Fulton Cañon. She was lying on the ground, her head resting on her hands.

When Mrs. S. M. Kiser of the Chateau Frontenac, learned at noon yesterday, that her ward had been found, she ran out to the street and stopped an automobile driven by Wesley Wright, a real estate dealer. She told him her story and he helped her into the car and made the run to Burbank in thirty minutes.

There was a touching scene between Mrs. Kiser and Gladys, the girl sobbing and begging forgiveness.

In the afternoon Miss Ellery was put in an automobile and taken to the Chateau Frontenac. The attending physician states that she will probably recover from the effects of her outing in a few days. She has not explained why she ran away.

Edwards, an unattached scrapper, that cracked his right jawbone, but he finished the fight and earned the decision. The crowd did not know he had been seriously injured until afterward.

W. L. Turner, the 125-pound representative of the Y.M.C.A., was knocked out in the third round by A. Jones, an unknown husky, who was much older and stronger. Turner received a heavy swing on the jaw that sent him spinning about the ring, and he was led away before he fell.

L. O'Neil, a youth about 16 years of age, was put on with Jimmy Hayes, a full-grown man, and the lad was sent to the mat in less than a half-minute. The crowd saw that a slaughter was imminent as soon as the pair stepped into the ring, and after they had made two or three exchanges, O'Neil received a hit in the eye that dumped him down in a corner. His seconds grabbed him before the husky could administer any more punishment.

the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and sent him to the floor. Deitrich got up on his knee, intending to take the limit of the count before arising, but he was counted out before he got to his feet. Roy Snyder of the L.A.A.C. also suffered a knockout, at the hands of Rocco Wigo, who came in from somewhere in the outlying precincts, and showed that he was about ready for the professional ranks.

Except for the lack of "class," the bouts differed little from professional scraps. Most of the men went at it hammer and tongs, and split eyebrows and smashed noses yielded plenty of claret. The amateurs had it on the professionals, although, as a decision was given at the end of each bout. The regular length of the amateur mix-ups is three rounds, but in two bouts the referee had to order an extra round before the judges could decide which was the better man.

The big fight of the show was the wind-up between Sam Coulter of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, amateur lightweight champion of Southern California, and C. Beauchamp of the Broadway Athletic Club. At the end of three rounds, honors were even, and in the extra period Beauchamp outpointed his opponent and won the decision.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—In the Courts and Offices

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Because of numberless protests, Councilman Yonkin has withdrawn the plan for a park at Hooper avenue and Thirty-eighth street, assessed against the whole Sixth Ward.

The Health Board reorganization programme, minus the political features, was passed by the Council yesterday.

Judge Monroe yesterday annulled the order of adoption of Gerard Miller, and the child will legally be under the care and custody of the father, John G. Miller, under an order of the Superior Court of Contra Costa county.

Joseph Eaton Chapin, an alleged New York newspaper man, late of Pasadena, was examined before the lunacy commission yesterday, and his case was postponed for one week. The name is not his real one.

AT THE CITY HALL.

YONKIN DODGES NEW PARKS.

WARD DISTRICTS BRING TROUBLE TO COUNCILMEN.

Scheme to Assess Cost of New Beauty Spot Against the Whole Sixth Ward Withdrawn and Postponed Indefinitely—Wallace Wants Park for the Fifth Ward.

When you want to get a new park under the assessment district plan don't make a whole ward the assessment district. Never dream of such a thing.

That is the advice Councilman Yonkin gave to Councilman Wallace yesterday, when Wallace introduced a petition for a park in his ward, the Fifth, which is now parkless.

And then, to practice what he preached, Yonkin moved that the vote by which the Council ordered the Sixth Ward made a district to pay for a new park at Hooper avenue and Thirty-eighth street be reconsidered, the order brought back from the City Attorney, and the whole subject continued indefinitely. And the Council voted unanimously for the motion.

Yonkin breathed more easily. Ever since the Council ordered the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance carrying the Sixth Ward park scheme into effect Yonkin's telephone has been ringing with constituents who protested. They did not want to be assessed for a blamed park that was remote from their neighborhood, and they didn't want to be assessed for anything, anyhow; they had too many assessments already, they declared.

And some, who were awfully angry, threatened the Sixth Ward statesman with the recall. Now the Sixth Ward is the home of the practical recall, for it was used there for the first time in America, and it is the favorite appeal of the humble voter. But this did not worry Yonkin so much as the universality of the kicks from others.

Yonkin introduced the petition at the request of the Sixth Ward Improvement Association, but he did not know it was loaded. Hence he is willing to let it rest until the voters are ready to back up something that suits them better. The proposed park has about twenty acres and has long been deemed suitable for this purpose.

Wallace's new park is a six-acre piece—"in a hole," he describes it—near the intersection of Adams and Arlington streets. The petition simply asked that it be condemned under the new park law making the cost of condemnation chargeable to a district. But Wallace dodged the pit that caught Yonkin, for he moved that the fixing of the district be made the subject of a special hearing at 2:30 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

"And I hope you have as much trouble as I did," said Yonkin, cheerfully.

"You wicked, cruel man," said Wallace.

PRAISES MUSHET.

OVERDRAFT NOW SMALL.

The municipal finances of Los Angeles are in good condition, comparatively, according to Councilman Wallace, chairman of the Finance Committee.

"The overdraft at the end of the first ten months of this fiscal year," said he, "amounts to considerably less than $5000. At the same time last year the overdraft was very large.

"While the condition is due to the conservatism of the Council and the observance of economy by heads of departments, the bulk of the credit for this splendid condition is due to the City Auditor. He has made this possible by his wise administration of the power in his hands."

SHIFTS POLITICS.

HEALTH REORGANIZATION.

The Mayor will have a chance today to sign the official death warrants for "Polly" Love, secretary of the Board of Health, and Frank White, the Mayor's messenger—both undesirable office holders. The ordinances abolishing their positions passed the Council unanimously yesterday.

With recall politics eliminated the ordinance permitting reorganization of the health department forces also prevailed unanimously. Carrying out the recommendation of the City Attorney the positions of the six special inspectors were not abolished, although the recall administration asked for their political scalps, but the incumbents are required to perform such other duties as the board might direct.

In place of a secretary of the board at $125 monthly, a stenographer at $75 will be employed.

In place of a caretaker and cook at the Detention Hospital at $150 a month, a caretaker (one person,) at $50 will be employed, she to receive $90 when the hospital is in use.

The office of assistant restaurant inspector is abolished. By these changes the health department will save $3480 a year.

Out of this saving the new stenographer and a physician for the poor will be paid. This physician will receive $100 a month and will be required to attend cases to which he is called by the department. He will not be required to give all his time to the position.

By the plan carried out by the Council, unanimously, the six inspectors, who were also undesirable to the recall administration because of political necessities, will not be in jeopardy and may be dismissed only for derelictions of duty. The finale was without the political consequences hoped for by the administration.

Now let us see if the recall will be invoked on the Councilmen.

TRIP EXPENSES.

CHARITIES CONFERENCE.

A recommendation from the Mayor, at the request of H. W. Frank, president of the Associated Charities, that $150 be appropriated to aid in defraying the expenses of Spencer K. Newhall, secretary of the organization, as Conference of Charities and Corrections at Buffalo June 16, caused the Council to ask, "Where will it stop?"

The Council had decided to cease appropriations for convention trips when it provided them for Chief Dishman and City Electrician Manahan last week.

Councilman Yonkin was named a committee of one to investigate and report at the next meeting. Wallace said the situation is favorable, as the usual request is for $500. "It shows a saving of $350," was his dry comment.

SCHWEGEL RESIGNS.

LETTER NOT READ.

When the resignation of Nicholas Schwegel, restaurant inspector, reached the Board of Health yesterday, it was acted on without reading in full. The paragraph containing the resignation was enough. The reasons, criticising recall methods, were omitted by the secretary. The board promptly accepted it without comment. The place will be filled from the eligible list when the reorganization of the forces takes place next week.

The board decided to dismiss the complaint against the Goodhue bakery, No. 1118 West Seventeenth street. It found the sanitary conditions good and the other features complained of subjects of litigation and not of municipal action.

Euclid Heights Engine-House.

When the Council bought two lots at Guirado and Euclid avenue for a new fire station it thought it was pleasing the district. But yesterday a delegation protested on the ground that the new engine house would spoil a residence block. Councilman Blanchard procured a change of plan to be used if the City Attorney finds that the city can retreat from its bargain. Chief Lips explained that the new building would be ornamental brick and would be set back on a line with the houses, but this did not satisfy the representatives of the East Euclid Heights Improvement Association. They want it at Euclid and Stephenson avenues.

City Hall Brevities.

City Clerk Lelande will act as clerk of the Council during the absence of his deputy, D. M. Carroll. Lelande found himself a busy man yesterday, as he was rusty on the routine.

All records were broken yesterday when President Pease appointed Councilman Healy on two committees. The president has avoided the statesman from "de Ate ward" for nearly two years.

A petition to pave Pasadena avenue from Avenue 61 to the Arroyo Seco was filed with the Council yesterday. This would complete the improvement of that thoroughfare from Avenue 18 to the city limits.

The Council has named Pease, Dromgold, Lyon and Yonkin a committee to reorganize the method by which the city purchases supplies.

The new garbage specifications were not presented to the Council yesterday. They will be amended so that the contractor will be required to dispose of all garbage at least one mile from the city limits. The amendment is to prevent hog feeding at Vernon.

Healy cast the only vote against the allowance of a secret service fund of $100 a month to the City Attorney. The fund is to be used by Guy W. Eddie, City Prosecutor, in investigating cases.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

ALLEGED WRITER TO BE OBSERVED.

TESTIMONY TAKEN REGARDING HIS SANITY.

Man Who Pretended to Represent a New York Daily and Who Claimed a Rather Deep Knowledge of the Occult Is Taken Into Court for Examination.

The hearing of the charge of insanity against Joseph Eaton Chapin, a pseudo newspaper man, who has been in Pasadena for the past three weeks with the claim that he was a real live correspondent of a New York daily and was possessed of information concerning souls in the concrete and otherwise, took place in the Superior Court yesterday.

The case was before Judge Wilbur and the Lunacy Commission, and at the close of the deliberations Chapin was placed in the custody of his friend, Joseph Y. Kerr, assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Pasadena for the purpose of observation. Chapin was about to be sent back to the County Hospital for another week, but he objected so vigorously and with such sanity that he was allowed to go, on condition that he report next Tuesday for the final determination of his case. At the end of the consultation with the court and the physicians, the latter were completely at sea as to the mental condition of the accused. That he was "off" in a degree was the prevailing opinion, but as to whether this condition was the result of his attempt to play a part or was the real index of his mentality the experts were divided.

There is much mystery as to the identity of Chapin. In the first place that is not his right name, and it was with the greatest difficulty that he was induced to reveal his identity to his friend Kerr, who did not communicate the information to the court. He arrived in Pasadena about three weeks ago and at once visited the Y.M.C.A., where he presented his card from the Chicago branch. The young man made an excellent impression, and Mr. Kerr took him in charge and introduced him at his boarding place, The Howell, No. 241 North Marengo street. There he made the acquaintance of Katharine Roiston Fisher, a writer on nervous subjects for the Ladies' Home Journal. She was impressed with the glib manner in which he discussed questions of the occult, but became suspicious when she discovered that Chapin had been guilty of a number of very unnecessary lies. This fact added to his very nervous condition constrained her to swear out a warrant charging him with insanity.

In that complaint she set forth that Chapin was in a highly nervous condition; that he had no control over himself, was exceedingly restless and had delusions of grandeur. The complainant stated on the witness stand that Chapin had employed her to write some articles for the New York Herald, but that they had never appeared, and that made her suspicious, also. The lady was attracted to Chapin by the excellent methods and language he employed in the discussion of occult questions, but had her opinion as to his sanity shaken when he would repeat his arguments over and over again.

The warrant for his arrest was executed Saturday, and meantime Chapin had run up a three weeks' board bill, and that made the proprietor of that hostelry suspicious. In addition, Chapin had ordered a suit of clothes of a Pasadena tailor and had no money to pay for them, and Miss Howell was compelled to send them back to the merchant. It was her firm opinion financial responsibilities and other things.

Chapin was put on the stand in his own defense. He said that he was a graduate of Yale. He had the rah-rah boy hair cut to make good the claim. He declared he was simply in Southern California for his health, and was engaged on the New York Herald, although he acknowledged that a number of contributions he had recently sent to that paper had not appeared. He said that he had talked very unwisely at the supper table at the boarding-house on a number of occasions, but excused his conduct by saying that there were five maiden ladies at the meal, all interested intensely in the alleged mysterious, and it was a source of fun to him to "string" them, as he put it, in regard to his peculiar belief, which included, among other things, his ability to hear conversation through walls. He said that he was not insane. He talked intelligently.

While in Pasadena Chapin appeared with the Y.M.C.A. minstrels, and was on one of the ends, singing "Liza" like a professional. He was also a member of the business men's class, and a few evenings ago at the Y.M.C.A. spoke before the boys of the junior class, telling them how the great colored supplements of the Sunday newspapers are prepared.

The defendant said that his father lived in Osceola, Fla., but the information has not been verified. An effort will be made to establish his family connections if possible before another hearing.

Meanwhile the question whether he is insane or merely playing a part for the sake of notoriety is undetermined.

DECREE ANNULLED.

FATHER TO GET CHILD.

Mrs. H. A. Stange, formerly Mrs. Nellie Miller, a society leader of Oakland, who invoked a dusty statute seldom introduced into the courts to obtain possession of her son judicially decreed to be in the custody of the father, lost her case in Judge Monroe's court yesterday. The decree of adoption obtained through the Superior Court some time ago was annulled and the child, known as Gerard Miller, was given to the father, John G. Miller.

The story runs that the mother had evaded the courts of Contra Costa county, where an order was made that the custody of the child should be given to the father, and came to Los Angeles to have him adopted by her brother so that the father, a prominent official of the Lowell Lime and Cement Company of Martinez, could not get possession of the lad. Miller is the divorced husband of the woman who is now Mrs. Stange, and it is said that she lives in Chicago. The decree was granted on the ground of cruelty. The old law that was invoked in the Los Angeles proceedings provides that a wife who secures a divorce on the ground of cruelty has the privilege of permitting the child to be adopted by any one she may nominate. In this case she nominated her brother, Dr. M. V. Higgins, and Vera H. Higgins, his wife.

The style of the case decided by Judge Monroe was John G. Miller against M. V. Higgins, Vera H. Higgins, his wife, Nellie M. Stange and H. A. Stange, her husband, and the prayer was for an annulment of the decree of adoption that gave the Higginses the custody of Gerard Miller, the minor child of the plaintiff, and Nellie M. Stange, who was Nellie M. Miller.

The plaintiff was married to Nellie M. Miller, whose name prior to that event was Nellie M. Higgins, ten years ago. In 1906, the wife brought an action for divorce against the plaintiff in the Superior Court of Contra Costa county, and on August 16 of that year, an interlocutory decree was granted to the wife. On December 2, 1907, a final decree was allowed. By the terms of that decree the wife was awarded until further orders of the court the custody of Gerard Miller, the minor child issue of the marriage, such child not to be taken out of the jurisdiction of the court. Miller was ordered to pay his wife $15 a month for the support of the child.

On August 26, 1908, Miller filed a petition in the Contra Costa county court asking for an order modifying the previous order, giving the custody and education of the child to him. On November 9, of that year, Hon. W. S. Wells, judge of the Superior Court of Contra Costa, issued an order granting the motion, awarding to the plaintiff the custody of his son.

On October 16, 1908, Nellie M. Stange, mother of the boy, instituted a suit in the Superior Court of Los Angeles county, for adoption proceedings wherein Dr. M. V. Higgins, her brother, and Vera H. Higgins, his wife, petitioned for an order that Gerard Miller be adopted by them. This was brought under the old statute that allows the wife to indicate the choice in such matters when divorce is granted for certain reasons. On October 21, 1908, a decree was granted adjudging that the minor child should be adopted by Dr. Higgins and his wife.

Then Nellie M. Stange took the child to Chicago, and since the alleged adoption of the child it has not been in the custody of Higgins or his wife, it is alleged, but in the care and keeping of the mother, outside the jurisdiction of the courts which have passed on the case. At the hearing yesterday it was averred that little Gerard was yet with Higgins and his wife, but that they were too poor to have the child sent to Los Angeles, where the father is awaiting its coming.

The opinion of Judge Monroe will have the effect of restoring the child to the custody of its father—provided it can be found, or the mother can be located in Los Angeles county.

WATERY LOT DEAL.

HEARING IS POSTPONED.

Charles A. Anderson, Frank L. Landis and W. A. Irwin, real estate men of No. 105 South Broadway, were arraigned before Justice Summerfield yesterday for the preliminary examination on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, but at the last moment the hearing was postponed until the 26th inst. The defendants are at liberty on $1000 bail each.

Mrs. Margaret Fetters is the complaining witness and charges that the defendants sold her a lot out in the Pacific Ocean at high tide, instead of Oceanside, as she says they represented it to be. Mrs. Fetters traded for this watery lot, which was supposed to be "very nice and level," the furnishings and lease of the rooming-house at No. 754 South Los Angeles street.

C. H. Edward of Santelle came to town yesterday to get some deeds and mining claim papers left with the defendants in connection with a trade and was much surprised to find them in court. Edward is not worried, although he did not get his papers. He asserts that Landis represented himself as a notary public.

OBJECTED TO CHILDREN.

SECOND HUSBAND COMPLAINED.

Bertha E. Marden secured a divorce from Claude H. Marden on the ground of desertion yesterday. Marden is an express messenger in the employ of the Wells, Fargo & Co. Express, and the only reason he could give for his desertion in November, 1907, was that he was tired of seeing her care for two children by another husband. The couple were married in August, 1907, and he lingered with her but three months and three days, she said. During that time they lived in an apartment-house at the corner of Third and Flower streets. He was simply sore from the fact that she had the children to take care of, and he had often told her that he would not stand for it.

Since his desertion the grandfather of the children has built the mother a nice little bungalow out on West Jefferson street, where she is caring for them. They are, respectively, 6 and 8 years of age.

FAMILY JARS.

IRISH DIVORCE COMEDY.

A contested divorce action, in which Catharine Claffey is plaintiff, and Thomas M. Claffey is defendant, brought out no end of fun in Judge James's court yesterday. Both of the parties are Irish, although the defendant declared that he was born and raised in England. The testimony occupied the most of the day, and will be resumed this morning.

The evidence disclosed that the Claffeys had lived in a state of armed resistance during the most of their lives, and that one of the leading points in the case for the plaintiff occurred at the Claffey home on the East Side about a year ago, when Claffey, tiring of furnishing a bed and board to a sister of his wife, attempted to put her out of the house, and would have succeeded but for the fact that Mrs. Claffey came to the rescue of her sister with a big rock in her hand, which she proceeded to bounce off the head of her spouse.

The subject matter of the case was not much out of the ordinary in cruelty and neglect cases, but the manner of the telling was worth the price of admission. When the defendant was on the stand at the close of court, his gesticulations and remarks convulsed a big audience that had gathered to see the fun and even the sedate judge was compelled to put his hand before his face lest the dignity of the proceedings be violently jarred.

GOING BACK EAST.

MOTHER SURRENDERS CHILD.

A sad tragedy was presented in Judge Wilbur's court yesterday, in the adoption proceedings concerning Eugene Thomas Goodwin, a little three-year-old tot, whose custody was awarded to George Adler and his wife, Alice M. P. Adler. The woman who sought the future care of the baby is the sister of the mother, who, a resident of Boston, Mass., here the past winter in search of health, is about to return to her eastern home, no doubt to die. Her looks betrayed the fact that she was in miserable health, and the court kindly said: "You are ill, are you not?" to which she replied in a voice that could hardly be distinguished.

But the hectic flush was there, the hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes that told of the approach of the white plague. The father of the child that was born February 28, 1906, had died in Boston, previous to the trip West of the mother and little one.

As the papers were signed by the woman that forever took the baby away from her, she looked, with eyes that could not see for tears, and turned her face to the wall, lest her feelings be betrayed.

And the baby, where was he? Sitting on the lap of the judge, who was asking him all sorts of questions about his "Teddy Bear," and whether he expected to grow up some day and be President. The child, forward for his age, managed to answer most of the queries of Judge Wilbur, and laughed at his mother when she signed her name to the document that gave him a new mamma. He didn't know what it all meant.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

GETS ONE YEAR. In Judge Monroe's court yesterday William Nelson, convicted of burglary in the second degree, was sentenced to one year in San Quentin.

CASE SUBMITTED. The case of Paul Kruger against Officer J. C. Hosick for $1100 damages by reason of alleged arrest was submitted to Judge Hervey yesterday, after the conclusion of the arguments. The court indicated that a decision will soon be handed down.

FOUND FOR PLAINTIFF. In the action of R. A. Smith against Henry L. Tottenham to recover $6000 claimed to be due on account of a grocery store deal, Judge Moss found for the plaintiff yesterday, but the exact amount was not specified by the court. That will be determined later.

WANTS HIS SALARY. The salary paid to the president of a mining company is indicated in the action brought yesterday by A. P. Preciado to recover $341.25 said to be due from the Dry Lake Mining and Milling Company for his services as president of the corporation, at the rate of $75 a month.

DAMAGE SUIT. Thomas Lawyer, who claims to have suffered from a leg broken in three places and the fracture of eight ribs as the result of an accident February 17, 1908, brought action in the Superior Court yesterday to recover $20,000 from the Los Angeles-Pacific Company. The accident occurred on Santa Monica avenue, near its intersection with Center street, a half-mile west of the western boundary of the city of Los Angeles.

BABEL OF TONGUES. Members of the Slavonian colony at Newport Beach, engaged in fishing, were almost to a man witnesses for the plaintiff in the action brought by Jerry Marianovitch against the Newport Beach Company, to recover $3000 on account of the destruction of his fishing nets and ruin of his personal effects that were left within reach of the tide, when removed by the defendant company from his home. It is denied that plaintiff had legal possession of the land, and the claim is made that a judgment of ejectment had been issued against him by the Superior Court of Orange county. Progress in the case was slow on account of the difficulties encountered in interpreting the testimony for the jury. The case is being heard by Judge Hutton.

SMITH ARGUMENTS. The arguments in the contest of the will of the late Robert Crawford Smith began in Judge Rives's court yesterday and the entire day was taken up with the address of Charles Cassatt Davis, as counsel for the Smith heirs. He argued the testimony showed conclusively that Mrs. Dora Barnett, who is to secure $10,000, if the will is not broken, had held Smith in perfect thrall and subjection by reason of his belief in spiritualism.

MARTIN CASE. Judge Willis yesterday overruled the petition to set aside the complaint against Charles S. Martin, one of the alleged Monrovia Bank robbers, and fixed the trial of the case for June 28. It was contended by H. H. Appel, attorney for Martin, that the committing justice of the peace, Summerfield, held his office illegally.

WANTS DAMAGES. Henry Dumont brought an action yesterday against Walter S. Lysell, asking $10,000 damages by reason of his being knocked down by an auto driven by the defendant January 4, last, on East Ninth street, between Crockett and San Pedro.

TEN-YEAR SENTENCE. Judge Willis yesterday gave W. B. Jones, who pleaded guilty to burglary, ten years in Folsom. On April 20, the accused entered the home of Thomas H. B. Varney, No. 1625 West Orange street, from which he took three revolvers, a pair of opera glasses and other property. Jones admitted having robbed a house in Santa Barbara on the night of April 4.

ORLOW IN COURT. The picturesque Dr. Orloff N. Orlow was defendant in Judge Monroe's court yesterday in an action brought by C. White Mortimer, British Vice-Consul, who asked judgment on account of house rent and damage to the property located at No. 1909 South Grand avenue. The court awarded Mortimer $110.50, which was a substantial reduction from the amount of his claim.

BROWN RESTRAINED. Judge Wilbur issued an order yesterday restraining Harlan H. Brown from interfering in any way with Maude Brown, who yesterday sued him for a divorce. The Highland Park Bank was also enjoined from paying out any money to Brown.

FOUND GUILTY. After almost a week's trial, P. H. Slaughter, a colored man, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Wilbur's court of attempting to rob John Nakao, a Japanese. He will be sentenced Friday.

JUDGMENT TAKEN. The White Garage of Los Angeles got default judgment against the Jones & Ryder Land Company in Judge Wilbur's court yesterday for $2328.67.

INCORPORATIONS. Papers for the following incorporations were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday: Dunlap-Wilson Company, capital stock $100,000, by S. C. Dunlap, A. J. Wilson and C. C. Bumington; National Airship Spiralway Company, capital stock $50,000, by A. T. and A. F. Smith, R. L. and G. S. Bisby, and F. A. Knight; Alberhill Securities Company, capital stock $100,000, by H. W. Cunningham, James H. Hill, Donald Barker, A. C. Galloway and F. E. Linn; Foo Wing Herb Company, capital stock $20,000; Inyo-Kern Company, capital stock $50,000, by D. M. Shanks, B. O. Van Bokkolen, Robert R. Thompson, L. E. Ekelund and Thomas C. Bundy.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

INDEPENDENTS FOR PIPE LINE.

Plan to Market Without Aid of Associated.

Officers of Two Agencies Are Interested?

Reports as to Associated's Building Intentions.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COALINGA, May 18.—[Exclusive dispatch.] A pipe line to carry the output of the independent oil producers of Coalinga and Kern county to tidewater is to be built by local capitalists. Rights of way have been secured and all plans have been formulated. The lines are to join at Polley, a small valley point, and from there proceed to the coast at Port Harford.

R. W. Morsehead, H. H. Welsh, L. St. Clair and M. V. McQuigg, officers and directors in the Coalinga and Bakersfield sales agencies, are to finance the project. The estimated cost is not known; the capitalists at this time are not ready to make a statement of their plans. They have been working quietly for some time, and it is understood plan to begin work as soon as possible.

The question of transportation has become a serious one, and at Coalinga there is much dissatisfaction with existing conditions. It is charged in some quarters that the Associated is not living up to its contract. Many of the companies are unable to make sources because the Associated is not in a position to handle the increased production.

Pump holes are full, and a cessation of pumping is imperative in many instances. It is to insure a market and continued good prices for the independent oil and remove the present fear from surplus production that the independent officials have determined to build the pipe line. The executive boards of the Bakersfield and Coalinga agencies met in San Francisco today with the Associated chiefs to discuss the handling of the independent production under the present contract, which at present does not seem to be satisfactory.

A joint meeting of the members of the two agencies has been called for next Monday, May 24, at Bakersfield, to discuss the same question, and also plans to dispose of the oil that has accumulated.

Rumored Associated Plans.

While nothing further official comes from the Associated's plans for its new pipe line system except that it is to run from Coalinga, McKittrick and Port Harford or Gaviota, there are reports coming to Los Angeles indirectly from interested sources.

According to a statement made in confidence by a party engaged in development in Devil's Den by an Associated man, there will be a line from Coalinga south through Kreyenhagen, Lokoman Hills and Devil's Den. From McKittrick there will be one running direct, the two coming together at Taft or near that settlement, which is in the Antelope Valley in Northern Kern county. From here the line is outlined as one, will run west over the mountains to Port Harford. The same authority says that this route by Taft has been found the most feasible on account of grades.

It was also stated that work is to begin soon and that the pipe is to be laid and will be laid a mile or two a day. There are no grades coming east and only after turning west are they encountered.

Such a plan as this was widely attributed to the Union at the time it was laid at Sunset. It was admitted that such plans were discussed by that company and there was a possibility of the line being carried out at some future time, but not immediately.

The announcement of the Independents' plans for a line of their own is said to have its effect upon the Associated plans. That the Independents had such intention will come as a great surprise.

Several ways this seems reasonable. The Associated has acquired considerable land southeast of Coalinga, which such a line would tap. Independent development, some of it almost certain to succeed, is also under way. To encourage this pipe lines will be essential and in no other way does it seem easier to do it than this. On the other hand, to lay a line from the route of the present rifled line parallel it to Port Costa would supply only the existing wells and deliver to outside ground. Again, will McKittrick and the other West Side fields alone justify an eighty-mile wrought iron pipe line to tidewater? Is Coalinga ready to supply a pipe line at this time alone? Together with the intervening territory developed under such encouragement, there is no question about it. Coalinga is at present the Associated shipping point for the Santa Maria fields. The reports, however, speak of Port Harford as the pipe line's coast terminal. It is superior for handling oil within the last few weeks surveyors have been at work in that neighborhood and have been supposed to be Associated employ.

Nothing to other reports the Associated has acquired the big refinery at Port Harford, built by English capital and never operated. This appears far less probable. To engage in refining would be absolutely contrary to the established Associated policy, to meet competition with the Standard. It has never had any use for refining except for "topping" light oil to get a proper fuel or road oil. The more reasonable report, it would seem, has long been circulated that the California Oil Fields, Ltd., had options on this plant and would lay a line to Coalinga. The Limited's oil is a high grade article of superior quality.

Flowing Well at Balboa.

According to a telephone message received by The Times last night from Newport Beach, the Balboa well commenced to flow about 100 barrels a day of oil and water yesterday. It has been drilled for some time, but has not been a success commercially. Its work is being watched with the utmost interest by oil men.

WOMAN ACCUSED.

Complaint May Not Be Issued Against Her on Charge of Selling Morphine.

The complaint charging Miss Marguerite Evans of No. 2006 East Seventh street with having violated the law in selling morphine without a prescription was requested by Deputies Brown and Gifford yesterday. The officers in securing evidence figured prominently in the case. The deputy district attorneys at the Police Station have not as yet decided whether the complaint will be issued or not.

Miss Evans alleges that the officers sent a man to her drug store and that he begged piteously for morphine. She refused to give it to him. When he returned for the third time and rolled upon the floor in apparent agony because of his craving for the drug, she became alarmed and gave him one tablet of morphine to ease his pains.

He paid her with a dollar marked for identification. The officers allege that Miss Evans has sold drugs to other "hop-heads." She denies this and will produce her books to show that all her drugs have been sold on prescription.

R. Rouley, a drug clerk arrested on a similar charge, was fined $100 by Justice Williams yesterday morning.

MINES AND MINING.

GOOD FIND IN SEARCHLIGHT.

PITTSBURGH GETS A FINE ORE BODY AT DEPTH.

Camp Was Never Better Before in Its Career—Philadelphia Duplex, Quartette and New York Doing Well—Pioneer Gets High Average of Free Gold.

The Pittsburgh Searchlight made a good low-grade gold strike last week while drifting from the 300-foot level at eighty-five feet, cutting a ledge for twenty-five feet without encountering either of the walls. It is driving a crosscut, in thirty-five feet, to cut the walls. Ore will be stored until fall when a mill is planned.

From a mining standpoint, Searchlight is today in a better and stronger position than at any time in its history, asserts William Black, a mining operator, who is in Los Angeles for a few days on business matters.

The mines are developing finely, many good prospects showing fine ore bodies. Matt Hovrick has started work on the Pompeii, and is dropping the ten stamps of the mill day and night crushing customs ore, in addition to that from the Pompeii. This last has developed some exceptionally good free milling rock.

Crittenden and Delameter, east of Searchlight, on the Chief of the Hills lease, Quartette ground, are making regular shipments to Needles, better than $100; all less than this is treated at the Cyrus Noble mill, which is in full running order and handling a big tonnage.

The Quartette, forty stamps, and Duplex, ten, are running at full capacity, these mines showing up in the finest possible shape. Camp Thurman and El Dorado Cañon properties are developing good ore.

Eighty stamps are dropping and more than 1000 men working in the district. The Philadelphia Searchlight has spent more than $50,000 in machinery and improvements since spring. It is sinking 1000 feet with a double compartment shaft to cut the ore at depth. The company has been operating for the past three months, and is in good ore, working twenty-five men and making regular shipments.

The Quartette, working 100 men, is continuing its good showing and taking out good ore right along. Newberry Mountain is receiving considerable attention from prospectors, some good strikes reported. This section is still in the prospect stage and no shipments have been made, but the showing is asserted to be very good. The Empire is still in litigation with apparently little prospect of an early settlement. This old property contains some good bodies and its operation would materially increase the output of the district.

The New York Searchlight is putting in a compressor and drill working in a crosscut for the ledge.

Free Gold at Pioneer.

The Pioneer Mining and Leasing Company has encountered free gold averaging $35 at the ninety-five-foot level. Development, since the eighty-foot point, is in $25 ore, but here the oxidized rock began to show up and has been increasing in extent and value since.

The free gold was found in a highly oxidized porphyritic quartz and Superintendent Spencer is sanguine as to the future.

May Do Customs Work.

A deal is pending whereby the old Homestake mill at Rhyolite may be turned into a customs plant to treat the low-grade ores of that section. It costs at present $11.50 a ton transportation and smelting charges on $20 ore, and this price will be lowered two or three dollars in the event the deal is carried out, according to the interested parties.

If this step is taken it will open the way for a large amount of development, and a big tonnage of ore will be milled that is untouched at present. The Homestake plant is a twenty-five stamp mill, with amalgamating plates, tube mills and cyaniding machinery.

No ore running higher than $20 is to be handled, according to present plans, but as there is a large quantity of this grade on the dumps, a good tonnage is assured from the start. Pioneer ore of this class will form the bulk of the rock treated.

TALE OF TAILLESS CAT.

Splendid Specimen of Feline Tribe from Isle of Man Missing—Owner Inconsolable.

This is the tale of a cat, and, strange as it may seem, of a cat without a tail. The caudal appendage of tabby was not cut off by a heartless boy, or chewed off by a dog. It never had one.

The big black Manx, with long hind legs and that hops like a rabbit, which has attracted the attention of passers-by at No. 923 South Figueroa street for the last six years, is missing. It is a perfect specimen of the feline tribe from the Isle of Man and weighs sixteen pounds. It belongs to Mrs. A. S. Robbins and was given to her when it was a kitten.

Tabby was not a marauder. It was a family pet and it was never known to wander away from the square in which the Robbins residence stood. Almost any bright day it could be seen curled up on a window sill in the tower, basking in the sun.

About a year ago, Mrs. Robbins sold her home and moved into a hotel. As she could not take her pet with her, it was allowed to stay in its old haunts, and a butcher across the street fed it regularly. About two weeks ago, the Manx disappeared. Every nook and cranny of the neighborhood was searched, but no trace of the cat could be found.

Mrs. Robbins came to the conclusion that her pet had not been killed, but stolen. She is sorely distressed by its loss and has advertised for the animal, but in vain. The person who sends information to No. 345 Orange street, Glendale, of the whereabouts of tabby will receive her lasting gratitude.

BONE BREAKING CONTEST

times, and Coulter usually came back with heavy body counters.

Herbert Armstrong, unattached, beat H. G. Silverman of the Y.M.C.A. in the 115-pound class in four rounds. Silverman, who fights on the Wolgast order, had an advantage in the early part of the fight, but Armstrong, a long, lean youngster, came up strong at the finish and kept beating Silverman on the right eye with long swings that took all the ginger out of the Y.M.C.A. youth.

W. E. Coe earned a close decision over Jack Mann, unattached, in the 115-pound class. Coe is short and stocky and Mann, built on the lines of a jack rabbit, whisked about the ring throwing swings promiscuously in all directions. But whenever Coe got within striking distance he let loose a volley of bunches that made the jackrabbit look as if he wanted to "beat it" for the brush. Half the crowd hooted the decision.

Frank McDaniels, a brother of Montana Kid, won from William Felsman in the 125-pound class. Felsman was about "all in" at the end of the bout and McDaniels probably would have finished him in another minute. This bout was the slowest in the show and the crowd hooted the men for not mixing it.

Five hundred persons were about the ring and, although the officials tried to keep them from yelling at the scrappers, they insisted upon shouting for their favorites. Some of the men performed well, others had a remarkable nerve to climb through the ropes and attempt to defend themselves.

FINALS TONIGHT.

The finals in all the classes are to be held tonight. The original intention was to hold the semi-finals tonight and the last bouts tomorrow night, but several entries dropped out and there were not enough scrappers left to furnish amusement for three nights.

Prof. Harry Uyttenhove and Cliff Horne gave a fencing exhibition that pleased the crowd. The results of the bouts follow:

Featherweight class: Herb F. Armstrong, unattached, beat H. G. Silverman, Y.M.C.A.; W. E. Coe, Y.M.C.A., beat Jack Mann, unattached.

Special (125-pound) class: A. Jones, unattached, knocked out W. L. Turner, Y.M.C.A.; Frank McDaniels, unattached.

Lightweight class: James Hayes, unattached, knocked out Ed Dietrich, L.A.A.C.; C. Beauchamp, Broadway A. C., beat Sam Coulter, L.A.A.C.

Welterweight class: Ed Barry, Broadway A. C., knocked out Ed Dietrich, L.A.A.C.; Ivan Kahn, L.A.A.C., beat D. B. Edwards, unattached.

The championship finals tonight are to be thus:

Bantam class: Rocco Wigo, unattached, and Fred Scholl, Y.M.C.A.

Featherweight class: Herb F. Armstrong, unattached, and W. E. Coe, Y.M.C.A.

Special class: A. Jones, unattached, and Frank McDaniels, unattached.

Lightweight class: C. Beauchamp, Broadway A. C., and Jimmy Hayes, unattached.

Welterweight class: By default to Ed Barry on account of Ivan Kahn's injury.

Middleweight class: Sid O'Neil, unattached, and Cliff Reuman, L.A.A.C.

Nature's Remedies for Disease.

Nature provides more effective remedies in the roots and herbs of the field than were ever produced from drugs.

Thirty years ago Lydia Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy made from roots and herbs which has proved more efficacious in curing women's diseases than any other medicine the world has ever known, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is looked upon everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

A young man was left, at his father's death, a snug sum of money. Realizing that money came pretty easy, he started in with extravagant living, until the wife seeing that the money was being spent in channels showing no return, and realizing that in time they would have neither home nor money, she persuaded the husband to give her a part of what was left.

She immediately invested this with the Los Angeles Trust Company in her name, and gave orders to have all the quarterly cash dividends reinvested in additional stock. The husband did not know how the money had been invested, as he was too busy spending what he had left. Finally he awoke to the realization that his money was about gone, he was without a home, except a rented one, and without work.

The foresight of the wife saved them from want, as her investment has grown to an amount sufficient to pay for a nice five-room bungalow in the College Tract, and leave a good balance for use until the husband finds employment.

Many wives have saved from their household money, and invested it in stock in this Co-operative Building Company each week or month from which they have built up a home fund.

THE BLUFF CALLED.

The leaders of the employés of the French government make a sickly attempt to smile as they acknowledge that their threatened strike was merely a "bluff."

If the strike was an earnest one it was in all conscience bad enough, but it really seems ten times more reprehensible when the leaders acknowledge that they were merely "bluffing."

It is worse than playing with edged tools and fire at one and the same time to make such a travesty of an industrial disturbance, when the leaders knew it was all a false pretense.

The public service was thrown into a chaos for several weeks. The anxiety created in the public mind was agonizing. Paris thought an outbreak imminent and the army of the republic was sleeping on its arms ready to be called out at a moment's notice. And this all for an insincere "bluff."

The masses of the employés were undoubtedly misled under the impression that the agitation was serious. As is usual in such disturbances, the leaders no doubt represented that the strike was sure to win. The employés, under an impression that an earnest effort was being made to right pretended wrongs, might have created a disturbance at any moment.

Before their admission was made the leaders of this outbreak stood before the world convicted of gross foolishness. The confession does not relieve them of this charge, but it brands them with knavery. They are convicted in a double sense. Yet probably the greater number of these employés stand ready at any moment, tomorrow, next week or next year, to follow these same grafting bosses in any agitation they may stir up on any flimsy dispute created by themselves with the government which employs them.

ALEXANDER MACHINE TRIGGED.

With the political venom extracted from it, and the "recall" club defied, the plan of the Board of Health for reorganization of the sanitary force passed the Council yesterday. In its deliberations and action the Council has not been influenced by the clamor of the puny recall organs which sought to aid the administration in completing a job of petty politics and unworthy revenge. It has bilked and balked them.

The board proposes some genuine economies and in this purpose it had the full support of The Times and the Council. But Mayor Alexander slyly coupled with this programme the illegal abolition of six special inspectorships. The board promised, in the language of His Recall Honor, "so far as practicable" to "give preference" to the incumbents in transferring them to the ordinary sanitary force, which it asked to be increased. The reason advanced, largely to befog the Council, was that the special inspectors would not perform duties other than those specified for their positions and that they had much time to waste.

But it was found by the Civil Service Commission and the City Attorney that such transfers could not legally be made. For refusing to set aside established rules the puny recall organs abused the Civil Service Commission. They blustered that the positions must be abolished to save $3000 a year in the health department. But this pretense was shown to be entirely false, as the saving was not to be wrought by the abolishing of the six inspectors, but because of the rearrangement of other work, and to which the Council agreed without hesitancy. But the Council did scout the other part of the programme and found, by careful investigation, that it was coarse political revenge to be wreaked on half a dozen men who are not votaries at the Earl-Lissner shrine.

By requiring the special inspectors to perform any duties which the health board may ask of them the Council easily met all the proper expectations; and, by the same policy, prevented the recall administration from getting six scalps and paving the way to put in jobs some of its workers who are demanding payment of the administration's political promises.

It is to be lamented by "Our Set" that the Council did not take the administration's raw political programme eagerly and rush it through; but we have noted, from time to time, a general disposition on the part of the Council to scrutinize the "holy" offerings of the recall administration carefully. And this is a pretty good rule to follow, we believe, for there may be others just as "holy."

What next? Will the Mayor attempt to recall the Civil Service Commission and the Council, too? Or will Editors Earl and Gibbon attend to it?

REMARKABLE RAILROAD RECORD.

The railroads embraced in the great Pennsylvania system cover 23,000 miles. During the year 1908 these roads carried 141,659,543 passengers. There was not one passenger killed out of this whole vast army by any train accident. That is a remarkable record. It may appear to be a unique record in American railroading. But it is not.

We have before us the railroad statistics of the United States of America for the year ended June 30, 1908. These show that during that year, out of the whole number of railroads in the United States, 316 railroad companies, operating 124,050 miles of road, carried in all 455,365,447 passengers without a fatality; that the passengers carried one mile would represent 14,776,368,000 mile-passengers. Mark, there was not a passenger killed on all these 316 lines, over all this mileage, in the year ended June 30, 1908. Of all these passengers the total number injured was only 2695.

This is the best record in American railroading up to the present time, and yet it is only a little better than that of the previous year, and that but a slight improvement on the year preceding that. Indeed, 1906 was better than 1907 in some respects.

Now notice, this mileage represented in 316 American lines in which there was not one fatality among the passengers carried represents more miles of line than all in the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Austria and Italy combined. The passenger-mileage above exceeds by a thousand millions that of the United Kingdom.

There is another feature to consider in this, that these American roads frequently cross highways at grade crossings and even enter and pass through large towns and cities on grade.

Is there anything outside of the United States that will match this record of railroading in America? Nothing. The latest data at hand covering railroad statistics in the United Kingdom, where the casualties are the lowest, are for 1907. In the United Kingdom the lines cover 23,108 miles. During the year there passed over these lines 1,704,582,956 passengers. The number of passengers killed on these lines was 125. There were also killed 509 employés and 577 other persons, making a total of fatalities of 1211. In the United Kingdom the average number of miles traveled by each passenger was a little less than eight.

We are accustomed to lay too much blame on American railroads for fatalities and injuries without making due allowance for the conditions. We have before us a table of the accidents in all the important countries in Europe for the latest year for which statistics are available. Some of these years go back to 1903 and others come down to 1907. On these roads for the years given the total number of passengers killed was 586, employés 2575, other persons 3400; total 6561. If we go back to 1899, the railroad mileage of the United States was just about equal to that of all these European countries at the present time. In that year there were killed on American railroads 239 passengers, 2210 employés, and 4040 other persons, aggregating 6489. Here we have the better of the comparison in nearly every individual item. In the passenger list they killed two in Europe to one in America, in the list of employés they surpassed us in butchery, while in the fatalities to persons other than passengers and employés the comparison is against our own country. Whatever measure of responsibility rests upon the railroad companies for fatalities to passengers and employés, when we came to "other persons" the responsibility must be divided, at least half of it resting upon the general public. At grade crossings the railroads are much less to blame than those who drive or walk across the track.

We find that for twenty years the number of deaths to passengers on American railroad trains runs from 170 to 647 annually, the highest number being found in the year 1907. In employés the numbers run from 1693 to 4353. Deaths suffered by trespassers on railroad property for these years range from about 3000 to over 5600, and to persons not considered trespassers the deaths ranged from 536 to somewhat over 1000. Nineteen hundred and seven was in every way the year of largest number of casualties, the total being 11,656. In this case we have no basis of comparison showing the number of persons carried from which to get a ratio. Undoubtedly 1907 was a year of greater railroad travel than any other in our history.

In claiming due credit for our railroads on the low-casualty lists for the roads ten years ago compared with other countries for years running five to eight later, it is important to remember the many improvements made in railroading year by year.

While taking much pleasure in laying before the public this excellent record for American railroading, we must not think of exculpating managers of the roads from blame. The fact that so many railroad corporations managed their business so well over such a vast mileage, carrying so many passengers, admits of the legitimate inference that the same record might be possible for other roads not in the list of high excellence.

Now having made that criticism, it is just as important to remember that there are many roads where such results could not fairly be claimed. For example, the Pennsylvania system is mostly two-tracked and a good deal of it is four-tracked. It is an old system, rich and powerful, with the best roadbed and the most modern equipment. It would not be fair to expect as good results from lines consisting of a single track, much of it running through sparsely-populated districts, over high mountains and streams subject to dangerous floods.

A LITTLE LAND WELL TILLED.

It is a good sign that the people of America are giving an ever increasing heed to the slogan "Back to the land." It is still a better sign that the movement toward small holdings which can be worked intensively at a profit is attracting increased attention and consideration. It isn't every man who can secure and retain a section or even a quarter section of land, but there isn't a man in the nation capable of earning a salary from an employer who can't put himself in possession of at least an acre somewhere.

In whatever portion of our common country a man may live he should own an acre of land. But of all the places in the world where this should be the case California stands out in a class by itself. It is here that "every acre should support its man." It is in California that every acre not only should but can support its man and that with ease. Moreover it can support the man's whole family in the bargain.

As a striking example of what can be done with one acre of land in California the case of a man named Merrill in San Diego county may be of interest. On a single acre Mr. Merrill not only supports himself and his family, but makes money besides. He makes $10 a month each from three cows, $100 a year from blackberries, $75 from loganberries, $300 from chickens, $90 from strawberries, $200 from vegetables and $50 from fruit trees. This man is not coining millions, he is not cornering the wheat crop, he will never be an oil king or a steel magnate, but he is his own master, an independent American, a monarch between the four fences of his one single acre of land.

What a man can do in San Diego county on an acre of ground he can do in any other county of California. Mr. Merrill's record can be matched anywhere within the city limits of Los Angeles that there is a vacant acre. And, by the way, there are many vacant acres here lying useless that might as well be producing and from which money can be made even under a lease.

Gen. Schefket, the Turk whose military genius in the late campaign against Abdul Hamid astonished Europe, wants Turkey to be a free country. In other words, Schefket is more like George Washington than Napoleon Bonaparte.

Great Britain is short on beef, but the ham and eggs crop can probably be relied on to come to the rescue.

BUSY TIMES IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

SCHOOLS AND THEIR INFLUENCE.

A Methodist bishop is in hysterics because he thinks John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have a "corner" on education. The good bishop's distress seems to be really heartfelt.

Let the world take courage. Jim Patten will come nearer cornering wheat every day the sun rises and sets than Mr. Rockefeller and the Laird of Skibo, with divers and multitudinous other millionaires combined, will ever come to cornering education.

In the first place, the millions of Rockefeller and others affect only higher education, and that is a luxury enjoyed by a small percentage of the American people. The public schools manufacture more public opinion in a day than all the colleges in America do in a year.

Again, the schools do not by any manner of means create public opinion—not of the abiding kind.

There are a great many denominational colleges and minor schools in the country. They all teach the sect creed with more or less earnestness and persistency, but they fall far short of making Baptists of all the young men who attend the colleges subsidized by Rockefeller. As to Mr. Carnegie's faith the world is in the dark.

Was there ever a college in Great Britain or the United States that in political economy made use of any book whose foundation was not Cobdenism? But do all the college graduates turn out Democrats on the free-trade theory? There are very few young men come out of our colleges who are not theoretical free-traders when they are presented with their "skeepskins," unless there has been a great change wrought in the science as taught in American colleges during recent years.

The experiences of business very soon correct the fallacious syllogisms on which Cobdenism rests, and the experiences of life correct various other fallacies imbibed in colleges, whether supported by the benefactions of Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Carnegie or other millionaires.

There are certain things which belong properly to schools, high and low, as parts of the curriculum. The experiences of after life do not often create an impression in the minds of graduates of schools which shakes confidence in the axiom, "The whole is greater than any of its parts," and in the conclusions of the geometrical theorem which established apparently the fact that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. We have heard of attempts to square the circle, but the dictum of mathematics that this cannot be done within finite bounds remains unquestioned by rational minds learned in mathematics up to the present hour of the striking of the clock.

But when the schools go outside of their legitimate spheres and seek to establish unsupportable theories in religion, science, language or history, the false impressions made upon the mind of plastic youth are mighty soon rubbed out by the glaciers of cold facts ever coming down through the streams of life experience. Life is mostly made up of solid facts reduced to a very fine temper in the icy currents of everyday events.

The good bishop whose mind is in agonizing throes over the influence of the Rockefeller and Carnegie schools is not quite explicit as to what particular line of misleading instruction is given in these. But of one thing he may rest assured, that after the graduating exercises are over and the young man and the young woman plunge into the experience of everyday life and acquire the habit of reading attentively the daily newspapers which present to their minds each morning "the story and the picture of the day" before, any false impressions imbibed in the classroom will very soon be overlaid by deeper and more lasting impressions derived from contact with daily life and the reading each day of this history of the day before, duly illustrated by half-tones from the photographs made by the sun.

If schools were not established and if lectures in classrooms did not aim for the most part at building up in the minds of young people a knowledge of mathematics, languages, and fairly well established facts of science, establishing schools and lecturing in them would become very discouraging undertakings. If the purpose was to send out young people irrevocably committed to certain theories, doctrines and cults, the schools might as well be closed. It is decidedly useful to those who become surveyors to hold fast to the demonstrated fact that the three angles of a triangle are equal to two right angles, or that no triangle can have two right angles. But when it comes to some of the facts taught in the Chicago University, the graduate, whatever may be the impression on his callow mind during the school term, soon recovers from the false impression created by the revered professor who rules with a rod of iron his little kingdom in the classroom. Prof. Zubelin can "expatiate" to his heart's content on his queerest vagaries. But within a year after graduating, life experiences and a careful perusal of the daily press will obliterate all the lines of impression made in the lecture room.

Let moderation rule the vain or proud.
With happy power the healer is endowed.

Venus is in ecliptic conjunction with the moon. Murcury attains the greatest elongation eastward. The benign aspect of Venus with the moon makes the planet greatly fortunate today for almost all affairs of men and women, favoring the latter most strongly.

The influence is especially strong for dealings between the sexes, particularly for affairs of the heart.

There is danger of extravagance or overdoing in the love for dress, society or pleasure in this period. Those of great wealth are menaced by a temptation to misuse it or waste it in unprofitable pursuits.

Uranus in trine and benefic aspect with the moon rules the disposition toward unique and odd enterprises, favors uncommon tasks and influences those of romantic or imaginative minds.

The square of Mars with the Moon this day favors the ill and suffering, endowing the hand and eye of physician and surgeon with unusual power and helpfulness. The keen vigor of the day, however, is such as to menace the quick and passionate with an exaggerated energy that may lead them into quarrels.

Women and men whose birthdate this is are under a sign indicating that they will have a prosperous twelvemonth if they avoid intrigue, devious methods and jealousy.

The sign over children born today is for a nature in which friendliness and charm are dominant. They should be encouraged in any love they display for the beautiful in art or nature.

OLD-TIME FIGHTERS.

BY UNCLE WALT OF EMPORIA.

When old-time knights went forth with pole and pushed each other off their horses, the ground we learn, from ancient scrolls, was often littered with corses; for when a man is weighted down with half a ton of cast-iron raiment, and falls, and lands upon his crown, his life is apt to be the payment. I've read of forty armored knights who perished in a morning's tilting (of such the ancient scribes write—of such the bards were always lilting). O, there was clanging then of steel, and there was screech of bolt and casting, and you might see the charger reel, and hear its rider fortune blasting. And when the vanquished hero sunk, so plainly dead that none could doubt it, a dray would gather in the junk, and nothing more was said about it. O good old days, when fighters fought, and in the tourney played their capers! They scorned to fill with bally rot the columns of the sporting papers.

The world improves, no matter what foolish people say.

A lady, young and pretty, in accents sweet and low,
Said pleasant things about me, a little while ago.

The way ahead grows broader and smoother all the time;
The wind is blowing sweeter upon the hills we climb;
I made a small investment about six months ago;
My money has been doubled—why will most people so?

There never were such chances upon this grand old earth.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

J. J. Shubert is back in New York. after his western tour, and declares that "the theatrical open-door is at last an accomplished fact."

"In the larger cities between New York and San Francisco," says Mr. Shubert, "we shall control and operate many new theaters. Where I have not obtained houses under our personal management, I have made booking arrangements. On our list are also several new theater buildings, some of them houses actually under construction, or not yet out of the architects' blue-prints.

"Among the theaters pledged to the open-door policy are four in Arkansas, nine in Indiana, twenty-three in Missouri, twenty in Iowa, thirty-six in Illinois, nine in Minnesota, eight in Nebraska, twenty-four in Kansas, five in Oklahoma, three in Utah, one in Wyoming and eleven in Colorado. "We shall have four theaters in three cities in California—two in San Francisco and one each in Los Angeles and Oakland."

These announcements are cheerful, but for the proof of the pudding we must await the first year's attractions.

The Hobart Bosworth dramatic school will give its fourth entertainment on Friday evening, in its rooms at the top of the Hamburger's Majestic Theater building.

"The Critic," which the Belasco company gave so successfully on another occasion, will form the chief feature of the bill. It will be preceded by Schubert's "Who is Sylvia," and fencing and dancing exhibitions.

"Little Hip," the performing elephant of the Los Angeles Theater, was entertained at Levy's on Monday night. Hip is alleged to have consumed twenty-three apple pies in gentlemanly fashion, but as there was no bill for Krug champagne his appetite did not break the box-office.

Frank Blair's farewell production, "The Mischief Maker," as presented at the Unique Theater this week, is one of the best pieces this producer has given during his extended service here. The piece has to do with the matrimonial affairs of a couple who come into humorous business relations with a pious, but skinflinty deacon, the whole party being embroiled by a merry mischief maker, impersonated by Denton Vane. The parts of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Maloney are taken by Will Armstrong and Stella Adams, respectively, while the hypocritical deacon is played by J. J. Martin. A variety of new song hits are introduced.

Miss Stella Adams returns to the company, after a long absence, and was warmly welcomed at her first appearance Monday night.

Irene Earle, with new songs, and a variety of new motion pictures, completes the bill.

Patrons of the Empire Theater are being tendered an exceptionally good bill this week. Christine Hall and company appear in a sketch of serious import, entitled "Fate." A good bit of diversion work is done by Genora and Dunn, man and woman. Those who like mystery are amused, though persons not edified when Christopher and Miss Verona appear in a group of mystifying feats.

Will Franks sings new illustrated songs, and the Lucier trio supply another musical number.

New motion pictures are shown.

A variety of good acts makes the bill at a strong laughing show at the Grand Opera Theater this week. Trixeda and Robinson, who head the list, are decidedly original in method and performance. Robinson being a novel magician, while Mlle. Trixeda does a variety of changes in beautiful costume.

Jessie Lee, female baritone, is pleasing the patrons of the theater with her selections. Marco, the Mysterious, is a clever conjurer, offering a number of new feats of digital manipulation. Emerson and Summer have a lively and brisk comedy sketch, "Al-ways." Marjorie Dalton is a character comedienne with an unusually good voice. Joseph Manley gives some new illustrated songs, while the orchestra, under the direction of L. L. Lee, has an attractive programme. The travelette and moving pictures are also new and interesting.

"Under Two Flags" instead of "When Knights Were Bold," will follow "The Circus Girl" at the Burbank next week. The Francis Wilson piece will be given later. It has been slightly more than two years since Ouida's romantic play was last seen here. At that time Maude Gilbert played the heroine, the part Blanche Hall will assume in the coming revival.

Grace Gilbert has written to a friend that she and her husband, H. Ginn, have purchased a summer home on Staten Island, where they expect to pass the summer. Mrs. Kate Ginn, H. J. Ginn's mother, will leave Los Angeles next week to join her son and daughter-in-law, who will also have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris, the latter known to Burbank patrons as Elsie Esmonde. Mrs. Morris is convalescing from an illness that threatened at one time to be serious. Mr. and Mrs. Ginn are under contract for next season to Will-iam Gillette.

Lester Dill, whose big Studebaker car already has become familiar to beach visitors and who passes all of his spare time in touring around Los Angeles and suburban towns, has decided to take in the Seattle fair, after the close of the Kolb & Dill season at the Majestic, and to make the trip north in his auto. Albert E. Duncan, or "Bud," as he is known to members of the Kolb & Dill company, will go along as chauffeur.

SIERRA PICTURE TALK.

Lecturer Gives Glimpse of the High Mountains in Word and Colored Photographs.

A nature lover from Boston, who apparently knows more about the deserts of California than do most of its inhabitants, delivered a delightful lecture at the Woman's Club House last night on the glories of the Sierras, illustrating his talk with fascinating pictures in color of the sights he had seen. The lecturer was Herbert W. Gleason, and members of the Friday Club composed a large part of the audience. The entertainment was given for the benefit of the organ fund of the First Unitarian Church.

Mr. Gleason, who is a fascinating talker, took his hearers to the heights of the Sierras, with stereopticon device, showing the beauties of the trees and flowers there to be found. Their colors and environment also were shown in a remarkable way. Mrs. Gleason was responsible for the true coloring which appealed to the nature lovers.

The lecturer has shown the same views to crowded houses in the East, thereby giving California a great boom, and he is scheduled to exhibit his views at the meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Monterey during the present week. After that he will go into the high mountains with the Sierra Club, returning to Los Angeles in July, when he probably will give another talk, with an addition of new pictures.

MEREDITH.

A Study of the Poet and Novelist Who Has Left the Critics Behind.

BY WILLARD H. WRIGHT.

George Meredith is dead, and I cannot help feeling that the world has lost a great poet rather than a great novelist, for Meredith was essentially a poet. I do not mean that he did not write better novels than he did poetry; but the thing that made his novels as fine as they were, was the undeniable underlying poetry of his nature. Had the energy he expended in long, laborious, cultured novels been concentrated on his poetry, he would have been a great poet. He ranks today neither as a great poet nor a great novelist. However, with the exception of Turgénief and Anatole France, no novelist has ever approached his intellection.

Meredith, the poet (as well as Meredith, the novelist,) travels a road that has never been traveled. It is difficult, especially since he lived in an era so plethoric with genius, (he knew and loved Swinburne, Rossetti and Morris,) to point out the seemingly inexplicable psychology of his idealism. He was like a man with no traditions nor congenital influences, striking out in a world of austerity and phantasy, groping for a beauty which he himself always held in his mind's eye. He had born with him a peculiar, cryptic world, all his own, which was basically unlike the realities and humanities of the one traversed by his fellow writers. This is why he has always been called artificial. But Meredith was not, in the true meaning of the word, artificial; he was unnatural. He could not visualize anything with external terms. Vision and intellect to him were one and the same. Symons says he saw things in unusual nervous, restless words, and that these words were a manifestation of the world he had fabricated for himself. However, in him we have a vocabulary quite different from any English written or spoken (unless perhaps, it was Walter Peter's.)

HIS POETRY.

In estimating Meredith's poetry, I do not wish to give the impression that he wrote great poetry. His poetic talent was wasted by aimless dispersion. He did not distinguish himself among his contemporaries by intensity of emotion, or by variety of ideas and sympathies. The power of his bizarre style, and the peculiarities of his diction, did not give him the rank that he attained as poet. He had something deeper, more vital than talent—that inexplainable undercurrent of intellectual emotionalism which we call genius. He was essentially a poetic genius. No one has ever exemplified to a greater degree the hypothesis that poetry is rarefied prose—prose with the excrescences removed. This is because there has never been a writer who attained as high and equal a position in both poetry and prose. There will be those who will take issue with his statement. They will name Scott, Gautier, De Musset, George Moore, Thackeray and Eliot; but Scott and Moore alike far excel their poetry in their prose; Thackeray and Eliot were essentially novelists; and while Gautier and De Musset have given us much fine verse, their poetry is not supplementary to their prose as is Meredith's.

In all Meredith's prose there is a studied objectivity. In his poetry alone does he become subjective. There he is serious; he takes life in earnest. He himself becomes a part of the actual world he treats of—a thing he never does in his novels. The poet has taken life with the uncomplaining acceptance of this writer. Withal, he is a deep and careful student of life. Virgil's lachrymae in us; Tennyson's uncertainty; Swinburne's dissatisfaction; Mathew Arnold's melancholy—these things are not in his poetry. He has no regret—evidently no doubts. He is not a pessimist; he has unlimited faith. Unlike his fellows, he did not go into the past for his romance. He found it in his surroundings; he drew on the future for it. The result is that not seldom his poetry is devoid of all sentiment; it is purely and uncompromisingly intellectual. Some one has called it "the music from an iron string." Now, poetry of this kind can be but a small degree of overwhelming vitality. But its adherence to the realities, its fresh and elegiac buoyancy, compensate in large measure for what it loses.

The thought (not the color nor the cadence) is uppermost in all of this poet's work. So hard does he strive for an idea, that very often he is called hopelessly obscure. But the trouble lies with his almost febrile haste to discharge a thought and go on to the next. He depends on a suppleness of the reader's imagination; he has more to say than he has time to say it in. None the less, obscurity, in Meredith, often means merely inactivity, or an inability to grasp, on the part of the reader. He writes too rapidly; he overburdens one with ideas; he tires one. It is almost impossible to read him for any length of time without pausing to ponder. Great poetry, after all, must be sensuous; and this is an adjective that can rarely be applied to Meredith. He appeals to our intellects; our emotional senses seldom arouse to the vivid precision of his language. The most salient exception to his almost cold intellectuality is "Love in the Valley." Here is a poem unique for the fact that it contains no thought whatever; it is made wholly of music, grace and color; it is one of the tenderest and most beautiful love-poems in English. The customary modulation of meter is lost; it is a melodia.

When her mother tends her before the laughing mirror,
Tying up her laces, looping up her hair,
Often she thinks, were this wild thing wedded,
More love should I have, and much less care.
When her mother tends her before the bashful mirror,
Loosening her laces, combing down her curls,
Often she thinks, were this wild thing wedded,
I should lose but one of many boys and girls."

Nowhere in Meredith's poetry are a charming little pastels of description found as in this poem. I cannot resist quoting this stanza:

Mother of the dews, dark eyelashed twilight,
Low-lidded twilight, o'er the valley's brim,
Sounding on thy breast sings the dew delighted skylark,
Clear as though the dewdrops had their voice in him.
Hidden where the rose-flush drinks the rayless planet,
Fountain full he pours the spraying fountain showers.
Let me hear his laughter, I would have her ever
Cool as dew in twilight, the lark above the flowers."

HIS PHILOSOPHY.

Despite the plethora of intellectual thought in Meredith, his poetry is neither dramatic nor narrative. It has that peculiar combination of lyricism and philosophy. I am able to compare him with but one other poet, and that is Browning. But even this comparison is false in many respects; though, had Browning written novels, it would have been a unique parallel. Meredith's philosophy, briefly stated, as gathered from his poetry, is: Man must look beyond nature, at the same time accepting her with all her stern and rugged ways. In his poetry, as in his novels, he deals elaborately with this relationship.

The diction and meter of his poetry are its greatest faults. He is always endeavoring to say something startling; to utter the one inalienable word—the word that was made especially for his particular use in one particular place. He is the master phrase-maker. He searches sedulously for the exact expression (which in Henry James is born spontaneously.) Sometimes I feel that with all his groping, with all his uncontrollable desire for words, he never quite reaches the thing he strives for. That he stimulates, and often approximates, the desired effect is undeniable. He accomplishes wonderful stylistic feats. His audacity astonishes—even more in his poetry than in his prose. He deals in abstractions, curious terms and combinations of words in which it is difficult to distinguish between the subject matter and the verbal interpretation of it. It is as though his intellect and conception were infused. His general aim is condensation; and often in his poetry the studied and premeditated elisions result in a most turgid ambiguity. He is the one great strenuous and indefatigable flagellator of the mind. His meter, too, is uneven and replete with seasons and asperities. Only occasionally does pure spontaneous music enter his pages. His tortuosities of syntax are due, no doubt, to his insatiable desire to cavort and turn and twist with his crowding ideas.

With all his faults (and, be it said, he has many) there is no getting away from his off-hand strength, his vividness, his magnetic intellectuality, his astounding spurts of rare beauty, his startling imagery. He dominates one like the blatant and tremendous scores of Hungarian music. One often feels in his influence the masterfulness that reaches out from the pages of Shakespeare. "The Nuptials of Attila" is amazing for its fierce strength; the sonnet sequence "Modern Love" is alive with beauty and searching and analytical psychology. His poetry, on the whole, is the epitome of rare, audacious, ungovernable, swaggering, blustering genius.

THE NOVELIST.

Looking for a moment at Meredith, the novelist, one is struck with the peculiar fact that Meredith is not an artist. This is not altogether unheard of among novelists. Balzac, the greatest novelist the world has yet produced, was not an artist. There are but few rules of novel writing that Meredith does not break, and yet there are but few writers who possess his strength. His novels do not delight, in the sense the books of W. J. Locke and Du Maurier delight. His philosophizing alone would deny him the rank as artist. Still, his books fulfill numerous and important missions in life. They entertain; no one can read "The Shaving of Shagpat," his first novel, and deny that the book is one of the most engrossingly entertaining books that one has read. Also, Meredith is a portrait painter; Diana, Richard Reverel, Rhoda Fleming, and Beauchamp, possess no nebulous characteristics. And as for philosophizing, what novelist is more consummately a philosopher than Meredith?

In his novels there is always created an atmosphere of artificiality. He is always too exuberant, too strenuous after high tension to loiter long enough to transcribe the placidity of life. It is difficult to say which interest is uppermost in his work—the characters, the plot, the philosophy, the romance, the realism, or the research. They are all straining and crying out for first rank. They do not pause to get their breath, but crowd incessantly, so that the tension is always abnormal. Repose is unknown to Meredith; he is ever in action; and the reading of his books leaves one exhausted.

Most interest, no doubt, hinges on his characters—especially his women. As a character portrayer, he has few equals. This is due to his adherence to the individual characteristics. Like Sargent, he never painted a type. Philippe Bridau, Grandet, Manon Lescaut, Paragot, Basin's La Suet, Hedda Gabbler—these people are types in terms of the individual. Even Shakespeare leaned to types—Lear, Rosalind, Juliet, Falstaff, Macbeth. But Meredith has given us some detached and separate personalities. We do not meet their prototypes in our daily walks and consciously compare them or dub them Meredithean. And the remarkable part of his characterization is that he tells us but little of his people. They are impressed upon us as real, human and vital beings; but they are only partially revealed to us.

HIS HEROINES.

His heroines are the most interesting. They are unique, and perhaps the most widely-discussed women in English literature. As children of the intellect they have few equals. They are constantly given to philosophical, political, educational, ethical, economic and sociological discussions. They are, as a rule, witty, and magnetize by their cultured brilliancy. They have energy; and they do not lack experience. Their freedom-loving temperaments, too, add to their attractiveness. Rose Jocelyn, with her joyous frankness, is a proof of the individual rather than the typical appeal. She cannot be systematized, any more than can Clara Middleton or Corinthia Jane. Strange to say, Meredith's earlier characters are the best. Although in his later novels he paints with vividness and distinction, the difference in his earlier and later portraiture is the difference between Manet and Whistler. His pictorial side is always striking; he knows how to apply the colors; his descriptions are embracing, although he often stoops to the Bertillon method. His heroines never are lost from our memories, whether it is Clara Middleton walking down the highway; Natsly Radnor, bowed with humility, or Diana, kneeling at the crossroads.

Meredith's style will ever be a battle ground for warring opinions. His aim was compactness and exactness. If he had gone crazy, his insanity would no doubt have hinged on the idea that there was one certain word somewhere in the universe that would express everything. His conception of things was elliptical. He tried to make every phrase, no matter how brief, a crucible that held condensed chemicals, which, when lighted by the imagination, would flare and reveal a world of subtle meanings. He is epigrammatic, artificial and self-conscious. He distorts; he elides; he omits; he strains. The effort, as I have said, seems just to fall in what it is after; but the result is striking. He attains rare and vigorous power. His style is close-packed, subtle, dialectic, illuminating, passionate, learned, phantastic, febrile, pregnant. It crackles, bristles, swells, struts, bombastes. At times it is flamboyant, grandiose, pompous. But when we consider it in its relation to the things it encompasses (especially am I thinking of that wonderful book, "The Egoist,") it must be admitted that few stylists have come so near expressing the inexpressible.

George Meredith (though it is overstepping the bounds of enthusiasm to place him among the great writers of the world, whether as poet or novelist,) has earned, undoubtedly, a seat among the masters of English. His influence has been enormous, and he lived long enough to reap the glories and the benefits of his work.

PATIENT SUFFERS.

Long Delay by County Hospital Ambulance in Case of Badly Burned Man.

Tossing fitfully on his cot in the stuffy little ward of the Receiving Hospital, suffering intense pain, disturbed constantly by the rantings of several insane and drunk patients, Juan Silvas, the Cudahy ranch hand who was so seriously burned Monday night that his condition is precarious, was, for eight hours yesterday compelled to await the leisure of County Hospital authorities before he was removed to that institution to be given the care and attention his condition demanded.

Before 8 o'clock in the morning the County Hospital was notified by Central Station and Receiving Hospital authorities that Silvas needed care at the County Hospital, and asked that an ambulance be sent for him. An hour or more passed. No ambulance arrived. Another call was sent to the County Hospital. Still no result. Call after call was made over the telephone.

Finally Dr. C. H. Whitman, superintendent of the county institution, was called over the telephone and told that the dilatory methods of the hospital might result harmfully to Silvas. Dr. Whitman explained that the matter had not been called to his attention and immediately ordered the county ambulance sent for Silvas. It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the wagon pulled up in front of the Receiving Hospital, eight hours after the first request that Silvas be removed.

CITIZENSHIP GRANTED.

A Home Remedy for Dandruff and Falling Hair

(From Boston Globe.)

What is claimed to be one of the best preparations for the hair can be easily prepared in your own home by getting from your druggist one ounce of beta quinol (liquid) and half a pint of alcohol; mix the alcohol with half a pint of water, then add the beta quinol, or you can use one pint of Bay Rum in place of the alcohol and water. Shake well together and it is ready for use. The beta quinol contains all the best known chemicals, in highly concentrated form, for the cure of dandruff and falling hair. If this is rubbed into the roots of the hair every day for a week or so, then two or three times a week, your dandruff will surely disappear and your hair will stop falling out. This simple mixture will strengthen the roots of the hair and will make the hair light and fluffy. Any druggist will supply you with the beta quinol and alcohol, and it is preferable to use warm water in mixing.

H. Hayes was on the 1st day of September, 1908, and now is the owner of $219,000, par value, of said outstanding bonds; that on the 1st day of September, 1908, there became due as interest upon said bonds, owned by the said G. H. Hayes, the sum of $4375.00; that said interest was not then paid to the said G. H. Hayes or to any person in his behalf, and has not since been paid; that on the 2nd day of September, 1908, said G. H. Hayes, presented the coupons representing said interest to the People's Gas and Coke Company and demanded payment thereof, which payment was refused; that on the same date he presented the coupons representing said interest to the National Bank of Commerce in the City of Los Angeles, California, said Bank being one of the places of payment of said coupons, and demanded payment thereof, which payment was refused by the said National Bank of Commerce because of want of funds of the People's Gas and Coke Company, to pay the same or any of them; and

Whereas, on the 8th day of September, 1908, written notice of said default was given to and served upon the said People's Gas and Coke Company by said Title Insurance and Trust Company, trustee, which written notice stated and declared the said default and the particulars and amount and consequences thereof, and

Whereas, said default has continued from the 1st day of September, 1908, to the present time, and for more than sixty days after said written notice thereof by the trustee to the said People's Gas and Coke Company; and said interest so in default has not been paid nor any part thereof; and

Whereas, it is provided in said deed of trust that if the said People's Gas and Coke Company shall fail to pay said coupons or any of them, according to their tenor and on the due presentation of the same and such default or failure shall continue for a space of sixty days after written notice thereof had been given by the trustee of the said People's Gas and Coke Company, then the whole amount of principal and interest on said bonds shall be deemed immediately due and payable at the election of the trustee; and

Whereas, said G. H. Hayes, being the owner and holder of $219,000 par value of said bonds, has in writing declared said default and has declared that by reason thereof the whole amount of principal and interest of said bonds outstanding is now due and payable, and has not waived the said default; and has requested and directed the trustee to elect and declare the principal of said bonds due and payable, and that it proceed to sell the property covered by said deed of trust as therein provided; and

Whereas, by reason of said default and the request and demand of the said G. H. Hayes of the TITLE INSURANCE AND TRUST COMPANY, trustee, has declared the whole amount of the bonds outstanding to be now due and payable; and

Whereas, it is provided in and by said deed of trust that in the event of a default as aforesaid the said trustee may proceed to sell and dispose of the property covered by said deed of trust at public auction in the City of Los Angeles to accomplish the objects of said trust, first giving notice of said sale as in said deed of trust provided; and

Whereas, there became due on the 1st day of March, 1909, as interest upon said bonds owned by the said G. H. Hayes, the further sum of $5475; that said interest was not then paid to the said G. H. Hayes, or to any person in his behalf, and has not since been paid, although payment thereof has been demanded by the said G. H. Hayes.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN

BY MISS SYDNEY FORD.

The season of summer vacations is now near enough at hand to begin planning how to spend the fortnight or month's period of rest and recuperation allotted to the business girl. How best to store up enough vitality and reserve force to carry her through the eleven working months of the year is the important question.

Rest does not mean idleness—it means change of occupation and surroundings—something to set the current of one's thoughts in an entirely opposite direction. If you live in the city and are shut up in a big building eleven months in the year, then, by all means, seek the country for your vacation and try to get just as far away from the atmosphere and surroundings of your customary daily life as possible. If, on the other hand, you live in the country or in a small suburban town, then come to the city for your vacation and enjoy town sights and sounds as a novelty.

In New York early in June there is a general exodus of business women from the city to Staten Island, along the Sound, up the river, to the Jersey shore and all up and down the country within an hour's ride of the city. For four or six months this army of business women live in the country to the extent of sleeping there, going back and forth by train and ferry to their work. Any one who has ever attempted a summer in New York knows what this means in the way of escape from sultry nights, when the stored-up heat of the day, exhaling from pavements and brick walls all about you, renders sleep impossible.

Same Do This Way.

Whereas we have no such climatic conditions to contend with, nevertheless it affords a welcome change to get away from the city for a few weeks in the summer. I know a business woman who last summer took lodgings at one of the beaches and came up every morning to her office. She told me that the trolley trip night and morning, the good salt air and the long, restful Sabbaths by the shore kept her in such excellent physical condition that she got through the summer splendidly without her customary two weeks' vacation, which, owing to office conditions, could not conveniently come to her until September.

I do not believe there is a city on the continent that is so favored with a multitude of desirable near-by resorts as Los Angeles. I mean resorts that offer such varied advantages and complete climatic changes. One may dwell on the heights 6000 feet above the city, if she likes, and descend each morning to her work in town, returning to her mountain top at night. Or she may go down by the sea and inhale the ozone of the ocean for four-teen hours out of the twenty-four.

Week-End Trips.

If it does not seem advisable to remove your lodgings entirely from the city during the summer, then try week-end trips. For a girl who has been shut up in an office all the week, what can be more restful than to get away from the city on Saturday afternoon—her summer half-holiday—to mountain or beach and remain there over Sunday. Dozens of attractive places are in such easy communication with Los Angeles that one can reach the city Monday morning in time for business. Such little week-end excursions freshen one wonderfully for the six days following. You return to town so invigorated and refreshed on Monday morning that the work fairly flies under your fingers and the cobwebs in your brain are all cleared away by the two days' relaxation and complete change.

I have been so situated sometimes that it seemed impossible to get away from my work for even a fortnight's vacation, and have found that these week-end trips have answered the purpose of a continuous vacation very well by supplying the needed change and rest.

How to Keep Young.

How to retain physical beauty is one of the natural instincts of woman. So strong is this desire that it frequently leads to misapprehension and consequent delusion and absurdity. For instance, we sometimes behold that painful vision of a woman well on in the forties who seeks to retain her grasp on youth by dyeing her hair, wearing a gown cut with a low, square, Dutch neck, suitable for her 16-year-old daughter, or, more horrible yet, assuming the kittenish manner of a schoolgirl. All this deceives no one, as it merely accentuates her age and makes her grotesque and ridiculous. Instead of dignified and well poised. A famous portrait painted once ironically remarked that it was well-nigh impossible to get a decent picture of a woman past 30. "She insists on being painted in a white robe, scattering roses, or gamboling through a garden," he declared.

A writer in the current issue of The Designer says that the difficulty is that many women do not know that the law of beauty is the law of harmony, so that what is fresh and lovely at 17 becomes disgusting and ugly when artificially grafted upon later years. Each age has its own peculiar graces, as "fruits in season," as it were, and the wise woman realizes this truth and, building upon it boldly, heightens all her natural charm and distinction.

One of the swiftest and surest destroyers of beauty is a bad mental habit. Worry, anger, envy and fear are the arch enemies of woman's charm and attractiveness. Cleanliness, correct diet and exercise are the three weapons, the active exercise of which combat age most successfully, but this magic trinity of beauty preservers avails nothing unless she backs it up with a serene and cheerful mental attitude.

Keep Clean.

It was in no idle spirit that the Greeks conceived Venus Aphrodite rising from the waters. And the woman of today who yearns toward that ideal must radiate exquisite freshness and cleanness. A warm bath at the end of the day with a good quality of unscented soap is an absolute necessity, as well as a delicious luxury to the strenuous business woman. It washes away all stains of battle, removes the impure secretions, and gives the pores a chance to breathe.

The complexion, however, has three great enemies. When one has overcome the ravages of the world without, there still remains the foe within. Indulgence, indolence and indigestion write their ugly record upon the face so that he who runs may read. The blood is the great river of life. Into it all things go—out of it all things come. Good blood means a fresh complexion, sparkling and alive. Bad blood means a marred and disfigured skin and a muddy, lifeless complexion.

This brings us to the question of diet, which has been the very storm-center around which discussion has raged ever since the days of Nebuchadnezzar, who was the first vegetarian. There are two great opposing factions—the meat-eaters and the wheat-eaters. The woman who desires to retain her beauty will consort with both, using simplicity and moderation as her guide.

After cleanliness and diet comes the gentle art of exercise, for fresh air and sunshine are more effective than a shelf-full of nostrums and cosmetics. A brisk walk, the lighter forms of gardening, even hanging out a washing gives one a kind of divine vital vigor, and the brilliant coloring of the wild flower.

Some Summer Tours.

Naturally, many are looking toward Seattle and the Alaska-Yukon Exposition as the mecca of this summer's vacation. Most attractive routes and rates will be offered by the railroad companies, which will afford splendid opportunity for sightseeing. One party of teachers I know are planning to make a grand exposition tour, which will take them around by Salt Lake City and include a trip to the Yellowstone, returning via the Shasta route.

There is also to be a Chautauqua this summer in Yosemite Valley, and this will attract many students and teachers. A splendid course of lectures has been provided, including some of the best speakers in this State and the Middle West, and this, together with the delightful setting, will make a double attraction. It is odd that the Chautauqua managers have never thought before to hold an assembly in some one of these wonder places of California.

Suits and Skirts.

Among the tailored suits, coats are not quite as long as they were during the winter.

The gored skirt with pleats let into the side seams is one of the popular present models.

Skirtings are nearly all striped, which adds to the long lined effects of the season.

The craze for tautache braid promises to live long and die hard.

For hotel wear, at home or abroad, the smartest evening frocks have bodices high at the throat.

The picturesque Van Dyke collar and cuffs are seen on some of the more ornate afternoon gowns.

Coats with straight panel backs which hang lower than the sides are still coming out in smart models.

Rejane has just made popular in Paris a pongee costume, the coat of which is rose and the skirt white.

Teamster Will Take Less Than Three Hundred Dollars for Teeth Lost in Fistic Encounter.

Two hundred and ninety-nine dollars and ninety cents is the price that W. D. Weeks, a teamster, agrees to accept in full payment for two teeth that were knocked out and two others that were loosened, recently, in an encounter with Dan Smith, owner of a lot on Thirty-seventh place, where the punching took place.

The case was heard before a jury yesterday in Justice Ling's court, but the verdict was delayed awaiting the instructions of the court.

The tale as told in court is that Weeks was a teamster for one Ed Saulque; that Weeks was engaged in repairing a wagon, and that Smith disputed his right to be on the premises. Weeks had a heavy wrench in his hand when the assault upon him is alleged to have taken place, but there was no evidence to show that he attempted to protect himself. It seemed, according to the testimony, that he simply permitted Smith to knock out his teeth, then went into court to secure payment for them.

The Black Mystery

Thousands of pages have been printed about the Negro—ranging all the way from the jokes of Bones and Tambo to the ethnological report of Professor Highbrow of Blahah University.

But the truth is yet to be told. Because the Negro is an unsolvable mystery.

"The Unknowable Negro," by Harris N. Dickson, is the best and fairest article of its kind we have seen.

For the first time the Negro is fairly written about by a man who knows no Mason-Dixon line. Judge Dickson might be called a Nationalist. He has lived much of his life in the North and has the Northern point of view. His home is in the very heart of the Negro Belt—and he knows the Southern viewpoint. His wonderful article is the comprehensive result of unbiased thought, thorough research, based on facts and conditions—not on prejudiced opinions.

HUNTING AHEAD OF ROOSEVELT IN EAST AFRICA

Lion Shooting in Somaliland

By LORD DELAMERE

Foremost among the great hunting authorities of the English speaking world is Lord Delamere. He is credited with being the heaviest killer in the party which bagged the record number of African lions some few years ago. In East Central Africa his prowess is familiar to every native. Not long ago a locality beset with lions sent a delegation four hundred miles to call on Lord Delamere to ask him to come and wipe out the destroyers of their cattle. In this article he vividly contrasts the theory and practice of lion hunting in the region which Ex-President Roosevelt will invade.

THE best piece of lion tracking I ever saw lasted five full hours and is so memorable in several respects that I purpose to use it as an introduction to that general method of lion hunting.

Two of my men got badly mauled by a lion, so our camp had to stop where it was till they could be moved. After a time one of them was able to walk about with his arm in a sling, and the other was getting on well, so one night I decided to leave the big camp next day and go with two or three camels to some villages only a day's march away. Early the next morning Mahomed Noor, the headman, started with the camels. I stopped behind to eat some breakfast. Just as we were going to follow, a camelman, who had gone up the river-bed close by to get some water, came running back to say that a lion had been down to drink at one of the shallow sand wells in the night. I started at once with Abdullah and two other trackers, telling my pony-boy to follow on as soon as he could get the pony saddled. When tracking, I have always found it the best plan to have the pony led some distance behind. The boy ought to have no difficulty in following the tracks of two or three men and a lion, and if the pony is kept close by, it is sure to stamp or blow its nose at the critical moment.

When we got to the well there was the spoor plain enough in the sand, but rather blurred by some rain which had fallen at daybreak. This made the tracking a little difficult after we left the river-bed, but when we had followed it slowly for some distance, we came to a place where the lion had lain down under a thick bush, evidently to shelter from the rain, as the spoor after this was quiet distinct on the top of the damp ground. This made us think we were in for a short track, for it must have been light when the lion went on again from here, and lions generally lie up shortly after the sun rises; but this day proved an exception, because it was cloudy and cool through the forenoon.

Trailing the King of Beasts.

The spoor now led us along a sandy path, where we could follow it as fast as we could walk. When it turned off into the bush we quite expected to see the lion at any moment; but not a bit of it—he wandered about through endless clumps of mimosa and "irgin" bushes, as if he did not mean to lie up at all.

The track at last led us down a little sandy watercourse, which it followed for some distance. Up to this time we had had no real difficulty in making it out, but now came our first serious check. The nullah turned off along the side of a stony ridge, and, instead of going along it, the lion had turned up the hill. We had got the general direction the lion had been going in, but this was no good to us, as on casting forward in the same line to the bottom of the other side of the ridge where there was some sandy ground, we could find no sign of his having passed in that direction. We spent some time hunting about, growing less hopeful as time went on. A man following a trail by sight certainly has an enormous advantage over a hound hunting by nose, because time is of no particular object to him, and every direction can be tried in turn. After making out cast forward we went back to the little water-course, and followed that down for some distance, hoping that the lion had turned down it again; but here, too, we were disappointed, and gravitated back to where we had first lost the spoor. We knew that the lion had not gone straight on, nor had he turned back; he must have gone along the top of the ridge and then crossed into other stony hills where is was hopeless to try to track him.

Abdullah, who is never defeated, said there was a big river-bed further on in the direction in which the lion was going. It seemed a very slender chance, as he might have turned off anywhere in between, but it was the only one, so off we went. We were evidently in luck that day, for we had only gone about a quarter of a mile when we struck the spoor. The lion seemed now to have made up his mind as to his direction, for he kept on straight down the middle of the river-bed. The sun had come out from behind the clouds, and in places the sand was very deep, so that we were not sorry when at last the track led us to a little island of bush in the great flat sand. There was no doubt the lion was at home, for on casting round no sign was perceptible of a track coming out. The island, raised a little above the river-bed, was formed of a mass of thick-tangled bush and creepers clustered round a few big trees. The water coming down the river after heavy rain had washed it roughly into the form of a triangle, the apex of which pointed up the river. From this point the sides widened out to the other end, which was about thirty yards broad, the whole length being somewhat under a hundred yards.

Driving the Lion to Bay.

The shape made it an easy place to drive, for a little way out from the point one could easily command the whole of it. The lion was almost certain to break out of one of the sides towards the bush on the banks of the river-bed, in which case I should get an easy broadside shot. If we followed the track into the place, the noise we were sure to make would be very likely to get the beast on his legs, and he would sneak out at one side as we went in at the other, especially as the water had left a lot of dead sticks along the edges, over which it would be impossible to walk quietly. Abdullah also said that from the way he had wandered about this lion must be very hungry, and would sleep lightly. These considerations decided us to drive. I posted myself with Abdullah a few yards out from the point, and the other two men, having collected some stones, began throwing them in at the far end. Abdullah was right about this lion sleeping lightly; for at the first stone there was a growl and a crash in the bushes and then, for a minute or two, not a sound. The men started to walk down, one on each side, shooting and throwing in stones. I was watching them, and wondering what had happened to the lion, when there was a faint crackling just in front of us, and he appeared at the point of the island. Although we were standing within a few yards of him, and absolutely in the open, he did not see us.

HE PLUNGED OFF WITH AN ANGRY SNARL.

He was facing straight towards us, and was so close that I did not like to fire at him as, on receiving the bullet, he would be very likely to plunge in the direction he was going and be into us; nor did I want him to come any closer; so, as he stepped down on to the sand, I moved my rifle up towards my shoulder to attract his attention. He saw the movement at once, stopped dead, and turned his head sharply towards us. For the fraction of a second I thought he was going to be startled into charging, but he plunged off to the left with an angry snarl at us over his shoulder. As he passed I pulled, and he skated along on his stomach and fell down a little ledge in the sand. This slewed him round, and he lay facing us, spread-eagled on the sand, evidently quite unable to move. All the life in him seemed concentrated in his eyes, which glared at us furiously. Another shot put him out of his misery. The first shot, a very bad one, had grazed the spine just in front of the withers; another quarter of an inch higher and it would have missed altogether.

This lion was quite maneless, except for a few long hairs on each side of the neck, and his teeth were worn down quite short, so he was evidently very old. He was in very good condition, notwithstanding, but his stomach was quite empty, which accounted for his going so far before lying up. We had to stop at the main camp for the night when we got there, and did not follow up our camels till the next day. I have described this track rather at length because it is a good example of many similar days.

Perils of the Man Eater.

My first experience in tracking lions was early in 1892, and the night before was rather an exciting one. After hunting elephants unsuccessfully for about a month, we were on our way south, when we arrived one day at some villages where the natives had been very much bothered by five lions which were said to be still in the neighborhood. A girl had been killed two days before, and an enormous amount of damage had been done among the sheep and cattle. The first day we camped there two of our party had shooting zerebas made at the village to which the lions generally came, and just before sunset they went off there.

I tied up our two donkeys just outside the camp, on the chance that the lions might come and look us up. Just after dark we were having dinner in the tent when there was a scuffle outside, and it was evident that something was attacking our donkeys. It was pitch dark, and we fired several shots in the direction of the sound before we discovered that the attacking beasts were hyenas. We did not mind having a donkey killed instantaneously by a lion, but we had not bargained for the poor beasts getting mauled by hyenas, so taking a lamp we went out to see what had happened. My donkey had got off with a nasty bite in the hollow of the hind leg above the hock, and we had him taken into the camp at once. The other was completely disemboweled and must have been killed instantly. We could not find any dead hyenas, but we were pretty sure that one or two must have been hit. Seeing that if the lions did come to the dead donkey there would not be much chance of hitting them on so dark a night, we pulled the carcass right under the skerm or fence round the camp, and, to prevent hyenas dragging it away, tied a rope to one of its legs, and passing it over the fence, fastened it to a heavy water barrel inside the camp. We sat up for a bit and got a few shots at hyenas, and then we went to bed, telling the sentry to keep a sharp lookout and to let us know if lions came to the carcass.

Some time after I awoke to find Abdullah bending over me, with my rifle in his hand. He was frightfully excited, and all I could get out of him was "Libah, sahib, libah!" ("Lion, sir, lion!") Jumping up I rushed out just as my companion fired two shots into the darkness. The first thing I saw when I got to where he stood was that a great piece of the skerm round the camp had disappeared, leaving a broad gap. I could not for a moment think what had happened, and then it struck me that when the carcase had been dragged away the water barrel must have got hitched against the inside of the interlaced mimosa boughs and the whole lot had gone together. It was frightfully dark outside, and we stood peering out for some time without being able to distinguish anything; but after a few minutes we could hear something tearing at the flesh quite close by. We had a shot or two at the sound, and the beasts, whatever they were, went away. As at that time we knew nothing about lions, we were not quite sure that they were not hyenas after all; but Abdullah stuck to it they were lions, so we got our beds and lay down one on each side of the opening, just behind the fence to watch, hoping that the brutes would come back. Nothing further happened, however. At daybreak we sallied out to see if by any chance we had managed to hit a lion, but we only found two or three dead hyenas. One of these brutes had been partly eaten; we thought at the time by other hyenas, as it was still too dark to make out tracks. We came to the conclusion we had made idiots of ourselves, and had been shooting all night at hyenas, and we did not feel any the better when our friends came back from their night at the village and told us we had probably frightened every lion out of the country by our bombardment.

Reading the Lion Tracks.

Abdullah still insisted that there had been lions round the camp, and a little later we found the spoor of one big lion by the body of the half-eaten hyena. The ground was very stony and there were no other tracks to be seen, but one lion could hardly have dragged the donkey and heavy barrel away so quickly, so there were probably more. The other hunters had got hold of a man at the village who said he knew where the lions always lay, so they went with him. Soon after they left, Abdullah, who had been hunting about, came and told me that he had picked up the track of one lion on soft ground a little way from camp, and that we ought to follow it. At that time none of us knew much about tracking, and we had had such bad luck after the elephants that we did not think much of our shikaries, and I did not think it was much good, Abdullah persuaded me and I went. After we had followed the track for some distance I quite caught his enthusiasm, and when the single track was joined by three others, I was divided between delight at the prospect of having four lions all to myself and the thought that perhaps I had more on my hands than I could manage alone.

After a track of about an hour we came in sight of two or three big thickets of "irgin" bushes surrounded by open mimosa scrub and intersected by narrow paths. My second shikari at that time was a very tall fellow, called Jama, with enormous feet. Several times during the track Abdullah had turned round to pitch into him for making such a noise, and now he confided to me that "Jama walk all same cow," and that we had better leave him behind here with the pony and boy, as the lions were sure to be in the place in front of us. Knowing nothing about it, I agreed and went on with Abdullah. We were walking quietly along the outside of one of the thickets when Abdullah suddenly clutched me by the arm and pointed towards a tree standing on the edge of the bush yards off. The tree was divided into two towards the bottom, and the sun was throwing the shadow of a bush on the ground inside the hollow.

This was where Abdullah was pointing, getting more excited but I could make out nothing at all, until a great yellow beast moved suddenly out of the shadow and slipped away on the far side. I fired from the hip, letting off both barrels into the tree. We rushed round to the other side of the thicket just in time to see a fine lioness come out. I could not get a clear shot at once, and when I did, after running some distance, I was shaking so that I could not get on her at all, and missed. She kept lobbing along just ahead, every now and then stopping to look around and show her teeth at us. Each time she stopped I shot, but so badly that I wasted seven bullets at different ranges without touching her. The first six did not seem to annoy her at all, but the last hit the ground just under her teeth, and either the bullet so close, frightened her or a stone hit her, for she sprang off with a snarl and a flourish of her tail and, putting on the pace, in a minute or two ran clean away from us. I was terribly disappointed and annoyed with myself, and I thought of course, that everything was over for the day after all this shooting; but Abdullah, who was almost weeping, hardly gave me time to get my wind a little before he rushed me back again. As we ran round the place where we had first seen the lioness, a fine lion appeared walking slowly out of another thicket towards us. As I shot, he turned and plunged thorugh an opening in the bushes to our right. We ran round an outstanding bush to head him if he broke out, and met a lion facing us. Just as I fired I heard a moan to the right, so I was sure it was not the same lion. This one staggered away at the shot and fell stone dead close by.

Death of the Jungle Lord.

Abdullah called up Jama and the pony boy, and they soon had the hide off and tied on the pony. I thought all the time that Abdullah knew all about the other one, but as he seemed to be going right home, I asked him if we had not better go and look for it, and he replied that it was the same lion all the time, and that I had missed it the first shot. I did not feel quite sure about it myself, but the moan in the bushes could only have come from a wounded beast, so I told him we had better go and look anyway. He evidently thought it was waste of time, but when we got back to where the lion had been hit we soon found some blood, and going quietly down a little path between the "irgin" bushes we came round a corner almost on top of the lion. He was stone dead. I was very pleased at scoring off Abdullah, as he had shown such evident disgust at my shooting.

We met one of our party on our way back to camp, and told him he might run across the lioness if he followed our track back to the place we had come from. An hour after we got back to camp he came galloping up, having seen two lions, curiously enough both males, and had shot one with a better mane than either of mine.

I have at another time described two different methods of hunting lions. One of them could hardly be called a method at all, as it depended on news brought in by natives as to where a lion had actually been seen. The second plan consisted of tying up a donkey for a bait and sitting up to watch at night. A much more interesting way of hunting lions than either of these and a very successful one if the native shikaries employed are any good, is this process of tracking them. A lion lies up in some cool, shady place for the day, unless the sky is overcast and the sun cannot get out, when he will occasionally be found hunting at any hour. If you can strike his spoor of the night before there is a very good chance of following it up to where the lion lies, should the ground be suitable. There is no form of hunting so exciting as this. When the spoor is found there is generally nothing to show if you have struck it early or late in the lion's wanderings, so that it is quite a chance whether it leads you for hours over all sorts of country, or whether, after half a mile down on a sandy river bed or path, it turns off into a thick patch of reeds or bush close by, where the lion is lying. It is extraordinary how the excitement grows as time goes on, and still you keep the track sometimes very slowly, where only now and then part of a footprint can be seen on a soft place between the stones, at other times as fast as you can walk over soil where the track is visible many yards ahead. And when the spoor is lost and minute after minute goes by while you cast about vainly in every direction, how wretched you are, and how quickly your spirits rise again when a low whistle or snapping of the fingers announces that one of the trackers has hit it off further on!

Closing In on the Prey.

At last certain signs show that you are getting near the end; the trackers take off their sandals and tuck up their loin-cloths under their belts, lest a corner flapping in the wind should scare the lion. For the first time you take your rifle from the native who has had charge of it, and, with your head shikari carrying a second rifle, steal forward until the lion is sighted or ringed in a small clump of bush. Then, when all is over, and the skin is being taken off, how pleasant it is to sit in the shade, listening to the excited talk of the natives, and letting your nerves quiet down again after the hopes and fears of the morning. You ride home to camp with the lion skin behind your saddle, while one of your men after another gives his version of the morning's proceedings in a hunting song. On the other hand, when you get a shot, and miss after a long and difficult track, it seems as if any number of lions killed in the future will never make up for the loss of this one, which is always the biggest lion, carrying the finest mane you have ever seen. The ride home to camp is then a silent one, as no lion means no sheep for the men, and they are correspondingly downhearted.

The first thing to be done in tracking is to find fresh spoor. Natives will often bring news of spoor, but unluckily the average villager's idea of a fresh track is rather hazy. I have several times gone a long way to find at the end a track several days old. On one occasion two natives arrived, saying there were fresh lion tracks in a river-bed, luckily not more that half a mile from camp, but when we got there the fresh lion tracks turned out to be the spoor of two hyenas, at least a week old.

The spoor of the large spotted hyena is not unlike that of a lioness on certain ground, but the difference can easily be told, because a hyena has claws like a dog, whereas the retractive claws of a lion are always sheathed and leave no mark. The best way to find spoor is to look for it yourself with good trackers. Should there be any villages near camp which lions have been in the habit of raiding it is very necessary to get there as early as possible in the morning. If once the large flocks of sheep and goats and herds of camels which have been shut up in the villages all night are let out, the ground all about is a mass of indistinguishable footprints, and every path from the village is choked with long strings of beasts going off to their feeding grounds. Hitting off a lion's spoor under these circumstances is almost impossible, and the dust raised by the herds is very disagreeable.

Besides villages, any well in the neighborhood is a good place to look for spoor. If a lion is about there ought to be no difficulty in picking up his spoor within a day or two.

Baffling Ways of the Jungle Folk.

Rather curious coincidences are sometimes brought to light by spoor. Not very long after the date of the story just related, one of our party went to a place where two lions had been killing regularly, and sat up two nights for them with a donkey as bait. The lions must have left the district for a day or two while he was there, as there were no fresh tracks to be found anywhere about. The day after he came back to camp I happened to ride out in that direction. Soon after we started we came on the spoor of two lions, which led us along a path till we came to the shooting zereba. The night after he had left, the lions had walked over the very spot where his donkey had been tied up in the middle of the path.

A little later, again, I happened to be at a place where he had camped a few days before. A lion roared near my camp several times in the night, and next morning I heard he had taken a sheep from a village close by. We picked up his spoor in a river-bed near the camp, and after following it for some distance came to some wells. The lion had drunk twice, and between the drinks had laid down under the fence of a shooting zereba, which had been made to watch the water. After drinking the second time he had gone away.

Now and then when tracking you come across places where lions have killed, and if it is on sand or bare soil, you can tell everything that has happened almost as well as if you had seen it. We were camped once on the edge of a river-bed and thick covert ran right down to the back of the camp. One night there was a tremendous scuffling in these bushes, so in the morning I went out to see what had been going on, and found that two lions had been chasing a warthog, which had just saved its bacon by getting underground. It must have been a very near thing, as the lions had ploughed great furrows in the sand at the mouth of the hole, showing they had pulled up pretty sharp. Warthogs generally go to ground when pursued, and as there is no second opening to the burrows, and presumably no chamber at the end where they can turn, they always go in backwards. This has actually been seen by sportsmen who have been riding after them with a spear. I should think this pig can hardly have had the time to do this. Perhaps he got jammed in head first, as he refused to be smoked out when we tried it.

Warthogs are fairly common in Somaliland, especially in the hill country. I remember the first I got gave us a lot of trouble. One of the men came in one morning to say he had seen a fine boar feeding close to camp. I snatched up a rifle and two or three cartridges and ran to the place with Abdullah. When first I saw the pig he was cantering away through the bush. I shot and broke one of his legs, but he was out of sight before I could get another shot. We tracked him for some distance by the blood, and caught sight of him some way off, but I could not get a clear view of him, and missed with both barrels.

We then discovered we had no more cartridges, but went on tracking, hoping that my other shikari, who had stopped behind to get some, would come up. We soon saw the pig again, and when he started off with a leg swinging we determined to try to run him down. For a long way we could only just keep him in sight, or rather Abdullah could only just keep the pig in sight, and it took me all my time not to lose Abdullah, as I had lately started up-country after the sea voyage, and was frightfully out of condition. Just as I was seriously thinking of giving it up, Abdullah stopped and began beckoning to me to come on, and when I got to where he was, I found the boar had pulled up and was sitting on his haunches facing us. As we ran up he made a bit of a rush, but we each of us bolted for a tree and he retreated again to his bush. Here we were with nothing but a hunting knife and an empty rifle between us. We found that the boar was very weak from loss of blood, and never came more than a few yards in his rush, so we got some big stones, and coming up behind bushes we pelted him, aiming for his head. At last Abdullah made a splendid shot with an enormous stone and bowled him over, and I ran in and drove my knife up to the hilt between his ribs. That finished him, poor beast, but of course Abdullah would have nothing to do with a pig, so we had to leave the body untouched, and sent out a Midgan from camp to bring in the head.

NOT GUILTY.

PICTURESQUE COURT SCENE.

Molokane in Primitive Garb Are Witnesses.

Russian Freed from Charge of Counterfeiting.

Dramatic Appeal for Justice Made by Woman.

A score of Molokane, in their primitive Russian garb, gathered about Ivan Novikoff in the Federal courtroom yesterday afternoon to congratulate him upon his escape from the clutches of the law. A charge of counterfeiting had been hanging over his head for a week, but the evidence did not warrant commitment, according to the ruling of United States Commissioner Williams. When Novikoff was arrested by the police several clumsy imitations of silver half-dollars were found on his person, and several bars of metal were discovered under his bed at a Russian boarding-house on Turner street. If he had any counterfeiting paraphernalia in his room, it was effectually secreted, for the police failed to find the evidence necessary to warrant holding the prisoner to await the action of the federal grand jury.

United States Secret Service Operative Hansen was absent from the city at the time of the arrest, and did not return soon enough to make a personal investigation of the case. He declined yesterday to express an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the man.

SOCIALISTS PRESENT.

Job Harriman, formerly candidate for President of the United States on the Socialist ticket, was attorney for the defendant. A number of well-known Socialists were present at the hearing, lending color to the rumor that Novikoff was a member of a Nihilistic order in Russia and had to flee for his life to this country.

Through an interpreter, Mike Bollaschon, a stolid Russian peasant, declared that he saw the defendant throw several pieces of bogus coin on a table in his boarding-house. After becoming acquainted with Novikoff, the witness declared the man told him he had an easy way to make several hundred dollars.

Bollaschon said he went to the defendant's room and asked to see the "machine" which was to turn out silver money as fast as one could turn a crank. He admitted that no apparatus for making bogus coin was shown him. Policeman Walls told of the arrest of the Molokane and identified the many bits of metal, which were supposed to represent half-dollars. Other evidence was given in regard to the bogus coins, but nothing was offered to show that Novikoff tried to pass them as genuine money.

WOMAN DEMANDS JUSTICE.

The legal proceedings were enlivened by several interruptions by Mrs. J. von Hagner, who stated that she was deeply interested in the case. In the course of the examination of one of the witnesses she arose from her seat and dramatically exclaimed:

"The witness is not answering correctly. I want to see justice done the defendant."

It is said that the lady was instrumental in raising a fund for the defense, because of her belief that a conspiracy had been formed against the prisoner.

John Evdakimoff was the alleged villain in the little court drama, according to the defense, but failed to give convincing testimony as to the guilt of the defendant.

At the close of the examination the Commissioner ordered the discharge of Novikoff.

RUDE INTERRUPTION.

Boy Eliminates Support from Socialist Street Orator and Latter Loses Pursuit Race.

Socialism, peanuts and religion are what passersby in the vicinity of Seventh street and Grand avenue, nightly, served hot and delivered by vouches. On one corner an orator mounts a starch box in the cause of Socialism. On another corner the glad hand is passed around, together with the hat, that now is the time for all men to be saved by giving their hearts together with half a dollar each, to the cause espoused by the exhorter; for not now or you may be too late. On either two corners peanut stands and a rushing business, and serve stale nuts in short quantities at "five a throw."

Sunday evening a man was holding forth the crowd which had collected on the socialist corner when the religious side stopped singing and started to pass the hat. He had been at it but ten minutes and was getting worked up and was calling on the crowd to rise and strike a blow for freedom. "It's bound to come," he shouted, "Socialism will come to rule the land, it will come as soon as the working men will rise and claim their rights. What are we?" he demanded, "but a lot of slaves to capital, and right, it isn't justice, and the sooner we demand our rights the better."

He was going on to explain the joys that would prevail, when once socialism was installed in the land, when a small boy came along and kicked the box from under him, causing the orator to come to the pavement in some haste and with an undignified grunt. For the next five minutes he was more interested in counting the stars that filled the air, than he was in socialism or anything else.

When he recovered enough to think half way clearly, he pursued the flying boy with a speed that would make John Hays look sick. But no man living can break a sprinting record and at the same time use the line of talk that socialist is following. His wind gave out at the end of the first hundred yards and the boy, not in the least minding the pointed and personal remarks sent after him, disappeared into an alley.

LEARNING.

GERMAN GUEST IS ASTONISHED.

SHOCKED BY WHOLESALE TIMBER CUTTING IN AMERICA.

Member of Forestry Service in Bavaria Says Haste to Get Rich Makes People of United States Reckless as to Future—Making Tour of Country.

F. Harrer of Nuremburg and a member of the German Forestry Service, in Bavaria, is now in this city. He came to the United States to study American methods of preserving forests and expresses astonishment at the wholesale cutting down of timber.

Mr. Harrer, who is a guest at the Hotel Hayward, said last night: "I have learned a great deal in this country, and have seen much that made me marvel at the haste of the American people to make money, regardless of the future.

"I notice that you often cut forty, fifty or sixty acres in a day, right in one spot, while in Germany we never think of cutting more than a strip about a hundred feet wide or so.

"I have spent some time in the forests of Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana, where they cut pine and cypress. Everywhere, the idea seems to be to make money quickly. The forest is cut down as fast as possible.

"I came to the West to study forestry because here the government has taken charge of large areas, and I have found much that was of interest, as well as of profit to me. This western country is so large that Germany cannot compare with it, but it is easy to see that the Bureau of Forestry has done much for the West.

"I know that some of the timber men argue that pine forests will renew themselves in thirty or thirty-five years. The forests will renew themselves, indeed, but they will not produce logs large enough to cut in the sawmills, without too much waste, in less than fifty or sixty years. Without the government to check waste, the West would have been in a bad way."

Mr. Harrer, after his tour of the South, went to Washington, where he was given letters of introduction to various persons in the West by Gifford Pinchot, head of the Forestry Bureau. He takes a great deal of interest in the eucalyptus groves of Southern California.

The visitor is much pleased with the way in which automobiles, motorcycles and other conveyances keep to the right of the road in Los Angeles.

"In Austria," he said, "the laws differ in various sections. In one State the law will order that you keep to the right of the road, and in another State one must keep to the left of the road, as in England. It is awfully confusing to foreigners, and even to Austrians, when they are out of their own State."

Mr. Harrer, who is quite a young man, came to the United States at his own expense to qualify himself for early promotion.

What the German government does not learn about America won't be worth knowing. A number of Teutonic investigators have visited this city recently and some of them are still here. One, from Munich, was at the Alexandria for a few days and successfully eluded all reporters. Another, from Berlin, was at the Angelus.

Dr. P. Wichel of Reisling, a guest at the Hollenbeck, said, last night, that he had come to this country to study geography and school conditions, with a view to correcting German text-books.

ARRESTED UP NORTH.

Woman Accused of Having Been in a Swindling Concern Taken Into Custody.

The local police were notified yesterday by the San Francisco authorities of the arrest in the northern city of Miss Mace Cummings, alias Miss Anna Freeman, who was one of the leading spirits in the French China Company, which recently operated in Los Angeles and is alleged to have swindled many women. The woman went under the name of Freeman here. The San Francisco police also hold warrants for her companion, Samuel Trieber, who was known here as L. C. Fox.

When the police searched for Trieber yesterday he was not found. It is believed he has fled and deserted his partner. He was the manager of the business. The couple found more victims in San Francisco than they did in Los Angeles, although their operations here were said to have been very profitable. The couple disappeared when they were exposed in the newspapers about two months ago.

PASADENA.

IMPOSING ARE CEREMONIES.

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS HOSTS AT FUNCTIONS.

Distinguished Visitors Entertained. Case Against Colegrove Druggist Dismissed—Municipal Light Rates to Be Reduced—Traffic Regulations. Crown City Notes.

Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, May 19.—Scottish Rite Masons held imposing ceremonies at Masonic Temple last night in honor of James D. Richardson, thirty-third degree Mason, and Sovereign Grand Commander of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Masons. He was to have been accompanied by W. Frank Pierce, also thirty-third degree Mason, and Grand Chancellor, Inspector-General for California, but the latter was indisposed, and was unable to attend. E. T. Carr, the oldest Inspector-General of the order in this country, was also a guest of honor.

Local members of the Scottish Rite devoted most of their day to the entertainment of the distinguished visitors, who were taken about the city for an automobile ride in charge of former Mayor Vedder and other prominent Masons.

In the evening a dinner was given at the Maryland under the supervision of Arthur H. Chamberlain, Frederic L. Brown, Samuel G. Dunham and John H. Pearmon, all thirty-third degree Masons. Others at the table in addition to the guests of honor, were C. J. Willett, Jefferson C. Fraser, W. H. Vedder, Dr. Henry Sherry, Hiram W. Wadsworth, Oscar O. Freeman, Florin L. Jones, H. E. Cooper and S. J. Conradi.

At the conclusion of the dinner a meeting of the order was held at Masonic Temple, and this was followed by a banquet at which 123 were present.

PEARSONS CASE DISMISSED.

The jury failed to agree, after being out two hours, and Justice Klamroth dismissed the case against George C. Pearsons, the Colegrove druggist, who was arrested six weeks ago, charged with violation of the liquor laws. Pearsons was represented by Attorney H. C. Milsay, while G. Ray Horton appeared for the prosecution. A two-hour argument was made by Milsay, on the ground that the indictment was improperly drawn, and that the case should be dismissed. This was refused. Almost the entire venire was exhausted before a jury could be filled.

POWER RATES CUT.

An ordinance was introduced at the meeting of the City Council yesterday, providing for a big reduction in the prices of municipal electrical power. If the ordinance is passed this city will have the lowest electrical power rates in Southern California. A special meeting of the Council has been called for this morning to pass the ordinance in order that it may become effective at once. It will prove a bold play in the bitter war that is being waged between the city and the Edison Electric Company.

Formerly the lowest rate that could be obtained under large consumption was 2 cents per kilowatt hour. Now 1½ cents is to be the lowest. Manager Koiner states that he has already won many of the largest consumers over to the city's side, and that he is certain the city can afford to stand the cut.

An analysis of the changes is as follows:

To users of 100 or less K. W. hours per month, the rate will be 4 cents per K. W. hour, as before.

For each additional K. W. hour from 100 to 500, the rate will be 2.4 cents, instead of 2.9.

For each additional K. W. hour from 500 to 1500, the rate will be 2 cents, instead of 2.5.

For each additional K. W. hour from 1500 to 5000, the rate will be 1.9 cents instead of 2 cents.

For each additional K. W. hour, the rate will be 1.75 cents. Formerly 2 cents was the lowest rate in use.

When the consumer uses none of his power between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10 p.m., and uses between 5000 and 10,000 K. W. hours, he will be given the power at 1.5 cents.

Finally, if he uses more than 10,000 K. W. hours, he will get the whole amount he uses at the uniform rate of 1.5 cents, the graduated or "step" scale, which prevails for smaller amounts being discarded in this instance.

REGULATING CARRIAGES.

A new and complete traffic ordinance will be introduced at the adjourned meeting of the City Council this morning and, it is believed, will solve the public carriage question to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. It provides for the establishment of a public carriage station opposite Central Park, on Raymond avenue. The ordinance states that no motorcycle or bicycle can be leaned against the curb within three feet of another such vehicle. Persons riding or driving must not cross the street except at intersection, and then in such a way as to fall into the course of traffic. A horseless vehicle must not be left within seventy-five feet of another such vehicle. Vehicles must not stop with their left sides to the curb on Colorado, Marengo to Delacy; Fair Oaks and Raymond, Dayton to Holly. Vehicles must not stop at street intersections or opposite a public or private drive. Vehicles must be stopped with wheels not farther than two feet from the curb. Between 8 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening no vehicle must stop for more than two hours on streets specified in the center of the city. The distances between public carriages, automobiles and other vehicles is minutely regulated. Drivers may not leave carriages or automobiles to solicit. On certain streets they are not allowed to solicit or carry or wear any placard or device, uniform or cap. It is forbidden to allow oil or gasoline to drip in the public streets.

LONG BEACH.

WOMAN DEPARTS, TAKES CHILD.

HUSBAND NOTIFIES POLICE OF THEIR ABSENCE.

House Mover Breaks World's Record for Fasting by Abstaining from Food for Forty-three Days—He Loses Fifty-three Pounds and Also Stomach Trouble.

LONG BEACH, May 18.—The police were notified today of the departure of Mrs. P. S. Berry, wife of the president of the Long Beach Paper and Paint Company, and her little daughter. Berry went to Los Angeles last Friday, and during his absence Mrs. Berry packed her belongings and, taking her child, left for parts unknown. Berry is broken up over the matter, and went to Los Angeles today to get a line, if possible, on his wife's destination.

LONG FAST.

Guy H. Parkinson, a local housemover, today broke the world's record for fasting, having abstained from food forty-three days. Parkinson started to fast because of stomach trouble, and during the entire time has continued at work. He lost fifty-three pounds, and thinks he is entirely cured.

WOMAN ESCAPES.

Miss Irene Alexander, maid to Mrs. Jean G. Drake, reported to the police this morning, that last night, as she alighted from a Pacific Electric car and started toward home on the shady side of Pacific Park, two men stepped from the shadow and tried to throw a blanket over her head. Miss Alexander dodged and, turning, ran in the opposite direction, and reached home by a roundabout way. This is the second attempt of the kind reported to the police the past few days, but in both instances the police were not notified until too late to do any good.

J. H. Mills, accused of the theft of a water wheel, was acquitted today by a jury in Justice Brayton's court.

C. L. Roberts, a pawnbroker, charged with exacting usurious interest, was tried by a jury yesterday, but the men were unable to agree, and a new trial will be necessary.

BROUGHT BACK.

Detective Phillips arrived home at 1:30 this morning, after a 1500-mile trip, having in custody W. F. Parrent, who is charged with embezzling $500 from Clewett Bros., laundrymen, by whom he was employed as driver. Parrent went to St. John, Glenn county, where he found employment under the name of Edwards. A letter written here to a woman of whom he was enamored, led to his arrest. He was arraigned this morning before Justice Brayton, and held for preliminary examination in the sum of $1500.

Rowland Moss, a small boy, who was delivering flowers for a local florist, was attacked by a small Spitz dog today, and badly bitten in several places. The dog will be killed.

INCUBATOR BABY SCALDED.

An incubator baby was badly scalded this morning, accidentally, and may not recover. The child, which is 2½ months old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William DeSpain of Anaheim street. It has been very feeble and under advice its parents fixed up a home-made incubator warmed by bottles of hot water. This morning one of the corks came loose and the hot water running out scalded the baby's head.

LONG BEACH NOTES.

Mrs. Arthur Roselair, who was brutally murdered by her husband Saturday at Hillsboro, Or., was a former resident of Long Beach and quite active in Y.M.C.A. work. She became prominent at the time of the Hotel Bixby disaster because of her untiring work as a volunteer nurse. She left here soon after and went to San Francisco.

The student body of the High School has taken up swimming as one of the athletic activities. Frank Raymous will act as coach.

The big ocean tug being built at the Craig ship yards will be launched on Saturday at high tide.

THE PRICE OF ENERGY.

Santa Monica Council Gives Notice That It Wants to Fix the Charges.

SANTA MONICA, May 18.—The City Council gives notice that on June 7, an effort will be made to adopt an ordinance regulating the sale, fixing the price and a standard of excellence for electric energy, for light, heat or power. Companies furnishing it are given notice to be present, and show cause why rates should not be fixed.

The Alaska-Yukon Exposition, to be held during the summer at Seattle, has named August 9 as Santa Monica Day. The date is agreeable to the City Council.

Tomorrow afternoon the girls of the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School indoor baseball team will come to the beach for a contest with the Santa Monica nine.

Although the Rustic Cañon resort is already receiving guests and accommodating picnic parties, the formal opening of the shady retreat for the summer season is scheduled for Monday, May 31. MONROVIA.

NEW HEAD FOR TRADE BOARD.

ENERGETIC CAMPAIGNER LEADS THE MERCHANTS.

Says He Expects Influx of Homeseekers in Fall Will Be Largest Ever and Town Should Make Special Efforts to Secure Its Proportion of the Newcomers.

MONROVIA, May 18.—W. H. Evans, a resident of Monrovia since its incorporation in 1886, real estate broker and owner of extensive holdings in the city's business district, was unanimously elected president of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. George A. Barry was chosen vice-president and W. F. Dunn reëlected secretary.

Voicing public opinion the newly-elected president said today: "When, according to my old acquaintance, 'Uncle' Joe Cannon, the dog days have sweated the tariff bill out of the Senate and business settles down on an assured basis, emigration from the East to the Pacific Coast States, and especially to Southern California, will surpass all records, and probably the most liberal expectations. Monrovia wants her proportion of these homeseekers and it is up to the Board of Trade to see she gets them. We will make a vigorous effort to double the present membership of 125 in preparation for an aggressive advertising campaign in the fall. Local conditions are all propitious for a greater Monrovia and the city is steadily forging ahead. Without any special effort on our part to attract them, home-builders have invested $100,000 here in the past two months. We want to increase investment at least 100 per cent. next year. Almost to a man, this organization approves of the proposed $130,000 sewer and water bond proposition and will work to carry the election. We need the sewer and the improvements which will perfect the water system, giving us ample supply for 15,000 inhabitants, and we are getting the betterments at rock bottom prices. Moreover this money will all be spent in our own territory and we will give work to all who want it."

The directorate elected to support the new president's politics is composed of W. A. Cehss, Fred C. Goodcell, L. V. Volmer, H. J. Evans, F. J. Dougherty, C. C. Bowerman, E. E. Rives and C. E. Sioson.

APPOINT COMMITTEE.

Ocean Park City Trustees Name Those Who Are to Inspect Washington Boulevard.

OCEAN PARK, May 18.—The City Trustees have appointed this committee for the purpose of going over Washington boulevard tomorrow in company with Supervisor Nellis: President Eakins, J. M. White, R. A. Phillips, J. D. Simpson, S. E. Huff and James Morley. The object is to investigate and decide upon some plan for the job complete is $15,960. The boulevard between the city and the sea. This is made necessary by reason of the fact that the good roads construction work will not be available for this road in time to help out the summer travel.

The California Ornamental Brick Company has been awarded the contract for the construction of the ocean front bulkhead and walk. The price for the job complete is $15,960. The City Trustees made the award after having received three bids in response to the advertisement.

E. F. Kellner, whose winter home is Globe, Ariz., has received permission from the City Trustees to erect a tomb for himself and wife in the yard of their seaside home at Tokyo. The application for the permit stated that the applicant had received the consent of his neighbors. The proposed tomb is to be of Arizona copper and stone from the mines.

PETITIONS READY.

The petitions for the consolidation of Ocean Park and Santa Monica have been completed and will be placed in circulation tomorrow. The request is addressed to the City Council of Santa Monica and asks the calling of a special election in the two cities for the purpose of voting to join Ocean Park to Santa Monica, under the name and freeholder charter of the larger city. This will be the first trial of the Legislature's new law, which received the Governor's approval March 11, and became effective on the 11th inst. The petition required is one of only 20 per cent. of the electors of each city, and the task of securing the requisite number will be an easy one. The next succeeding step will be the holding of an election in each city on the same date, after four weeks' publication of notice for such election, within twenty days after the expiration of the publication. It is thought the election will be called for a date early in July, and should a majority of the votes cast in each city be for consolidation the two cities will become one just as quickly as the original abstract of the votes cast can be filed with the Secretary of State. The promoters of the consolidation campaign entertain not the slightest doubt that the result will be a victory for them and that Greater Santa Monica will be a reality by August 1.

REFUSES LOVE, IS SHOT.

San Gabriel Man Wounds Woman Who Declined His Hand and Kills Himself.

SAN GABRIEL, May 18.—Helena Meiendvez, a pretty 16-year-old Spanish girl of this place, refused to accept the proposal of marriage of Canuto Ramirez early this morning, so Ramirez attempted to kill her and then committed suicide. Yesterday Ramirez, who was an orange picker, got drunk, and learning that Helena had bestowed her smiles on a more favored suitor, he decided to settle the matter. About 6:30 o'clock this morning, armed with a .32 caliber revolver, he went to the Melendvez home, where he found the younger children playing in the yard. He fired two shots in their direction and rushed into the house and to the room occupied by Helena, where he demanded that she marry him immediately. Upon her refusing to do so he opened fire. Three of four bullets struck the girl, two in the breast and one in the back.

The man immediately ran to his own home, a short distance away, and, sitting down upon the bed, placed the revolver to his head and fired, dying almost at once. The girl will recover.

The body of Ramirez is at the McCormick undertaking parlors and an inquest will be held tomorrow.

SANTA ANA.

AFFINITY SUES WIDOW, LOSES.

SENSATIONAL LETTERS AREN'T READ IN COURT.

"Those Are Things That Had Better Be Forgotten as Quickly as Possible," Says Jurist in Speaking of Epistles—City Editor Says He Is Victim of Swindle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA ANA, May 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Fannie French-Chaffee will get nothing from the estate of W. R. Carpenter, who became infatuated with her, forsook his family, resigned as county superintendent of schools and ran away to Idaho, where she was with him when he died, a year ago. Late this afternoon, Judge West, in the Superior Court, rendered a decision adverse to Mrs. Chaffee, in her action against Mrs. M. Alice Carpenter, the widow, as administratrix of Carpenter's estate. Mrs. Chaffee sued for $840 on notes signed by Carpenter, given, she said, for money loaned him. Judge West ruled that she take nothing.

The judge ruled upon a technicality. Atty. Keeche said the estate had never been served with an original demand for payment of the claim of Mrs. Chaffee within the time prescribed by law. The judge said it would not be necessary to consider the sensational letters and testimony in the case.

"Those are things that had best be forgotten as quickly as possible," said he.

ALLEGES SWINDLE.

Arthur Clarke, city editor of the Riverside Press and a brother of E. P. Clarke, editor of the Press, asserts he was swindled by a man who went by the name of Louis Pace and for some weeks managed a ranch for Clarke, recently bought by him at Garden Grove. Pace got his job through Clarke's brother-in-law, who became acquainted with Pace at Laguna Beach. Recently Clarke sent Pace $20 to buy a flock of hens. The hens were not bought, Clarke avows. Then Clarke sent Pace $120 to buy hay. He asserts that Pace got some money on the check from E. A. Chaffee, of Garden Grove, and left the ranch to take care of itself. Clarke has sworn to complaints charging Pace with forgery and embezzlement.

MANY AFTER PLUM.

It is probable that the Board of Supervisors tomorrow will elect a county stock inspector to take the place that Dr. H. J. Stevens could not qualify to fill, having no State veterinary license. Every veterinary surgeon in the county is a candidate for the job, excepting Dr. Stevens. The job pays $1500 a year, and is a handle for business. Those seeking appointment are Drs. C. E. Price and R. A. Lord of Santa Ana, G. W. Closson and W. S. McFarlane of Anaheim, and A. R. Wiley of Fullerton.

TALE OF WOE.

Juana Soto, a Mexican woman, told a tale of woe to Justice of the Peace Smithwick this morning. She said Juan Soto, with whom she has lived for several years, gave her a beating this morning with a quirt, and then left her, taking their five-months-old baby. A warrant, charging Soto with battery, has been issued.

HOME BURNS.

At 4 o'clock this morning the home of B. M. Ewing, southwest of Santa Ana, burned to the ground. The fire started by the explosion of a gasoline stove. BIRD CAUSES FUSS.

One English Sparrow Appears at Ventura and Hunting Party Is to Be Formed.

VENTURA, May 18.—The English sparrow has made its appearance in Ventura for the first time. That is to say, a gentleman recently from Chicago, who knows the sparrow when he sees it, reports that on Sunday morning last he saw one cock sparrow hopping around in Main street, inspecting the petrolithic pavement and incidentally fighting with every bird that came along. The report has stirred bird lovers here. Some months ago, it was reported that there were English sparrows at Newhall, but this is the first time one of the birds has been seen in this vicinity. Steps will probably be taken to hunt the sparrow out, if it is really here. There are thousands of mocking-birds, orioles, native canaries and other desirable birds here, and it is known that if the English sparrow gets a foothold, the others will be driven out. The sparrow has nothing to recommend it but impudence—and the mocker is much more impudent, and a talented vocalist besides.

NO MORE STREET STABLING.

At its meeting last night the Board of Town Trustees took steps to put a stop to the practice of hitching teams on the street to stand all day and be fed, making a most annoying nuisance in the business center. A lot is to be rented for a public corral, in which all horses must be hitched hereafter.

Los Angeles Exhorter Wins Converts at Escondido—Plans for Electric Light Plant.

ESCONDIDO, May 18.—As the result of four weeks of evangelistic services in a big gospel tent, conducted by Rev. Miles S. Myers, minister of the Naomi Avenue Christian Church, Los Angeles, seventeen persons have been added to the membership of the Christian church. One thousand dollars has been raised toward the building of a church to cost between $5000 and $6000, and arrangements have been made for installing a pastor, the call extended to Rev. Fred M. Lee, also of Los Angeles, having been accepted. Mr. Lee has assumed the work. It is probable that the new church will be erected at the corner of Indiana and Koima streets, where the society owns a lot 50x150 feet.

NEIGHBORS, May 18.—The temperature moderated decidedly during the week past. Finer weather would be hard to find anywhere. The trade winds seem to have settled down to normal.

The new store building of the Colorado City Mercantile Company is completed.

The diggers of the Graham-Pierson well on the north mesa have had more bad luck. A casing got stuck and could not be removed, so they were compelled to abandon the old well and put down another in a new spot.

The Patterson well on the West Mesa has been abandoned on account of the presence of fine sand, which runs like dry sugar and cannot be kept out by casing. This well was dug in the old-fashioned way. It is four feet square, was down about fifty feet, and cased with redwood boards.

Great activity is manifested by settlers on the mesa lands. Some are soon to bring in well-boring rigs and prove the presence of water on this fine land.

SAN BERNARDINO.

USE A DUMMY TO GET CLEW.

WILL DRESS IT IN GARMENTS FOUND NEAR CORPSE.

Another Attempt to Be Made to Clear Up Mystery of Ontario Infanticide Case—Woman Obtains Divorce from Army Officer on Ground of Gross Intemperance.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 18.—Thwarted at every turn in their efforts to solve the mystery surrounding the Ontario infanticide case, the authorities have decided on a novel scheme in the hope of getting a substantial clue. They will dress up a dummy in the garments found near the suit case containing the infant's corpse, and will have this on exhibition at Ontario.

The scheme was evolved by Coroner Van Wie. The belief is that within the corporate limits of Ontario persons implicated in the gruesome tragedy will be located.

NEW DISTRICT.

The City Council has created a new sidewalk district, and adopted resolutions making it necessary for property holders within it to put in sidewalks and curbs by August 1, or the city will have the work done under the sidewalk act. The district includes a large area, and already a rumpus has been occasioned. Persons who protest have interviewed attorneys with a view to estopping the authorities from enforcing the new order.

SECURES DECREE.

Mrs. Leila B. Wells, a woman of striking appearance, was today granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Maj. Rush H. Wells of the regular army, on the ground of gross intemperance. SAN DIEGO.

FLEEING MAN SHOT IN BACK.

SECOND BULLET FIRED BY HIS WIFE HITS HIM.

Although Wounded He Continues to Run Till Certain the Enraged Woman Has Ceased to Follow Him—Chinese Sleep Beneath Bush, Wake Up in Arms of the Law.

SAN DIEGO, May 18.—While making heroic efforts to get out of range of the bullets from a revolver, fired by his wife, Charles Twombly was struck in the back and seriously if not fatally wounded, in a rooming-house this morning.

Twombly and his wife frequently quarreled. The woman says Twombly attacked her this morning. She picked up a revolver, and fired wildly as Twombly ran out of her room into the hallway of the building. She fired again as Twombly ran, the second shot striking him in the back, just off the spine. The bullet plowed through the back, and came out of the right side. Twombly fell in the hallway, but got up as soon as he heard the woman's footsteps still after him. He continued running until assured safety from pursuit. His wife returned to her room, and was in the act of reloading the empty chambers of the revolver when officers arrived and took charge of her. She was locked up, while the wounded man was sent to a hospital.

Physicians say the wound is not necessarily fatal.

CAUGHT WHILE ASLEEP.

Trailing footprints, Indian fashion, through the sand this side of the Mexican line United States Immigration Inspector Burke, early yesterday morning, came upon two Chinese sleeping beneath a clump of bushes.

Being trained in the detection of Chinese smuggling their way across the line, the inspector discovered fresh tracks in the dawn. He doubted that they were those of a Mexican or any residents of that vicinity. Instinct told him to follow them. He did so, with the result that the Chinese were caught. They were brought to San Diego, and lodged in jail. They will be given a hearing before United States Commissioner Christiansen.

The Chinamen declare they have been residents of Lower California for several years, and that for some time they have been working at Tia Juana. Longing for a more cosmopolitan place in which to live, they decided to come to San Diego. As the patrol was otherwise engaged, they slipped across the line and started for the land of promise on foot. Fearing the pursuing officer would soon be on their trail they hid in the bushes.

SENT TO HOSPITAL.

A 2200-pound coil of copper wire falling upon him so badly crushed both ankles of William Brown, a Santa Fé employé, that he was sent to the company's hospital in Los Angeles. Brown was assisting in removing the wire from a car, when the huge spool slipped and rolled upon his legs.

How To Get Rid of Wrinkles

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way, That Produces Marvelous Results, Without Massage, Face Steaming or Masks of Any Kind.

CUT OUT FREE COUPON BELOW AND MAIL TODAY

Those who have become prematurely wrinkled, whether from trouble, worry or ill health, know full well the priceless treasure they have lost. There is no need, however, of any one injuring their chances of social or financial success in life by carrying around these marks of time, as they can be easily removed by a simple home treatment that often produces surprising results in a single night.

In the fall of 1907 I first realized that time, trouble and care had all left their marks on my face, that my skin had become dry and leathery, and that the clear, fresh complexion, the smooth skin and the curves of cheek and chin that go with a well preserved woman were mine no longer.

Realizing my position keenly and knowing that the fine, clean, alert, well-cared-for-looking woman has many advantages over her more unfortunate sister, I tried many advertised remedies, hoping that I would find something that would smooth out the lines that time and trouble had brought me, and restore the color and bloom of my youth.

But, after trying beauty doctors, facial massage and almost every other known method, and after experiencing disappointment time and again, I took out my own wrinkles by a simple home treatment of my own discovery, which brought back my beauty and the freshness of youth. Doctors say it is the only treatment in the world that will actually remove wrinkles and make old faces look young and beautiful. Many of my friends look twenty years younger since trying my treatment, and the marvelous results it has produced in so many cases has prompted me to give it to the public.

STOCK MARKET MARKING TIME.

TRADING ON WALL STREET IS BARE OF FEATURE

Brokers Persist in Their Waiting Attitude and Doubts as to Future Speculative Trend of Prices Remains as Yet Unsolved—Professional Element Split in Two.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—The stock market was almost bare of features or incident, and its action was inconclusive as an indication of the financial opinion, or the speculative sentiment. The waiting attitude was noted in and dread of the steps to take in regulation was unresolved. The professional element was greatly divided in opinion, and this division, instead of prompting operations had the effect of discouraging activity altogether.

The party argued that the desire to get off for summer trips to Europe, and to enjoy the profits accrued, furnished the motives for recent selling, and not any well grounded distrust of the stability of the market. A party in the speculation professed an expectation of an early resumption of the advance. On the other side of the argument was shown the vulnerability of a market which has extensive speculation for a rise to be carried to a conclusion. With prices at high level, the powerful and organized bear campaign would be lacking and could be found in the hands of weaker holders.

There was no show of active initiative in any direction, or agreement with either view. There was a feeling of caution in the current. Strength of Chesapeake and Ohio was one of the few features of the market. It was accounted for by the talk of Gould's plan to join the road with other roads in the common ownership, towards organization of new and important trunk line. The volume of travel to Europe figures in international exchange market effectively now, because of the large sums in circular notes carried by travelers. Disbursements were reported easier in London and there had advanced a fraction in Berlin. The resumption of the publication of the weekly bulletin by the Steckton Bureau received attention in view of the high importance attached to crop changes.

The sense of restoration of wages by some of the important steel companies is developed and strengthened the belief in the prosperity in that trade.

The partial rise in United States Steel gave color to what the only semblance of animation appeared at any time during the day and had the effect of making the closing strong. The market was irregular. Total sales (par value) $2,250,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

FIRE WATER BARGAIN.

Liquor Dealers Say They've Been Swindled.

Victims in Many Cities, Say Local Authorities.

Salesman Arrested, Denies Charges Made.

An alleged imaginary whisky warehouse, nice, green certificates, which are said to be worthless and a number of disgruntled liquor dealers will figure in the trial of Nathan Roemer, who was arrested yesterday. He is a whisky salesman, as he asserted, and the complaint filed in the Police Court charges him with having obtained money under false pretenses.

Roemer was taken into custody by the San Francisco police at the Hotel Manx, that city, upon a telegraphic warrant from Capt. Paul Flammer of the local department. A detective has gone North for the prisoner.

The plaintiffs are I. N. Miletich and John Antonovich, liquor dealers, who say they have been defrauded of $669.

Roemer, it is alleged, had conceived a scheme for swindling on a wholesale scale. According to the police, his victims are numbered by the score and the losses amount up into the thousands. He is said to have "worked" nearly every town in Southern California where a saloon is to be found. His very low prices proved irresistible bait.

SALESMAN'S STORY.

The salesman, Miletich and Antonovich say, represented himself to be an agent for the Pleasant Spring Distillery Company of Stanley, Ky. The complaint sets forth that he stated this concern, with headquarters at No. 39 Union Square, New York, had a great quantity of whisky of the Pleasant Spring Club brand stored in a United States bonded warehouse at Stanley.

The liquor was offered at such a bargain that the firm of Antonovich & Miletich, of Commercial street, bought a supply. Warehouse certificates were produced, signed and turned over. Five barrels were guaranteed by each certificate, eleven of which were received by the firm. Payment of $369 was made in cash and notes for $600 were given.

SUSPICION AROUSED.

Miletich was so pleased with the bargain that he decided to let his cousin share "in a good thing" and arranged a meeting between his relative and Roemer. The salesman, however, went away before the time set but sent a letter to the liquor dealer. This document is now in the hands of the police. It stated that the writer received a telegram requiring his presence in Portland but that he would return to Los Angeles in September.

This made Miletich suspicious and he investigated. He alleges he found that Roemer did not represent a number of houses which he claimed to have on his list. It was learned that there is a Pleasant Spring Distillery Company in New York but that its brands are not housed in Stanley, Ky. At least, the police so state.

A representative of one of the largest liquor houses in the United States examined the certificates given by Roemer and says there are many defects and that the papers appear to be forgeries, or reprints of void certificates.

The officers immediately set to work to locate the salesman and found him at San Francisco, instead of at Portland. He stated, at the time of his arrest, that he is the victim of a mistake somewhere and that he is not guilty of any crime.

NEW LIFE.

CHURCH WORKER CALLED HOME.

DEATH RESULTS FROM INJURY SUSTAINED LONG AGO.

A. H. Smith, for Fifteen Years Resident of This City, at Peace After Protracted Illness—Once President of San Luis Obispo County Christian Endeavor Society.

Albert Henry Smith, a resident of Los Angeles for the past fifteen years, died Monday as the result of an injury sustained in a street-car accident more than four years ago. He was 55 years old and had led an active life as a local preacher, church worker and business man. He was once president of the Christian Endeavor Society of San Luis Obispo county.

Mr. Smith was born on the Island of Guernsey. As a young man he was prominent in athletics, and for several years held the fifty and one-hundred-mile records for the old-fashioned, high-wheeled bicycles. He made twenty-two miles in an hour, and the feat was considered remarkable.

He came to California when 23 years old and settled in San Francisco. Later he removed to San Luis Obispo, where for ten years he was superintendent of the San Luis Obispo Lighting Company.

After he came to Los Angeles he was for nine years associated with the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company.

When quite young Mr. Smith joined the Methodist church. He was a strong advocate of church union and was a life elder in the Presbyterian church. This was considered an honor, as he had always remained a Methodist, and at the time of his death was a member of the University Methodist Church.

After he was injured Mr. Smith gradually failed. Three months ago came a decided change for the worse, and for a week before he passed away he was unconscious.

He leaves a widow, who lives at No. 321 West Forty-ninth street; two daughters, Mrs. White, wife of Rev. H. W. White of Covina, and Miss Elsie Smith, and three sons, Bert C., Cecil E. and Wilfred E. Smith.

The funeral will be held at the University Methodist Church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. E. A. Healy will officiate.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—Henry H. Rogers, vice-president of the Standard Oil Company, moving spirit in the organization of the Amalgamated Copper Company, builder of railroads, and philanthropist, died at his home here early today of apoplexy.

Death came a little more than an hour after Mr. Rogers had risen, mentioning to his wife that he was feeling ill. Mr. Rogers was 69 years old.

Mrs. Rogers, three married daughters, a son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., and Dr. W. J. Pulley, a physician, were at the bedside when the end came.

Mr. Rogers had been in poor health since he suffered an apoplectic stroke in 1907, and was almost constantly under a physician's care.

His death, however, was a great shock to his family and business associates, as yesterday and last evening he was cheerful and apparently normal. He even went down to business yesterday morning, taking his luncheon, as usual, in the Standard Oil building.

FUNERAL PLANS INCOMPLETE.

Final arrangements for the funeral had not been completed tonight, but it has been decided to hold services in this city at the Church of the Messiah (Unitarian.) Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer will conduct the services, after which the body will be taken to Fairhaven, Mass., Mr. Rogers's native town, for burial.

News of the financier's death did not become generally known for about two hours. The Stock Exchange had not opened when the report reached Wall street, but at the opening there was hardly an appreciable effect on the market.

After a decline at first in the stocks in which Mr. Rogers was popularly supposed to be interested, conditions rapidly adjusted themselves, confirming in a way the report that Mr. Rogers had in the last few months anticipated death, and withdrawn from the market.

The Rogers home tonight was silent, save for the tread of prominent callers who began arriving early this afternoon to extend their sympathies.

MARK TWAIN WEEPS.

Conspicuous among those who came early was Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain,) for many years one of the most intimate friends of the late financier. He wept as he entered the house.

John D. Rockefeller, at Hot Springs, Va., sent a telegram of condolence. Mr. Rockefeller had repeatedly warned Mr. Rogers to cease his hard work in view of his failing health, but he had not been apprised of his present illness.

Thomas F. Ryan was notified of Mr. Rogers's death as he was about to sail for Europe on the Lusitania.

"The financial world loses one of its greatest men," he said.

Standard Oil stock opened unchanged on the curb and it is understood the condition of the Virginia railroad, which Mr. Rogers constructed recently, is such that its prosperity will not be affected.

SUCCESSOR NAMED.

John D. Ryan probably will succeed Mr. Rogers in the presidency of the Amalgamated Copper Company.

Henry H. Rogers was one of the most successful men of the Standard Oil group. He began life as a poor boy at Fairhaven, Mass., where he was born. He retained his legal residence there until his death. He is variously reported as having commenced life as a newsboy and as a driver of a grocery cart.

He was a man of many friends and an enthusiastic yachtsman. Until recently he had held the reins of the Standard Oil Company, following the retirement of John D. Rockefeller, although J. D. Archbold attended to the routine management of the great corporation.

Just how much money Mr. Rogers leaves is not known. His fortune is variously estimated at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, which will make his son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., one of the richest men in the country.

The widow Mr. Rogers leaves, is his second wife, his first wife having died fourteen years ago. He leaves four children, the son, and the following daughters: Mrs. W. F. Benjamin, Mrs. Urben H. Broughton and Mrs. William R. Coe.

END COMES SWIFTLY.

Mr. Rogers arose as he usually did, about 5 o'clock in the morning. At 6

ENGLAND WORRIED.

PLANS INSURANCE FOR UNEMPLOYED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 19.—Winston Spencer Churchill, president of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons tonight that he would introduce a government bill tomorrow creating a national system of labor exchanges similar to those already existing on the continent of Europe, for the purpose of better organizing labor and reducing unemployment in London and other English cities.

With this new departure, he said, the government also intended to associate a policy of unemployment insurance.

If the bill is adopted it is purposed to start a scheme beginning in 1910, dealing first with the whole group of the house building, general constructing and machine trades and shipbuilding. This would cover, roughly, nearly half of the whole field of unemployment, and in fact, the worst part. The government, said Mr. Churchill, purposed to aim at a scheme of benefits rather lower than paid by the strongest trades unions. This would necessitate the raising of between five pence and six pence per man per week, the fund to be contributed jointly by the workmen, the employers and the State. He was convinced Parliament gladly would apply its remaining strength to grappling with these hideous problems of social disorganization, which were marring the health and happiness of the country, and which, if neglected, might affect its strength and honor in the world.

Mr. Churchill's outlined plans appear to be well received by both parties.

The labor exchange scheme will be voluntary and it is estimated will cost $1,000,000 yearly. The insurance scheme, which will not be introduced until 1910, will be compulsory and will be applied in the first instance only to the trades mentioned, involving about 2,250,000 workmen. It is understood the contribution of the workmen, the employers and the state will not necessarily be equal in amount.

Preacher of Sanctified Sect Convinces Judges That World Is Flat.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ASHEVILLE (N. C.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The theory of the Rev. J. L. Cooke, preacher of the Sanctified Sect Church, that the earth is not round, but flat, and "set like a hat on a fence post," was sustained by the judges of the debate held between him and Leroy Henry, a High School student, in West Asheville Tuesday night, on the subject, "Resolved that the theory as regards the rotation of the earth is correct," the minister capturing three of the judges by his potent arguments, and his ridicule of the round-earth theory.

The two debaters had a large audience which was swept away by the preacher's ridicule of the Copernican theory. He read from the Bible to show that the earth had a foundation and asked how could it have a foundation if it were flying in space without even a string to tie it down?

PARIS, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following the examples of the letter carriers and jockeys, the poets of France have declared definitely their intention of going on a strike if they are not permitted to "exhibit" at the yearly salon of paintings on the same basis as the musical composers, who each year have a room set aside for them, in which, before the slenderest of audiences, they execute the works created in the past twelve months.

Unless their demands are granted, the poets, whose organization includes no less than 2897 members, threaten not to sell a single Alexandrian Heroic couplet or Dactylic hexameter to any Paris publication in the coming year. The papers pay so little that the poets say they can live without their meager aid. But can the Parisian public live without poetry? In talking with the famous president of the organization, Edmund Haracourt, today The Times correspondent got the impression that it could not.

"The Parisian," said the man of letters, "lives on art as much as on air, and he is as much interested in the output of art of all kinds as Chicago is interested in its shipments of meat and gymnastics in the wheat pit, or as much as the English metropolis is in the scores of its favorite cricket teams. Art is the national recreation here; so consider this before you smile. The poets demand the interposition of the press, which rules everything in France, and can arrange the matter; otherwise there will be no poetry for a twelvemonth to come."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

THE HAGUE, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Since last November, when the wireless installation was put up in the Island of Curacao, the climate has undergone a striking change.

For the last century or two the island has been noted for its dry climate, a relentless tropical sun sending its rays from a copper-colored sky toward the dry and shriveled earth. Now, however, the inhabitants hardly know the place, for rain has fallen in generous quantities almost every day and the land is covered with green shrubs, grass and herbs.

The dusty roads have been turned into muddy tracks and the small farmer rejoices, for without any labor on his part his crop has flourished and fodder for cattle and luscious tropical fruits have been gathered in such profusion as the island has not known before since the first settlement of Europeans.

Naturally the fact that the rainy period coincided with the first installation of wireless telegraphy has attracted the attention of the authorities and the government has now commenced a series of meteorological observations in connection with radio-

Many Unions Declare Readiness to Go Out—Speeches Inflammatory.

Leaders Say Proletariat Mobilization Has Begun in the Nation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A congress of the seamens' unions tonight decided to join the movement inaugurated by the General Federation of Labor in aid of the postal employés and an appeal has been sent to all the seamen, large and small ports to cease work immediately.

The copper moulders and cabinet makers also held meetings this evening and decided to strike, and the secretary of the electricians, provisions trade and biscuit makers declared at a meeting of the diggers' union that the respective unions were ready to go out at any time. On the other hand, a referendum of the gas men rejected the strike project by a large majority.

Only a fraction of the diggers and masons quit work at noon, and a meeting held this afternoon was attended by not more than 1500 men. Nevertheless, the speeches delivered by the leaders were highly inflammatory, and red flags were waved. They assured their followers that the "revolution" of the proletariat had begun and soon would sweep everything before it.

M. Pauron, the principal agitator among the postmen, has been dismissed.

The life of Paris was in all respects normal up to noon, and the general strike decreed by the General Federation of Labor to commence today with the building trades promised to be a huge fiasco.

The movement, which was to be followed by strikes on the part of all the other trade unionists of France was voted by the hot heads against the better judgment of the conservatives. The latter declared that the time was not ripe for such action and that the whole proletariat movement which has been preparing for so long was likely to be compromised for years to come by failure.

The government now regards the agitation as purely revolutionary and foredoomed to result in failure.

The officers of the General Federation of Labor tonight sent out an appeal to the provincial unions affiliated with it urging them to do their utmost to ensure an immediate strike throughout France. Two additional seamen unions, the hatmakers and the ornamentmakers, decided to strike on today.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES HIGH LUMBER TARIFF.

Points to Close Interests of North and South and Makes Urgent Plea for United Effort for Benefit of Country—Addresses Veterans.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PETERSBURG (Va.) May 19.—President Taft opposes a high tariff on lumber.

"Personally, I am not in favor of a $2 tariff on lumber for any purpose," the President said late today in an address on the lawn at Center Hill mansion here. "I'm not going to say the tariff for revenue only and tariff for the purposes of protection are one and the same thing when they both reach the same amount," he continued, "but when a Congressman from Alabama favors a $2 tariff on lumber for revenue, and a Congressman from Washington or Oregon, favors a $2 tariff on lumber for protection, there isn't any great amount of dispute between them. It all means, my friends, that we are working closer and closer together along different routes.

"The southern Congressmen, who have been sharply criticised by their home papers for deserting the sacred principles of free trade, come about as close to knowing what their constituents at home want as do the leading papers of the same community. This, again, is but a further illustration of the fact that we are getting together."

PLEA FOR CLOSER UNION.

Mr. Taft's speech was made at the close of an active day and was a plea for a closer union between the North and South. His first speech of the day was delivered at the unveiling of a shaft of granite and a heroic figure in bronze, placed on the battleground of Ft. Mahone to commemorate the valor of Gen. John F. Hartranft and the Pennsylvania soldiers of the Third Division, Ninth Corps of the Union army. President Taft addressed there a notable gathering of veterans in the blue of the North and the gray of the South.

The President's second address was delivered after luncheon at Center Hill mansion. Thousands, including many negroes, gathered to hear him. In discussing a united country, he said:

"Now, there is not the slightest doubt that the danger to the country that arose in the Spanish War united the South and North in a way that nothing else could. But, my friends, a national war is just a bit expensive in point of money and blood, and I that supreme test that a national war brings about.

ONE COMMON COUNTRY.

"I believe it is possible to make this one common country for all of us. I know that a very sensible and patriotic northerner can sit and listen to the tales of the heroism of the southerner in the war between the States and feel proud of the deeds of the men of the South. And I know the sensible men of the South can do the same thing with respect to the recounting of the glorious deeds of the northern army.

"You will always find some fool at one end of the crowd saying something that a fool at the other end of the crowd takes as a challenge, and then they try to stir up the middle by some altogether thoughtless statement that sensible men would not pay any attention to, and therefore what we have got to do among all of us is to restrain the fools. We must eliminate as far as possible those people on both sides with whom none of us sympathize."

At Fort Mahone, President Taft said in part:

"Fellow-citizens: We are met today on the soil of Virginia to dedicate a memorial to the bravery of the sons of Pennsylvania exhibited in a contest to the death with the sons of Virginia and the South.

HONOR TO SOLDIERS.

"We stand here in the center of the bloodiest and most critical operations of the last year of the Civil War, only a few miles distant from that dramatic scene at Appomattox between Grant and Lee, which marked the great qualities of the heart and soul of each and which was the real end of the terrific struggle between the two sections.

"To Pennsylvania as one of the great States of the Union engaged in the determination to save it, fell the burden of furnishing tens of thousands of men for the struggle in every part of the line of attack; but especially in the army of the Potomac, was the force of her people and their devotion to the cause felt.

"In the time which has passed the bitterness of the internecine struggle has passed away, and we now treasure as a common heritage of the country the bravery and the valor of both sides in that controversy. The Army of the Potomac, under Grant and Meade, was seconded and supported by a generous government. It was hardly

BARGAINS IN MERCHANDISE.

The attention of those readers of The Times who would save money by taking advantage of special bargains in every kind of merchandise is directed to a new feature in The Times classified columns, appearing today for the first time. It will be found on page 12 of part one, under the caption, "For Sale, Merchandise." Under this heading The Times will print each day the special bargains offered by Los Angeles department and other stores. The keen buyer who realizes the truth of the old adage that "A penny saved is a penny earned" may frequently be able, by carefully devoting a few moments daily to this special bargain column, to earn more than he could do in many hours of hard labor. The stores represented in this column will take great care in the selection of the special offerings for the bargain-hunter, and The Times, with added care, will arrange and classify them daily in catalogue style so that the reader may, by alphabetical reference, quickly find articles of merchandise suited to his or her needs.

There are 39 separate advertisements in this initial appearance of merchandise bargains. It is hoped that the number will be very materially increased from day to day until it shall contain such variety that it will become a generally recognized mart where buyer and seller may meet with mu-

CHICAGO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Striking cab drivers aided in a fright of runaway horses attached to a hearse, driven by a non-union man today. The team threw the vehicle against the curbing and unseated the driver.

The hearse was partly demolished and the casket thrown against the fenders of the vehicle.

For half a mile the team dashed along North Clark street, dodging in and out among other vehicles, and causing panic among pedestrians and drivers.

Union men who were present at the funeral made no attempt to stop the flight of the team, but shouted and waved their hats at the horses. The driver, thrown from his seat, alighted on his feet and escaped uninjured.

The funeral was that of George Karl, No. 464 Larrabee street. The procession was proceeding toward St. Boniface Cemetery, and had almost reached the gate, when the horses were frightened by a passing automobile.

RAWHIDE, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Deputy Dist.-Atty. Leichti, Justice of the Peace Brede, Constable Nolan, County Physician Cowan, Health Officer Col. T. H. Needham, all of Rawhide, have been summoned to appear before the grand jury at Goldfield on the 26th inst., to answer to charges of compounding a felony, or that of extortion. A year ago A. W. Leeman, a mining man, issued checks here for $280, which were cashed by George Moss a local saloon man. They were dishonored at a Reno bank. Charles Worden, present County Commissioner, took up the paper, being associated with Leeman in a mining deal at the time.

On the second of this month, Leeman received quite a large remittance. On the same day Deputy Dist.-Atty. Leichti drew a criminal complaint, charging Leeman with having issued fraudulant paper. Justice Brede issued the criminal warrant. According to the allegation in the complaint County Physician Cowan, Health Officer Col. Needham and Constable Nolan went to Bovard. Cowan is said to have told Leeman that he was under arrest, and if he did not pay the check he would be sent to the penitentiary.

Taken to Rawhide Leeman was told to have the money in two hours. Leeman secured $100 and notes for $280, and later he states that he was told that his case had been dismissed. Justice Brede dismissed the case next morning. Seventeen prominent business men have been summoned as witnesses.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Vice-Admiral Baron Sotokichi Uriu, chief of staff of the Japanese navy, a graduate of the United States naval academy, and one of the world's most eminent naval authorities, will receive a cordial welcome when he comes to the United States.

When he arrives at San Francisco, May 21, on the steamer Nippon Maru, the courtesies of the port will be extended. Commander E. W. Eberle, commandant of the naval training station at San Francisco, has been designated as special naval aide to attend the admiral.

The admiral will journey eastward in a special car provided for him by a railroad magnate. In Washington he will be the guest of the Naval Academy Alumni at a dinner at the Metropolitan Club, May 29.

Vice-Admiral Uriu will then go to New York, where he and Rear-Admiral Sperry, U.S.N., will be the guests of honor at a banquet given by the Japanese Society, June 1. On the following day he will go to the United States naval academy, where he, with two other Japanese boys, studied from 1877 to 1881.

Baroness Uriu, who was one of the first Japanese girls to be graduated from Vassar College, is accompanying the admiral.

During the Russo-Japanese war, Vice-Admiral Uriu commanded the squadron that destroyed the Russian ships Koriets and Variag in Chemulpo harbor. He commanded the Japanese vessels that did such destructive work before Port Arthur and at the Battle of the Sea of Japan he commanded a division of the fleet under Admiral Togo. Since then he has been chief of staff and in charge of construction at the navy yards at Sasebo and Tsushima.

The admiral is a member of the Congregational Church.

JOY TURNS TO MOURNING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 19.—Instead of a home-coming feast at the house of Esso Borszeigh, South Deering, there is mourning. Flowers gathered for the reception of his wife and the two-year-old daughter the father had never seen, will be laid on the grave of the baby. Little Emma Borszeigh died in her mother's arms a few minutes before the street car stopped in front of the home. Two years ago the father came to Chicago, leaving his bride in her Austrian home. Emma was born soon afterward, and every penny the father could save went to furnish a home and to buy a ticket for the wife and child. They came to the new home, but the life of the little one slipped away as she lay nestling on the mother's breast. The street-car crew left their post of duty and carried the dead baby to the home where the father waited for his family. He had gathered wild flowers for the event, and there was an old-fashioned Austrian feast, with a company of friends waiting to greet the newcomers.

San Francisco Union Labor Methods Aired.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 19.—A ray of light was flashed into at least one building trades strike in Chicago today. Incidentally there was allusion to the methods of trades unionism in San Francisco.

These features were presented when the State opened its case against Martin B. (Skinny) Madden, president of the Associated Building Trades' Council of Chicago, and his associates, F. A. Puchett and M. J. Boyle, charged with conspiracy to extort $1000 from the Joseph Klicka Company, a Chicago concern, against which a strike was called.

As told in court, the strike was called by Madden, from his automobile, on November 18, for no apparent reason. The job seemed "regular," and Mr. Klicka sent L. A. Fraser, a construction engineer, to investigate. Fraser testified that he saw Boyle, who said the strike had been called because there was a non-union man working on it. When asked how the matter could be settled, he said Klicka would have to see Madden.

Fraser declared that Madden had demanded $1500 as the price of putting the men back to work.

George S. Andres, a construction engineer, testified that Klicka gave him $1000 with which to settle the strike. Andres had approached the former with a statement that it could be done for that sum. Andres said he asked Madden if $1000 would settle the strike.

"And what did he answer?"

"'Bring up the dough.' So I went to Klicka, got the check and got ten $100 bills at the bank. It was night before Madden showed up, and then I offered him the money.

"'How am I to know the strike will be called off if I give you the money?'" I asked him.

"'Don't worry,' he said."

Andres said he asked Madden what to do with the money, and Madden told him to throw it on the floor or on the desk. Andres laid it on the desk and invited the labor leader out to have a drink. As they moved out Madden dropped a blotter over the money, seized the pile and shoved it into his pocket.

The next day the strike was called off.

On cross-examination by Attorney A. J. Brady of the defense reference was made to San Francisco.

"Didn't you tell Madden about unions in San Francisco, and didn't you tell him that you had put them out of business there and would do the same thing here?" Andres was asked.

He admitted the talk, but denied the threat.

"Did you say to Pouchot that he could make a lot of money if he knew his job, and did he not say he was satisfied with what he was getting."

"No."

"Didn't you tell him that if he did it like you fellows in San Francisco, he and his friends could make a barrel of money?"

"Didn't you tell him that out there a man would stand in a light room and hand the money to a man in a dark room, so that the man who gave the money never knew to whom he handed it?"

This and similar questions brought forth denials.

DOCTOR BEGS FOR DEATH.

Wasting Away Slowly, He Asks Physician to Get Legal Permit to Kill Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PAUL, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because there is no foodstuff that he can eat or drink and retain it in his stomach, Dr. T. L. Hatch of Owatonna, Minn., has requested his attending physician, Dr. W. C. Roberts, of the same city, to apply to the State Board of Health for legal authority to put him out of the way.

For several months Dr. Hatch has been gradually wasting away on account of his inability to assimilate food. For the last two or three weeks he has not eaten any solid food, and only by the greatest effort has his physician succeeded in administering enough water to keep his patient alive.

The most highly nutritious substances known to medical science have been rejected immediately or retained undigested. The process of anemia in Dr. Hatch's case is accompanied by complications that have baffled pathological science. Dr. Roberts spoke today before the Minnesota State Homeopathic Institute, now in session here, and invited suggestions from all members of the profession.

In a purely business way Hatch asked Roberts if he could not be given an anesthetic by authorization of the Board of Health or some other State power. Being a doctor himself, he realizes the peculiarity of his case. He considers it hopeless and prefers to be put out of the way in a humane manner rather than live in the present condition.

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mollie Spitz of Brooklyn, who was married to Isaac Lipshitz on October 21, 1907, today asked for a warrant for his arrest as a bigamist. She found he had another wife through a letter which came to his tailoring shop in San Francisco. She returned to New York and hunted up wife No. 1, ascertaining that the marriage took place in Russia ten years ago and that there are two children.

Mollie believes Lipshitz is now in Los Angeles and has another wife there, or is about to take one. She found the Brooklyn authorities had no jurisdiction except on an abandonment charge, as she was married in Manhattan.

The formal decision will be rendered on the 26th inst.

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) May 19.—The murder of Joe Emge and Joe Allemand, sheepman, and Jules Lagier, a sheep herder, in Big Horn county, April 2, by a band of masked riders, will be investigated by both the French and United States governments.

The French government has demanded an investigation of the death of Lagier, a French citizen, who had been in America only ten months, and will also conduct a separate inquiry through the French consul at Chicago.

It is stated that a confession has been made by one of the raiders implicating five prominent stockmen of Big Horn county, and two cowboys. Seven men are under arrest.

GRAFT PROSECUTION.

FIERCE LEGAL ROW IN COURT.

Lawyers Fight Over Evidence of Detective.

Methods and Uses of Special Officers Exposed.

Speckels on Stand Again Still Forgetful.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—In the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, there was injected, late today, an extraordinary chapter dealing with the uses and methods of detectives.

John Helms, one time head of a private detective bureau in this city, narrated in detail for the prosecution the secrets he claims to have learned during his term of employment as an agent of the United Railroads.

His testimony, which related to an early period in the history of the graft prosecution, already involves the names of several persons prominently identified with the defense.

Helms had scarcely started his narration when there ensued a legal wrangle that has had no parallel in the five months that have elapsed since the trial was commenced.

Five of the defendant's attorneys protested against the admission of Helms's testimony, and counsel on both sides, with flushed faces and voices raised to angry pitch, fought for nearly an hour.

TESTIMONY ADMITTED.

Judge Lawlor finally ruled the evidence was admissible, and Helms testified under objection until the session of court had been prolonged a half hour beyond the usual hour of adjournment.

Helms testified that he had come to the city in response to a request by Attorney Louis Hoeffler, early in May, at which time the first trial of Drew L. Ford, counsel for the United Railroads, had been commenced. Hoeffler, he said, instructed him to watch everything done by the prosecution and report the information so gathered. Heney attempted to learn what persons were shadowed by Helms, but the court sustained an objection by the defense.

Helms said he once informed Calhoun that the men on motorcycles were constantly "losing" Burns, who trailed in an automobile, and Mr. Calhoun authorized him to hire an automobile and men to man it.

The argument against the admission of testimony was commenced when Heney asked a question concerning the relations between Helms and W. L. Abbott, one of the United Railroads attorneys, indicted simultaneously with Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Ford.

"This is offered," said Heney, "with the intent to show a guilty consciousness on the part of Patrick Calhoun; to show his conduct in interfering with the course of justice and the fabrication of evidence."

COMMON PRUDENCE.

"I assign that statement as misconduct," said A. A. Moore. "It is not a sign of guilty consciousness to follow men, who has followed every one else. The defendant is still presumed innocent, notwithstanding the display of a public prosecutor who accepts no pay from the State, but gets $1,000 per month from a private individual. His following of Burns did not show a guilty consciousness. It showed common prudence."

"Is it admitted, then, that the allegation of the witness is true?" was asked.

"It is not," responded Stanley Moore. "It is only conceded as a basis for the argument. Suppose this man believed, as he had a right to believe, that perjury had been committed in the first trial, and that perjury was still in process of manufacture, would not the defendant have a right to guard against this kind of evidence? Burns the only man whose movements cannot be followed—Burns, whose myrmidons meet you at the door of this courtroom, and thirty of whose followers are probably within sound of my voice as I address this court?"

STILL FORGETFUL.

Rudolph Spreckels, whose cross-examination had not been concluded Tuesday when court adjourned, was called to supply the defense today with the accounts of the money he had handled in aid of the graft prosecution and was given until tomorrow to refresh the statement.

Spreckels resumed the stand when the session opened, and was asked to read portions of his testimony given Tuesday, which Mr. Rogers declared to be inconsistent with sworn utterances of three years ago. The witness admitted that his recollection was rather at fault, but he insisted that the facts were as related by him.

What period of time elapsed between the day Abraham Ruef offered to bring about a strike to affect the sale of municipal bonds, and the day the next street car strike was called?" asked Mr. Rogers.

"I do not recall either date," said the witness.

SPRECKELS EXCUSED.

When Mr. Spreckels had been excused, the prosecution called two officials of the Aetna Insurance Company, who undertook to show the reported losses suffered by the United Railroads in the fire of 1906. They were found to lack certain data and were excused temporarily. Photographs of damaged power-houses and machinery were later exhibited to support some theory not yet revealed.

William N. Stetler, private secretary to the president of the United Railroads, former secretary of the New York Police Commission and ex-secretary to Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, American arbiter in the Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration, testified that he had never seen a letter from Frank A. Leach of the mint to Mr. Calhoun, notifying the latter that $1,000 had been transferred to his credit in this city. The witness declared he had never seen Ruef at the United Railroads offices; that he had never seen Tirey L. Ford in possession of any amount of currency, and that he had neither seen nor handled any of the money alleged to have been drawn from the mint by Mr. Ford.

NO BURNS LETTERS.

He also said he had never seen in the offices of the United Railroads, or in its legal department, any letters, telegrams or reports or copies of such, relating to William J. Burns.

W. Sanderson, an attorney, testified that he was introduced to Mr.

people of North Beach might expect a renewal of railway service, and he said this would be accomplished when the people of San Francisco began co-operation with the United Railroads.

"I asked what he expected us to do and he suggested that we should appear before the Supervisors on the following Monday and show our interest in the trolley permit.

"Ruef requested me to go to the board and make a talk in favor of the permit. He proposed to show the press that the people of San Francisco are behind this permit.'

"Then Ruef told me that the permit would mean work for 5000 men from the refugee camps. I replied that he had at last gained the support of all the people of the city for his administration, and that we, the people, were obliged to accept such leadership as he chose to give us. I told him it was not good policy to start another newspaper war."

UNNATURAL.

JUDGE GRILLS BRUTAL SONS.

FOILS ATTEMPT TO PUT AGED MOTHER IN ASYLUM.

Court Tells Her Unnatural Offspring That He'll Put Them Behind Bars If They Mistreat Her Again. Try to Get Home from Her, Beat Her, and She Goes Hungry.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The third attempt of William and John Cassinelli to have their aged mother placed in an asylum was frustrated this morning by the careful examination and investigation on part of the board of insanity commissioners and Judge Breen of the District Court.

After the inquiry had closed and the unfortunate old lady, weeping pitifully, had been dismissed, the judge warned the two sons if he ever heard of their mistreating their mother again or attempting to get rid of her in such a manner he would put them behind the bars.

The young men were charged with having unmercifully beaten her and used every effort to get her home away from her and leave her penniless without food and shelter. Testimony showed that she had inherited $800, which the sons took from her. The sons were accused of stealing from her and otherwise treating her with extreme cruelty.

"REDS" SENTENCED.

COURT SHOWS MERCY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

TOMBSTONE (Ariz.) May 19.—Magon, Villareal and Rivera, the three "reds," convicted of violating the neutrality laws, in directing an armed expedition into Mexico, were sentenced this morning by Judge Doan to eighteen months each, in the Territorial prison. The prisoners when asked if they had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, answered "no."

Judge Doan stated that inasmuch as the jury recommended mercy no fine would be imposed. The maximum penalty under the law is two years imprisonment and $5000 fine.

Notice of appeal to the Supreme Court will be filed by the attorneys for the defense, and strong effort made to secure a new trial.

Y.M.C.A. MAN DIVORCED.

Wife Testifies Husband Took Drugs and Brutally Beat Her on Their Wedding Night.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Florence H. Walton, who ran away from her home and married an ardent religious worker, with the Y.M.C.A. of New York City, where he now resides, secured a divorce here today, on the ground of extreme cruelty.

The couple were married in Newark, N. J., in May, 1908, and according to her complaint her husband, Charles E. Walton, the first night of the marriage, took a drink of some drug and beat her. She claims that he was a "club man" of Brooklyn, and mistreated her to such an extent that her life with him was unbearable. He left her, she says, a few hours after the marriage and returning the following day drew a knife on her and threatened her life, calling her all sorts of vile names.

By the decree the wife is given permission to use her maiden name, Florence M. Brady, and is granted $25 per month alimony. The fair plaintiff testified that she was a pitifully-abused young wife, until her husband left her permanently last July, and has ever since lived apart from her, in apartments in the Y.M.C.A. building, New York.

WINGFIELD BANKER.

SAID TO OWN OLD BANK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) May 19.—A local paper is authority for the statement that George Wingfield is now the sole owner of the John S. Cook & Co. Bank, the oldest and most prosperous bank in the district. The bank was started by John S. and Herbert Cook, who later sold a half interest to George S. Nixon and George Wingfield. The bank flourished and at one time had as high as five million dollars deposits. Recently, upon the dissolution of their partnership, Wingfield bought Nixon's interest in the bank, and now has purchased the interests of John and Herbert Cook, the latter deceased, making him the sole owner. The last statement of the bank showed deposits of about $7,750,000.

FINDS DESERT WANDERER.

HEAT DRIVES HIM CRAZY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

GOLDFIELD, May 19.—William Erbe arrived from Los Angeles in his automobile last night, bringing with him George Spreadling, whom he picked up on the desert near Lida, nearly starved, and demented from exposure and hardship. Some months ago Spreadling was in a mine accident and received a blow on the head. He recovered and disappeared from Goldfield. It appears that he got into one of the Death Valley camps and the heat brought on his old trouble and he wandered into the desert. He is now in the hospital here.

WIFE CHARGES BRUTALITY.

ASKS DIVORCE FROM LAWYER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A divorce suit was filed here in the District Court, containing startling allegations on the part of Mrs. Annie R. Rogers, wife of Lorlys E. Rogers, an attorney, practicing in New York. In her complaint

N. Y., her husband was guilty of extreme cruelty to her, in that upon several occasions he threw her down and nearly choked her to death.

He became so extremely abusive to her, she says in her complaint, that she was in continual fear of her life, as he threatened her repeatedly. The bodily injuries she alleges to have received from his treatment of her compelled her to seek relief in the divorce courts.

The couple were married in Montgomery, Ala., in November, 1894. Last June his cruelty became so extreme that she refused to remain with him. They have no children, and no community property. No specific alimony is asked for, further than relief as determined by the court. She asserts that she has been compelled to provide for herself since being forced to leave her husband.

NEW TRIAL FOR MRS. LEDOUX.

State Supreme Court Decides Error Made in Jury Venire to Try Woman for Murder.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SN FRANCISCO, May 19.—The State Supreme Court today reversed the judgment of the Superior Court of San Joaquin county in the case of Mrs. Emma LeDoux, convicted of the murder of her former husband at Stockton, and remanded the case for a new trial.

The decision was written by Justice Henshaw and concurred in by Chief Justice Beatty, and Justices Lorrigan and Melvin.

The principal ground on which the new trial was granted, was that the judge of the trial court erred in not allowing the challenge made by the defense to a special venire of seventy-five men summoned by the sheriff, whom it was alleged by the attorneys for the accused woman was prejudiced against her.

Mrs. LeoDux is the first woman ever sentenced to death in California. She was convicted of the murder in a Stockton hotel of her former husband, Albert McVicker.

BUYS SUMMER RESORT.

Purchase at Klamath Falls Made by Local Man, Believed to Be Acting for Harriman.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KLAMATH FALLS, May 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] W. H. Holabird of Los Angeles has bought the "Odessa" summer resort on Pelican Bay, Klamath Lake, Or. It contains 480 acres, with a beautiful outlook.

This was the only privately owned property on Pelican Bay, other than the Pelican Lodge property, where E. H. Harriman has established his summer home. The title to Odessa is taken in Mr. Holabird's name, although it is generally believed the purchase is made for E. H. Harriman, as Mr. Holabird is his confidential representative on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Holabird says it is probable that a fine hotel will be built at Odessa. The old Log Hotel will not be open this season. Mr. Holabird also bought a corner in Klamath Falls for $6500, which sold a few years ago for $1500.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Disinfect Street Cars.

PORTLAND (Or.) May 19.—According to a statement made by Dr. M. B. Grieve, city health officer of Spokane, one pint of formaldehyde will be sprinkled in every street car every night during the epidemic of scarlet fever which now prevails in that city.

Try to Fire Bridge.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—The destruction by fire of the trestle of the United Railroads, at the foot of College Hill, on the Mission Road, was prevented last night by Watchman John Martin of the Oceanshore Railroad, who found the lower timbers of the trestle just catching from a large quantity of brush, which had been ignited, evidently by two men who fled at his approach. They made good their escape, and the fire was extinguished before much damage had been done.

Effects of That Kiss.

MARE ISLAND NAVY YARD, May 19.—The final summing up of the testimony in the case of Lieut. Osborne of the monitor Cheyenne, accused of being responsible for the domestic trouble of Naval Constructor Evans, was made today before the board of inquiry, by Constructor Evans on one side and R. B. Whiting of San Francisco, on the other. It is expected that the board will be several days in arriving at its findings.

Will Try Editors.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Judge Shortall today overruled the demurrer to the complaint of P. H. McCarthy charging J. D. Spreckels, C. W. Hornick and Ernest S. Simpson, respectively, owner, manager and managing editor of the Call, with libel, and set the hearing of the case for next Tuesday afternoon.

Accidental Suicide.

SAN JOSE, May 19.—William Pierce McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. McKay, of No. 257 North Whitney street, was found dead in his bed this morning with a handkerchief over his face. He had been using chloroform recently for insomnia, and last night he evidently inhaled more than he intended. An inquest will be held this evening. Young McKay was 17 years old, and was employed in the County Surveyor's office.

BUSINESS HEIRSHIP.

MANTLE UPON YOUNG ROGERS.

Son Trained to Take Care of Father's Millions.

Broughton May Continue in an Advisory Capacity.

Question of Succession Interests Wall Street.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The question upon whose shoulders the business mantle of H. H. Rogers will fall, was uppermost today in the minds of many Wall street men. Some thought that, owing to his age and experience, Mr. Rogers's son-in-law, Urben H. Broughton, who, four or five years ago, married Rogers's daughter, Clara, whose first husband was Bradford Duff, would become head of the family's business.

Mr. Broughton is on the sunny side of 50, and until the late panic had been intrusted with a great deal of Mr. Rogers's business. At that time, he had charge of a large number of the Rogers securities, with power to make the best possible use of them. He had almost complete charge of the building of the Virginia railroad, into which Mr. Rogers put from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000, and was more deeply interested than any other one stockholder.

Mr. Rogers, it is said, had been inclined lately to think that young H. H. Rogers, Jr., should run the business for the Rogers family. Henry H. Rogers, Jr., entered Columbia University in the class of 1901, and is in his thirtieth year. He married Mary Benjamin and they have a country home in Tuxedo and a town house at No. 26 East Fifty-sixth street. Young Rogers is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and club, and is also a member of the Racquet and Tennis clubs, as well as the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club and the New York Yacht Club.

Ever since the panic young Rogers has had an office in his father's suite of rooms, No. 1192 Standard Oil building, No. 26 Broadway, and has been at his father's elbow all the time. A glance at the latest corporation directory shows that he is a director in nearly all the companies with which his father was prominently connected.

It was said today by a prominent officer of the Standard Oil Company that Mr. Rogers had let it become gradually known in the last year that he was shifting as much responsibility as practicable upon the shoulders of the son, with a view to just such an event as occurred today.

There was speculation in Wall street this afternoon as to whether the young man in the last year and a half of training by his father's side, had grasped the business situation firmly enough to become the head of the Rogers interests immediately. Those who know him well predict that he will be another Gould picking up the reins where his father left off. Others who have come in contact with Mr. Broughton, the son-in-law, are inclined to the belief that for some years to come, at least, young Rogers will be glad to profit by the experience and age of his sister's husband.

UNHERALDED.

ROGERS EDUCATED HELEN KELLER.

MARK TWAIN REVEALS SECRET CHARITY OF OIL MAN.

Famous Deaf, Dumb and Blind Girl Whose Prodigies of Learning Have Astonished the World Rescued from Pitiful Condition by Charity of Magnate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the least-known and most touching of Mr. Rogers's many charitable deeds was his care of Helen Keller, the deaf, dumb and blind girl, whose prodigies of learning have astonished the world.

Mr. Rogers had his attention called to Miss Keller, when the girl had hardly reached her teens. Her case, a pitiful one, at once touched his heart. Secretly and through agents he interested himself in the girl and provided funds for the early attempts to bring the light of knowledge to the then darkened mind.

Miss Keller showed such aptitude for learning that Mr. Rogers continued his benefactions and saw that the most experienced and skillful teachers in the land were provided. As she advanced beyond the scope of the average instructors of those afflicted as she was, Mr. Rogers searched about and found mentors for the girl who have been able to make her without doubt one of the brightest and most charming personalities in the world today, even when pitted against persons whose faculties are in no way impaired.

For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Rogers, as with all his deeds of charity, kept the secret of his interest in Helen Keller. The fact that one of the wealthiest men in the world had made himself practically the girl's foster father was not even known to many who were Helen Keller's associates.

The story did not come out until Mark Twain, long one of Mr. Rogers's most intimate friends, revealed it when the Virginia Railway was opened a few weeks ago. On that occasion Mark Twain, in an address at Norfolk, Va., related the then unknown story of Mr. Rogers's benefactions to the girl who, through an attack of scarlet fever, had been deprived of sight, speech and hearing, and who, had it not been for the millionaire oil man, undoubtedly would have been forced to endure the pitiful existence which is the lot of many not so grievously afflicted.

Mr. Rogers, Mark Twain said, had, by this unheralded philanthropy, provided the girl with accomplishments which are comparable only with those of Joan of Arc.

VIRGINIA MOURNS DEATH OF ROGERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NORFOLK (Va.) May 19.—The death of Henry H. Rogers was heard in Norfolk and throughout Virginia today with the deepest sorrow. Mr. Rogers had found a warm place in the hearts of the entire population of Norfolk; the practical terminal of his personally constructed railway system. Flags along the system were placed at half mast

NOTED FINANCIER IS DEAD OF APOPLEXY.

Henry H. Rogers,

leading figure of financial world, Standard Oil and railroad magnate, who died yesterday in New York.

MODERN FAIRY TALE.

LIFE OF ROGERS IS ROMANCE OF FINANCE.

HENRY HUDDLESWORTH ROGERS was a man of mystery. He did not even know the exact date of his birth but it was in 1840, as nearly as can be determined, at Fairhaven, Mass. His rise to a commanding position in the financial world is one of those romances of modern finance that are almost beyond belief, although brought about in the present day and age. His first commercial adventure was selling papers on the street. When he died his fortune was estimated to be worth anywhere from $60,000,000 to $125,000,000, probably about midway between these figures.

He graduated from the Fairhaven High School in 1855, and got a position as clerk in his father's store in that village. From this he drifted into railroading. He was early impressed with the long route he would have to travel in this business, however, before arriving at the top. Accordingly, in 1861, he went to the oil regions and associated himself with this then new industry. He began at McClintocks, on Oil Creek, Pa.

HIS SAVINGS GREW.

The meager savings on which he had begun grew here. During the war he remained in close supervision of his business, although he contributed money to the Union cause. In 1867 he became connected with the Pennsylvania Salt Company and Natrona, which had one of the largest refineries on the Allegheny River.

The following year he became associate of Charles Pratt in New York, with whom he maintained business connection until 1878, when an alliance of oil refineries resulted in the formation of the Standard Oil Trust, of which Rogers was made chairman of the Manufacturing Committee.

Methods were crude and wasteful, and the first principles of economical refinement and handling of the product were just being worked out. He started at the bottom and learned the business from the ground up.

MEETS ROCKEFELLER.

Then he met the men who were to become his life-long associates—John D. and William Rockefeller and Henry M. Flagler, and later John D. Archbold.

These men evolved an audacious scheme to concentrate the business of the refinement and transportation of oil into one collossal firm and corner the market.

The credit for this idea is popularly given to John D. Rockefeller, but financiers who claim to know, have stated repeatedly that the idea really was Rogers's, and that he was the driving power behind the new Standard Oil Company from the first.

He was made a trustee within a short time, in which capacity he was able to bend all his energy and experience to the developing of the big corporation.

FORMS COPPER TRUST.

In later years he understook to do with copper what he had successfully accomplished with petroleum. He formed the Amalgamated Copper Company, uniting most of the principal American sources of supply. This venture, although only partially successful at that time, put him on the road to leadership in over twenty of the country's biggest corporations.

Mr. Rogers was twice married. His first wife was Miss J. Abbie T. Gifford of Fairhaven. She died in 1893. On June 4, 1896, Mr. Rogers, then considerably past 60 years, married Emelie Eulali Augusta Randel, daughter of a New York diamond merchant. She had been married, too, and divorced from Lucius R. Hart, a metal broker.

Before the death of his first wife, his youngest daughter, Mai, then 18, eloped with and married Joseph Cooper Mott, 19 years old, the son of a wealthy member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Some months elapsed before Mr. and Mrs. Rogers learned of the elopement. Then parental wrath descended on the head of Mai. She was packed off to Paris with a young governess, young Mott was warned to keep away, and Mr. Rogers began proceedings to annul the marriage. He declared that it was a schoolgirl romance and not a real love match. Young Mott made a trip across the Atlantic to try to recover his bride, but she was kept away from him, and finally the marriage was annulled. Mrs. Mott subsequently married William C. Coe, a western mining man.

Five children were born to Mr. Rogers by his first wife, of whom four are living. The surviving children, all of whom are married, are: Mrs. William E. Benjamin, Mrs. Urban H. Broughton, Mrs. William R. Coe, who was formerly the wife of Joseph Mott, and Henry H. Rogers, Jr. The child who died was Millicent G. Rogers.

PRESIDENT OPPOSES.

tily clothed, rarely on more than one-half rations, and for considerable periods reduced to an allowance of bacon and meal hardly sufficient to sustain life, the long winter through, their shivering infantry manned the ever-extending siege works and made head against the vigorous assaults of the Union army. Their depleted ranks were no longer equal to the defense of their lines, and they gave up a contest which by any other soldiers but the tried and seasoned veterans of the army of Northern Virginia would long before have been abandoned.

"Pennsylvania's pride must be in the victory achieved by her men against so brave, resolute and resourceful an enemy. That we can come here today and in the presence of thousands and tens of thousands of the survivors of the gallant army of Northern Virginia, and of their descendants, establish such an enduring monument by their hospitable welcome and acclaim, is conclusive proof of the uniting of the sections and a universal confession that all that was done was done well; that the battle had to be fought; that the sections had to be tried, but that in the end the result has inured to the common benefit of all. The men of the Army of Virginia fought for a principle which they believed to be right, and for which they were willing to sacrifice their lives, their homes—all indeed, which men hold most dear.

"The contending forces of now half a century ago have given place to a new north and a new south, and a more enduring union in whose responsibilities and whose glorious destiny we equally and gratefully share."

Mr. Taft left at 11 o'clock tonight for Charlotte, Md., where he will arrive at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Horse Race Man Sues to Recover $40,000 Given Theatrical Manager Perley.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—The hearing of the suit brought by Thomas Williams, president of the New California Jockey Club, to recover $40,000 alleged to have been lent in 1902 to Frank H. Perley, the theatrical manager, was begun today before United States Commissioner Heacock.

Williams testified that after receiving the money Perley went East, and did not return to California until a few months ago, when the suit was brought.

The defense alleges that Williams become Perley's partner when he put his money into the theatrical business. The shows then being managed by Perley proved failures and the money was lost. Perley further alleges that Williams then ceased to be his partner, and is not entitled to a share of the profits he has made since from other ventures.

ROGERS.

o'clock he complained of feeling ill, and a physician was hurriedly summoned. His heart action was weak, and it was apparent he was suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. In spite of all that could be done for him, Mr. Rogers sank rapidly, and the end came peacefully at 7 o'clock. This was the second illness of this nature suffered by Mr. Rogers, the first having occurred in June, 1907.

Following the seizure of apoplexy in 1907, Mr. Rogers began putting his affairs in order, and he has been out of the stock market for months. His interests in all the corporations with which he had been identified have been placed in other hands during the last year. This step was taken in order to safeguard his properties in the event of sudden death.

HIS LAST TRIUMPH.

The death of Mr. Rogers follows closely upon the completion of the great railway project to the accomplishment of which the energies of his later years, his genius for organization and a considerable proportion of his private fortune were devoted. This was the building of the Virginia railway, a line which opened up a bituminous coal country in West Virginia, extending 443 miles from Deep Water, W. Va., to a tide water terminal at Sewall's Point, Va.

This road was distinctly an individual undertaking of Mr. Rogers and he personally bore the greater part of the cost of its construction, which has been estimated at $40,000,000. Mr. Rogers had embarked on his venture prior to the financial panic of 1907, which checked similar undertakings by other large railroad companies, but the work of building of this line went on to its finish.

Only a few weeks ago the road was opened for traffic. His death, coming so soon after the greatest achievement of his active business life, and before he saw the fruit of his labor in the development of the section served by his road, is regarded by his friends as a regrettable ending of a brilliant career in the financial world.

HELD MANY POSTS.

Mr. Rogers was for many years one of the most prominent financiers of the country. He took a leading part in all the enterprises undertaken by the Standard Oil group of capitalists, was vice-president of the Standard Oil Company and was the active spirit in the organization of the Amalgamated Copper Company of which he was president up to the time of his death. He was also interested in a number of railroads, serving as a member of the board of directors of the Athlson, Topeka and Santa Fé, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Union Pacific.

Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) was met at the Grand Central Station today, as he was coming in from his summer home in Connecticut, by his daughter, Miss Clara L. Clemens, who broke the news to him of the death of his warm personal friend, H. H. Rogers. The humorist, who had come to the city on purpose to visit Mr. Rogers, said he was inexpressibly shocked and grieved.

ROCKEFELLER SHOCKED BY NEWS OF DEATH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HOT SPRINGS (Va.) May 19.—"I am sorry. I was in hopes the report which reached me on the links was not true," was the comment of John D. Rockefeller today when an Associated Press correspondent handed him, just as he finished his eighteenth hole, a dispatch confirming the death of H. H. Rogers.

"It is so unexpected," he added. "I had no knowledge he was sick."

Mr. Rockefeller said Mr. Rogers's death was a great loss to the business world.

FAIRHAVEN FAVORED BY HIS BENEVOLENCE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

FAIRHAVEN (Mass.) May 18.—Fairhaven, the town in which Henry H. Rogers was born sixty-nine years ago, and where the extensive Rogers summer home is located, everywhere bears the marks of the generosity of the great capitlist. His benefactions to his native town have aggregated more than $2,000,000. During the summer months Mr. Rogers was a "week-end" visitor to Fairhaven, making the trip between New York and this place in his steam yacht Kanawha. It is expected here that Mr. Rogers's body will be placed in the family tomb built by him at Riverside Cemetery.

Roosevelt Gets More Big Game at McMillan's Ranch in British East Africa.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NAIROBI (British East Africa) May 19.—Theodore Roosevelt has begun his hunting expedition from the ranch of George McMillan, whose guest he is.

He went out last Sunday and bagged a female rhinoceros. The first shot wounded her in the shoulder, and the animal fled to the bushes. Mr. Roosevelt followed on horseback, and six more shots were required to bring her down. The head and skin weighed 5732 pounds.

Today Col. Roosevelt added a hippopotamus to his big game bag. The animal was killed a short distance from the Juja ranch.

Edmund Heller, the zoölogist of the expedition, returned to camp this morning, after bringing here about fifty specimens of animal and bird life to be cured and preserved.

Impresario Tells Singer's Wife Her Voice Is "Superb," and Husband, Learning of It, Straightway Begins to Fight—Too Ardent Peacemaker Gets Worst of Battle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Legrand Howland, the composer and impresario, told Signora Russo, wife of the forthcoming Manhattan Operahouse tenor, that she had a voice that ought to be making her fortune in grand opera.

Signor Dominico Russo heard about that and challenged Mr. Howland to step into the back yard, and now Thomas J. Wilhelm, secretary to Mr. Howland, threatens Russo for biting half through his hand.

The mix-up came about promptly after Signor Russo had got back to New York from a western concert tour last Sunday, and found a letter his wife had addressed to her mother in California, telling the mother what a wonderful voice Mr. Howland had said she had. Also she wrote in the letter that the same gentleman had told her Signor Russo was jealous of her voice, because he was her husband and didn't want a rival in his own family.

The battle was progressing evenly, and with enthusiasm, when Mr. Wilhelm came upon the scene. He caught hold of Signor Russo as the tenor was lunging at Mr. Howland's chin, and the interruption of this well-timed thrust so infuriated the signor that he turned aside from his first adversary, and buried a whole and perfect set of teeth in the writing hand of the impresario's secretary.

Mr. Wilhelm howled audibly at that, and all the other guests of the boarding-house came down and stopped the fight.

SECRETARY DICKINSON ILL.

Visit to Havana Cut Short and Patient Is Being Rushed to Washington.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HAVANA, May 19.—The visit of the American Secretary of War, Jacob Dickinson, to Havana, has been cut short by his illness, and the converted yacht Mayflower, on which he arrived here yesterday, sailed at 10 p.m. tonight with the Secretary and party on board.

Secretary Dickinson will be taken direct to Washington. He has been confined to his stateroom for three days suffering from vesical stone. His condition is not alarming, but there was a slight fever today, indicating some inflammation, and the physician decided it would not be advisable for him to remain longer in a warm climate.

Authorities Will Not Allow Ashes of Author to Rest in Westminster Despite Appeal.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 19.—The Westminster authorities have declined permission to place the ashes of George Meredith in the abbey.

An appeal to the dean to this end was strongly supported by the Society of Authors, representing all the leading writers, by Premier Asquith, Lord Morley, Rudyard Kipling and James M. Barrie. Mr. Barrie made a personal appeal to the dean, but in vain.

The action of the Westminster authorities has caused much disappointment, as it is known the question of space was not involved.

Nature's Laxative the Best

Many Are So-Called "Natural"

Many Laxatives on the market are often styled "Natural," because of the well-known fact that the Laxative which Nature gives us is the best. Such ones, constantly coming up, soon disappear because they are manufactured, and can never possess the inimitable merits of the product of Nature. HUNYADI'S JANOS Water, the genuine Natural Laxative, has stood at the head for nearly half a century as the ONLY Laxative whose established reputation is its best recommendation. It remains always the standard because it is NATURE'S remedy in its original form, pure and simple, in no way dependent, as others are, on artificial composition. At all Druggists. Try it.

Look out for unscrupulous druggists, who will substitute unless you ask for HUNYADI JANOS.

WASHINGTON.

CLAY SCORES "SUGAR TRUST."

Senator from Georgia Calls for a Lower Duty.

A Mormon Manipulation of Beets Also Charged.

Consumer Pays Millions of Unearned Profits.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Senate dropped into a party discussion late today and Democrats and Republicans taunted one another with the dissensions each party has suffered during the consideration of the tariff.

The debate was precipitated by Mr. Bailey, who charged the Republicans with having entered into a conspiracy to exaggerate and misrepresent Democratic dissensions in order to hide their own differences.

This statement called Mr. Hale to his feet. He assured Senator Bailey that there was no reason for such suspicion. Mr. Hale declared there would be no failure to enact a protective tariff bill and that when it was all over the Republicans would support it and all the Democrats would oppose it.

Mr. Bailey, resuming, referred to an interview with Gov. Johnson of Minnesota, criticising the minority in its attitude toward the bill.

"If this represents the views of Mr. Johnson," Mr. Bailey said, "then we might better be at home studying the tariff question rather than seeking Democratic favor in other States. If this interview was authorized or sanctioned by Gov. Johnson, he is utterly reckless of the truth and disqualified for any station. His explanation is that the railroads of the South have interested themselves in this legislation and have overcome the conscience of some Senators. He ought to name the men to whom he refers."

Mr. Bailey declared the day when Democrats should favor free raw material had passed.

He defended the vote of Democrats who favored a revenue tax on iron ore.

SENATOR CLAY'S APPEAL.

Senator Clay of Georgia made a warm appeal for a small differential on refined sugar in the interest of consumers.

Declaring that Joseph F. Smith, the head of the Mormon church, every year fixes the price of beets in the interest of the beet sugar factories of Utah rather than in favor of the producers of beets, Senator Clay called forth a characterization of his statement as "absolute untrue" by Senator Smoot, formerly an official of the Mormon church. Mr. Clay declared that Smith, as president of the beet sugar factories of Utah, received $20,000 annual salary.

"He is always in favor of the factories and against the growers," said Mr. Clay.

Upon Mr. Smoot denying this statement, Mr. Clay declined to be interrogated further.

Mr. Clay favored an early vote on the tariff bill.

Severely arraigning the so-called sugar trust and urging a material reduction in the duty on refined sugar, Mr. Clay discussed at great length the various phases of the beet and cane sugar industries. He argued that the consumer is discriminated against in favor of the American Sugar Refining Company and that the sugar grower gets no benefit of the differential between the duties on raw and refined sugar. He criticised most severely the manner in which the sugar schedule of the Payne bill was framed.

Contending that the American Sugar Refining Company owns the principal refineries in the United States and is almost without competition in refining sugar, Mr. Clay declared that the duty on refined sugar almost prohibits the importation of foreign sugar into this country. He said that the beet grower and the cane grower of sugar both are compelled to sell to the sugar trust at the price which it fixes.

Comparing the wholesale price of granulated sugar in Hamburg and in New York, which, he said, was 2.31 cents per pound cheaper in Hamburg, Mr. Clay figured that the American consumer pays a difference of $56,000,000 for its refined sugar. Of this, he said, the government gets $35,000,000 in customs duties, while, he said, the "sugar trust" gets the other $21,000,000.

MILLIONS IN PROFITS.

"The American consumers of sugar have paid to the American Sugar Refining Company, commonly called the 'sugar trust,' at least fifty-five millions a year in profit," said Mr. Clay, "amounting in twelve years to $660,000,000. The American people are not aware of the fact that if the sugar we import came into this country free of any duty, both raw and refined, the cost of sugar to the American consumer would be reduced nearly one-half. I am not insisting that both refined and raw, or either, should come to this country free of duty, but there ought to be a substantial reduction over the rates fixed in the Dingley law."

Replying to the argument that sugar is a great revenue producer, Mr. Clay desired to know why one of the necessities of life, used by the entire American people, should be taken and its cost increased to the consumer one-half when, he contended, the amount of the revenue now produced by sugar could easily be supplied by an income tax.

"Let us give to the American people cheap sugar," continued Mr. Clay. "Let us grasp the 'sugar trust' by the throat and strangle it to death, and keep in view the interest, the happiness and welfare of the plain people of America. We must remember that sugar is an important article of food, daily consumed by every man, woman and child in the country."

Saying that the American workingman, during the last few years, has had a hard time to earn a living, Mr. Clay deprecated the fact that the duty on refined sugar remains in the Payne bill substantially the same as it is in the Dingley law. He said that the sugar trust had no representative before the tariff framing committees of either the House or the Senate, and added, "Judging from the treatment which the sugar trust has received, this corporation needed no representative before either committee."

Taking into account the reciprocity duty on raw sugar from Cuba, the reduced duty on Philippine sugar, and the free sugar from the Hawaiian Islands and Porto Rico under the Dingley law, Mr. Clay declared that the average tariff duty paid on sugar by the sugar trust amounts to 1.04 cents a pound, instead of 1.63½ cents a hundred. He said that the differential of .215 a hundred pounds on refined sugar should be added to the full duty of 1.04 cents a hundred, instead of to 1.68½ cents, as is done in the Payne bill.

Mr. Clay said the sugar growers of Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines, or the Hawaiian Islands, or the consumers in the United States received no benefit from the concessions made in the duty on raw sugar from those islands. Mr. Clay declared that the price of refined sugar was not reduced because of the reductions in the rates on raw sugar.

CALLED A CRIMINAL.

Reiterating that the American Sugar Refining Company is commonly called the "sugar trust," Mr. Clay declared, "This trust has constantly violated both the criminal and civil laws of our country. It is inconscionable, and has continually robbed the American people since its organization. Instead of knocking at the door of Congress, seeking to increase its fortunes at the expense of the masses of the people by reason of favorable legislation, its officers and those directing and controlling its formation and operation, ought to be at the bar of the criminal courts on trial for most serious criminal offenses; and, instead of enjoying their ill-gotten wealth, they deserve to be serving long terms in our Federal prisons."

Mr. Clay reviewed the establishment of the so-called sugar trust, which was formed, he said, in 1887, by the consolidation of twenty of the leading refineries. While the actual value of the property of the trust was not greater than $10,000,000, according to Mr. Clay, the sugar trust stocked the company at $50,000,000. "The most grasping and unconscionable trust to be found anywhere is the American Sugar Refining Company," added Mr. Clay, "commonly called the 'sugar trust.' The steel trust and the Standard Oil, in point of dishonesty and unscrupulous conduct, are suckling babes in comparison with the 'sugar trust.'"

Mr. Clay reviewed the various cases and claims of the government pending against the "sugar trust." "Officials representing the government who have made an investigation into these fraudulent transactions," he continued, "believe that the American Sugar Refining Company has robbed the treasury of more than $9,000,000 justly due. It deserves no mercy at the hands of Congress, and most assuredly no favors at the hands of Congress. The criminal and the civil laws ought to be rigorously enforced against it, and the best way to destroy it is to give it healthy foreign competition."

"If the sugar trust can find a defender on the floor of the Senate, then we have reached a condition of affairs most deplorable. If we are to continue to legislate millions of profits into the pockets of this class of men at the expense of the American people, then let us adopt the sugar schedule provided by the Finance Committee of the Senate."

In concluding Mr. Clay declared that the Payne tariff bill will give no substantial relief to the American people.

HARDSHIP ON JEWELERS.

Mr. Beveridge declared the provision adopted yesterday worked hardship on tens of thousands of retail jewelers. He said he would discuss it later.

Mr. Paynter endeavored to obtain a reduction of duty on bottle caps from 55 to 45 per cent. ad valorem, but the paragraph was adopted as reported by the Finance Committee.

Lace-making machines will be taxed at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem when imported into this country, although they have been admitted free of duty in the past, as the Senate adopted the provision to that effect recommended by the committee.

Mr. Paynter reported an amendment placing linotype typesetting machines on the free list instead of continuing a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem on them. He favored this, he said, because the linotype business was a monopoly with 300 to 400 per cent. profit, reaching out to control the typesetting machines of the world.

Changing his amendment, which had originally placed linotypes on the free list, so as to provide a duty of 10 per cent., Mr. Paynter asked for a vote and the amendment was defeated, 35 to 43. Messrs. Borah, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Clapp, Dolliver, La Follette and Nelson (Republicans) voted with the Democrats.

All sections of the metal schedule were agreed to before adjournment.

An amendment by Mr. McLaurin, to put sewing machines, typewriters and printing presses on the free list, was rejected, 23 to 53. Mr. La Follette voted with the Democrats.

RENO ROASTED FOR NEWLANDS.

While Mr. Newlands was describing conditions in Pittsburgh as highly unsatisfactory from the viewpoint of wage-earners, Mr. Oliver interrupted to give what he said was a description of Reno, Nev., the home city of Mr. Newlands. Denying that Sunday work or twelve hours a day were general in Pittsburgh, he said:

"In the home city of the Senator from Nevada the workingmen do not know such a thing as Sunday. They have gambling in the lobbies of the hotels and when I was there the only place in which I could get away from the click of chips and the roulette table was in the Carnegie library."

Mr. Newlands replied that the people of Nevada were liberty-loving and resitive under restraint of personal liberty, but that the Legislature had passed a law prohibiting gambling.

An amendment by Mr. Newlands to reduce the duty on sewing machines from 30 to 20 per cent. ad valorem was rejected, Senators Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver and La Follette joining the Democrats in voting for the reduction.

Mr. Dolliver offered an amendment to make the duty of 45 per cent. ad valorem apply to articles or wares, not especially provided for, whose "chief value" was metal instead of those composed "in part" of metal, and declared that the committe provisions placed under this schedule many articles containing but a trifling quantity of metal.

Mr. Aldrich said the provision had been in all tariff laws since 1883, and he defended it as being necessary to prevent evasions of the law. The Dolliver amendment was rejected, 30 to 40.

OLD PRESIDENTIAL CHINA.

IN WHITE HOUSE COLLECTION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Valuable additions to the Presidential china pieces, owned by President Fillmore, were placed in the White House cabinets today.

Some time ago the widow of President Fillmore's nephew wrote the superintendent of public buildings and grounds, suggesting that specimens of the President Fillmore china doubtless could be found in Buffalo, his old home.

Mrs. Abbie G. Baker, who has charge of the White House collection for Mrs. Taft, went to Buffalo to see if any of the ware could be secured.

None of Fillmore's lineal descendants are living, but Mrs. Baker found a number of Fillmore's old friends, and through them she located many relics. Two sisters—Mrs. E. B. Terry and Miss Cornelia Burlis, had purchased the Fillmore—mansion with its furniture, and they generously contributed an old Staffordshire platter and a Willow pattern plate, which originally belonged to President Fillmore, to the White House collection.

GIRL PUTS OFFICERS ON TRACK OF FORGER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] M. Dwight Fortner, wanted by the St. Louis police for forgeries, is said to owe his arrest in Paris, France, today, to Miss Mildred Haynes of East St. Louis, and her father, L. C. Haynes, president and general manager of the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway.

Fortner courted the attention of Americans of wealth while on his flight in two hemispheres. In his 8400 miles of travel, following the alleged forgery of deeds of trust and a check for $12,000 in St. Louis, he is said to have left a blazed trail of lavish expenditures, beginning at New Orleans, February 13, and ending in Paris, where he was arrested this morning.

The fugitive was repudiated flatly yesterday afternoon at the home of A. H. Handlan, his millionaire father-in-law. Mrs. Handlan arraigned him bitterly at her home, where Fortner's wife was prostrated with grief. No sympathy or help will come to him from the Handlan family, it was stated.

Fortner traveled with L. C. Haynes and his daughter on a passenger ship from New Orleans to Panama. A photograph of him was shown to Miss Haynes in East St. Louis after her return. Both she and her father identified the picture as that of W. B. Wells, whom they had seen on the ship, and who attracted the attention of all Americans. The detectives, assured they were on the right trail, dropped investigations in other quarters.

The New Orleans operative of the Pinkerton Detective Agency found handwriting similar to Fortner's on the passenger lists of the "Parismina," upon which were also the names of Mr. Haynes and his daughter. This led to a start on the trail that led to his capture.

Immediate arrangements will be made for the return of Fortner here.

Six years ago the man was a $4 a week hotel clerk. He met his wife, the daughter of the millionaire manufacturer, A. H. Handlan, at the Hotel Jefferson, where he was a clerk, and shortly after the marriage, which was against parental wishes, he launched into the real estate business.

Miss Hildegarde Hallen, his stenographer, was taken to police headquarters after a sensational midnight arrest soon after Fortner disappeared, charged with being a party to the alleged forgeries. She was indicted but several days ago the Circuit Attorney had the charges dismissed.

FEDERATION CONVENTION.

DEL MONTE MECCA FOR WOMEN'S CLUBS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DEL MONTE, May 19.—The eighth annual convention of the California Federation of Women's Clubs opened at the Hotel Del Monte at 9 o'clock this morning. There were 158 delegates present representing every woman's club of importance in the State.

Mrs. James B. Hume, the president, presided. The morning session was taken up with the president's council, the topic being "How Federation Work in the Districts might be Magnified." This was led by Mrs. Robert Potter Hall.

Rev. J. H. N. Williams delivered the invocation. Mrs. Davies extended the greetings of the Monterey Civic Club and Mrs. H. N. Yates the greetings of the Pacific Grove Club, the two clubs being the hosts of the occasion.

Reports were made as follows:

Local Committee, Mrs. H. McI. Porter; Programme Committee, Mrs. Blanche Morse; Printing Committee, Mrs. A. L. Barry.

Reports were also made by Recording Secretary Mrs. A. L. Barry, and Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Blanche Morse.

"The best thing my district has done this year," was the subject before the federation this afternoon. The speakers were Mrs. S. M. Davis of Santa Ana, for the southern district; Mrs. R. J. Waters, for the Los Angeles district; Mrs. E. C. Dozier, for the San Joaquin Valley district; Mrs. Cora E. Jones, for the Alameda district; Mrs. O. E. Clark, for the San Francisco district, and Mrs. B. F. Dalton, for the northern district.

"The History of Landmark" department was reported by Mrs. A. A. Goddard, as chairman, who gave an interesting account of the work. Mrs. W. F. Fairchild of Placerville, spoke of the Fremont memorial, urging the rearing of a monument to Fremont. She declared that the honor that went to Sloat for the planting of the United States flag in California, really belonged to Fremont.

Laura Bride Powers of San Francisco spoke on "The Restoration of Mission San Antonio de Padua, in Monterey county," giving much of the credit for what had been done to the Native Sons.

There was a ball tonight, and a reception in honor of the president, Mrs. Hume, and other State officers, by the civic clubs of Monterey and Pacific Grove.

Hotel Potter, at Santa Barbara, is working hard to secure the next convention and it probably will go there.

It is almost certain Mrs. Hume will be elected president for a second term.

RECALLED MAYOR HOLDS ON.

Has Trump Card as He Refuses to Call Meeting to Canvass Vote of Election.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mayor W. A. Heyman of Estacada, who was declared recalled as a result of an election held last Saturday, following a campaign conducted by his political enemies, still holds the fort, together with the five Councilmen "recalled" with him, and refuses utterly to vacate or turn over the office.

J. W. Reed, who claims to have been elected, and the five men who claim to have been elected Councilmen with him, continue to cool their heels in the outer corridors and to threaten Heyman and his men with dire things.

It was a provision of the law that the Mayor and Council, on the first Monday after election, shall meet and canvass the returns, which gave Heyman his trump card. He refused absolutely to call a meeting for any such purpose, claiming the whole proceedings farcical and illegal.

Without a canvass of the vote and a declaration of their election, the Reed forces could not show any credentials. That is why they are still on the cold outside.

Tomorrow they purpose to institute proceedings in the Circuit Court in an effort to mandamus Mayor Heyman and his Council to canvass the vote.

EAGLES GET BUSY.

Pass on Reports of Committees. Stockton Withdraws from Race for Next Meeting Place.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTA CRUZ, May 19.—The first business given consideration by the State Aerie of Eagles today was the passage of the reports of the Judiciary and Finance committees. The only hint as to what was contained in the reports, and that could be given to the public, was a resolution constituting a portion of the judiciary report which increases the powers of the State aerie.

Judge P. C. Rendon of Stockton, in an eloquent presentation speech, presented Past President Rex Goodsell on behalf of the State organization, with an elegant diamond-studded Past President's badge. The feature of the morning session was the fight between Ukiah and Stockton for the meeting place of the next grand aerie, which resulted in the withdrawal of Stockton, on the promise that she would be given the honor in 1911.

The principal speakers were Assemblyman Held, who spoke in behalf of Ukiah and Judge Rendon, who advanced Stockton's interests. The afternoon was devoted to the installation of the newly elected officers, the last one of which was elected this morning, a contest having developed for the office of Outside Guard between W. F. Hoffman and James Mullally of San Francisco and James Wagner of Antioch the former winning out by a safe majority. Tonight the delegation were guests of honor at a banquet at the Beach Hotel.

JACK O'BRIEN GETS A DRAW.

Johnson Is Slow, Fat and Easily Winded.

No One Here Figured That Faker Had a Chance.

Shows Good Footwork and Jabs Giant Black.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Jack Johnson, the big colored heavyweight champion, failed to win over Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia light heavyweight, in a six-round bout tonight.

The fight was even, and the consensus of opinion was that it should have been a draw, had a decision been permissible.

O'Brien's marvelously fast footwork and his superior blocking saved him from damage in several close mixes, and three times he was forced to his knees by the great strength and weight of Johnson in the clinches.

It was a fast fight, O'Brien doing the greater part of the leading. Johnson was slow on his feet, and appeared not to be in the best condition.

Repeatedly the champion rushed his smaller antagonist, but seldom landed effectively. A right-hand counter in the fifth round cut O'Brien's right eye, and this was the sum total of the damage done in the six rounds.

O'Brien was in and out like a flash in nearly every round, stabbing Johnson on the face, but the blows lacked force and had no effect other than to make the big black man grin and wave his hand at the crowd.

The spectators shouted wildly every time O'Brien landed and hooted Johnson for his apparent rough work in clinches.

Referee McGuigan said after the fight that O'Brien did remarkably well in the circumstances. He weighed 142½ pounds, while Johnson's acknowledged weight was at least 205.

"Johnson looked tired and anxious in the fourth, and O'Brien appeared confident throughout the bout. He certainly fought a game fight," said McGuigan.

Johnson had nothing to say after the bout, except that he thought he had the better of it. O'Brien was enthusiastic over his showing. He said that today he accepted a proposal to meet Al Kaufman in San Francisco in the near future.

O'Brien appeared to be in splendid shape as he took off his bath robe. Johnson seemed rather bulky about the waist line, but his splendid muscles stood out on arms and shoulders.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

First round—Johnson rushed O'Brien to the ropes. O'Brien came back with a left to the face and in the clinch Johnson rushed O'Brien off his feet. O'Brien put left to the face light, but Johnson only grinned, and forced O'Brien to the ropes, shoving him to his knees. They feinted and fiddled carefully, O'Brien trying to draw Johnson on. Johnson put left on O'Brien's face without damage, and O'Brien landed left to face in return. O'Brien was in and out like a flash, and Johnson set himself for a counter, but it was smothered. O'Brien's quickness of foot stood him in good stead against Johnson. The round was even.

Second round—O'Brien led for the face, but was blocked, and Johnson lifted him off his feet in the clinch that followed. The crowd booed Johnson, but he only smiled, and rushed O'Brien to the ropes. Marvelous ducking saved O'Brien from damage, and they sparred cautiously. O'Brien caught Johnson with a stiff left on the face three times, and the crowd cheered frantically. Johnson rushed him to the ropes, landing left on the body lightly. Both appeared winded, and Johnson waited for O'Brien to lead. Johnson went after O'Brien like a whirlwind, but quick footwork took the local man out of harm's way. O'Brien did the cleaner work in this round.

Fourth round: O'Brien put left to the face and took right on the body and they sparred cautiously. O'Brien caught Johnson a jarring smash on the face with his left and Johnson's mouth showed the effects. Johnson clowned up and waited for O'Brien to lead. The crowd yelled for O'Brien to "come and show him up," but Johnson only grinned and walked in. He caught O'Brien a glancing right on the head and a left on the body, but he was going away, and the blows lacked steam. O'Brien feinted and missed a left swing, going to his knees from the impetus of the blow. Johnson appeared slow and had no advantage in the round. If anything it was to O'Brien's advantage.

Fifth round: Johnson caught O'Brien a left on the face and O'Brien went down, but was up like a flash and fighting strong. Johnson tried his right uppercut which proved so effective with Burns, but was blocked. A right to the face cut O'Brien's right eye badly, but he came back with a left flush on Johnson's mouth. Johnson rushed viciously, pinning O'Brien to the ropes and wrestling him down. O'Brien did most of the leading at this stage. As the gong sounded he sent a hard left to Johnson's face.

Sixth round: They shook hands gingerly for the wind-up, and sparred cautiously. O'Brien led a left which landed on the body good and hard. Johnson only smiled and held up his hand to indicate he had blocked it. O'Brien rushed in again and tried hard to land on the face and body, but was blocked in his efforts. Finally he sent a stiff left to the face and took a hard right counter on the head in return. Johnson met O'Brien with a left to the face as he stepped in and the round ended in a clinch.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

A telegram was read from Billy Delaney challenging Johnson on behalf of Al Kaufman for a fight at San Francisco.

A. J. Drexel-Biddle, O'Brien's society friend, who seconded him in his recent fight with Ketchel, came into the ring in his street clothes before the fight and cordially grasped O'Brien's hand.

"I weigh 162 pounds," said O'Brien.

Johnson looked forty pounds heavier as he stood up and dropped his big bath robe.

Stanley Ketchel came forward to be introduced. He shook O'Brien's hand and wished him success, then crossed and greeted Johnson. The big black fellow sized Ketchel up carefully, smiling broadly as he acknowledged the greeting.

There was little or no public betting at the ringside on account of the fact that no decision is allowed on six-round bouts in this State. There was some private wagering, however, that O'Brien would have the advantage on points. On this he was favorite at 5 to 4.

Champion Major XII,

best of the Great Danes at the dog show in Hamburger's, owned by Frank R. Valk.

OLD-TIMERS BEATEN.

NEW ENTRIES CREATE SENSATION AT SHOW.

ALL classes but the specials and the Boston bulldogs and fox terriers and a few others were judged in the sixth annual bench show of the Southwestern Kennel Club, which opened yesterday afternoon in the Hamburger basement and is to continue until Saturday evening.

The decisions of Judge George S. Thomas resulted in several surprises. Novices and puppies took awards from many veterans, while old-time rivals displaced each other.

Mrs. J. L. Flannigan's St. Bernard, Rover, shown for the first time, was the winner, defeating the veteran Prince Yan, belonging to Mrs. E. Daniel.

Ed Maier's Champion Director, which has won the pointer championship as regularly as the dog shows have come around, went down to defeat before E. A. Featherstone's Imprimis Vaquero, entered in both the limited and open classes. Frank G. Schumacher's Lady Belle was adjudged the best pointer bitch.

Frank R. Valk won the tri-colored ribbon in the Great Dane class with his 3-year-old Champion Major XII. Will Bacon of Duarte had the only entry in the American foxhound class, in his dog, Donner.

The English foxhounds belonging to W. A. Phipps, the steel trust magnate, had no competition and annexed all the prizes, as they have done repeatedly at previous shows. Phipps's Champion Langley Drag was given the championship ribbon.

The English setters were productive of close competition, but first prize was given to Mallwyd Invader, the recent $1000 importation of Victor Quehm of San Francisco. Mallwyd Invader was also the champion of his class at the recent San Francisco show.

J. M. Hunter's Major McD., entered in the novice class, was the winning dog among the Irish setters, while Twinkle II, belonging to the Deniston Kennels of Oakland, took first among the black cocker spaniel bitches. The Bellmore Kennels took the championship ribbons for cocker spaniel dogs with the veteran Silver Lake Result, while the parti-colored bitch Spider, belonging to George W. Ellery of San Francisco, was champion of her class. The Princess, belonging to Mrs. Hattie McClure, was awarded the first ribbon among the dachshund.

The collie exhibits contained some of the best dogs in the show and to the Holmby kennels of Arthur Letts went the chief honor. Highland Chief, entered in the name of Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, wife of Lett's handler, was adjudged the best of all the collies exhibited. Highland Chief is a son of the noted imported pair of the Letts's kennels, Joe and Lily of Holmby. The Chief's sire, the veteran Joe of Holmby was given second. In Ravenwood II, son of the famous old cup winner, Lord Ravenswood-Ribbons of Holmby, the Letts's kennels seem to have another promising prize winner. Yesterday Ravenswood II took first among all the novice collie dogs as well as among the novice dogs other than sable and white. Letts's Ribbons of Holmby was the winning bitch. Hyde Park Major, belonging to Emil Rogasner was the winning sable and white.

The exhibit of bull terriers is larger than at any previous show, and the competition between the dogs which will be judged today, promises to be keen. Miss Jennie Crocker, the San Francisco heiress, and J. W. Brooks of the Ascot kennels, are the largest exhibitors of Boston terriers, numbering among their dogs many imported prize winners. Miss Crocker's Honey Peach of Wonderland is one of the finest dogs of his kind ever imported into the country. Miss Crocker expects to be in attendance at the show today.

George B. McLean's Champion Moston Monarch was adjudged the best of the bulldogs, while McLean's Mersey Queen was the winner among the bitches.

Leigh Garnsey captured both championships among the Airedale terriers with his dog Aireshire Lad and his bitch, Aireshire Fluffy Ruffles.

The championship in the bull terrier class went to Mrs. Sydney St. L. Caville's dog, Shortall, from Kentfield, Marin county, while Robert A. Ross of San Francisco took the reserve with his Trebora Reuben.

The remaining dogs, which include the bull terrier bitches, fox terriers, Boston and French bulls will be judged today, while the special awards will be announced Friday.

A large crowd was present at the show. The number of animals shown is about the same as in previous years, but the quality is far ahead of any other show, according to President Paul Peipers. Large exhibits by out-of-town kennels are a feature of the exhibition, the most notable being the half dozen bull terriers belonging to Miss Jennie Crocker of San Francisco. Local fanciers are also well represented, there being few of the winning exhibitors in previous shows whose dogs are absent, while other kennels are competing for the first time.

Several of the old favorites with the showgoers are absent, the most notable being President Paul Peipers's Irish setter, Shandon Ben, champion of his class for four years, which was poisoned last January. All the animals on show appear in excellent condition.

PROGRESSIVE POOL.

Experts Enter in Tournament Being Played in New Arrangement of Contests.

Entries for the third progressive pool tournament include: H. Kimmerle, G. Kimmerle, William Clark, Harry Crosby, Phil Harris, Ralph Sebree, Dr. Sherman, W. A. Cheshire, D. Rogers, Jesse Carr and F. Berhman. The prizes are for first and second places, longest run, and low.

The tournament is conducted much in the manner of progressive whist, the two highest of opposing pairs at each table moving at the call of time to the next highest table, where new pairs are formed, continuing thus until table No. 1 is reached, where winners remain. The successful players score one point for each game won, the highest number of points taking first prize. This arrangement adds social features to the attractiveness of a game of skill, and seems destined to become popular.

EASTERN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Alexander Smith Plays Bang-up Game on Scarsdale Links After Year's Lay-off.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HARTSDALE (N. Y.) May 19.—After a lapse of a year, Alexander Smith of New York, on the Scarsdale links, recaptured the title of eastern open golf champion. He was five strokes lower than his nearest rival, Gilbert Nichols of Wilmington, Del. Smith's two-medal play rounds of 18 holes each were made in 73 and 74, respectively. Nichols's rounds were 79 and 73. Smith's mark of 73 in the morning play established a new professional record for the course, which, however, was equaled by Nichols in the afternoon.

Nichols previously has been national runner-up and has had a long career in the Boston and Colorado golf districts.

GLOVES TOO LIGHT.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS KNOCKED OUT.

Order Prohibiting Entry Is Not Acted Upon.

Robinson Says He Failed to Receive Message.

Amateur Championships Won by Spilling Blood.

Results of the finals for the amateur boxing championships:

The 105-pound class: Rocco Wigo won; no opponent.

The 115-pound class: W. E. Coe, Y. M.C.A., knocked out Herb F. Armstrong, unattached.

The 125-pound class: Frank McDaniels, unattached, beat A. Jones, unattached.

The 135-pound class: C. Beauchamp, Broadway A.C., beat James Hayes, unattached.

The 145-pound class: Ed Barry, Broadway A.C., won by default.

The 158-pound class: Cliff Reuman, L.A.A.C., knocked out Sid O'Neil, unattached.

Heavyweight class: A. C. Jorgstorff, L.A.A.C., won by default.

The final bouts of the amateur boxing tournament for the championships of Southern California at Turner Hall last night brought forward plenty of slugging, but there was little class to the goes. The claret flowed in nearly every one of the six fights, and W. E. Coe, Cliff Reuman and C. Beauchamp were the only scrappers who showed that they were ever likely to amount to much in the squared ring.

MESSAGE DELAYED.

Physical Director Price of the Y.M.C.A. decided to withdraw his entries yesterday afternoon, as he was not satisfied with the way the bouts were conducted in the preliminary round. Price was of the opinion that the four-ounce gloves that were used were too light for amateur bouts, and that the heavy punishment that was inflicted would have been avoided through the use of bigger mitts.

Price sent a message to Eddie Robinson at the ringside to keep the Y.M.C.A. men out of the bouts, but Robinson claims that he did not receive the message.

The Y.M.C.A. representatives competed in the bouts without knowing that Price wanted them to withdraw. Coe was the only Y.M.C.A. man who carried off championship honors.

Fred Scholl of the Y.M.C.A. put up the gamest fight of the show last night. He drew a bye in drawing for places in the bantamweight class and last night fought Roy Snyder of the L.A.A.C., who was defeated the night before by Rocco Wigo. Snyder gave Scholl an awful beating, but the Y.M.C.A. boy refused to give in, and although he was knocked down several times he came back fighting strong and made a great rally at the finish. Snyder won, taking second place in the bantamweight division.

The wind-up between C. Beauchamp and James Hayes for the championship of the lightweight division was full of slugging and the faces of both men were bleeding profusely at the end of the bout. Hayes had little class but he was game and put up a good fight. Beauchamp was very clever and had Hayes's eye puffed before the end of the second round. Hayes split Beauchamp's eyebrow in the last round. The judges were unable to pick the winner at the end of the third round and a fourth round was ordered. The men went at it hammer and tongs, and in one exchange both fell to the floor. Hayes received the heavier blow and took the count. He was groggy when he got up and Beauchamp sent him to the mat twice before the end of the round. Hayes, however, saved himself from a knockout.

TAKES ONE ROUND.

Cliff Reuman of the L.A.A.C. disposed of Sid O'Neil in one round. He was too clever for the unknown and before they had been fighting a minute Reuman floored his opponent with vicious right and left swings to the face. O'Neil was bleeding from the nose and was shaky on his feet. Just as the bell rang he again was floored and his seconds dragged him to his corner. He did not come up for the second round.

Coe of the Y.M.C.A. knocked out Herb Armstrong, a long, lanky youngster, in about two minutes. Coe outclassed his opponent, and a couple of swift right swings to the jaw caved in Armstrong. He was knocked out by a heavy swing that put him in dreamland. His seconds carried him out of the ring. Coe had considerable class, using good headwork and taking advantage of all openings.

The bout between McDaniels brother of Montana Kid, and A. Jones, in the 125-pound class, was the slowest fight in the finals. Both men were wild and woolly and there was little mixing. An extra round was necessary for the judges to pick the winner. McDaniels got the decision.

Ed Dietrich of the L.A.A.C. and E. A. Sheinick of the Y.M.C.A. had a bloody encounter for second place in the welterweight class. Dietrich started in to finish his man in the first round and the referee had to warn him to take it easy. Sheinick was soon cut up by heavy blows and he never had a look in for the decision.

Ivan Kahn, who received a broken jaw in the preliminaries, defaulted to Ed Barry of the Broadway A. C. in the welterweight class. H. G. Greenwald of the Y.M.C.A. dropped out of the heavyweight class and A. C. Jorgstorff of the L.A.A.C. won the championship by default.

Wrestling bouts between George Retzer and H. R. Maurer, and George W. Isaacs and A. K. Clymer, opened the show. No falls were registered.

L. A. WINS IN CHESS.

Decisive Games Won in Match With Polytechnic Team Last Night.

The third and fourth rounds of a chess match between teams of the Los Angeles High School and the Polytechnic High School were played yesterday afternoon and evening, resulting in a victory for the Los Angeles team with a score of 5 to 3. The same score having been made in the play of the first and second rounds on Monday, the whole match went to Los Angeles by the decisive totals of ten games to six.

The membership of the teams was as follows:

Los Angeles—Hugo Platz, Edward Brier, Louis Stanton, Jesse Citron.

Polytechnic—Richard Biand, Raymond Stringfield, George Lindsay, Melvin Wood.

Platz, of Los Angeles, won all his games, one, however, being saved to him by the accident of Stringfield suffering the penalty of touching the wrong piece when in a winning position, and leaving a mate on the move.

Plant of Poly, having defeated all the members of his club in the preliminary contests, approached the match with too much confidence—with the usual result, though he managed to save his two games on the last sitting. Citron of Los Angeles won three of his four games.

The experience of the match shows that two-game sittings are too much of a task for most of the amateurs, and it is likely that in next year's matches the nearly universal rule of single game rounds will be adopted.

Instructors Maus of Polytechnic and Oliver of Los Angeles acted as umpires. The match was thoroughly enjoyed by all participants and observers, and was considered an augur of many future contests.

WISE TALKS
BY THE "OFFICE BOY"

Right across from our office on Sixth and Broadway the Story Building is being erected, and every time I look out I see the workmen each contributing his mite toward making it a great, substantial structure. I used to go over and look at the stupendous foundations before they commenced to swing the great iron beams into place and the man with the tin pail got busy catching the red-hot bolts, and I used to think those foundations would support a twenty-five story building, but the architect told me they were building for the future. Upon the strength of the foundations of these lives that you and I are building will the future depend. If they are broad enough and sound enough, we may build skyward to our heart's and ambition's content. It is not necessary that they be laid in school or college. All that is required is that they shall be carefully and soundly built. Our capacity to grow is limited only by the strength of our foundations. The Silverwood business was built on the foundation of truth, honesty and conscience. We have never knowingly permitted a piece of doubtful merchandise to enter one of our stores, we have never allowed a salesman to misrepresent an article, and we have never sold an article except with the understanding that it was to be returned and exchanged or the purchase price refunded if it did not fit, suit or wear as it should. We have marked every article in plain figures at the very smallest legitimate profit possible and not with the idea of having to reduce them at a sale or give discounts. It is impossible to buy a suit, hat, suit of underwear or a shirt at any kind of a sale as cheap or cheaper than we sell them every day in the year. You'd like our way of doing business. It's the right way. It's the only way. Can't we put your name on our list? Either store.

ANGELS TAKE TAME CONTEST.

Beavers' Errors in Seventh Lose Them Game.

Both Hosp and Willett Hand Out Good Ball.

Armbruster Leads in Hitting With Three Pokes.

Los Angeles, 5; Portland, 3.

After running a beautiful race yesterday and being so far ahead into the stretch that he could not have been hit with a gun, Hosp suddenly blew up and just managed to last long enough to get the verdict. What the result would have been if the race had been over a distance of ground might be guessed at but he was far enough ahead when the explosion came to win. As the locals gave him perfect support, it was up to him to keep in front.

There was not enough fielding to keep an old maid awake, the only three stunts in the entire game being a fine running foul catch by Armbruster, a snappy assist by Delmas back of second base and Dillon's left handed catch of a wide throw to first by Smith. The heaving of both Hosp and Willett was good enough to do away with the majority of the chances for spectacular work and for this reason the struggle dragged until the Beavers caught Hosp tiring in the ninth and prevented a shut-out by scoring three runs.

Armbruster's hitting was one of the pretty things of the day, for he made three of the Beavers' six swats and might have made another had not Hosp passed him when he went to bat in the third inning. The big receiver was not scheduled to play, but the Frenchman Fournier had one of his fingers ripped by a foul tip from Orendorff's bat in the second inning and Armbruster had to take his place. The fat boy was lucky to get a chance, for he fattened his batting average by perfect hitting, making a double and two singles.

JOHNSON IS OFF.

Johnson was off at times and if he could have put up a perfect game the chances are that the locals would have been trimmed. He booted two grounders in the seventh and as Ort allowed a thrown ball to go through his hands, Willett was forced to pitch against three errors in that one inning and when he was apparently recovering from the troubles of his infield Hosp suddenly woke up and cracked out a triple to the center fence.

Willett commenced to have his grief in the first inning when he started the game by soaking Daley with the ball. This bird stole second but was caught between second and third on Godwin's grounder to Willett. Godwin reached second on this and scored on Beall's double to center. Beall ran to third on Howard's sacrifice and crossed the plate on Smith's hit to left.

After that but one man reached third base until the fatal seventh. Smith opened this with a grounder to Johnson, which was juggled. Delmas hit a sacrifice bunt but was safe at first when Ort muffed Willett's throw. Smith ran to third on this and then Dillon was passed. Orendorff hit a long fly to right, which scored Smith and sent Dillon to second. Hosp followed with his triple to center, scoring Dillon, and Hosp trotted in when Johnson booted Daley's grounder.

Hosp began the ninth inning for the Beavers by walking Speas. After McCredie had flied to right, Johnson's infield out put Speas on second. Breen walked and Ort and Armbruster singled to left, and Kennedy, who batted for Willett, also singled. Three runs resulted.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN JOSE, May 19.—San José hammered Eagan off the mound in today's game without making runs enough to make a dent in Stockton's final score. The locals gave Logan the very worst of support, errors of judgment costing more than misplays. Stockton bunched hits, several of them infield grounders improperly handled, against Logan, and the result was never in doubt after the third inning, when Shay demoralized the prune pickers with a three-bagger into left field and three tallies were scored on fluke plays by Logan and his infield. Score:

San José, 2; hits, 10; errors, 4.

HEAVY HITTING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, May 19.—Heavy hitting was the order of the day between Oakland and Santa Cruz today, Santa Cruz winning, 10 to 6. Oakland batted in four runs in the fourth, but Santa Cruz came back with five in the seventh, and added two more in the eighth. Score:

Santa Cruz, 10; hits, 13; errors, 3.
Oakland, 6; hits, 9; errors, 5.

PITCHERS' BATTLE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRESNO, May 19.—Cooper won a pitchers' battle from Forrester today, giving San Francisco the opening game of the series. Both pitchers kept their hits scattered, and a large crowd of fans was treated to an exhibition of snappy ball. The visitors scored the lone run of the game in the first inning. Score:

Fresno, 0; hits, 4; errors, 2.
San Francisco, 1; hits, 3; errors, 0.
Batteries—Forrester and McDonough; Cooper and Bliss.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Vernon came in for a terrific drubbing by San Francisco today, losing, 10 to 1, in a poor exhibition of the national sport.

Brackenridge, who twirled for the southerners, started off well, blanking the league leaders for two innings with apparent ease.

In the third, San Francisco scored twice and took the lead, Vernon having forced one over in the second. One more was added to the Seals' score in the fifth, and in the eighth they piled up seven, ten men going to the bat in that inning. Henley and Bodie made home runs in that inning, and a triple and double added to the slaughter.

Brashear, at first, helped the winners along by dropping every fielded ball that was relayed to him. Henley's hit went over the left field fence against a strong wind, one of the longest drives ever seen on the local ground. Score:

SACRAMENTO, May 19. — Three Oakland pitchers were unable to stem the heavy hitting of Sacramento today, and before the game ended at least two runs had been made off each.

Shinn got a triple and Gandil and Doyle a double in the first inning. Tonneson retired in favor of Maire. Maire went out in the seventh after House cleared the bases with a home run. Christian remained to the end, but, with the aid of three errors in one inning, allowed Sacramento two more runs. Baum was more liberal with his hits than usual.

Gandil repeated his performance of Sunday and got four clean hits out of four times at bat. Score:

REFUSE TO PLAY BALL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 19.—James J. Callahan, former manager of the American League team, and now owner of the Logan Square franchise in the Chicago Baseball League, refused this week to return to major league ranks.

The once favorite of the South Side fans turned down two offers from major league magnates. Joe Cantillon of the Washington Americans and Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati Nationals both made Callahan big offers.

Both jobs were to play the outfield, and, while the price offered him is not known, it can be stated that it was big enough to coax almost anybody but a city league magnate back into the ranks.

BATEMAN EXCITED.

WANTS SOME EASY MONEY.

The Perhaps team has not yet settled its differences with heaver Bateman, who was expected to come from the Milwaukee team some weeks ago. Those familiar with the case remember that when the Vernon club sent him a contract he returned it, with the original salary price erased and a new one written in, that was $50 more than the original.

This change did not suit Vernon and the management paid no more attention to Bateman because Hogan had his pitching staff selected by that time. Later on Louisville asked permission to negotiate with Bateman and Hogan wired back that he had no claim on him. Now Bateman wants his salary for the time he has not been playing here and is backed by the National Commission, which says that the Vernon team must pay it. President Brooks of the team says that he will carry this case to the National Commission next winter, which means that if Bateman has any Vernon money coming, it has not started yet.

MYSTERIOUS.

RACER VELOX DIES SUDDENLY.

VETERINARIANS WORK OVER HIM WITHOUT RESULT.

Symptoms Indicate Poisoning, But None of the Remedies Administered Give Any Relief—Attack Comes After the Horse Had Been Driven Three Heats.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BARRINGTON (Ill.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The pacer, Velox, 2:09¼, purchased in California last winter for $8000, and the star of Dick McMahon's stable at Libertyville track, died today after a mysterious illness of twenty-four hours. The horse suffered intense pain during that time, and the veterinarians were wholly unable to diagnose the trouble.

A post-mortem will be held tomorrow morning. Velox worked three easy heats Tuesday, being driven by his owner, W. H. McDoe, president of the Monon Railroad. The fastest mile was 2:25½, and the best quarter 0:35. It was intended to drive the horse one more mile, but while he was being hitched he became restless, and soon was in great pain. Remedies for colic and other acute troubles failed to relieve him.

Velox had paced a mile in 2:05 and was a fine race horse. He was bought for grand circuit races and had been entered wherever possible.

We claim that Franklin automobiles run with less tire trouble and less tire expense than any other automobile because we use larger tires for less weight.

The reliability question of automobiles is the tire question. The Franklin with its tire equipment is by far the most reliable automobile on the road today.

You may not mind the heavy expense, but you do mind the delay and annoyance of tire trouble.

Freedom from tire trouble with the consequent gain in reliability puts the Franklin in a class by itself.

Franklins have practically no tire trouble.

Model D, $2800, weight 2200 pounds

The tires on Franklin Model D are as large as used on other automobiles a thousand pounds or more heavier.

And all Franklins are a third to one-half lighter than water-cooled automobiles of equal ability.

UNIQUE

Classified Liners.

Times Classified rates: The rate for inserting "Want" ads in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue 1½c per word, each insertion; minimum charge, 25c; except under the following classifications the rate for each is 50c per line, minimum charge 25 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," "Church Notices, Miscellaneous," and "Bath and Massage."

"Liner" (Classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. Rates 1½c per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 77,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements, ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

THE TIMES will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "Liners," as no mistakes can be rectified without them.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

"LINER" ADVERTISERS: Beginning from June 1, classified advertising in The Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in daily issue and 1½c Sunday.

In calculations, covering a period of seven months, develop the fact that the average of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1.

The "want" ad. rate has been maintained by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The "want" ad. rate has been in force for many years, though the circulation of The Times now is the largest in the United States, rate considered by the number of lines printed in The Times, numbering regularly over 5000 lines per issue, makes this regulation absolutely necessary in order to get the Sunday issue out on time.

Here is the opportunity to own a ranch of two and one-half to five acres upon which you may raise oranges, lemons, berries, alfalfa, in fact, everything to make you independent.
There is an abundant supply of crystal artesian well water piped in steel mains to each acre from the cement reservoir containing over half a million gallons, supplying one-half miner's inch to the acre.
All of the land is nearly level with a gradual slope to the south. The soil is a rich sandy loam that has raised large crops, and $100 per acre is being realized from alfalfa at the present time.
Adjoining property is selling from $800 to $1000 per acre.
These acres will, undoubtedly, bring over $1500 each in sight of three years.
During the hot summer months, the ocean breezes sweep over this elevation, making the temperature about the same at all seasons.
The macadamized Main Street Boulevard from Los Angeles to San Pedro will go through these acres.
This property will not be on the market long at present prices.

WHAT $10 WILL DO.
SPEND YOUR MONEY TO ADVANTAGE.
Many thoughtless people spend $10 or more foolishly each month. Many are putting more than that into rent. Many more are going out to Somerset and applying their rent money on the purchase of an acre home site.
$10 WILL SECURE AN ACRE.
It will make the first payment on the equivalent of six city lots at Somerset. Some day in the near future the city will reach out and include Somerset. Then each acre will be platted into six lots, each one worth as much as the whole acre costs today. Seeing is believing. Go and see Somerset for yourself. Thirty minutes of your time will prove to you that the best and safest and most profitable place to buy and live is at Somerset. Gardening pays well. Poultry is profitable. You can raise everything you need for the table and have some to sell besides. Transportation facilities are excellent. You could not be more convenient to the business center on many of the city tracts. The electric railway station is in the middle of Somerset.
$10 DOWN AND $10 A MONTH.

TO "LINER" ADVERTISERS:
Dating from June 1 classified advertising in The Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday.
Close calculation, covering a period of several months, develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven, so, to avoid any charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1.
Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it.
The present "want" ad rate has been in effect for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 50,000 daily and 80,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares with The Times in "want" ad. service.

BREVITIES.

To "Liner" Advertisers: Dating from June 1st, classified advertising in the Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday. Close calculations covering a period of several months develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1st. Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The present "want" ad rate has been in effect, for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 50,000 daily and 80,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares with The Times in "want" ad service. The Times-Mirror Company.

Remember the slogan: "Buy and Boost Home Products." For daily references, see page 11, part II. of The Times, containing list of wide-awake manufacturers, under the heading "Made in Southern California." There are none better. Buy and Boost, and keep your money at home where it will do you and yours the most good!

STUDIES OUR METHODS.

Visitor from Argentine Comes Here to Investigate Agriculture and Cattle Raising.

Mario Estrada of Buenos Ayres, specially commissioned by the Argentina government to study agriculture in the United States, is a guest at the Angelus. He intimated that Argentina may restock its herds from America instead of from England, in order to diminish the danger of tuberculosis.

"The raising of cattle is one of the principal industries of Argentina," said Señor Estrada last night, "and the Argentina government has sent me to this country to study American methods of agriculture generally, and especially to learn if there are any grasses in this country which might profitably be introduced in Argentina for pasturage.

"I have spent some time at Washington, where I obtained much valuable information, and I also was in Texas for quite a while, gathering data on the feeding and handling of cattle.

"Argentina has been buying bulls in England, but the animals purchased there are not always satisfactory for herd raising—they cannot be turned loose until they have been acclimated, which sometimes takes a long time. I am not prepared to say, but it is possible that more vigorous stock may be purchased in Texas and other cattle-raising States.

"I came to California to study agriculture—yes, grasses and other products. How long will I stay? Why, that I cannot say. This is California; just think of all I have to see."

COLLEGE MEN CONFER.

Occidental's President Pays Visit to Pomona Authorities at Claremont. Consolidation Unlikely.

President Baer of Occidental College spent yesterday at Claremont, in consultation with authorities of that institution. He met Dr. Henry Kingman of the Pomona trustees; Rev. C. B. Sumner, secretary of the board, and Rev. E. F. Goff, financial agent of the college. They dined together at the Claremont Inn, and spent the day at the office of Mr. Goff.

It is understood that they talked over possible plans upon which the two colleges might be merged. Both parties were non-committal at Claremont, but the impression was given that Dr. Baer had something to submit to the Occidental trustees.

Mr. Sumner said to The Times correspondent at Claremont, after Dr. Baer had left for home: "Occidental believes that the city environment will be best for her, and we believe that the country is best for Pomona; there you have it."

Dr. Baer had nothing to say last night, but it is probable that the consolidation scheme will be dropped.

PLUNGE DOWN SHAFT.

Three in Serious Accident—One Saves Others in Twelve Feet of Water Though Leg Is Broken.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A bad accident occurred in the Drake shaft of the Quartette Company's mine, Searchlight, today. The sufferers were George Ackley, Harley Homes and Church Bottenfield.

The three men fell from a point about thirty feet from the bottom of the shaft, the depth of which is 351 feet. Ackley's leg was broken and the others were much bruised and shaken up. Twelve feet of water at the bottom saved their lives.

The only one of the three who could swim was Ackley, who, although his leg was broken, succeeded in keeping his companions above water until they were rescued by means of a rope.

STRYCHNINE?

MYSTERY OF A WOMAN'S DEATH IS FOLLOWED INTO HER GRAVE.

Ptomaine Doubted, and Body of Mrs. Bennett Exhumed. Widower Gone.

WHAT killed Mrs. Eugenia Thompson Bennett—ptomaine poisoning, as has been supposed, or strychnine, as is suspected? Was her death the result of eating fermented chili con carne, or was she murdered? Where is the widower, Harper Eugene Bennett? and why did he leave at a time when the authorities were beginning an investigation of his wife's strange taking off, early in the year? Why did he have her remains embalmed with an unusual quantity of fluid on the pretext that he intended to ship them East for interment, and then bury them in Evergreen Cemetery? Why was he unwilling to make a statement when called upon to explain these and other peculiar circumstances? Answers to many questions of this kind are sought by the District Attorney's office, which yesterday followed the mystery into the woman's grave, disinterring the body and placing certain parts in sealed jars for chemical examination by experts. For a month the officers have been conducting a searching inquiry to determine the real cause for Mrs. Bennett's passing, and so much evidence is collected that it is understood only the fact of poison in the corpse is necessary as the basis for a warrant charging a fiendish crime. Bennett, the widower, has closed his real estate offices in Los Angeles and the detectives report that they cannot trace him.

Figures and Scene in a Mysterious Tragedy of Poison.

Mrs. Eugenia Thompson Bennett, the supposed victim of ptomaine, whose death three months ago is under investigation, the exhumation of the wonderfully-preserved body in Evergreen Cemetery yesterday, the two physicians who will make expert analyses of the contents of the stomach and other organs for traces of strychnine, the District Attorney's officers who are inquiring into suspicious-appearing circumstances, and the missing widower.

After a month of careful investigation by the detectives of the District Attorney's office into the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Bennett from the effects of alleged ptomaine poisoning on February 13 last, such indications of a horrible crime have been unearthed that yesterday the body was dug up for the purposes of a chemical analysis.

A permit was secured from the City Health Department to exhume the remains in Evergreen Cemetery. S. L. Browne, chief detective of the District Attorney's, and Louis Duni, one of the most reliable men on the staff of the County Prosecutor, took charge of the case at the grave.

Besides the officers, Dr. Julius Koebig and Dr. Lyman B. Stookey, two of the best-known analytical chemists in the Southwest, were present when the corpse was taken up under the direction of the superintendent of the cemetery.

All arrangements were made to preclude the possibility of any one viewing the proceedings, and a high board inclosure made of canvas screens, where the doctors could work without fear of interruption.

Slowly the screws were removed from the casket lid, and when the last was laid aside the few men present steeled their hearts for a grewsome sight when the body, laid away over three months ago, was exposed to view.

BEHOLD FRESH, SMILING FACE.

But like a miracle it seemed when from the receptacle of death there smiled up at them, the fresh-appearing face of a comely woman who looked as though she might be still breathing.

The body was in a perfect state of preservation. The eyes were closed, it is true, but the lips were parted in a smile and curiously red, giving to the dead face the aspect of a living, sleeping woman. Her hair was done up in the latest style over a "rat," the complexion was strangely tinged with a faint pink, while the hands, which were crossed on her bosom, were clasped in the most natural manner.

Dr. Koebig and Dr. Stookey were the first to muster courage to touch the body, as though fearing she would open her eyes. Finally Dr. Koebig tenderly unclasped the folded hands and laid the arms beside the trunk. There was something that must be done.

TAKEN FOR ANALYSIS.

After all was over the shell of the body was again arranged in its casket bed, and with a last look at the curiously smiling face, the lid was screwed on, and the body committed to its resting place.

An automobile drove slowly from the cemetery down Michigan avenue and turned into First street. It contained a number of heavy glass jars, tightly sealed. These glass jars were turned over to Drs. Koebig and Stookey. They contain the stomach, liver, intestines and other parts of Mrs. Bennett's body.

Dr. Koebig and Dr. Stookey will make the chemical analysis of the contents of the jars and hope to get through with the investigation within six days, but if they do this it will prove to be a record case of the kind into this strange case are convinced that Mrs. Bennett was murdered. It is believed that the immediate cause of death was strychnine poisoning. It is to make absolutely sure of this question that the remains were dug up yesterday. Upon the chemical examination will depend whether a warrant charging murder in the first degree will be issued.

In case such a warrant is issued it will probably be for the arrest of Harper Eugene Bennett, the widower.

It is asserted that during the investigation by the officers Bennett was called upon for a deposition. This they have not been able to get, as Bennett has left Los Angeles and it is not known where he is at present.

Bennett was the head of the Bennett Real Estate Company with offices in the O. T. Johnson building. The offices have been closed for three weeks.

As the matter stands no charge is made against Bennett. The fact that he did not have the body of his wife cremated instead of buried is said to be an indication that he had a clear conscience, or at least did not fear an investigation. Other circumstances appear open to suspicion, however.

CHILD'S REMARK HEARD.

A casual remark by the little daughter of the dead woman at the inquest over the body led to the first step in the investigation as to the true cause of death.

Saturday, February 13, Mrs. Bennett called at her husband's office in the O. T. Johnson building, after a shopping tour downtown. Together they started to take a Main-street car for their home at No. 227 West Forty-fifth street.

After the death of his wife, Bennett made a statement. He said:

"My wife came to my office about 5 o'clock and we went home together. On the way she said: 'Don't let's have a regular dinner tonight. Let's have a sort of lunch.' I asked her what she'd like and she answered, 'chili con carne.' So we stopped in Royston's grocery and bought two cans of chili con carne, packed by the Armour Packing Company."

It was this chili con carne which was alleged to have caused the death of Mrs. Bennett within two hours after she had eaten it.

According to the story of Bennett, when they reached home Mrs. Bennett prepared a light supper. He and his

PUT CHECK ON CHECK WRITER.

Money Raising Stopped in Santa Barbara.

Operator and Woman Companion in Custody.

Trail of His Bad Paper Is Followed Here.

Harvey Wilson, alias Harvey W. Hoyer, who passed a number of worthless checks in Los Angeles in the course of a brief sojourn here several weeks ago, was arrested yesterday in Santa Barbara on the charge of passing worthless checks in that city to the amount of $424.

Together with Wilson, the Santa Barbara police arrested a woman who passed as Wilson's wife at the Hotel Mascarel, where the two stopped while in that city, but who is alleged by the Channel City officers to be Ella Martin of Los Angeles. The local police stated last night that they have been looking for Wilson on the charge of passing worthless checks here, but had no complaints of a woman working with him, and did not know of a Mrs. Wilson or a woman named Ella Martin.

According to Santa Barbara dispatches, Wilson was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Commercial Bank while attempting to secure money on a forged check. When searched a number of Los Angeles bank checks were found in his pockets, many of them filled in for large sums.

Later, when the police went to Wilson's apartments in the Mascarel they found the woman who was registered as his wife and placed her under arrest. At the hotel Wilson and the woman had posed as traveling photographers from Chicago.

RECEIPT FOR BIG DRAFT.

When the rooms were searched the police found among their effects a receipt of the German-American National Bank of Los Angeles for an order of $45,000 against the First National Bank of Philadelphia, together with filled-in checks on other banks of this city. Inquiry last night revealed that the $45,000 receipt was fictitious and that Wilson had no accounts in the local banks on which he had drawn checks.

Wilson is about 32 years of age, dresses nattily and is a smooth talker. The woman arrested with him is reported from Santa Barbara to be beautiful and prepossessing in manner. Their game in the northern city was passing their worthless checks on Chinese merchants from whom the couple made trifling purchases and secure the change on the worthless paper. The northern police believe that Wilson was making a last bid to secure money when he entered the Commercial Bank to cash a check and when he was arrested. The condition of the apartments indicated that the couple were preparing to leave. So far as the Santa Barbara police were able to ascertain yesterday Wilson and the woman had scattered $424 of worthless paper in the city in their stay of several days there.

MYSTERY ABOUT WOMAN.

Wilson evidently went to Santa Barbara directly from Los Angeles, for the woman who was arrested with him in Santa Barbara operated with him here she was kept in the dark.

According to the police records here Wilson came to the city about four weeks ago and took apartments with Mrs. C. A. Crandall at No. 535 West Fifth street. When he paid his room rent he did so with a check for $1. This check was returned to Mrs. Crandall from the bank on which it was drawn dishonored. Wilson lived at the rooming-house alone.

According to the same records here Wilson secured by means of a worthless check for $30 a typewriter from the Underwood agency on Broadway, which he sold to a second-hand dealer at No. 647 South Spring street.

BAD CHECK FOR KODAK.

Earl V. Lewis of No. 226 West Fourth street reported to the police on May 3 that Wilson came to his place and purchased a kodak for which he paid with a worthless check. The Pacific Drug Company at Seventh street and Grand avenue reports that Wilson also appeared there, made a small purchase and gave a check for $12.50 in payment, receiving the balance in cash. Later the check was returned marked "no funds." The police state last night that they had received numerous complaints against Wilson.

Wilson used the name of Hover.

BULL IN COURT.

Beast Painted in Various Colors as to Character Figures in Night Session Before Justice Stephens.

A session was held last night in Justice Stephens's court to decide the ownership of a bull of ambiguous character over which Calabasas and Compton communities have been in doubt for four years. The decision of the court, allowing the animal to remain in the possession of the defendant, B. Voser, appeared to be a vindication of the beast's character.

The defense, through the testimony of many witnesses, painted the bull in snow-white spirituelle colors and endowed him with an angelic disposition. In rebuttal the plaintiff gave his character a Mephistopheles twist, and Pierre Agoure, who claims him, dared the court to attempt to catch him without a lasso. The court declined, not being a vaquero.

A. D. Morrison, who also claims the bull, and who sold it to Voser for chops and steaks, asserts that it was born on his Calabasas ranch in April, 1904. He weaned it personally and it showed its appreciation by adopting the family and becoming a pet about the house. Morrison's brother, residing in Compton, with many Compton people, went to help the history of the bull's life into the court records. That it played and gamboled is beyond doubt, but the intents ascribed to it by the plaintiff were fierce.

Edmund Perry, who kills squirrels and coyotes on a Ventura ranch, became enthusiastic over the destructive propensities of the beast and W. E. Gates, who admitted with the air of a martyr having resided in Calabasas for twenty years, modestly told of the animal's sweet disposition and loving kindness. After the arguments the judge commented favorably upon the integrity of the witnesses, but appeared perplexed. He finally decided

To "Liner" Advertisers: Dating from June 1st, classified advertising in the Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday. Close calculations covering a period of several months develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1st. Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The present "want" ad rate has been in effect, for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 50,000 daily and 80,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. STUDIES OUR METHODS.

Visitor from Argentine Comes Here to Investigate Agriculture and Cattle Raising.

Mario Estrada of Buenos Ayres, specially commissioned by the Argentina government to study agriculture in the United States, is a guest at the Angelus. He intimated that Argentina may restock its herds from America instead of from England, in order to diminish the danger of tuberculosis.

"The raising of cattle is one of the principal industries of Argentina," said Señor Estrada last night, "and the Argentina government has sent me to this country to study American methods of agriculture generally, and especially to learn if there are any grasses in this country which might profitably be introduced in Argentina for pasturage.

"I have spent some time at Washington, where I obtained much valuable information, and I also was in Texas for quite a while, gathering data on the feeding and handling of cattle.

"Argentina has been buying bulls in England, but the animals purchased there are not always satisfactory for herd raising—they cannot be turned loose until they have been acclimated, which sometimes takes a long time. I am not prepared to say, but it is possible that more vigorous stock may be purchased in Texas and other cattle-raising States.

"I came to California to study agriculture—yes, grasses and other products. How long will I stay? Why, that I cannot say. This is California; just think of all I have to see."

COLLEGE MEN CONFER.

Occidental's President Pays Visit to Pomona Authorities at Claremont. Consolidation Unlikely.

President Baer of Occidental College spent yesterday at Claremont, in consultation with authorities of that institution. He met Dr. Henry Kingman of the Pomona trustees; Rev. C. B. Sumner, secretary of the board, and Rev. E. F. Goff, financial agent of the college. They dined together at the Claremont Inn, and spent the day at the office of Mr. Goff.

It is understood that they talked over possible plans upon which the two colleges might be merged. Both parties were non-committal at Claremont, but the impression was given that Dr. Baer had something to submit to the Occidental trustees.

Mr. Sumner said to The Times correspondent at Claremont, after Dr. Baer had left for home: "Occidental believes that the city environment will be best for her, and we believe that the country is best for Pomona; there you have it."

Dr. Baer had nothing to say last night, but it is probable that the consolidation scheme will be dropped.

Three in Serious Accident—One Saves Others in Twelve Feet of Water Though Leg Is Broken.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A bad accident occurred in the Drake shaft of the Quartette Company's mine, Searchlight, today. The sufferers were George Ackley, Harley Homes and Church Bottenfield.

The three men fell from a point about thirty feet from the bottom of the shaft, the depth of which is 351 feet. Ackley's leg was broken and the others were much bruised and shaken up. Twelve feet of water at the bottom saved their lives.

The only one of the three who could swim was Ackley, who, although his leg was broken, succeeded in keeping his companions above water until they were rescued by means of a rope.

STRYCHNINE?

MYSTERY OF A WOMAN'S DEATH IS FOLLOWED INTO HER GRAVE.

Ptomaine Doubted, and Body of Mrs. Bennett Exhumed. Widower Gone.

WHAT killed Mrs. Eugenia Thompson Bennett—ptomaine poisoning, as has been supposed, or strychnine, as is suspected? Was her death the result of eating fermented chili con carne, or was she murdered? Where is the widower, Harper Eugene Bennett? and why did he leave at a time when the authorities were beginning an investigation of his wife's strange taking off, early in the year? Why did he have her remains embalmed with an unusual quantity of fluid on the pretext that he intended to ship them East for interment, and then bury them in Evergreen Cemetery? Why was he unwilling to make a statement when called upon to explain these and other peculiar circumstances? Answers to many questions of this kind are sought by the District Attorney's office, which yesterday followed the mystery into the woman's grave, disinterring the body and placing certain parts in sealed jars for chemical examination by experts. For a month the officers have been conducting a searching inquiry to determine the real cause for Mrs. Bennett's passing, and so much evidence is collected that it is understood only the fact of poison in the corpse is necessary as the basis for a warrant charging a fiendish crime. Bennett, the widower, has closed his real estate offices in Los Angeles and the detectives report that they cannot trace him.

Figures and Scene in a Mysterious Tragedy of Poison.

Mrs. Eugenia Thompson Bennett, the supposed victim of ptomaine, whose death three months ago is under investigation, the exhumation of the wonderfully-preserved body in Evergreen Cemetery yesterday, the two physicians who will make expert analyses of the contents of the stomach and other organs for traces of strychnine, the District Attorney's officers who are inquiring into suspicious-appearing circumstances, and the missing widower.

After a month of careful investigation by the detectives of the District Attorney's office into the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Bennett from the effects of alleged ptomaine poisoning on February 13 last, such indications of a horrible crime have been unearthed that yesterday the body was dug up for the purposes of a chemical analysis.

A permit was secured from the City Health Department to exhume the remains in Evergreen Cemetery. S. L. Browne, chief detective of the District Attorney's, and Louis Duni, one of the most reliable men on the staff of the County Prosecutor, took charge of the case at the grave.

Besides the officers, Dr. Julius Koebig and Dr. Lyman B. Stookey, two of the best-known analytical chemists in the Southwest, were present when the corpse was taken up under the direction of the superintendent of the cemetery.

All arrangements were made to preclude the curious, and a canvas screen was erected around the grave. Within the inclosure made of canvas screens, where the doctors could work without fear of interruption.

Slowly the screws were removed from the casket lid, and when the last was laid aside the few men present steeled their hearts for a grewsome sight when the body, laid away over three months ago, was exposed to view.

BEHOLD FRESH, SMILING FACE.

But like a miracle it seemed when from the receptacle of death there smiled up at them, the fresh-appearing face of a comely woman who looked as though she might be still breathing.

The body was in a perfect state of preservation. The eyes were closed, it is true, but the lips were parted in a smile and curiously red, giving to the dead face the aspect of a living, sleeping woman. Her hair was done up in the latest style over a "rat," the complexion was strangely tinged with a faint pink, while the hands, which were crossed on her bosom, were clasped in the most natural to muster courage to touch the body, as though fearing she would open her eyes. Finally Dr. Koebig tenderly unclasped the folded hands and laid the arms beside the trunk. There was something that must be done.

TAKEN FOR ANALYSIS.

After all was over the shell of the body was again arranged in its casket bed, and with a last look at the curiously smiling face, the lid was screwed on, and the body committed to its resting place.

An automobile drove slowly from the cemetery down Michigan avenue and turned into First street. It contained a number of heavy glass jars, tightly sealed. These glass jars were turned over to Drs. Koebig and Stookey. They contain the stomach, liver, intestines and other parts of Mrs. Bennett's body.

Dr. Koebig and Dr. Stookey will make the chemical analysis of the contents of the jars and hope to get through with the investigation within six days, but if they do this it will prove to be a record case of the kind into this strange case are convinced that Mrs. Bennett was murdered. It is believed that the immediate cause of death was strychnine poisoning. It is to make absolutely sure of this question that the remains were dug up yesterday. Upon the chemical examination will depend whether a warrant charging murder in the first degree will be issued.

In case such a warrant is issued it will probably be for the arrest of Harper Eugene Bennett, the widower.

It is asserted that during the investigation by the officers Bennett was called upon for a deposition. This they have not been able to get, as Bennett has left Los Angeles and it is not known where he is at present.

Bennett was the head of the Bennett Real Estate Company with offices in the O. T. Johnson building. The offices have been closed for three weeks.

As the matter stands no charge is made against Bennett. The fact that he did not have the body of his wife cremated instead of buried is said to be an indication that he had a clear conscience, or at least did not fear an investigation. Other circumstances appear open to suspicion, however.

CHILD'S REMARK HEARD.

A casual remark by the little daughter of the dead woman at the inquest over the body led to the first step in the investigation as to the true cause of death.

Saturday, February 13, Mrs. Bennett called at her husband's office in the O. T. Johnson building, after a shopping tour downtown. Together they started to take a Main-street car for their home at No. 227 West Forty-fifth street.

After the death of his wife, Bennett made a statement. He said:

"My wife came to my office about 5 o'clock and we went home together. On the way she said: 'Don't let's have a regular dinner tonight. Let's have a sort of lunch.' I asked her what she'd like and she answered, 'chili con carne.' So we stopped in Royston's grocery and bought two cans of chili con carne, packed by the Armour Packing Company."

It was this chili con carne which was alleged to have caused the death of Mrs. Bennett within two hours after she had eaten it.

According to the story of Bennett, when they reached home Mrs. Bennett prepared a light supper. He and his

PUT CHECK ON CHECK WRITER.

Money Raising Stopped in Santa Barbara.

Operator and Woman Companion in Custody.

Trail of His Bad Paper Is Followed Here.

Harvey Wilson, alias Harvey W. Hoyer, who passed a number of worthless checks in Los Angeles in the course of a brief sojourn here several weeks ago, was arrested yesterday in Santa Barbara on the charge of passing worthless checks in that city to the amount of $424.

Together with Wilson, the Santa Barbara police arrested a woman who passed as Wilson's wife at the Hotel Mascarel, where the two stopped while in that city, but who is alleged by the Channel City officers to be Ella Martin of Los Angeles. The local police stated last night that they have been looking for Wilson on the charge of passing worthless checks here, but had no complaints of a woman working with him, and did not know of a Mrs. Wilson or a woman named Ella Martin.

According to Santa Barbara dispatches, Wilson was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Commercial Bank while attempting to secure money on a forged check. When searched a number of Los Angeles bank checks were found in his pockets, many of them filled in for large sums.

Later, when the police went to Wilson's apartments in the Mascarel they found the woman who was registered as his wife and placed her under arrest. At the hotel Wilson and the woman had posed as traveling photographers from Chicago.

RECEIPT FOR BIG DRAFT.

When the rooms were searched the police found among their effects a receipt of the German-American National Bank of Los Angeles for an order of $45,000 against the First National Bank of Philadelphia, together with filled-in checks on other banks of this city. Inquiry last night revealed that the $45,000 receipt was fictitious and that Wilson had no accounts in the local banks on which he had drawn checks.

Wilson is about 32 years of age, dresses nattily and is a smooth talker. The woman arrested with him is reported from Santa Barbara to be beautiful and prepossessing in manner. Their game in the northern city was passing their worthless checks on Chinese merchants from whom the couple made trifling purchases and secured the change on the worthless paper. The northern police believe that Wilson was making a last bid to secure money when he entered the Commercial Bank to cash a check and when he was arrested. The condition of the apartments indicated that the couple were preparing to leave. So far as the Santa Barbara police were able to ascertain yesterday Wilson and the woman had scattered $424 of worthless paper in the city in their stay of several days there.

MYSTERY ABOUT WOMAN.

Wilson evidently went to Santa Barbara directly from Los Angeles. the woman who was arrested with him in Santa Barbara operated with him here she was kept in the dark.

According to the police records here Wilson came to the city about four weeks ago and took apartments with Mrs. C. A. Crandall at No. 525 West Fifth street. When he paid his room rent he did so with a check for $1. This check was returned to Mrs. Crandall from the bank on which it was drawn dishonored. Wilson lived at the rooming-house alone.

According to the same records here Wilson secured by means of a worthless check for $30 a typewriter from the Underwood agency on Broadway, which he sold to a second-hand dealer at No. 647 South Spring street.

BAD CHECK FOR KODAK.

Earl V. Lewis of No. 226 West Fourth street reported to the police on March 3 that Wilson came to his place and purchased a kodak for which he paid with a worthless check. The Pacific Drug Company at Seventh street and Grand avenue reports that Wilson also appeared there, made a small purchase and gave a check for $12.50 in payment, receiving the balance in cash. Later the check was returned marked "no funds." The police state that last night that they had received numerous complaints against Wilson.

Wilson used the name of Hover.

BULL IN COURT.

Beast Painted in Various Colors as the Character Figures in Night Session Before Justice Stephens.

A session was held last night in Justice Stephens's court to decide the ownership of a bull of ambiguous character over which Calabasas and Compton communities have been in doubt for four years. The decision of the court, allowing the animal to remain in the possession of the defendant, B. Voser, appeared to be a vindication of the beast's character.

The defense, through the testimony of many witnesses, painted the bull in snow-white spirituelle colors and endowed him with an angelic disposition. In rebuttal the plaintiff gave his character a Mephistopheles twist, and Pierre Agoure, who claims him, dared the court to attempt to catch him without a lasso. The court declined, not being a vaquero.

A. D. Morrison, who also claims the bull, and who sold it to Voser for chops and steaks, asserts that it was born on his Calabasas ranch in April, 1904. He weaned it personally and showed its appreciation by adoptin the family and becoming a pet about the house. Morrison's brother, residing in Compton, with many Compton people, went to help the history of the bull's life into the court records. That it played and gambole is beyond doubt, but the intents ascribed to it by the plaintiff were fierce.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—In the Courts and Offices.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

A special meeting of the Council will be held today to ask the War Department to release for wharfage the 146-acre tract of water front at San Pedro offered for a naval station site.

Frances Huneke, a Santa Monica woman, told in Judge Bordwell's court yesterday how she hid her money from her husband in the sand, and then gave it to Mrs. Mary Shaw to lend him on a mortgage on the place; the husband paying interest on the loan to Mrs. Shaw, who, in turn paid it to Mrs. Huneke.

J. Q. Andrews brought an action to resist the probate of the will of his wife, Susan E. Andrews, who left the bulk of her estate to the First New Testament Church. He alleges undue influence.

AT THE CITY HALL.

ASK UNCLE SAM TO DECLINE.

NAVAL STATION SITE AT SAN SAN PEDRO FOR WHARVES.

Special Council Meeting Today to Urge Washington Officials to Release Large Water Frontage to City of San Pedro—Clearing Harbor Plans.

To clarify the question of the use of the San Pedro harbor frontage of 146 acres, owned by the city of San Pedro, the Council will pass resolutions today asking the War Department not to accept the land, as tendered, as the site of a naval station.

Because of a doubt as to what the government intends to do about the title under of this land, the Consolidation Committee feels that the Senator and Congressman from this section should be asked to move at once and secure a settlement of the question. The land was offered as a naval station over a year ago, but the War Department has not, at any time, indicated whether it will accept.

The Consolidation Committee believes that this acreage should be one of the first points of harbor improvement by the consolidated municipality, and plans along that line are clouded by the existence of the tender to the government. Hence the resolutions to be passed today at a special meeting will ask the government to reject the offer and leave the area free for immediate improvement for wharfage and other harbor purposes.

It will not convey the impression that a naval station is undesirable, but it will indicate that whenever the government is ready to build, a site better protected farther inland will be arranged for.

Until the government acts the plans for the outer harbor must be somewhat uncertain. The Southern California representatives will be asked to hasten the decision, as there was a time limit fixed in the tender.

The Council will also be asked to authorize the City Attorney to dismiss about fifteen suits to condemn aqueduct right of way in the region of Isabeth Lake and south of South Pasadena. The condemnation proceedings have been settled without trial.

YONKIN OPPOSES.

WELFARE WORK NOT ALL.

Councilman Yonkin will oppose the appropriation of $7500 for the extension of Y.M.C.A. work in the aqueduct camps because he believes the city should do more, in a different way, for the army of workmen.

"I have recently visited the region and I found that of the 4000 or more men employed, probably 1500 or less are citizens of Los Angeles. They are men with packs on their backs, mostly, who go to gain employment for a short time and then move on. But even if they were all citizens I would prefer to spend money in giving them better living accommodations and in improving their opportunities for physical and moral recreation. I saw enough on my visit to justify my belief that it is poor policy to have accommodations that are driving the men from aqueduct employment."

EDISON'S TAXES.

DEMANDS FRANCHISE PAYMENT.

Another corporation giving public service in Los Angeles began the agitations for a lawsuit to recover certain taxes paid by it on its "franchise-value" when the Edison Electric Company filed a demand with the Council yesterday for the return of $39,714.50. The amount was paid under protest in November and represents the taxes on a valuation of $2,377,160 on the franchise of the company to use the streets of the city to supply light and power to its inhabitants.

The company alleges that, at the time the valuation was fixed, it was not a resident of California, but that its principal place of business was at Kanston, Wyo., in which State it is incorporated. All the questions raised by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company in its recent suit for a similar recovery are set out in the demand. The Council will refer the demand to the City Attorney for investigation and he is expected to report adversely that the questions raised were represented to the Council in July, 1908, when the assessment was fixed.

Trask May Retire.

The Mayor will soon have to hunt a new Police Commissioner unless exChief Trask changes his mind. He accepted a place only on the condition that he could retire at the end of sixty days, and as the end of that period is near, the Mayor is anxious that he reconsider and remain. However, the business that the commission has had to transact has been so great that two or three long sessions are necessary weekly, and the time of the members has been used up in investigating affairs that must be acted upon at these meetings. Still the Mayor does hope that Trask will consent to stay out the year. He is the only attorney on the commission.

What Mushet Found.

Worrying for a week because his side was hurt, as the result of a collision with an open drawer in a case in his office, Auditor Mushet found by appealing to his physician yesterday that three of his right ribs had been fractured by the accident. The injury was attended to, but it did not prevent the Auditor from continuing at his desk.

City Hall Previties.

The Board of Public Works has notified the Patillo contracting company, which has the contract for the improvement of Orange street, between Pearce and Alvarado streets, that it must prosecute its work and make the street passable. The contract was awarded in January, and the work is to be completed by September. The street for nearly all the long distance has been plowed up and barricaded with planks and travel has ceased. The extension of the contract period would be granted.

The City Engineer has recommended the replanking, where necessary, and paving with asphalt of the bridges at Dayton avenue, Avenue 26, East Fourth street and Ninth street, at a cost of $3700. He says the improvement is necessary, and the Board of Public Works has approved his plans.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

WIFE LOANS IN ODD WAY.

HUSBAND-BORROWER DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT IT.

He Gives Mortgage and She Furnishes the Money, But Through a Friend She Conceals Her Identity in the Transaction—Hidden Wealth Figures in Santa Monica Case.

A story of a woman who did not trust the banks for the safe keeping of her money developed in the Superior Court before Judge Bordwell yesterday. The woman loaned the money to her husband, through a second party unknown to him, and who collected the interest on the amount loaned through that individual, all in total ignorance of the husband, who is joined with the money loaner as one of the defendants in the action.

Officially the case is that of Frances Huneke against John Huneke and Mary M. Shaw, all the parties being residents of Santa Monica.

The Hunekes were married February 24, 1874. It was alleged in the petition that at the time of the wedding Mrs. Huneke had $3000, part of which, consisting of more than $1560, she retained until August 8, 1898. She did not inform her husband of her possession and ownership of the money, for he was a dissolute man, she alleged, and she feared he might make a claim for a part of the cash as community property.

The narrative, as told on the witness stand, was to the effect that Mrs. Huneke kept her money hidden in the sand in the rear of her lot, in Santa Monica.

"Was it hidden in the sand along the beach?" asked her counsel, Attorney York.

"Oh, no," answered the woman. "It was in a hole in my back yard." Continuing, she said: "At one time I had it tied in a sack and hung up among the bats in the garret; you know what a bat is?" asked the woman. "The big black things that hang down with their hind legs."

In the summer of 1898, Huneke was worried about a mortgage on the property, that was about to be foreclosed. He did not know where to get the money to pay it off. Neither did he know that his wife had hidden about the place more than enough to pay off the mortgage. Then the clever woman bethought herself of a scheme. She went to Mary M. Shaw, a friend of the family, and concocted a plan with her, by which Huneke was to get the cash to lift the debt. She proposed to Mrs. Shaw that she should give her (Mrs. Shaw) the necessary amount, and then she should loan the money to Huneke. She did not want the husband to know that she had it, and still desired to assist him. The arrangement was perfected, and within a short time Mrs. Huneke suggested to her husband that she believed he could get enough money to pay off the debt from Mrs. Shaw; she had understood that the lady was looking for investments.

The husband at once called upon Mrs. Shaw, and there was no trouble in arranging the deal. He secured the money and the mortgage was transferred to Mrs. Shaw. Not only that, but Huneke kept paying interest on the note and mortgage until 1907, to Mrs. Shaw, who in turn paid the interest money over to Mrs. Huneke. In that year he could not meet the interest charges.

Mrs. Huneke was the principal witness in her own behalf, and she was picturesque in her testimony and manner of its delivery. She wore a black fedora hat while she was on the stand, and ratied the judicial poise of all who heard her testimony, including the court itself. She said she had been married to a soldier named Beck before she met Huneke, and that she possessed $5000 when that ceremony was consummated. She said he was a smart man and not a drinker, and as she told this she glared at the meek and friendless John Huneke, who sat by his counsel.

The husband, John Huneke, when asked if he had ever contributed anything to her support, shouted, with a snap in his voice: "I paid $35 at one time for the making of a dress for her, the time she went up to San Francisco and swelled around."

The prayer of the petition filed by Mrs. Huneke was for a judgment against John Huneke for $1560, and interest from 1907 and costs of the suit, and that a decree be entered foreclosing the mortgage, ordering the sale of whatever interest John Huneke had therein on that date, and that out of the proceeds of such sale that part found to be due plaintiff be paid; and that Mrs. Shaw be declared to have no interest in the note and mortgage, and that she account to the plaintiff for all moneys received by her as interest from John Huneke on such note and mortgage. Judge Bordwell took the case under advisement.

Mrs. Huneke has had three experiences in the divorce courts, and litigation with the same husband, covering a series of years.

WILL CONTEST.

CHURCH PEOPLE ACCUSED.

J. Q. Andrews filed a motion in the Probate Court yesterday objecting to the filing of the will of his wife, Susan E. Andrews, who died in this city April 25, leaving an estate estimated to be worth about $8000. The petition for the probate of the will was made by the Los Angeles Trust Company, executors under the terms of the instrument that was dated February 20, last. The issue will be heard by Judge Rives next Monday.

By the terms of the will a house and lot on Maple avenue, Glendale, was left to an adopted daughter, Mrs. Parker Kilgore, while her husband is cut off with $100. To Mrs. Cora Chase is bequeathed $200. She instructs her executors to sell the six-room house and lot, No. 442 East Thirty-eighth street, and her one-half interest in property at No. 1006 East Fifty-first street, and pay out of this $500 to Pastor Joseph Smale of the First New Testament Church, to be used in carrying out the purposes of the work of the Chinese missions, and $300 to Smale for the work in which the church is engaged in Jerusalem. If any money is left after paying the expenses of the estate it is to be given to Smale to carry on the work of the Los Angeles city missions.

The testatrix says in her will: "I am under no obligation to my husband's children by a former wife; therefore I am not obliged to give them anything."

BARS PROBATION MEN.

COURT'S ORDER TO POLICE.

When William Huntoon was arraigned in Judge Willis's court a few days ago, on the charge of violating his probation, he said that he had entered certain gambling places in this city, in the line of his employment by certain members of the police force of the city. He made good that assertion in the same court yesterday, and as a result of the developments, Judge Willis issued an order to Police Captain Dixon, that hereafter he see to it that none of the police employ in detective work men who are under the probation orders of the court. Captain Dixon said he would issue such an order immediately.

After hearing the testimony in the case the court took the matter under advisement until this morning.

ASKS ACCOUNTING.

SUES GLADYS LAMBERTON.

A serious family jar was disclosed in the action filed by Jennie N. Franks against Gladys L. Lamberton in the Superior Court yesterday. The plaintiff is the widow of Nathan Franks, who died in Los Angeles, in August, 1905. He left besides the widow, two daughters, Ariel Baskette and the defendant.

The plaintiff says she is 64 years of age, that the defendant is very bright and clever, and offered to transact any business desired by the mother as her trusted agent. The petition recites that in August, 1905, the defendant received as such agent, $2428.84, from the Home Life Insurance Company of New York, and also $3319.96 from the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, on account of life insurance policies held by the husband. It is also charged that the defendant disposed of a stock of groceries valued at $3500 to her own benefit, horses and wagons worth $500, $150 from the sale of plaintiff's furniture at Ocean Park and a piano worth $900. It is also alleged that of the $300 received from the Masonic Lodge of Dallas, Tex., for funeral expenses of her husband, her trusted agent only spent $185. There is also a deal involving the construction of two bungalows on West Jefferson street, in which the allegation is made that the defendant had not carried out her agreement.

The mother asks that the daughter be compelled to give an accounting of the moneys received from the estate of the husband and father.

GETS SEVEN YEARS.

WILL HAVE EXPERIENCE.

Albert Fullbright, who pleaded guilty to assaulting U. Ota, a Japanese, with intent to rob him, was yesterday given seven years in San Quentin by Judge Willis. When asked why he had attacked the Jap, the accused said he had been reading in a newspaper somewhere that it was an easy matter to hold up one of the little brown men and he thought he would make an experiment.

Testimony was taken in the cases of J. A. Redman and U. C. Swensen, charged with burglarizing the residence of R. W. Pridham in South Pasadena, pending the action of the court on an application for probation of the boys. Redman belongs to a well-known family in Salt Lake, where his father is a commission merchant. The matter was postponed until the 29th inst.

The cases against Albert, Edward and Peter Trejo, the trio of alleged robbers, who are asking for probation, was before the court. Judge Willis said he had information that the Trejos had been engaged in a number of similar jobs, and further consideration was fixed for the 29th inst.

RESPITE FOR FORGER.

EXPERT WILL EXAMINE.

The case of J. P. Veach, who was found guilty of forging a check for $500 on the First National Bank of this city, was postponed by Judge Willis yesterday to give an opportunity to examine into the mental capacity of the prisoner. A stipulation has been made between Veach's attorney and the District Attorney's office to the effect that he will be examined within a few days by Dr. George W. Campbell, and that if that expert finds the accused is mentally unsound there will be no disposition to push the case against Veach, and that he will be allowed to be sent to Patton instead of San Quentin or Folsom.

It is known by the District Atotrney that Veach has been guilty of a number of check-kiting schemes within the past year or more, but the majority of the instances involve small sums.

Veach is reported to have been involved in a number of frauds in Riverside county several years ago. It is likely that these matters will be investigated before a decision is rendered in his case.

NOVEL ACTION. Alexander Morrison, an infant, by Catherine Morrison, his guardian, sued Sumter Black in the Superior Court yesterday, asking a judgment for $2000 on account of an accident to a coaster on which the boy was riding October 13 last on the north side of Temple street near the corner of Douglas. The complaint alleges that while the lad with his brother, Robert Morrison, was coasting upon the public streets at the location stated, the defendant threw the plaintiff off the band, J. Q. Andrews, says that his wife was of unsound mind; that she did not sign the testament in the presence of witnesses; that she was unduly influenced by Cora Chase, Belle Hinman, Eliza Ford and R. G. Haskell, the latter an official of the church that benefits by the will, and the other members of the congregation.

He alleges that in the summer of 1908, while his wife was sick, she was induced to come to Los Angeles and take up her residence with Eliza Danforth of West Eleventh street, where she remained a month under the influence and control of these people. They told her, he says, that she should make large bequests for religious and missionary work in China, and particularly that conducted by the Church of the New Testament, of which they were members or attendants. They told her also, he alleges, that her husband was old and would soon pass out of this life, and that $100 was entirely sufficient to supply all his needs for the short time he would probably live; that if she gave him very much it would soon go to his children by another woman, and that he and the children had not treated her right; they had no regard or affection for her; that he and his son, M. H. Andrews, were trying to get the property away from her; their wills dominated hers, he asserts, or she would have acted differently.

Mr. Andrews also avers there was an agreement made between his wife and himself in May, 1904, under the provisions of which she was to receive title to all property thereafter accumulated by both, and in return for this she was to will to him all the property she possessed at the time of her death. He asks that the petition for the probate of the will be denied.

FOUND GUILTY. A jury in Judge Davis's court found Pedro Ruiz guilty of assault upon Gustine Pressiado with a deadly weapon. He will be sentenced Friday morning.

WANTS THE MONEY. Charles Moore has entered a suit against The Mechanics' and Traders' Insurance Company of New Orleans, for the recovery of $2000, alleged to be due on account of a policy in the corporation for that amount. Goods belonging to the plaintiff were destroyed by fire February 18, last, it is stated.

INCORPORATIONS. Papers for the following incorporations were filed in the office of the County Clerk yesterday: Curran Printing Company, capital stock $20,000; Bed Rock Dredging Company, capital stock $500,000; by Clifford H. Smith, J. A. Ball, C. S. Scott, M. S. Henshaw and George B. Pirosh; The American Sanitary Paper Company, capital stock $10,000.

TO CHANGE NAME. The Pomona College filed a petition in the Superior Court yesterday, asking for the change of the name to Pomona College, eliminating the prefix "The."

DECIDED TO DAY. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the contested divorce case of Catharine Claffy against Thomas M. Claffy, will be argued before Judge James. It is likely that a decision will be immediately rendered. There is about $30,000 worth of property owned by the pair, and it is possible that some sort of a settlement in regard to these holdings will be made.

NEW CITIZENS. The following persons were granted naturalization certificates yesterday by Judge Wilbur: Ross B. Boyd, John Borg, Joseph Tomaschko, Firal Janofsky, Otto E. Bjorklund, Thomas M. Healy, Carl A. Erickson, William Clawson, John Schroeder and Jens Peter Nielsen.

WANTS A DIVORCE. Lydia Annie W. F. Sasakuri, an American woman, who August 9, 1907, was married to Kikutara Sasakuri, a Japanese, brought an action for divorce in the Superior Court yesterday. She alleges that her liege lord has been harsh in his treatment of her, that he beat her on a number of occasions and neglected to provide for her in any way.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

SAYS HE HAS TWO SELVES.

FATHER MAKES A STATEMENT ABOUT HIS SON.

Because of Auto Accident in Which Young Man Was Injured Police Justice Extends Mercy to Defendant—China and Japan Involved in Case of Bad Spuds.

Because of an automobile accident more than three months ago in which he was terribly injured, Joseph Wert, 21 years of age, was given a suspended sentence by Justice Williams in the Police Court yesterday, after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

Wert, according to the story told by his father yesterday, loses all control of his actions at times and wanders about the street, knowing that he is doing wrong and yet powerless to keep from acting in such manner as to cause police interference.

Saturday night the young man was arrested on South Main street. He was addressing pedestrians and making proposals which were alleged to be insulting. He was taken to the Police Station and booked on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Yesterday afternoon his father interceded for him. He told the justice that the young man was perfectly sane until he tasted liquor. Now and then he manages to get away from home and as soon as he drinks a glass of beer his control is gone. It is then that he is compelled to live, as it were, with a dual personality. His right self is there, knowing right from wrong and yet powerless to prevent his other self from acting in a ridiculous manner.

His mental fight to gain the upper hand during such periods leaves him weak and exhausted.

Justice Williams gave him a sentence of $25 or twenty-five days and suspended this upon promise of good behavior. Specialists will probably be called in to examine the young man and do what they can to relieve the distress caused by the accident of several months ago.

Says Spuds Were Bad.

Warrants for the arrest of G. Yokama and I. Kitahata were sworn to yesterday in Justice Williams court by officers from the Health Department, who charge the defendants with having sold condemned potatoes.

The Japanese are gardeners. The complaining witness is Wong Tong, a Chinese vegetable peddler of the central market.

Wong alleges that he bought several hundred sacks of potatoes, at $1.25 a sack, instead of the regular price of double that amount. The bill was $425.

When he investigated the sacks he found that a few of them, those he had looked into for samples, were first class potatoes. The others were of the poorest quality and absolutely unfit for market.

Endless litigation is promised in the case. The Japanese have retained Nick Harris as a detective to care for their interests. He stated yesterday that the potatoes had not been inspected and condemned and that his clients had sold the potatoes on the condition that they were to be sorted before being put on the market. For that reason the sacks were sold at half price.

The Japanese further allege that Wong Tong has not as yet paid a cent of the bill and for that reason there has been no crime committed because the sale has not been completed.

Civil suits have already been filed. The Japanese will be arraigned in Police Court today and the Orient will be well represented by a score of witnesses for both factions.

Given Another Chance.

H. H. Hays, W. Hughes, George Brown, J. Cline and John Elliott were each sentenced to serve 180 days in the City Jail by Justice Williams, yesterday after they had been found guilty of charges of vagrancy. The sentences were suspended and the men were given another chance to be good. They will be on probation for six months.

False Bottom in Box.

A. E. Sussex, a peddler living at No. 457 East Fourth street, was taken to the offices of the City Prosecutor yesterday, charged with having violated the laws of weights and measures. Sussex was selling potatoes on the street, yesterday morning. Everything went well until he reached a careful housekeeper. Upon investigation it was found that the bottom of the box in which the spuds were measured had a false bottom in it. This cut down the number of potatoes about half of the proper measure.

The peddler was followed for several blocks and a policeman was called in. Sussex was told to report at a later date, pending an investigation of his operations.

Taylor Released.

Deputy Dist.-Atty. Donnell did not file a complaint yesterday against Blaine Taylor, a young attorney, who had been arrested in connection with the floating of several worthless checks.

The arrest was based upon an allegation that Taylor had passed a check for $20 on a downtown saloon when he knew that he had no funds in the bank to meet the payment. A careful investigation of the evidence yesterday did not warrant a complaint, and Taylor was released late in the afternoon.

Druggists Heavily Fined.

Three druggists, convicted of selling morphine without prescription, were heavily fined in Justice Williams's police court, yesterday morning. The arrests were a part of the crusade being carried on by the police against the illegal sale of liquor and poisons.

C. R. Kaiser of No. 1452 San Fernando street was fined $100 on the drug charge and $50 on a complaint alleging the violation of the liquor laws.

Like fines were imposed upon H. L. Park of No. 2600 South Main street. Miss Marguerite Evans of No. 2006 East Seventh street pleaded guilty to selling morphine and was fined $50.

D. McCarroll, a clerk, of No. 846 East Fifth street charged with a similar offense, failed to appear in court and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Trial to Be a Novelty.

Mrs. Anna Shaw, chargd with disturbing the peace, yesterday asked Justice Williams what a trial was like. She was told to return at 10 o'clock, this morning and find out.

Mrs. Shaw is an elderly woman. She was arrested upon complaint of Philip Rice, one of her tenants. Rice is a conductor and lives at No. 1381 East Eighteenth street. He alleges that Mrs. Shaw made ugly remarks about Mrs. Rice and that as a result his wife is confined to her bed.

Mrs. Shaw was released on her own recognizance.

FALSE PRETENSES CHARGED.

Two Long Beach Men Arrested Accused of Having Misrepresented in Horse Sale.

On complaint of J. B. Buckingham, William Frederick and A. E. O'Banion of Long Beach were lodged in jail yesterday afternoon, in default of $1000 bail, before Justice Summerfield, on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Buckingham alleges that on June 8 A. C. Roberts and himself purchased two horses at the livery and sale stable of the defendants for $90, it being represented that the animals were sound and that they had been left at the stable for sale by Walter Thompson. It is now said that Thompson had nothing to do with the horses, and that they are of no account.

O'Banion was at one time captain of Troop D, succeeding Dist.-Atty. J. D. Fredericks, and was in charge of that command at the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

MRS. TRUE THE WINNER.

In a decision which reached here yesterday, the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment of the lower court in favor of the plaintiff, in the case of Bella M. True against E. R. Fox. The action was to cancel a bond issued on a street assessment and to enjoin the execution of a deed pursuant to a sale in the proceedings. The court en banc states: "The contract for the street improvement required the work to be done under a specific clause, which provided that all loss or damage arising from the nature of the work to be done under the agreement shall be sustained by the contractor. The presence of this stipulation in a street improvement contract has been held to render the assessment and all subsequent proceedings therein void, in repeated decisions of this court. Upon the authority of those decisions and upon the reasons stated therein, judgment is affirmed." Chief Justice Beatty and Justice Shaw dissented.

APPELLATE COURT FINDINGS.

Judgment was affirmed by the Second District Court of Appeal yesterday in the case of Lewis W. Andrews against Fred F. Wheeler and others, which was an action to quiet title. The controversy grew out of conflicting claims as to the true location of certain division lines. Judgment was rendered in favor of the defendant in the lower court. The Appellate Court also affirm judgment for the plaintiff in the case of C. P. Stewart against C. H. Burbridge and E. J. Owens. In the case of Gertrude Stull against Charles E. Benedict, which was decided in favor of the defendant in the Superior Court, the higher tribunal finds no reason for modifying judgment.

TO COLLECT JUDGMENT.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

OVER A HALF MILLION MORE.

March and April Increase Quite Heavily.

Seventeen and Half Million in Four Months.

Coalinga's Imperative Need for Pipe Lines.

Six hundred thousand barrels in round numbers is the increase of oil production in California in March and April over January and February. The Times has gathered its information from reliable sources. Reduced to exact figures the increase is 597,800. April's production increased over March's 118,400 barrels. March's output was 44,000 less than January's and 108,366 more than February's, but February had three days less and also witnessed an enormous decline at Santa Maria, where washouts stopped all business half the month. The March yield was 4,494,900, and April's 4,618,600; total for two months, 9,165,500 barrels.

For the first four months of the year the total yield was 17,613,200 barrels. Should this rate continue for twelve months the total will be 52,839,600 barrels. With the almost certainty of more good wells in Cat Cañon, this figure is more likely to be higher than lower.

Kern River is doing less than it was earlier in the year. It was somewhat abnormally high then. It has yielded 1,732,800 barrels for four months, at which rate its total for the year will be 14,317,000 barrels, more than the 1908 production, and more than it has given since 1904, when it reached the enormous total of 17,540,000. It has never done as well since and is not likely to again.

Coalinga is in the lead. For four months it has produced 4,942,000 barrels, at which rate its total for the year will be 14,826,000, or 509,000 more than Kern River. It is to handle this production that the Associated is issuing bonds to lay pipes to the ocean to supplement the present totally inadequate facilities. It has been demonstrated that storage in huge earthen reservoirs used at Kern River cannot be had at Coalinga, and as tank storage is costly, it is likely that every effort will be made to move oil purchased, promptly. All surplus is being stored at Kern River and when pipe lines are ready it is likely that whenever there is a general surplus, temporary or otherwise, the tendency will be to work Coalinga to the limit and store at Kern River.

The prospects of an independent pipe line are being discussed in oildom. Opinion is divided as to the merits of the plan, but it is quite generally agreed that something must be done and soon for relief.

There is a good deal of feeling as to the relations between the Associated, Mexican Petroleum and the Agency. Before entering the Agency the American Petroleum contracted 7,000,000 to be handled at, it is said, a slightly lower price than the Agency contract; but put its remaining production in the Agency. Naturally the Associated takes the lower priced oil first and leaves the Agency's surplus over. It is being charged that it is not, in its handling its maximum under the contract. It is stated that the American Petroleum offered its contract to the Agency but the latter declined on account of the price.

The following table gives the output of the several fields:

FORGER AND DESERTER?

Young Man Arrested in Redlands Is Wanted in San Francisco and San Diego.

F. J. Harris, who is wanted in San Diego on the charge of forgery, and at the Presidio in San Francisco on the charge of deserting from the Thirty-eighth Company, Coast Artillery, was arrested yesterday in Redlands, brought here last night, and lodged in the City Jail. He will be taken to San Diego today to answer to the forgery charge.

The police here know no details of the forgery charges against Harris in San Diego except that he was implicated with them in connection with E. R. Miller, for whom the local authorities have also been asked to keep a lookout. Harris is 23 years old, and when arrested was wearing his army uniform. Miller is 19. Harris was arrested in San Bernardino by Officer Bigger of the local recruiting station. Following army custom the Federal officers will turn Harris over to the southern authorities for prosecution before they prefer army charges.

DEVIOUS FINANCE.

CARLSON HELD TO BE TRIED.

ON TWO COUNTS CASE GOES TO SUPERIOR COURT.

One of Accusations Is That He Made a False Entry of Three Thousand Dollars on the Books of Consolidated Bank—The Other Is of Embezzlement.

On two charges W. H. Carlson was yesterday held for trial in the Superior Court under $3000 bail by order of Justice Stephens, before whom the hearing took place.

The charges are that the defendant made a false entry in the books of the Consolidated Bank, involving $3000, and that he was guilty of embezzlement of $127.65, the amount of a grocery bill that it is alleged he paid out of the funds of the bank.

In rendering his decision holding the defendant for trial Justice Stephens said:

"In arriving at the conclusion of these two cases I have taken the trouble to write down a little synopsis of the fact. I have not gone over my notes, so in reading them it may seem a little disconnected.

"These actions were partly heard together, and the testimony was taken on about twenty different days, the District Attorney's duties elsewhere, with the search for material witnesses, causing continuances for several days at a time, during which numerous civil suits have been heard. For this reason it was deemed best to carefully review a volume of the testimony.

"I find the facts to be about as follows: That the defendant is the president and the practical manager of the Consolidated Bank of Los Angeles, general manager of the Los Angeles Securities Company and the Carlson Investment Company. The cause (No. 904) charges a false entry in the bank books on December 28, 1907, of a credit to the Los Angeles Securities Company of $3000.

"On that date the Los Angeles Securities Company, a corporation that for several years had been a large depositor with the bank, was considerably overdrawn. The defendant placed a draft for $3000 against the Ralston Realty Company of San Diego, Cal., from the Carlson Investment Company, and signed by himself, in the drawer of the bank, and caused the item to be entered to the credit of the Los Angeles Securities Company. The Ralston Realty Company was a corporation handling large realty interests for the Carlson Investment Company, and monthly remitted sums from $500 to $4000. This draft was on more than one occasion taken, according to the testimony of Miss McKittrick, the cashier, from the drawer of the bank and replaced with another of later date, but was not forwarded until May 9, 1908, and in due time it was returned marked 'No authority to draw,' and the Ralston Realty Company both telegraphed and wrote as to their inability to meet the amount, which they otherwise would have done according to their letter and telegram.

"Something less than $3000 was then due from the Ralston Realty Company to the Carlson Investment Company, and the usual time for forwarding was past.

"The evidence clearly indicates that mutual concessions as business emergencies arose were frequently made between the Carlson Investment Company and the Ralston Realty Company, and the drafts were resorted to. The account of the Los Angeles Securities Company on December 28, 1907, after the deposit, was to the credit of the Securities company in the sum of $125.72. Prior to that deposit and that date, it had been overdrawn for about a period of two weeks. Before that the account shows it to have been overdrawn for about half of the time for a considerable time. From December 28, 1907, to April 9, 1908, the account would have been overdrawn, but for this $3000 credit. On May 12, 1908, the draft was returned, and the books show three days later the Los Angeles Securities Company was charged with the same. For a period thereafter the account is not overdrawn.

"As to the facts in the case, No. 905, the defendant, as general manager of the Los Angeles Securities Company, drew a check on the Consolidated Bank, payable to J. R. Newberry, marked 'account of W. H. Carlson,' for the sum of $127.65. At that time the Securities company account was overdrawn for a short time; afterward the account was to the Securities company's credit. It was shown that this check paid for provisions delivered to Mr. Carlson's house. If Mr. Carlson had a right to use these funds, or the amount of the check thereof, as he contended on the argument, there is no evidence to that effect. If such had been shown to be the case the check would, in my opinion, be an overdraft, and would not constitute a crime. He will have an opportunity to do this in the Superior Court.

"It will be but fair to the defendant to state that, contrary to the public idea as expressed in my hearing, and by letters written to me by depositors, the money nor any part thereof represented by the draft and the check upon which these cases were based, was not lost to the depositors. At the time the bank was closed by the commissioners these two accounts were in good shape, so far as the balances are concerned.

MINES AND MINING.

NITRATE BEDS ON COLORADO.

Thirty Miles Below Needles Are Large Areas.

Desert Product Which Chili Has Monopolized.

Activity Manifest at Von Trigger Camp.

On the Colorado River thirty miles below Needles Arthur G. Munn of this city has located 12,160 acres of niter or saltpetre beds similar to the great deposits of Chili, from which the world draws its fertilizer. These have never been developed, but with the interest in the desert products manifest with railroad and mining development, capital may be interested. The Santa Fé cut-off will pass through that region further south and the river is available for boat transportation.

As early as 1883 ranchers along the Amargosa and Colorado rivers located large areas of this product at the instigation of a traveling chemist seeking borax. General indifference prevailed then and the claims were abandoned.

With the settlement of the country the demand for fertilizer has grown. In 1908 the United States imported $20,000,000 worth of niter from Chili. It is used also to make nitric soda, essential in the industrial arts, but especially in the manufacture of nitro-explosives and smokeless powder, about two and three-fourths pounds being needed for a pound of nitro-cellulose, which is the basis of all smokeless powders. In 1907 the United States made 5,000,000 pounds of smokeless powder, using 13,750 pounds of nitrate.

Both the California and Chilian nitrate deposits are found in hot, rainless regions, in the margins of dried-up sea bottoms, in or on the sides of ravines, in the hollows and foothills and both are interrupted by beds of salt, borax, borate of lime, soda, etc. The beds are covered with a hard crust called "costra," composed of the débris of earthy matter cemented in a conglomerate of sand, salt, gypsum and other salinas. In Chili this has to be blasted, while in California, it is soft and pliable so that one sinks in it up to the ankles and it can be taken up with a scraper.

Mill Under Way.

The lumber and machinery for the copper leaching plant of the California Gold and Copper Company, the first commercial works of the kind ever built, have arrived at Von Trigger on the Santa Fé, and a force has been started on the mill which is expected to be completed August 1.

The Cram mine at Von Trigger is considered one of the largest in the southwest with good ore bodies. It is equipped with complete hoisting engines, machine drills and compressors; has three shafts down, one 317, another 150 and a third 100 feet. More than 2000 feet of underground work has been done, the dump containing 30,000 tons of copper ore that will yield a good profit under treatment at the mill by the new process. The ledge is a monster one and can be traced five miles or more on the surface, crosscutting at the 300-foot level showing it to be more than 500 feet wide.

The company owns a pipe line from Hackberry Mountain eight miles to the mine, assuring it an abundant water supply for all needs.

It has constructed a good camp of twenty substantial buildings, store and boarding houses and homes for miners.

President A. H. Cram will leave tonight for the mine, to superintend the installation of the new plant.

The mill is the invention of President Cram, of this city, and is said to get all of the values, reducing smelter cost by two-thirds. It will have a daily capacity of 100 tons and the dump ore averaging 10 per cent. copper will be handled first. The company owns nine patented claims with a good ore showing in all of them.

Mount Gaines Report.

The Mount Gaines Consolidated Mining Company has issued its monthly report for March, which was held back on account of the delay in the returns from the Selby smelter for the last shipment of March concentrates.

The report shows that the shaft is down 1100 feet and work is being pushed on all levels. During March the big twenty-stamp mill and concentrator ran 698 hours and twenty-five minutes—an average of twenty-two hours and fifty-three minutes per day. Two thousand, five hundred and eighty tons of ore were mined and treated of an average value of $10.49 per ton; of which value 85.3 per cent. was recovered, or a total of $23,094.19 for the thirty days run. The total expense of mining, treatment and administration was $9150.56, leaving a net profit of $13,-040.43, of which $2500 was spent in making improvements. Among those made were 299 feet of development, a new assay and retort room, and new mill and mine equipment.

The mine is located in Mariposa county, this State, about forty miles from the Yosemite National Park. A large amount of stock is held in this city. Among the Pasadena stockholders are Messrs. Charles Legge, J. H. Preston (both directors,) Robert Strong, William B. Loughery, Dr. Joseph Michener, Dr. O. L. Blachley, T. F. Bailey and others.

BIG GIFT ANNOUNCED.

Mills College Commencement Marked by Receipt of Endowment for Department of Biology.

Dr. William Horace Day returned from Oakland yesterday, after having delivered the commencement address at Mills College, where large classes were graduated from both college and seminary. The occasion was made remarkable by the gift of $100,000 for founding a department of biology. One-half the amount was contributed by Frank M. Smith, a trustee, on condition that the college raised a like sum, and the announcement made on Tuesday was that the college had met the requirement. Mr. Smith had on a former occasion contributed $50,000 to endow a chair of domestic science. Miss Wulzen, assistant in biology at the University of California, will be in charge of the new department, under the direction of Dr. Jacques Loeb, under whom she serves in her present position. The withdrawal of Mrs. C. T. Mills from active connection with the college was also announced, she having reached the age of 83. Mills College was founded by herself and husband in 1885, and she has been with it from the beginning, as instructor and trustee.

BRIGHTNESS AND HELP.

A broad spirit of helpfulness is manifest in the offer of the Young Men's Christian Association to take charge of a work designed to make conditions more pleasant among the several thousand men employed along the line of the Los Angeles aqueduct.

Complaints are constantly heard from the laborers engaged on this great public work that this, that or the other thing is not just right, and they come back to the city dissatisfied. The fact is that they are working in the most out-of-the-way places, without the slightest opportunity for relaxation. Probably their condition of health deteriorates, appetites become freakish, they tire of the unchangeable "grub," take a turn at the saloon, then come back to the city and report that "things are not right on the aqueduct."

Likely enough their greatest need is recreation, and that deficiency the local Y.M.C.A. proposes to supply. The money asked for installing gymnasiums, reading-rooms and other means of diversion is nothing as compared with the responsibility of maintaining the service at the requisite efficiency to meet the demand, and at the same time avert criticism.

It is more than likely that the installation of this recreation service would solve a troublesome problem and give the city good return by keeping men in continuous service, saving many of them from the demoralizing and debilitating effects of the saloon, protecting them from the wiles of gamblers and sharks, and enabling them to do a better day's work in a more efficient manner.

THE STORIES OF FIVE WOMEN.

It is interesting to observe the amount of space in the daily newspapers occupied by subjects connected with the "eternal feminine." Woman and her ways figure on a very close parity with "mere man" and his doings in the news of each succeeding day. She is just as like to occupy the center of the stage in a leading rôle as any man, and where the calcium light falls brightest it is likely to hit the "female form divine."

In two days of the current week the newspapers told interesting stories of five women. On Tuesday, for example, we had Marguerite Sylva telling why she was about to abandon husband and home, perhaps children, for the lure of the stage. She loves her art so passionately that there is no room in her heart for anything else.

On the other side of the ledger where are recorded the credits and debits of the soul and its affections we saw Anna Held, known off the stage as Mrs. Florence Ziegfeld, warning all her sister women not to follow in her footsteps. Miss Held frankly acknowledges that her art has earned for her enough to live in luxury and leave her $1,000,000 to the good from her theatrical career. She has had the talent to earn this money and the sense to invest it with exceeding shrewdness, showing that, artist though she be and woman as she is, she can give "pointers" to many men as to how to conduct their business, as well as to women as to how they shall enjoy their life to the greatest degree.

Being asked if she disapproved of the stage because of its inherent immorality, this artist said: "No, no; but it is too much in the limelight for real happiness. Nevertheless I love it. I hate to say I will stop. But Mr. Ziegfeld is a very severe man. He says next year is the end, so perhaps it is."

Let us pursue the subject and find histories of woman's life not so satisfactory as those of the two stage artists. On Tuesday a press dispatch from Butte, Mont., told us of a mother of five little daughters, all in a state of sad neglect, pitiable, starving, outcasts, away from home and husband. It was five years ago that Mary White was divorced from her husband because he was unable longer to endure her habits of intoxication. But after all these years the father's heart melted over the distress of his five little baby girls, and so he forgave the outcast mother for the sake of the children and took her with him back to his hearthstone, his heart and protection.

Parallel to this story, on the same day, we heard of an English author, lecturer and chemist seeking a refuge in an Illinois poorhouse because, broken in fortune, wrecked in heart and sad of soul, he had followed the trail of a levanting wife who had abandoned him in London when in the heyday of his renown with a life of great promise before him.

And so from depths to lower depths. From the two artists, great of talent and pure of soul, we descend to the outcast drunkard and to the wife who abandoned husband and home to follow probably a trail of sin that leads to misery. And then, last of all, we read in Wednesday's paper of Mrs. Annis signing a contract with a theatrical manager to go on the stage and take part in a play based upon the shooting of her husband.

"The Story of Five Women," which furnishes a top line for this article, might easily have been changed to the story of fifteen women, or twenty women, without going outside of the two issues. The kaleidoscopic web and woof of the news of the day would be more fantastic in its colorings if the stories of all the women figuring in the news were related instead of the five threads selected here. The full tale would include many short biographies of good women, of indifferent women and of bad women, of bright women, dull women and commonplace women, of affectionate women, heartless women, shrewd women and foolish women.

Time was when woman never got into the center of the stage and when the calcium light never beat upon her brow. This is literally true of the stage. In the day of Shakespeare women were not permitted to take part in the plays, even where the high places in human life only were touched, as in "Hamlet" or "Macbeth." The female parts were all played by boys. Back in St. Paul's age the best advice the Apostle could give to women was very much like that given to children by their elders, "to be seen, not heard." All that has changed now, as we see. Women no longer take St. Paul's advice and remain "keepers at home." No little boy any longer treads the "buskined stage" shrilling the female parts. Woman represents herself in this sphere of life as well as in all others, including ballot-box functions at election time in many States.

With one of these dispatches in The Times, that concerning Anna Held, the theatrical artist, went a picture in which the woman stands with her pretty daughter's arms twined around the mother's waist. In spite of the limelight, this woman has led not only a very successful life, but from all appearances a very happy one. We have her own word that her happiness did not come with the applause before the footlights or with the immense fortune she acquired and kept, but from her affections, her devotion to her husband, her love for her children. It is because of the danger that has beset the footsteps of Marguerite Sylva on the stage that Miss Held warns her sister women to keep away from its center and its gleaming limelights. Marguerite Sylva finds the applause too fascinating and turns to it as her only source of happiness. Miss Held, although enjoying it, as she frankly acknowledges, tells women that she could not find entire and satisfying happiness in it all.

Human in all respects though woman is, there are elements of her character in which she differs very greatly from her brother man. Man, with the coarser fibers of his nature, may be bad, very bad, as bad as the devil himself, and yet in a way pretty well enjoy his life. He may plunge into the grossest self-indulgences and, like the pig in the trough, may have what he calls "a mighty good time." It is not so with woman. The experiences of Mary White glanced at above, that of the levanting wife of the English professor, are sure to be the lot of every woman who tries to violate the rules of her nature according to which her happiness lies centered in her affections. Woman is by nature too fine in her fiber, too refined in her disposition, to find lasting satisfaction in grossness and degradation.

LIGHT AND PROTECTION.

NEW "CLASSIFIED" DEPARTMENT.

By its careful and scientific systematization, in addition to a capacity and record for bringing results, The Times has made its classified advertising columns exceedingly efficacious in the promotion of business of all kinds in the Southwest. These pages have often been called the "clearing-house" of Southern California trade and exchange, and the term is correctly descriptive. They bring the buyer and seller together as no other instrumentality can. No other newspaper in the world has ever built up a "Liner" business anywhere near so large and successful.

Beginning today The Times adds a new classification to the large and well-studied schedule. This is headed "For Sale, Merchandise," and will bring all lines of merchandising into the classified lists. Any merchant having a special bargain to offer will find this department effective in reaching purchasers; while any man or woman in search of a bargain in any line will find that it pays to scan this new department of "classified" day by day. The articles offered are arranged in alphabetical order, so that the advertisements may catch the right eyes at once. The Times believes that this innovation will be of equal advantage to sellers and buyers.

OMELETTE, SOUFFLE AND OTHERWISE.

"You must break eggs if you are making omelettes." This is not the dictum of a chef, but of a great commander of armies. He used the expression in a figurative sense.

The world has often heard of the "great American hog," but piggy must look out or he will have to take the curl out of his tail in respect for another denizen of the barnyard less in fable heretofore than himself. The phrase may change into "the great American hen." Biddy is certainly furnishing the world with the chance of making omelettes, however many eggs must be broken in the process.

Would you think, unless you perused the farm statistics in the census report, that ten years ago the farm value of eggs in the United States was $144,286,158? In that year prices were unusually low, ranging not above half what has been the rule during the current spring. If the American hen is producing no more eggs of commerce this year than ten years ago, yet on account of the increase in price the value of her industry is today not less than $250,000,000.

A rough estimate by statisticians who devote their talents to hens is that there are 200,000,000 laying hens in the United States and that they produce 1,400,000,000 eggs in the course of a year. At the ruling prices of the current year these eggs go very far toward defraying the household expenses on the farms in the United States. That is about what the good farmer aims at, making the eggs he delivers at the market balance the various bills for current household expenses. This money is indeed the nimble dime that does duty over and over again during the days of the year. The $250,000,000 paid for the "hen fruit" of the country annually is distributed into every nook and corner of the United States.

Here is a California industry not half exploited. The State is importing from the other side of the Rocky Mountains every year millions of eggs and tons of dressed poultry. If we add to the bill we pay western farmers for eggs and poultry the amount that also goes across the continent to balance the account against California for butter and cheese, we have an enormous bill of expenses. Now, there is not the slightest reason in the world for the people of California depending upon Kansas and Nebraska for eggs, fricasseed chicken, butter or cheese. These can all be produced in California cheaper than in the Western States. There are hundreds of farmers in this State who are "down on their luck," but who might start a bank account and increase it rapidly if they would go into the chicken and egg business. There are no end of people standing about, Micawber-like, waiting for something to turn up, who can go out anywhere in Southern California, provided only that a little water can be had where they settle, and on an acre or two of ground earn an independent living for a whole family.

In a pending divorce suit in the Los Angeles courts a woman is seeking her freedom because her husband slapped her on one of her cheeks. Why did she not heed the biblical injunction and turn the other to him also? But catch a woman doing that sort of thing! Not in a thousand years! And, friends and brethren, why should she?

FATE OF THE SULTANS.

Abdul Hamid, the late Sultan, ought to have been pretty well prepared for his fate. He lived longer than most of the rulers of Turkey in the last 200 years and ruled an unusual length of time. Coming to the throne in 1876 and deposed in 1909 gives him a reign of thirty-three full years. During the nineteenth century there were no less than seven Sultans in Constantinople.

Hamid succeeded his deposed brother, Murad V, who had been Sultan only a few months. Murad ascended the throne upon the deposition of Abdul Aziz, who had reigned from 1861 to 1876. He had been deposed but permitted to live until an attempt was made to dethrone his successor, Murad V, when Aziz was prevented from being recrowned by murder. Preceding Aziz was Abdul Medjid, who was on the throne from 1839 to 1861, and removed by violence. His predecessor was Mahmud II, who was made Sultan in 1808. Before him came Mustafa IV, whose reign was one of less than a year, succeeding Selim III, who had come to the throne in 1789 and was deposed in 1807. Of these rulers of Turkey, one was allowed to die a peaceable death.

Going back into the previous century, we find Selim's predecessor, Ahmed III, his predecessor, Mustafa II, his predecessor, Mahomed IV, and his predecessor, Osman II, the successor of Ibrahim, who all were removed from the throne by violence, and most of them from life in the same way.

With the ten predecessors bowstringed or otherwise put out of the way, the late Sultan must have considered his days unusually long and unusually happy for a Sultan.

Turkey has been regarded as an absolute monarchy. The Sublime Porte under a weak Sultan was really the government, but under a strong Sultan a nonentity. What is known as the Sublime Porte is made up of the Sheik-Ul-Islam, the Grand Vizier and the other members of the Cabinet.

HOW THE DIRECT PRIMARY AFFECTS THE CANDIDATE.

Edward Insley, in the Sacramento Union.

Does the direct primary encourage good men to become candidates for office? If it does, we must acknowledge that political conditions are vastly improved by the system. If, to the contrary, the direct primary discourages good men from becoming candidates for office, its effects are harmful instead of beneficial.

There are two classes of candidates to be taken into consideration in making this inquiry, those affiliated with the machine and those who run independently. It is in evidence where the direct primary is in vogue, that bad men, whom the machine would not dare to name in convention, are nominated at the direct primary with machine support. The reason for this has been pointed out previously. The direct system relieves the machine entirely of a sense of responsibility. It has no cause to fear for its own existence, if bad men are nominated. Frequently a convention would be found seeking the best man to put up. Since the convention has been abolished the man always seeks the office. And the machine, working under cover, without the notoriety of a convention, and without responsibility, is more ready than before to support an unfit candidate. And the latter wins as easily as before.

In a city of two million inhabitants, Chicago, where the reform forces have been very active, not a single independent candidate won at the last primary. All the old gray wolves, and others just as bad, were carried through to victory by the machine on the direct vote. The class of candidates brought out by the machine is not as good on the average, as under the convention system.

What about the independents? In the first place, the man who runs independently finds it an extremely expensive business. The organization pays the bulk of the expense of the slate candidate, assessing him an amount in proportion to the salary of the office he is seeking.

The organization of the machine already exists. The independent must create his own organization. On the one hand is perfect cooperation, on the other a lonely uphill fight against great odds. After about one campaign of this sort the crop of independents visibly shrinks. Even if the independent wins, it is usually at the cost of more than the office pays. Millionaires like Stephenson will spend hundreds of thousands to win a United States Senatorship. But there is not enough glory in the minor offices to encourage good men to seek them at a pecuniary loss. This discourages the good man from being a candidate.

But it is not the money alone. One must make a business of politics to run for office, now. Formerly a convention would meet in September, say, nominate a ticket, and the election would take place a few weeks later. Now there are two campaigns. Running for office means running for about five months instead of five weeks. This discourages good men from becoming candidates for office.

A man named in convention has the regular party machinery to look after the details of the campaign, many of which are not the most pleasant. An independent is subjected to numerous annoyances. At every step demands are made upon him. He does not know the great majority of the persons who approach him. He is afraid of offending men whom he perhaps needs. Unlike the machine, he has not classified all these persons, giving to each his correct appraisement. He must have organization, as he has need of some of them. But a decent candidate grows sick and weary of it before he has proceeded far. This also discourages the good man on the independent side.

Here is a little story from Illinois illustrating another element of discouragement. At the direct primary in that State last fall there were six candidates for the Republican nomination for clerk of the Supreme Court. The office pays $50,000 a year in fees. All but two of the candidates pledged themselves to accept a salary of $6000 a year and to turn the remaining $44,000 into the State treasury. One of the two who refused to take this pledge was nominated and both of them distanced the field of candidates who had so pledged themselves. Isn't that a bit discouraging to good men who think of running for office?

A judicial campaign is now in progress in Milwaukee where La Follette's direct primary law obtains. The incumbent, a churchman and an able judge, has been on the bench ten years. He has a splendid record. The Supreme Court has seldom reversed his decisions. He has always been named in convention and the arduous work of his campaign has been done for him by the organization. But now he is forced to fight for his position in a direct primary. He has forgotten what little he ever knew about practical politics.

He is busy trying cases while his ambitious young rival has time to devote to the campaign. Yet the judge must get his organization together, have headquarters, hire a press agent, send out literature and, if he finds time, make handshaking tours among the voters. This is extremely distasteful to him. Yet he must do it, or retire to private practice—rather to create a private practice after giving up ten of the best years of his life to the service of the State. And he must spend a far larger amount of money in the campaign than the office warrants. Does this encourage good men to become candidates for office?

Before La Follette became the boss of Wisconsin the custom in that State, says a recent writer in the New York Post, was to keep the judiciary out of politics. But now the "primary law forces worse than a political organization upon a judge, a paid corps of hired men, hired politicians, who in many cases will work for the man who pays the most. Excellent reform, this.

"The poor man is barred from seeking office," is the story from Wisconsin. The same report comes from Oregon and other States. And even the good man who can afford it, finds politics more distasteful than before.

This is not theory. It is experience.

HOROSCOPE.

Thursday, May 20, 1909.

BY COZETTE.

Now heedful eyes the printed word shall mark
And prospering winds blow for the merchant's bark

Mercury is in ecliptic conjunction with the moon and its square with Jupiter gives both planets a most auspicious position which has always been held to augur great profits and rich cargoes to the merchant, unusual skill to the artisan and "many eyes to read" the written or printed words.

The parallel declination of both Mars and Neptune with the moon minimizes the influence of the red and warlike planet toward anger, violence and headlong attack, and gives its vigor and energy a calm, steadying, lasting power.

A good day is promised by Mercury's position for writers, office and shop employés, salespeople, canvassers, agents and artificers.

The indications are excellent for opening new places of business, engaging in new undertakings or enlarging old ones.

Journeys are under good auspices in this period.

Women and men with this birthdate will probably have a successful year, but will be tempted to spend money as fast as it comes in and to indulge in social pleasures to an extent greater than health or purse warrant.

Children are born this day under a sign indicating generosity, fearlessness and hospitality. They must be trained to keep their passions under control.

THE TARIFF AND THE GAME.

BY UNCLE WALT OF EMPORIA.

It's little I care if they slaughter the tariff or stamp it clear into the ground; it's little I'm caring if duties on herring run up to a dollar a pound. The tax on raw whiting is doubtless exciting to those who have whey in their veins; the tariff on leather may well bring together such heads as have celluloid brains. But Jiminy Caesar James Ebenezer—they're playing baseball at the park! And he is a beauty who thinks about duty or chalk or Peruvian bark! Our team is the pride by having a pitcher who sends in a ball that's a dream; he fans out the batters and hands them on platters, a new brand of lemon ice cream. We're out for the pennant, and we'll be the tenant, this year, of the glory bazaar; and it's little I care if they butcher the tariff on turtles and tomcats or tar!

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The Princess Theater Company of San Francisco will play a three weeks' engagement at the Mason Operahouse in June. Included in this organization are May Boley, Zoe Barnett, Fred Mace and Richard Stevens. It is probable that the opening bill will be "Pif-Paff-Pouf."

A grand opera company coming to San Francisco will displace this organization from its home stage.

Bookings at the Mason Operahouse take the entire summer for presentation. John Drew will follow Ethel Barrymore, with "Jack Straw," and an early comer will be Marie Doro, in "The Morals of Marcus."

"The Merry Widow" will come the last of July.

The first Belasco booking, according to the new Belasco syndicate arrangement, is Blanche Bates, who will appear in "The Fighting Hope," and in other pieces.

Everything is in readiness now for the Woman's Orchestra programme tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Auditorium. It will be given in connection and with the assistance of the regular Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra.

The complete programme by movements follows:

War March of the Priests (Athalia.) Mendelssohn

Eighth Symphony in B Minor (unfinished) ..... Schubert
Allegro moderato.
Andante con moto.

Let the Bright Seraphin (Samson.) Handel

Overture to Hamlet..... Gade

PART II.

Polonaise Militaire ..... Chopin

Two movements from Concerto in E Minor ..... Mendelssohn Andante.
Allegretto non troppo.
Allegro molto vivace.

Two Elegaic Melodies for strings alone ..... Grieg
1. Herzwunden (Heart's wounds).
2. Fruhling (Springtime).

ASKS DIVORCE TO SAVE LIFE.

Wife of Baird Postmaster Forced to Leave Him, She Says, Because He Wouldn't Take Her Away.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A pathetic appeal for relief was made known in the District Court before Judge Orr, when divorce proceedings were instituted by Sarah A. Bass against Joseph L. Bass, who is postmaster of Baird, Cal., and president of the telephone company running lines between Baird, Delamar and other California points.

In her complaint, the wife sets forth the allegations that she was forced to leave her husband because he compelled her to continue to live in the town of Baird, where she declares stagnant pools of water make the air so impure continually that she was constantly ill and despaired of her life if she remained there.

She says that she left her home after becoming seriously ill from the effects of the unhealthy surroundings, several times and returned only to be taken dangerously ill again. She alleges that she implored her husband to live somewhere else on account of her health, but he refused and she was finally forced to leave him to save her life.

The couple were married in December, 1894, and have one child, of age. Mrs. Baird has been forced to provide for herself since leaving Baird and asks relief from the Nevada courts, no stated alimony being named in her complaint.

PLAN NEW JEWISH COLONY.

Banker and Author Will Try to Colonize Desert Lands of Mesopotamia for Their Race.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—Jacob Schiff, banker, and Israel Zangwill, author and head of the Jewish territorialist organization, have come together in an effort to colonize in Mesopotamia, as a compromise of the Zionist colonization plans in Palestine, according to news received by Jacob Fishman, editor of the Jewish Daily News, of this city.

The invitation of Ahmed Riza Bey, president of the Turkish Chamber of Deputies, under the new Young Turks government, to create a Jewish State in Mesopotamia, was taken under consideration.

The Ica Society, the largest and oldest Jewish colonization organization in the world, to which $45,000,000 was left in trust by the late Baron de Hirsch, sent a geographical survey commission to investigate conditions. The preliminary reports showed that the land is most fertile and irrigation is all that is needed to make it productive.

The Zionists readily accepted the scheme, for Mesopotamia is not far from Palestine.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,

NOTE—The loss in April circulation for this year, compared with the same month of 1908, is attributable to the fact that many thousands of extra copies of The Times were sold and distributed on account of the fleet being here during April of last year. At that time an enormous gain over 1907 was shown. The Times did not hope to this year equal its April, 1908, record, because the extra sale both before the warships arrived and during their stay here was phenomenal, and, with the exception of the time of the earthquake in San Francisco, the largest in the history of the paper.

OFFICERS LEAVE PRISON.

Russian General and Admiral Freed by Emperor's Mercy, Greeted on Their Release by Crowd.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel and Rear-Admiral Nebogatoff, who were pardoned yesterday by Emperor Nicholas walked out of the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul this afternoon. A large crowd gathered at the gates to see the two officers come out and Stoessel was warmly congratulated on his release.

Rear-Admiral Nebogatoff, who today finds himself in reduced circumstances was met only by his son. He walked to the nearest station of the street car line, carrying his personal belongings in his hand.

Emperor Nicholas extended mercy today to eight other naval officers who were dismissed from the service. The dishonoring features have been revoked and the men are regarded as having retired from the service in the ordinary way.

SMALL FLASK STICKS OUT.

Wholesale Liquor Dealers Ask "Fairness."

Shy at Revocation of the Retail Permits.

Commissioner Trask Speaks on "Family" Stores.

The Police Commission went liquor bug hunting last night.

A special meeting had been arranged to hear the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association present its demands for an amendment of the ordinances regulating wholesale business. Henry Layb, president, spoke for the organization. It wanted a rule established that no person holding a wholesale permit should be allowed to hold a retail permit. Eight wholesalers have such a combination, and he argued that it is unfair to the other seventy-five wholesalers.

The Mayor said this did not seem fair, and he asked Mr. Laub what to do. "Shall we revoke the retail permits?" queried the Mayor.

This was bait for the bug.

"Oh, no," said Laub. "We do not want to be understood as asking the revocation of any retail permits. We only ask you to be fair with all of us—treat us alike."

But the bug wouldn't come.

THE REAL AIM.

According to the understanding of the Mayor the real aim of the wholesalers is to have the commission recommend that all wholesalers be permitted to sell in quantities less than a fifth of a gallon. This would again permit of small flask trade. And this is the bug the Mayor was trying to bring out for inspection.

Laub hinted at it repeatedly, but wouldn't say that was the aim. Before the recall election—in fact, only three days before—he said the privilege of selling in half pints, which had been granted wholesalers for many years, was suddenly stopped by "orders."

"Who gave the orders?" asked the Mayor.

"We are pretty sure where they came from," answered Laub.

"They came from our Chief of Police, whom we instructed to see that all laws are enforced," said the Mayor proudly.

"Well, hardly," said Laub, "they came three days before the recall election."

"Oh," said the Mayor, "a spasm of reform."

"If it was it came too late," answered Laub.

Maj. John T. Jones represented the eight wholesalers who have retail permits, and he said most of them had held both for more than twenty years.

ATTORNEY TO ADVISE.

The commission decided to ask the City Attorney to advise it as to the power to rearrange such permits. But it was agreed that when the same person held two permits there should be no connection between the two places.

Laub repeated his assertion that the wholesalers had been permitted, illegally, to sell quantities less than one-fifth of a gallon—pints and half pints. He also surprised the commission by saying the wholesale, or family liquor stores, sell three times as much liquor as the 200 saloons.

Another hearing will be held if the City Attorney finds the commission has the power of changing conditions. If he doesn't the Council will be asked to legislate.

Nathan Newby, chairman of the Civic Righteousnes Committee of the Church Federation, said the request of the wholesalers should be granted. Commissioner Trask remarked that he regards the family liquor stores as the worst liquor evil in the city.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

[The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Be brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 200 words, on the average, is sufficient for the point. Well-written letters are liable to be declined merely on account of their length.]

The Newhall-San Fernando Grade.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Any right-minded citizen should be in sympathy with the good roads movement and for that reason this subject has not been mentioned until after the bond election was assured. To mention the subject before election might have been detrimental or possibly fatal to a public necessity and much needed improvement as goods roads are. But good roads should mean the best road in the most suitable place for all time to come. The proposed tunel for the San Fernando to Newhall grade is a case in point, as a better road at less cost and in a more suitable place, than the proposed tunnel through the pass, can be built up Grape Vine Cañon along the mountain side with no grade over 6 per cent. The present road by Tunnel Station and the pass is the most expensive piece of road in the county to keep in repair, and beyond the Tunnel Station toward the pass should be abandoned. The Southern Pacific Company, years ago, in the late John Muir's time, was in favor of that, as the crossing near Tunnel Station is too dangerous and necessitates the S. P. train men breaking their train to allow people to pass and delays travel. The proposed tunnel through the pass is a useless and expensive fad and the best reason given for it is, "That Mr. Patterson, the Supervisor, thought a tunnel would be nice." But being 400 feet long it would have to be lighted day and night.

The Southern Pacific Railway in building the San Fernando-Newhall tunnel on their line, and again at Chatsworth Park tunnel found heaving or swelling ground, as the miners call it, that caused great expense to overcome. As the geological conditions in the proposed good roads tunnel are the same, similar trouble and additional expense may be expected. It is too dangerous an experiment, about $50,000 for the county to undertake, when a better and more suitable road with the finest scenery in the county, in lieu of a black tunnel, can be had for less cost.

The lumbermen and the miners are the pioneer builders of the country and we generally know a little on the subject from dear experience. The attention of the automobile owners is called to this matter. Let them ask the Supervisors and the Highway Commission to make the change to the open road up Grape Vine Cañon hillside.

JOHN STEWART.

For Hay Raisers.

LONG BEACH, May 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to say a word to hay raisers in Los Angeles county, who will lose about one-fourth of the value of the present nice crop if they leave the crop in the field three or four weeks.

First, the scatterings in the field bleach until they are nearly worthless. Then the action of the damp, cool night air, followed by the dry, hot air from quality and weight enough to make the entire loss about one-fourth, with no saving of labor.

B. WALTON.

LOOKING INTO EVAPORATION.

Government Meteorological Expert Here on Way to Salton Sea, Where Experiments Will Be Made.

Prof. F. H. Bigelow of Washington, D. C., in charge of the meteorological work for the Weather Bureau, is in the city, on his way to the Salton Sea, where he will stay a few weeks or longer, supervising the construction of the experimental stations which the government is erecting to take observations that may aid in determining a precise formula for evaporation from exposed surfaces of water.

Engineers constructing reservoirs in various parts of the country have heretofore been unable to determine with accuracy the quantity of water which would be evaporated by the sun and wind and for which allowance must be made. The widely-differing conditions of various parts of the country made the most careful calculations little more than close guesswork, and the government is seeking to remedy this. At the stations for extensive experiments in the Salton Sea, water will be exposed in measured pans and the quantity evaporated during various periods of the day, together with the existing conditions of atmospheric humidity, sun heat and wind velocity will be carefully noted.

Prof. Bigelow is at the Lankershim.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two murders in a single day in Oregon have followed closely upon marriages arranged through matrimonial bureaus. In each of the two cases the husband slew the wife whom the matrimonial bureau had provided for him. Both deeds were committed last Saturday, but the remarkable coincidence of the matrimonial bureau's deadly work has just come to light.

Louis H. Worley was a prosperous rancher in Crook county, a district where women are scarce. He wanted a wife, and none being available near at hand, he turned to a matrimonial bureau for aid. The matrimonial bureau prevailed upon Miss Ruth Leroy of Lincoln, Neb., to come to Oregon and marry the lone rancher. Four days after the wedding, which took place last Wednesday, the woman sickened of her bargain, took her husband's purse, and said she was going back home. He murdered her, burned their house and her body in it, and committed suicide, leaving a note of confession.

John D. Roselair was a lonely rancher in Washington county. He advertised for a wife through a Portland matrimonial bureau. Miss Lizzetta Dombrower of San Francisco was introduced to him, and the couple were married at once and went to Roselair's farm to live. Their married life was stormy from the beginning, and last Saturday Roselair killed his wife with a salmon knife, and then surrendered himself to the Sheriff.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

CARDS have just been issued announcing the marriage of Miss Amina Wey, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Wey of Redondo, and Elmer F. Crosby of Los Angeles, which was recently celebrated in Christ Church at Redondo, Rev. Father Charles H. de Garmo officiating. The bride, a beautiful English girl of rare personal charm, has been prominent in musical circles in this city for several years, and Mr. Crosby is secretary of the Western Engineering Company. Miss Lillian Wey, sister of the bride, and Mr. Philbrook were the attendants; A. C. Wey of San Marino, a relative of Mrs. Crosby's, giving her away.

The altars of the church were decked with a wealth of yellow mustard bloom. The bride wore a rich empire robe of valenciennes lace, with a picture hat of point d'Esprit, trimmed with sweeping plumes. She carried orange blossoms. The maid-of-honor, Miss Lillian Wey, was gowned in blue rajah silk, and carried pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Hotel Redondo and an elaborately-appointed wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room of that hostelry. Mr. and Mrs. Crosby are away now on their wedding journey, and upon their return will be at home at No. 214 South Catalina avenue.

Mrs. Harris at Gibraltar.

Mrs. Gertrude Ross Harris, according to news received yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abner L. Ross of South Alvarado street, has lately landed at Gibraltar after a pleasant trip in company with several Los Angeles and Pasadena folk. Mrs. Harris will go to Berlin in June, where she is to visit her cousin, Frau Bertha Meuller, a singer whom the people in Berlin have dubbed "Frau Nightingale." Mrs. Harris and her cousins are to be entertained at the American Embassy on invitation of David Graham Hill.

To Return October First.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Livingston leave this evening for New York where they will spend several months with relatives. Later they will go to Europe, where they will make an extended stay, returning to Los Angeles October 1.

Chicago Visitor.

Miss Leonora Herzberg, a charming Chicago girl, is the house guest of Mrs. Herman Janss. A number of social functions have been scheduled in compliment to this piquant little visitor.

Nu Phi Chi.

That delightful set of young society buds known as the Nu Phi Chi's will give a dance at Kramer's Hall, tomorrow evening, a number of prominent women acting at patronesses.

World Tour.

Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Simms of No. 2383 West Twenty-second street have sold their home, and will be located at one of the hotels until August 1, when they will start on a trip around the world, touring Europe by automobile. They will be accompanied by their son, Sheldon.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Gillingham O'Daniel of No. 1010 Grand View street entertained yesterday with a bridge luncheon. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The appointments were in gold and white. Yellow marguerites formed effective decoration. The place cards were handpainted in yellow daisies, and little French heads, and yellow and gold basket-shaped favors were present to the guests. Those present were Mmes. C. E. Fredericks, William Mackie, Roland Sevier, Walter Wren, Graham, E. A. Lundy, Homer Hansen, Sydney Darrin, H. B. Woodill, Frank Nichols, Alice Watson, W. C. Bennett, R. R. Arnold, Ralph Hagen, Benjamin Church, Walter P. Story, M. O. Head, C. B. Nichols, Anthony McNally, W. D. Campbell, G. P. Maguran, J. W. McAlister, Roberts and Miss Lundy.

Mrs. Burdette Convalescing.

The friends of Mrs. Robert J. Burdette will be glad to learn that she is slowly but steadily convalescing at her home, "Sunnycrest," in Pasadena. Much uneasiness has been felt since Mrs. Burdette's sudden nervous collapse a week ago, but she has now passed the danger point.

Alexander-Bradford.

A charming al fresco wedding last evening was that of Miss Hattie Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bradford, and Frank Baird Alexander, which took place amid the flowers and leafy aisles of the garden at the Bradford home, No. 4555 Pasadena avenue. Rev. Baker P. Lee officiated, and a programme of special music was given. The bride was attired in a white lace gown with tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Edna Bradford was maid of honor, and Raymond Bradford, the brother of the bride, acted as best man. Mrs. Raymond Bradford assisted as matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Wathen of Louisville, Ky., was bridesmaid. Both bridesmaid and matron of honor wore soft lingerie dresses and carried pink roses. The ceremony took place before an altar erected at the foot of the wide stairway leading into the fragrant garden, with the beauty of the natural setting brilliantly illumined by electric lights, the scene made a romantic nuptial picture.

Luncheon at La Canyada.

F. Senton Knight was host at a luncheon given Sunday at La Cañada Inn in compliment to three young society girls, Miss Florence Bush, the house guest of Mrs. Philip Wilson, Miss Aimee Auverais, niece of Mrs. Louis Scheller, and Miss Geneive Scheller. The party went out in large touring cars.

LITERARY NEWS FROM ABROAD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 5.—Who's a "minor poet," and who's a "paltry novelist?" William Watson's violent diatribe on the presumably late John Davidson, and the public neglect of him and of poets in general, which was quoted in this correspondence last week, has had its sequel. A humble verse-maker wrote to one of the papers some lines, intended to be funny, apropos of "minor poets," and Watson, having steam up, has turned on this unlucky youth and scalded him in public with a protest against ribald references to minor poets. It is a "needlessly discourteous, not to say, insulting phrase," says this major poet. It is "too pointless," too cheap, too easy, too intolerably hackneyed," a phrase "used as a handy missile to hurt some writer whom they have probably never read, and to divert attention from their own ignorance, insensibility and incompetence." It seems that the unfortunate person named Watt, who thus aroused Mr. Watson's ire, also indicated in his verses a belief that minor poets wear long hair. This crowning insult Mr. Watson throws back into the teeth of the detractor. "Having known nearly all the poets of my time," he says, "I cannot recall one who was thus decorated except Tennyson."

G. B. Burgin, the novelist, replies to Mr. Watson by pointing out that the poet in his previous outbreak referred to "paltry novelists," and wants to know if "paltry novelist" isn't quite as much of an insult as "minor poet." And can it be that Mr. Burgin refers to Mr. Watson himself in the following passage:

"Alas! poets do cut their hair nowadays. I remember when I used to meet a certain fiery-eyed, slim youth at Mrs. Lynn Linton's, whose raven locks were flung carelessly back from his lofty brow. I met him once again—the other night—and he had become a short-haired, portly personage, with a decided 'lower chest,' buttoned tightly up in a frock coat." It is to be suspected that he does.

A new and untrammeled estimate of Swinburne comes from the policeman whose duty it was to look after the crowd that went down to the Isle of Wight on the occasion of the poet's burial. A stranger, who was unaware of the fact that England had just lost her greatest poet, inquired of this policeman at Ventnor station, the cause for the crowd. The reply was as follows:

"A man name of Swinburne. I never heard of him before. They tell me he wrote a lot of poetry stuff. If it hadn't been for that, nobody wouldn't have taken any notice of him at all. He wasn't anybody very particular."

A member of the Dickens Fellowship was greatly disturbed because Seymour Hicks, who is an enterprising and irreverent theatrical manager, proposed to produce a version of "A Christmas Carol" at the Coliseum Music Hall. It was held that "A Christmas Carol" is more or less of a sermon and that, as a sacred subject, a music hall was not a proper place for it, especially as it would have to be cut. I believe Hicks finally gave up the scheme, but in order to frighten off any one else with a similar idea, this enterprising Dickensite publishes the results of his appeal to its members all over the world, including branches in the United States. The secretary of the Pittsburgh branch wrote: "I certainly agree with everything you say and all members of the Pittsburgh branch will concur." A member of the Michigan branch wrote: "It does appear sacrilegious to have so pure and sweet a story so unmercifully hacked and mutilated, as it will have to be in half an hour's play. My society fully agrees with me."

The Dickens Fellowship council, however, vote in favor of the production. The significance of the episode lies in the great and wide-spread interest taken in the smallest matter that touches the name of Dickens.

One wonders if it is generally realized that Sultan Abdul Hamid, who is now a prisoner, deprived of all the comforts of life, except his own chef, a dozen or so of his harem and something like $1000 a week pocket-money, is one of the most learned men in Europe? Many of the exiled Young Turks, who are now the guests of the Sultan, are professors and teachers, and the Sultan has surrounded himself with a library of 30,000 volumes, which he reads in the original languages. Among his visitors at Salonika have been many of the most famous scholars of Europe, and one of his constant correspondents is Professor Vambery, the famous Hungarian linguist. Among the exiled Young Turks who have been visitants St. Paul addressed two of his Epistles, is none other than the Salonika of today, in which the ex-Sultan, Abdul Hamid, is now a prisoner, deprived of all the comforts of life, except his own chef, a dozen or so of his harem and something like $1000 a week pocket-money.

"ADAM GOD" INDIFFERENT.

On Trial for Murder, But Takes no Interest in Proceedings—Feels Sorry for Judge.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) May 19.—"I guess those in the courtroom criticise me and believe I am heartless because I don't take interest in what's going on here," said James Sharp, or "Adam God," as he calls himself, here today in the Criminal Court, where he and his wife are on trial for murder.

"I don't put my faith in lawyers or man," Sharp continued. "I do what God tells me to do and follow where he leads. It grieves me to see the lawyers, the judge and the jurors groping in the dark. They are blind. They cannot see God as I see Him."

The securing of a jury is progressing slowly.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN

BY MISS SYDNEY FORD.

If you have any doubts as to the ability of the girl of 1909 to fashion her own hats and gowns, just take a look at the display now going on in the Y.W.C.A. rooms and you will be convinced of her cleverness. Indeed I saw there yesterday a gray-haired woman who showed me with a good deal of pride a handsomely tailored crash suit that she had made with her own hands—"first one I ever made" she confided—and it was perfectly done. There were exquisite shirt waists, silk frocks elaborately trimmed with rat-tail pipings, tailored street suits and dainty house dresses—all made by amateurs—many of them business girls who have taken advantage of the evening classes and have learned to cut, fit and fashion their own gowns.

The millinery display was even more striking. "Is there anything for sale?" I asked the manager who proved to be the instructor. "Oh, dear no," was her quick response, "they all belong to the girls who made them, and they have a real affection for their hats which they made themselves. Money couldn't buy them."

This skill to make her own hats and gowns means to the saving of many dollars to the self-supporting girl. It is an education she cannot afford to miss. The manager of one of the large millinery establishments in the city happened to be there inspecting the display when I was—and it compared favorably with that in his own shop. There were street hats, straw hats and lingerie hats, and I noticed one "love of a hat" in old rose shirred chiffon, and I observed particularly that, while all these hats were smart and fashionable, the extreme styles and absurd shapes which have both shocked and pained every woman of good taste this season were conspicuous by their absence.

Elks in Evidence.

The elk's head is just now very much in evidence in all the shop windows, and will doubtless continue to increase as July draws near. Even Billiken and Pensive Pup are compelled to take a back seat in favor of the graceful elk, which proclaims a great gathering of the clans here this summer. It is now quite the proper thing to decorate your automobile with an elk's head—either in bronze or glittering gilt as taste dictates. There are elks shown in many styles—bronze or bisque, for souvenirs and dinner favors, ash trays and cigar holders, and even some of the table china comes in the shape of the festive elk. To go farther—there are shown in one of the curio shops that line Broadway, some elks' teeth all ready to mail to eastern friends as a gentle reminder of the July convention.

Ramie Underwear.

If you are looking for your summer underwear and think that wool is too warm, and cotton is too cool, and you don't want silk, why not get the ramie linen? I noticed a display of it in a Spring-street window, showing, not only the garments, but the fiber itself before it is woven into the fabric. Owing to the reduction in the cost of production, it is not as expensive as it used to be, and those who have worn it are enthusiastic in its praise. Whereas it is almost as thin as a cobweb and as light as a feather, nevertheless it is both warm and cool in that it insures circulation as well as ventilation, and, for this climate, with its cool mornings and evenings and warm mid-day sun, this oriental linen seems specially adapted. It may be had in all styles of undergarments for men, women and children.

The latest in muslin underwear is the three-piece combination suit which has just been brought out by one of the big stores.

Kindergarten Kitchens.

Have you seen that cunning children's kitchen fitted up with diminutive stoves and all sort of kitchen utensils, and presided over by a flaxen-haired doll in spotless cap and apron? It occupies the space of a window in one of the Broadway hardware stores and is the means toward which little girls are dragging their mothers and nurses these days, "just to see the real steam come out of the tea kettle spout." The bisque maid who presides over this delightful kitchen is as large as many of the little misses who press their eager faces against the glass window, to watch the interesting proceedings. There are two stoves—one a gas range and the other a coal cook stove with a regular hot-water tank in the back and a diminutive coal scuttle standing beside it. Everything is arranged as perfectly and completely as in the ordinary range and the maid is demurely taking a tin of biscuits from the oven. Indeed, these stoves could be very well utilized in the nursery for preparing the children's breakfast and for cooking any little dishes needful. There are tiny ice cream freezers in which half a pint of "sure-enough" ice cream could be made and the happy possessor of one of these kitchen outfits could learn domestic science in the most delightful fashion right in her own nursery or playroom.

I also noticed yesterday some handsome porch sets for children in the window of a Spring-street furniture establishment. There was a settee of willow and rockers and lounging chairs and a swinging couch hammock for the baby, which could be so enclosed that the most restless little sprite could not fall from it, but could swing in the canvas couch by the motion of his own body.

A New Silk Tissue.

A Parisian artist has invented a new material which is already on the high road to becoming a craze. It is his own secret and he is guarding it carefully, although he may not hope to keep the process his own forever. The tissue is opalescent and he makes it in soft tones of gold, shading from the palest tint to a deep tarnished bronze. It is also made in the soft tones of silver, interwoven with silk threads of a different color, and has the appearance of a coat of mail, which is yet so supple that it can be draped as a robe of an evening gown. It is very light in weight, does not discolor and possesses the lights of an opal when the sun shines upon it.

Hints in the Shops.

A book of birthday horoscopes just out offers interesting and amusing entertainment.

If you need a tailored suit now is the time to get it. Prices have been cut in half and some really elegant street suits in cloth are offered at astonishing bargains. Scarcely a store the whole length of the shopping district but exhibits a line of these handsome suits.

There is a new brand of foulard in the shops known as crystal-cord. It looks like the corded Ottoman silk so fashionable earlier in the season, except that it has the foulard figures strewn over it. It is to be noted, by the way, that the cord idea extends into all silk fabrics.

In the book department of one of the large dry good stores are interstate directories containing the Los Angeles name and address of residents who formerly lived in New York, Illinois, Michigan or Ohio. These are exceedingly convenient for tourists or residents seeking to locate people who hail from their home State "back East."

Apropos of the coming of the galaxy of June brides the art shops are getting out some cleverly designed favors. Some come in sets representing the various characters and scenes which play a part in the wedding ceremony and preliminary affairs.

Fashions and Fads.

Moire silk is used a great deal.

Bolero effects have begun to appear.

Most of the new wings are very large.

Coats are longer than for many a season.

Chamois and castor gloves are much worn.

In the newest coiffure the front is crisply waved.

The white lingerie petticoat is the thing in Paris.

All materials for young girls are airy and billowy.

Amethyst is the color over which Paris is going mad.

Pongee has had a renaissance, together with foulard.

Beads of Japanese oxblood are made into pins and chains.

Children's styles are taking more and more simple lines.

Rose shades and fruit tones are leaders in the shantungs.

The parasols never have been more stunning than this season.

Deep-pointed waist lines are in evidence among evening gowns.

Tunics worn with evening gowns grow more and more elaborate.

Kind Hearts--Good Deeds

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

This story hardly needs any comment as to its value. Willingness to sacrifice for some one else weaker than himself, quickness of thought and action, proved the worth of the character of young Britz.

With a large automobile bearing down upon him with full speed, and seeing that escape for both of them was impossible, Morris Britz, of Chicago, threw himself in front of the automobile, taking the brunt of the impact as he dashed Agnes Sebastian, his companion, out of danger.

Britz, who is 19 years old and lives at No. 1664 Buckingham Place, was thrown twenty feet by the motor, and, when picked up, was unconscious. Miss Sebastian escaped with a few scratches. Britz's ankle was fractured, and he suffered internal injuries which may cause his death.

Britz and Miss Sebastian were returning to the latter's home at No. 339 Hudson avenue. The automobile was going north on the east side of the street, and was not noticed by the couple until it was a few feet in front of them. Miss Sebastian started back in alarm when she heard the warning toot of the auto horn.

Seeing that escape from injury was impossible for both of them, Britz sprang toward the machine, placing his body in front of that of Miss Sebastian. Giving her a push that sent her reeling toward the sidewalk, the young man received the force of the shock. He was thrown to one side and struck against the curbing of the street, where he was picked up by the bystanders who witnessed the accident.

The act of David Parry, sixteen years old, in saving the lives of eight men at the cost of injuries which will maim him for life, was investigated recently by an agent of the Carnegie Hero Commission, and it is stated by the boy's friends that he will get a medal and means to educate himself.

When fire was discovered some time ago in the Wanami mine of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, Parry dashed through the fire and smoke to warn eight men in a distant portion of the mine. They got outside safely, but Parry was overcome by the smoke and was badly burned when rescued.

Some months ago Mrs. Mary Synon, a Chicago schoolteacher, procured the best medical care for Miss Mary O'Donnell, who had been in the employ of Mrs. Synon's relatives for twenty years, and had been taken seriously ill. No one suspected that Miss O'Donnell had been slowly collecting a bank account during her connection with the family, but when she died a few days ago it became known that the faithful domestic had $1600 in a Chicago bank, and the whole of it was left to Mrs. Synon. The legacy was as unexpected as though it came from an entire stranger.

"Commodore" J. D. Hudson, who spends his time spreading the gospel as a Congregationalist, sees it through the settlements on the islands in the sound side of the Strait of Juan de Fuca by the aid of a gasoline launch, has some peculiar experiences in connection with the same. One day he made a firm friend of an old logger by accepting his request to help him load a stack of shingle bolts on a large boat that was to be towed down to Seattle. When the job was done he sought out a nice soft spot to fall down upon because of exhaustion. Another time he was due to preach at a morning service at one of the settlements, and found that he could not get his launch near the shore. He had no tender, but determined to keep his engagement he tied his clothing in a bundle, threw it at the end of a rope to the shore and plunged into the water. Reaching the shore he dressed and was ready for preaching at the appointed hour.

FIERY WOOER WINS.

Girl Student of Westlake School Becomes Bride of Manager of Student Publication.

Instead of taking one of the leading roles in "Taming of the Shrew," the senior class play to be given by the Westlake School for Girls, next week, pretty Josephine Briggs, daughter of Mrs. B. C. Haks of Harvard boulevard, and grand-daughter of the late J. C. Braley, decided Monday afternoon to be married, persuaded thereunto by the fiery wooing of Milton Miller, aged 20, according to the testimony of his friends, but aged 22 according to the marriage license.

The girl-bride is just 18, quite old enough to be married, in her own estimation, but she knew that father and mother would not agree with her, so she and her boy-lover just ran away and had the wedding all by themselves, except for the necessary witnesses.

"No, we do not know a thing about it," said Mrs. Haks last evening, when excitement was at fever heat among school-girl friends and acquaintances, all burning for some accurate knowledge of the particulars. "We only know that they are married. My daughter sent me a note saying that she and Milton were married, and had gone away for a few days on a wedding trip, and would be home soon. I am just waiting until they get home to find out about it."

The romantic young bride is a musician, a pupil of Herr Becker's, and has been a bright pupil at school, a member of the class to graduate in a few weeks. She had every advantage that money and affection could dictate, as she is an only daughter, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haks, had just moved into their beautiful new home on Harvard boulevard to give her a happy social career. They intended to cultivate her every talent, to send her to college, if she preferred, for she is the pride of their hearts.

The bridegroom is the son of a local newspaper man. He is a hustling youngster, and has been manager of the new publication, "The Student," which deals with the doings of the school world of Los Angeles. He has been just as hustling in securing a bride, and, although the parents were not aware of the fact, the young people had been engaged for several months.

"We have nothing against Milton," said the bride's mother, "but Josephine knew we would not consent to her being married so young. But I am going to bring them here—just as soon as I get hold of them, and I will do everything I can to make my daughter's life happy, but, oh, I am sorry to have her marry so young."

WAR OF WORDS.

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS.

National Figures That Loom Large in the Thick of the Fray at Washington—Intimate Portraits of Those Who Make the Clamor.

BY JOHN H. GREUSEL.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) May 15.—With unwonted vigor, with now and again a sharp touch of steel, reeing the heart of vanity and pride, e Senate debates on the tariff bill forward, from day to day; and at e present rate of progress many eks may be consumed before the oposed revision of schedules has en reached, with reasonable satisction. The war of words shows the adly earnest of the "Old Guard," "Progressives," and the radical surgents." With fine irony, with thering scorn, this or that Senator's tives are pricked by some determed opponent, till victory for or ainst the bill degenerates at times o personal delight in baiting, tauntand derision. Seldom indeed has much rancor characterized the ost dignified legislative body in the rld."

lore of Oklahoma is sarcastic with Age of Massachusetts; Tillman of th Carolina boisterously hoots back Lodge; Beveridge of Indiana fires verbal big guns at Aldrich, who lies in kind; Nelson of Minnesota ws insolent and commiserates Boof Idaho on "regard for peon la-;" Burkett of Nebraska tells Member of North Dakota, "Your seat ht better be empty;" McLarin of ississippi assails McCumber with a age of protests, personal and oth-ise; and Cullom of Illinois and Mery of Louisiana clash like athletes the football scrimmage.

leantime, the boom of big guns n Aldrich and Cummins creates an -splitting din, causing confusion e confounded.

FLASHES LIKE A SWORD.

ldrich, the battle-scarred veteran h numberless political years in the ional arena, is of course the storm ter, all day and every day; till his ves must long o'er this be worn to breaking strain. The excitements he undergoes, the tempestuous d of adverse opinions with which battles suggests that he is caught Niagara whirlpool of clashing poal passions; and accordingly he es the opposition with desperation, r after hour. As a practical politstrategist of keenness and cun-, Aldrich realises his predicament, aking the efforts of his life to save bill.

short, in a strict sense, Aldrich not "argue" the tariff bill. He s his broad stand on "business neities," and of course he knows ness details from a to z, especialprotected industries. He has only ering scorn for the man who says nay.

e lashing he gave Burkett of Neka, who had ventured to say that people could not be "fooled" on ead schedule, "for Americans read apers, and know things," shows rich's bushwhacking tactics at their t. As the sword flies from its ard Aldrich flew at Burkett. in heroics the chairman of the Fince Committee deplored that the try had been too long deprived of valuable services, no doubt, in dett's case, and bitterly reproached Nebraskan for delaying matters each member had "full informa, on every schedule, a course which uld take ten years." And Burkett e no reply.

ALDRICH IN ACTION.

ldrich, at a distance, especially the galleries, bears a strong al resemblance to Bismarck, alugh the Rhode Island Senator's tures are more refined than were Iron Chancellor's. But it is the d and iron! There is the florid plexion, the round full face, the g jaws, the rosy bald spot with gray patches of hair over the ears, strong mustache, the dogged exsion, the eyes with the strained wild at times of onslaught. Aldrs heavy eyebrows have a peculiar manding curve, like interrogation nts, to which his sharp straight and gold-rimmed glasses add r sternness; and as he stands and s he grows momentarily more ex- over the justice of his cause; at s, his voice rings forth with an emphasis; not the voice of an ora- but of a self-reliant man intent demolishing, at one full swoop, the es arrayed against him; and his de face and the bald spot on his grow rosy till you wonder if he not, in some moment of intense tement, suffer a seizure.

these highly concentrated mots, he easily overcomes his usual ttering style of talking and his s seem to run away with his th. He becomes, in an instant, a nidable debater, his impetuosity ly carrying him off his feet. e fiercely rends the air with his s, whacks his fist on one of the r-by mahogany desks, and in many r ways betrays the keen excitets that are consuming his very n, on with more and more headr, like a powerful locomotive and ress train, gathering impetus as it the terrific roar, jar, rumble and ying of the Aldrich machine proed through space at a high rate of d drowns all other sounds; and the figurative miles and miles of speech his tremendous head of m is maintained, until at last Alh puts on the brakes but a few -lengths from the stopping place, y knocking everybody over with suddenness of his stop, quite as matic in its way as was the flight ay after day he thus replies to ens of sharp questionings, many of m of the rasping order, from men are still to be convinced of the e of the Aldrich political suggesns. And it is perhaps needless to that this heretical attitude on part colleagues drives Aldrich close to ration. And in turn he has an y way of answering these questions hief at him like flying of arrows. grabs his figurative automatic reer and bangs away, ten shots a nd, not bothering to seize his big tle ax with which he does his more erate work. By a series of sharp asms he can easily disconcert his onents and finally with a toss of head, a contemptuous flinging aside the argument, he drops into his ir, as though insulted at the dense orance of his colleagues.

ven when not speaking, Aldrich s keen attention and there runs ughout the Senate chamber an uncurrent of suspense. Members seem fear his raw tongue-lashings, his rges of heresy to the party, his warms and his taunts. They do not ow at what instant a word may proa his wrath.

LDRICH AND CUMMINS COMPARED.

n the other side, the storm-center hers around a man of totally disilar personality, the intrepid and olarly Cummins of Iowa, in his own y also a power to be reckoned with; does it require a prophetic eye to that he is a man who, as time s forward, will yet occupy larger

On the face of it, Cummins's grasp of details is not as broad as Aldrich's, but this is offset in other ways. Cummins is a special pleader, Aldrich a brutal assailant, tyrannical, dogmatic. Cummins may be likened to a swarm of torpedo boats, dodging this way and that and if successful in avoiding the nets may even send home a charge that will blow up the Aldrich man-of-war, with all her heavy guns. And in turn, Aldrich is the unwieldly battleship that requires a great circle of open water in which to revolve, the while hurling on the enemy those heavy charges of dynamite and pressed steel.

Aldrich has the comprehensive view of the practical manufacturer. His knowledge of the national industries is little short of masterful. He might well be called the business manager of the United States, from a practical point. He could, if he so willed, step into any great plant and tell the managers a hundred facts in their own interests; and such skill as this, of course, gives him tremendous advantage over Cummins, who to an extent is on the defensive, obliged to meet with all the power of his analytical mind the sensational rushes of Aldrich, whose tactics borrow little from logic or eloquence, but put their faith in force—as the trip-hammer convinces the semi-molten bar on the anvil.

SPLENDID ANTAGONIST.

But Cummins, not easily routed, still makes a splendid showing against his formidable rival, who has grown gray in thirty years' study of corporations and protected industries. What especially irritates Aldrich is Cummins's plausible ways.

I think you would like Cummins, as you admire a well-trained actor; his style is so restful, after the Aldrich hurricanes. His voice, with its clear carrying qualities, affords a pliant instrument of attack; and not unlike a college professor secure in his recitation room with his pupils quietly making notes, Cummins talks on and on, with a peculiar mellifluous appeal without break or falter. His voice is properly, what may be termed a speaking voice enlarged to the necessities of the Senate chamber, rather than the rotund, or other formidable tones; and his light flexible undulations are pleasing to listeners even in the distant galleries, for his accents carry with unusual distinctness.

In his seeming consideration for other gentlemen's feelings, Cummins's manners are Chesterfieldian, and by his enforced moderateness of words, removed always from exuberance or over-statements, he presents the enviable impression of mental precision and restraint, as though wishing to deal very fairly with what is before him. Charmed by his grace and suavity, his hearers listen closely, even though he talks half an hour, or more.

Cummins's style is what I should mark as the plausible in discourse; and it is to his immense advantage that he never loses his head, no matter what the harsh provocation. "If I have overlooked anything, Senators, I will," etc. His calm deliberation, his candor, his coldness of flame, irritates while it inspires.

And, naturally, Cummins will not permit other men to make his arguments for him. The other day, using an unfortunate quotation from a printed page and drawing certain untenable deductions, Cummins was snapped up by Smoot of Utah, who, after gaining the point that Cummins regarded the man quoted as an authority, continued, "And will you, then, accept what your authority says on this question in other parts of this book?" It was a peculiar situation, but Cummins, after an instant's hestitation, replied in his dispassionate way, "I will not, for the very good reason that I am always accustomed to try things by my own common sense."

So, he is always master of himself, keen of wit, sharp as a briar, chivalrous as Chesterfield, whose great dictum was, "A gentleman should always be careful of another gentleman's feelings.

SMITH'S ONE QUESTION.

Smith of Michigan also stands close to the center of the stage in these stiff debates. He has a "way" of asking a seemingly simple question, but behind it is a snare not unlike the bridge built over the pit, on which the unsuspecting elephant walks to certain destruction.

If any one man has the peculiar faculty of reducing a long debate to a single question, containing the kernel of long mooted arguments, the Senator with this power of compression is Smith of Michigan. He is a formidable champion, even for the oldest Senatorial strategist. Of course, the Senator's reply leads to the concealed snare; and when Smith calmly rises in the heat of debate and asks in his quiet way, "Will the gentleman allow me to ask him one question?" a hush falls over the Senate and the knowing ones prepare for a scene of sudden oratorical death. Smith's courtesy disarms suspicion. It is rapidly becoming a maxim among his enemies that it is always best to let a sleeping bulldog slumber.

Twice, last week, Smith narrowed to a cambric-needle point the long arguments of Cummins, and the Iowa Senator's arguments fell to the ground instantly. The others Senators drew a long breath of admiration, Cummins took his seat, said no more that day.

CUT OUT FOR LEADERSHIP.

Senator Flint of California, easily the Beau Brummel of the Senate, is also forward in these great national debates. His aggressive logic is winning laurels for the Pacific Coast. Flint's sauve manners, his faultless attire, his handsome face and form, his iron gray hair carefully parted in the middle, his well-groomed appearance, make him a marked man. He listens attentively and speaks with the plain practical force that commands respectful audience. The Senator, though in his first term, is developing rapidly, seems to know how to hit the nail on the head. His speeches on woollen clothing, porcelains, cut glass and china, and other mooted factors in various schedules have brought him into the limelight as a man keen and to the point. Flint has the conviction that shapes events, a self-confidence springing from the intense identification of the man with his object, which lifts him altogether above men who fear what others say or do—and fearing, lose all.

Don't Speak Disrespectfully.

Patrick arrived much the worse for wear. One eye was closed, his nose was broken and his face looked as though it had been stung by bees.

"Glory be!" exclaimed his wife.

"That Dutchman Schwartzheimer—'twas him," explained Patrick.

"Shame on ye!" exploded his wife without sympathy. "A big shpalpeen the loikes of you to get bate up by a little omadhaun of a Dutchman the size of him! Why——"

"Whist, Nora," said Patrick, "don't spake disrespectful of the dead!"—

WATER BOTHERS IN TUNNEL.

SECOND HILL-STREET BORING WET FROM START.

May Delay the Work So That Cars Cannot Be Running in Time for the Elks' Convention—Sinking Shaft to Place Wall to Support Buildings.

Water is a very serious factor in the construction of the Los Angeles-Pacific's second tunnel under Hill street and may delay the work so far that cars will not be running as early as the management has been predicting. It is hoped and desired that it may be ready in time for the Elks' convention, but it may not. Those on the job are none too sanguine.

The first tunnel was entirely dry; the second has been wet from the start and for the last six weeks two two-inch centrifugal pumps on each of the lower levels have scarcely been able to take care of the flow while running twenty-four hours seven days a week. The interior is simply a morass of mud, and rubber boots have been needed by the workmen frequently, when water has stood knee-deep.

The nearest-to-daylight level is within eighty-four feet of breaking through, the farthest 215, the other three around 120. Of the brick arch, 247 feet remain to be completed. Two hundred and fifty men are on the work. The tunnel is built on a 3.50 per cent. grade, First street being lower than Temple.

At the south end the steam shovel has taken out only about 7000 cubic yards of 22,000, to open the ground to the south portal.

A sixty-five-foot shaft is being sunk just above where the entrance of the tunnel will be. This is done to start a wall which is necessary to protect the adjoining buildings. This was started a week ago. It is right in the center of Hill street, or where the center would be if the highway were open at that point.

Every night trains of cars loaded with earth are hauled down Hill street. It is impossible to move muck as rapidly as at the other end owing to the restrictions imposed in that part of the city.

Conductors Get Concession.

An Associated Press dispatch from San Bernardino says that an agreement has been effected by which members of the Order of Railway Conductors will be placed in charge of the Santa Fé's motor cars which non-union men have been running at $125 a month. The agreement applies to the Los Angeles and Valley divisions. The demand of the Brotherhood of Trainmen for an additional brakeman was refused and will not be carried further.

Evidence on Switching.

The hearing before the special examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, J. D. Lederman, was occupied yesterday principally with the introduction of maps of switching and yards, tabulated statements of costs of switching. One exhibit was a petition of the Southern Pacific asking for the condemnation of land for an industrial track presented to controvert the company's contentions that such spurs are a nuisance and expense which the railroads would prefer not to maintain.

The Associated Jobbers, who have brought the complaint, are represented by Loeb & Kuster, attorneys, and F. P. Gregson, traffic manager; Seth traffic manager of the Pacific Hardware and Steel Company, represent San Francisco shippers; E. W. Camp, the Santa Fe; A. S. Halstead, the Salt Lake, and W. H. Durbow, the Southern Pacific.

Late Amos Seward Believed to Have Been Oldest Man in Ventura County.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

He was a Civil War veteran, and served as post quartermaster at Mankato in 1861-2, during the Indian outbreak. He leaves a widow and four children, one of whom, Rev. F. D. Seward, is pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Gardena.

The Chamber of Commerce last night appointed a committee to send an invitation to President Taft to visit Ventura during his summer tour of the Coast.

LIFE'S SEAMY SIDE.

BOY KILLS TO AVENGE SISTER.

Shoots Down Doctor Accused of Her Betrayal.

Slaying Comes as Climax to Other Sensations.

Girl's Confession Made Before Her Crucifix.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MORGAN CITY (La.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The unwritten law has claimed another victim in Louisiana. A demand for retribution, refusal, and Dr. Allen S. King, a prominent physician of this place, was shot down by Leroy Olivier, 16 years old, son of the late Dr. Michael Olivier.

The shooting was the result of ugly rumors circulated about the city of an intimacy between Dr. King and Miss Grace Olivier, a sister of the youth. After firing two shots into the body of his victim, young Olivier calmly walked to the Courthouse, where he surrendered.

The shooting occurred shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning, in the offices occupied by Dr. King. The physician was found stretched upon the floor in his waiting room. One bullet entered the left breast, passed through the lung and tore away part of the heart. He was still breathing when assistance reached him, but expired after being placed on a couch.

For the past five years Dr. King has been a practicing physician in this city, and numbered among his patients the members of the Olivier family. He frequently visited the house, according to those who live in the neighborhood. About a month ago Miss Grace Olivier, who had been a teacher in the public school and who was beloved and respected by every one in the city, left here for New Orleans, where, it is said, she placed herself under the care of a physician.

The following day Dr. King closed his office and also went to New Orleans, but whether or not he followed the pretty young school teacher is a matter of conjecture. Returning to this city, the girl is said to have accused the physician. The girl's confession was made on bended knees before a crucifix and in the presence of Rev. A. Seuby, pastor of the Catholic Church, the mother of the girl and a friend.

The confession, although not denied or affirmed by the priest, was made last week and was circulated freely about the streets. Last Tuesday Dr. King returned to this city and immediately resumed his practice. The day following his return the town was placarded with large printed posters which heralded his return and branded him as the betrayer of women. It is believed that the posters were what inflamed the youthful brother with a desire to avenge the wrongs. Arming himself with a 45-caliber automatic revolver, young Olivier proceeded to the office of the physician this morning, and after a short parley killed the doctor.

TRIES TO POISON BUREAU WIFE.

FACES SERIOUS CHARGE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Francis Love, a hod carrier, was arrested today on a charge of attempting to poison his wife, who owns a home on Army street and has $10,000 in the bank.

The couple met for the first time last August in the parlor of a matrimonial agency on Geary street. Love having advertised for a wife with money, Mrs. Victoria Loring, who responded to the advertisement and whom Love married, gave him an inventory of her property.

According to her complaint, Love insisted on her giving him a deed to her property and when she refused began to annoy her in various ways. She suffered from heart disease and he would frighten her, she alleges with the purpose of bringing on an attack. A few days ago, he gave her a powder to relieve a headache. She consulted it and turned it over to the police. An analysis showed that it contained enough strychnine to kill a dozen men and Love's arrest followed.

POOR FARM INMATE A SUICIDE.

DESPONDENT AT PROPERTY LOSS

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDEPENDENCE (Or.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Albert Allen, 74 years old, an inmate of the Talmage Poor Farm, committed suicide last night by jumping in front of a motor on the Monmouth-Independence line. Allen got on the track about 200 feet in front of the motor, but stepped off, as if waiting for it to go by. As the car approached, however, he threw himself on the tracks and was ground under the wheels before the motorman could control the brakes. His death was almost instantaneous. The aged man had been despondent since the loss of his property had forced him to become an inmate of the County institution.

"SHANGHAI" A SUICIDE.

MAN STEALER DRINKS POISON.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SEATTLE, May 19.—C. B. Smith, better known as "Shanghai" Smith, a saloon-keeper, notorious all over the sea-faring world, committed suicide here today by swallowing cyanide of potassium. Smith's wife obtained a decree of divorce yesterday, and made out such a case against him that the court awarded her all of his property, valued at $25,000, with the custody of their nine-year-old daughter.

For ten years Smith ran a waterfront saloon and sailors' resort, and his impressing of seamen had given endless trouble to vessel masters and the police.

TAP GUSHER ON THE FLAT.

Five Hundred Barrels Per Day from Well Drilled in Kern County.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Startling developments were reported of the Johnson well in Flat Maricopa this afternoon. The drill passed through eighteen feet of oil sand, forty feet of intervening blue clay, and ran into a second stratum of oil sand producing light oil with abundant gas pressure, flowing 500 barrels per day.

The extent of the second sand is not yet determined. Drilling will be continued until indications of water are reached, when the well will be closed up. On account of the unexpected good fortune the owners of the Johnson well have decided to keep the corporation a close one and to furnish the money themselves for further developments. Accordingly the $15,000 additional stock issue will not be made.

PASSES BAD CHECKS FOR SPITE.

Portland Woman's Unusual Way of Troubling Husband Leads to Her Arrest.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Passing bogus checks and thereby endangering her liberty, just to spite her husband, makes the case of Mrs. Mary Scheels, a resident of Woodlawn, one of the most peculiar in local criminal annals.

The woman, who has been in the tolls several times, was again arrested last night for obtaining money under false pretences. B. J. Dresser, the complainant, alleges he was mulcted out of $5 by means of a fictitious check on a local bank. In the police court today Mrs. Scheels was bound over on $500 bail.

Mrs. Scheels said she passed the worthless checks in order to spite her spouse. "It don't seem to harm him," said the woman, "so I guess I'll have to quit it."

GARFIELD'S AVENGER ON TRIAL

Man Who Tried to Shoot Assassin Guiteau Charged With Murder of Farm Laborer.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 19.—William Jones, who many years ago attempted to avenge the killing of Garfield by shooting at Charles Guiteau, the assassin, while the latter was being removed from the courthouse to the jail in this city, was placed on trial here today charged with the murder of John A. McPherson, who was employed by Jones as a farm laborer. McPherson was killed in October, 1908, at Jones's home near this city. Jones pleaded self defense.

STAB INDIAN OFFICER.

FOUR MEXICANS ARRESTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

YUMA (Ariz.) May 19.—Charlie Escalante, a Yuma Indian policeman, and deputy United States Marshal, was set upon last night at the California side of the Southern Pacific Railroad bridge across the Colorado, by four Mexicans and probably fatally stabbed. Escalante afterward walked to an Indian hut some distance off where his wounds were dressed. The authorities at the Indian agency were notified of the attempted murder. They sent a posse in pursuit of the Mexicans, who were captured at a camp a few miles away, and are now held at the agency prison awaiting the arrival of the Sheriff from El Centro. Escalante later identified one as the man who did the stabbing.

SALESMAN A SUICIDE.

WAS KNOWN HERE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WOODLAND, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Milton Culbertson, traveling salesman for E. R. Squibb & Son, druggists of New York, was found dead in his room here today. He committed suicide with poison. He was about 30 years old and had coast headquarters in San Francisco and Los Angeles. He belonged to the Masons in St. Louis, and a letter indicated he was in financial difficulties.

CASHIER'S WIDOW GOES MAD.

RENO, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. W. T. Onyon, who has been missing from the Latter Day Saints' Hospital in Salt Lake City since Tuesday night, was found in front of her sister's home by her brother, H. G. Jolly, last evening.

Her husband died suddenly from a pistol wound at Lovelock recently, and Mrs. Onyon's mind is still unbalanced, and she is not able to tell where she has been during the last three days except that she was in a rooming house on Second South street.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Rob Under Election Noise.

LINCOLN (Neb.) May 19.—Bank robbers secured $6000 from the Cairo State Bank last night, demolishing the safe and building by three explosions. A local election was held yesterday and the explosions were thought to be part of the celebration.

INHUMAN BEASTS.

WOMAN POWERLESS IN CLUTCHES OF THUGS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lured to a shanty on the outskirts of Asbury Park, Miss Emma Trotter, 35 years old, a missionary for the Florence Crittenton Circle of that place, was held prisoner for two days and nights by three men, filled with drugs and treated with the utmost brutality, in an effort to extort from her information concerning the whereabouts of a young girl who had been rescued by the circle from the influence of these men.

Eventually she gained her freedom by working upon the conscience of one of her captors, while the others were stupefied with liquor. Reminding him of his childhood days, she induced one memory of his mother until, tearful and penitent, he aided her to escape.

Miss Trotter received a summons by telephone, presumably from a girl, asking her to come to her at an address in Ocean Grove Heights. When she reached the house she was seized by three men. They dragged her into a back room, thrust her into a chair and demanded to know the whereabouts of Charlotte Graves, a girl who had been rescued from them. Miss Trotter refused to speak.

Instantly she was knocked down and kicked. Her screams for help were unanswered. Finally one of the men thrust her head back, forcing her mouth open, while one of the others poured down her throat a liquid that wife ate chili con carne. Mrs. Bennett, he said, ate about one-third of a can, while he took only a small quantity.

DEATH MYSTERY.

Shortly after eating, Bennett says, he was taken sick and fell to the floor. He states that at this time Mrs. Bennett was well enough to call Dr. A. C. Pratt by telephone. But before the physician could get to the house, Mrs. Bennett was seized with convulsions and died in a short time. Dr. Pratt was unable to save the woman, but quickly relieved Bennett.

At the inquest Dr. Pratt testified to the symptoms and what had been done for his patients, and the case appeared to be such a plain death by ptomaine poisoning that a certificate to this effect was made out and the woman was buried without it being considered necessary to have an autopsy performed.

DOUBLY EMBALMED.

As soon as the body was turned over to the custody of Bennett he made arrangements to have it embalmed. He told the undertaker that he wanted it heavily surcharged with the embalming fluid, as he intended to ship it East for burial.

These instructions were carried out and the remains of Mrs. Bennett were doubly embalmed, an unusual quantity of the preserving mixture being used in the process. It is to this fact that the wonderful preservation as found yesterday, is partly attributed. Instead of shipping the body, Bennett buried it here.

The generous use of the embalming fluid will tend to make difficult the detection of poison, except certain kinds, in the tissues of the stomach and liver. While it is believed that also within possibilities, say the officers, that some other quick poison was the cause of death.

PTOMAINE NOT SO QUICK.

This question of sudden death from ptomaine poisoning was submitted last evening to Dr. J. F. T. Jenkins, of No. 1050 West Twenty-fourth street, an expert in such cases, and his opinion is that:

"In the cases of poisoning from meats it takes from twelve to twenty-four hours for the incubation of the disease, sometimes longer, and occasionally thirty-six hours. In very exceptional cases death has been known to follow ptomaine poisoning from fish or rather mussels, within two hours. In the present case, as cited, it appears to be impossible that death should result within two hours after eating chili con carne."

HE SUES FOR DAMAGES.

After the death of his wife, Bennett brought suit in the Superior Court against the Royston grocery, where he bought the chili con carne, for $50,000 damages. Jones & Drake are the attorneys of record for the plaintiff in this suit, which is still on the docket, while Gibson, Trask, Dunn & Crutcher represent the defendant. The suit was filed on March 10.

PROMISES TO BE GREAT CASE.

When suspicions were at first reported, it is understood, the District Attorney would not take up the case, but from several quarters certain facts were brought to the attention of the office which compelled action, and the case was turned over to the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, which has had charge of it since.

None of the officers connected with the case would talk about it yesterday. They absolutely refused to say what testimony, if any, they have of acknowledged that some investigation is under way, but all details were refused.

Altogether the case promises to become one of the most complicated and historic in the annals of Los Angeles county, should evidence of strychnine poison really be found in the stomach of the unfortunate woman who died without warning in horrible agony over three months ago.

Read This and See if You Are the Man

We have for sale one of the finest ranches in the Owens Valley. Not a small one, but one for a big man; a man who can put a townsite upon the market; a man who can put all of his energies into what he undertakes.

This ranch consists of 1400 acres and is located upon the new railroad now building from Mojave to Keeler, alongside the Los Angeles Aqueduct. Upon it will be built the largest town in the valley, to which is bound to come all of the trade of one of the best fruit and alfalfa districts of Southern California.

It is not a desert claim, but contains over 800 acres of fine grass meadow under irrigation, about 50 acres of alfalfa, two of the nicest orchards in that section of the country, and natural water in running streams and springs ditched and piped so as to cover the greater portion of this valuable property.

Buildings consist of store, blacksmith shop, several houses and barns. Nearly all of this land is fenced.

The price is $50 per acre cash, or time on part. It is well worth $100 per acre. The townsite alone will pay for it and leave you 1200 acres to cut up into 10-acre tracts, which will sell for $100 to $250 set out to either fruit or alfalfa.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

PASADENA.

MAYOR DESIRES PROMPT ACTION.

HE'S STRIVING FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF WATER.

Appoints Committee, Selected from Opposition Party, to Consider the Matter—His Honor's Communication Causes Stir—Wooden Buildings Are Discouraged.

Office of The Times, No. 2 E. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, May 20.—Mayor Earley, yesterday, took definite action for the securing of municipal ownership of water. A committee of twenty-two men of the so-called Waterhouse, or opposition party was appointed by His Honor and is to meet at once and submit an answer to a communication made. The members of this body are M. H. Weight, William Waterhouse, Victor Marsh, T. J. Rillieux, J. G. Plank, C. J. Crandall, George F. Kernaghan, E. H. Lockwood, J. Edward Kent, W. D. Medill, Walter R. Simons, C. H. Towle, J. S. Cox, Torrey Evert, G. M. Burlingame, J. W. Pickering, H. M. Cole, William Thum, C. M. Jacques, Edmund D. Barry, C. A. Day and Charles Grimes.

It is felt by some of the opposition that the Mayor has set a stupendous task in asking that the final committee report be made to the Council within sixty days. It is also intimated that stockholders of the water companies will be the principal contributors to the fund to defray the expenses of investigations and that most of them are anxious to have the bond issue, which will undoubtedly aggregate $1,-250,000, carried.

The Chief Executive's proposition, as forwarded to the committee, is as follows:

"Gentlemen: In my letter of March 19, 1909, accepting the nomination of Mayor, I said: 'It seems to me that it is the people's desire that the question of municipal ownership of water should again be submitted if a satisfactory price can be obtained from the water companies. The water companies are under no contract or obligations to our city at the present time to sell us their plants. I would be willing and shall propose, if elected Mayor, to appoint a committee of two, subject to the approval of the Council, provided the opposition will appoint a committee of two and let that committee select a fifth man and let them submit the question that was raised just before we voted on the bond issue about the water companies not owning the water that they were selling to the city, or their right to pay dividends, to a judge or judges, or to attorneys that the committee might select.

"'I would also be perfectly willing to have that committee select engineers and competent men who would place values on the water, real estate, pipe lines, reservoirs or any other properties that the companies own, so that all our citizens might be satisfied with the investigation.

"'I will agree to raise one-half of the money by subscription, if the opponents of our plan of municipal ownership of water will raise the balance to defray all expenses of obtaining such information.'

"I am desirous of carrying out this proposal in the belief that we may thereby justly and rationally settle the differences of opinion and unite in the acquiring of municipal ownership of water.

"In pursuance of my letter I shall be glad to appoint two members of the committee proposed, if you will appoint a like number before so named to select a fifth member within ten days after being appointed, and the committee to have the questions we shall submit passed upon in the manner they may agree to, and within sixty days to make a full and complete report to the City Council. The said committee shall serve without compensation. I have submitted this letter to the Council and it meets with its approval and an early reply will be appreciated."

MISS BARNES TO GERMANY.

Miss Madeline Barnes, whose masterful playing of the violin and charming personality have won her enviable popularity in society circles here, is going to Germany. Her father, Winthrop Howard Barnes, a musical critic and formerly prominent in the Cecelia Club of Boston, has sold his beautiful home on St. John avenue to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Craig of Minneapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and Miss Barnes expect to spend two or three years in Germany, but probably will eventually return to Pasadena to live.

SCHERER CHANGES PLANS.

Dr. James A. B. Scherer, president of Throop Polytechnic Institute, has changed his plans and expects to arrive here June 6, in time for commencement exercises of the institute. His wife received the message by cable yesterday. The doctor has been traveling in Europe with Dr. George E. Hale. The latter will return July 1.

WILL NOT FORCE ISSUE.

Mayor Earley does not intend to force carriage drivers to patronize the public stand that is to be installed opposite Central Park, but hopes to make it worth while for them to do so. He will ask General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric for the privilege of placing notices in that company's Pasadena-bound cars, stating that the place to get automobiles and public carriages is opposite Central Park.

WILL RUN INDEPENDENT.

D. J. McPherson yesterday signified his intention of remaining an independent candidate for membership in the Board of Education, in opposition to the men put up at the citizens' meeting. He was led to take this action because of a well-signed petition that has been circulated on his behalf.

AGAINST WOODEN BUILDINGS.

The Council yesetrday denied Harry E. Glatenburg's petition to move a frame store building to the back of a lot and repair it. Building Inspector Shaver contends that wooden buildings must be abolished from fire district No. 1, which is the business section of the city. It is the inspector's intention to clean out the fire traps as soon as possible.

SONG CYCLE.

Mrs. Arthur Jerome Eddy was the hostess yesterday afternoon at one of the most delightful entertainments of the post-Lenten season.

In the patio at her Spanish-Californian home on East California street, eighty guests assembled to listen to a musicale given by some of the leading soloists in Southern California. Among these were Estelle Heartt Dreyfus, Bertha Winslow Vaughn, Harry Clifford Lott and Jackson Stuart Gregg. Mrs. Lott was the accompanist.

Seats were provided for the guests under the broad porticos running around three sides of the patio, which was gorgeous with a wealth of rose bloom and flowering shrubbery. Programmes bearing the monogram of the hostess in gold, were provided.

After the song cycle a collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Sinclair and Miss Sinclair have issued invitations for a dancing party to be given at the Valley Hunt Clubhouse Monday evening.

OCEAN PARK.

OCEAN PARK, May 19.—There is a renewal of the effort to accomplish the opening of Rose avenue and Center street through to the East. This would give two additional entrances to the beach from the back country. One of the present marked disadvantages of Venice is the devious course that automobiles are forced to travel in order to arrive at the beach after having reached the "back country." The prospect of continuing the boulevard through the present Midway Plaissance has frequently been suggested, but nothing has been done in that direction.

W. J. Guthrie plans to erect a $12,000 residence in the Walnut Grove tract, in the vicinity of Ocean Park Heights.

Mrs. Emma Burger has been granted a permit for the erection of a $2500 dwelling in the Short Line Beach subdivision.

SIERRA MADRE.

SIERRA MADRE, May 19.—The Sunday baseball games have been resumed, and are well attended. It was not found practicable to have Saturday games, as many of the merchants could not excuse their employés on one of the busiest days in the week.

The committee appointed to investigate the streams feeding the reservoirs in this section found them in excellent condition. J. McNally, the owner of the half-way house on the Wilson trail, where it was reported the trouble originated, has his section in the best of sanitary condition. He has posted placards along the creeks and places where campers stop, warning all persons against the dumping of garbage in the streams or washing or bathing in the waters.

It is reported that the portion of the Baldwin estate which borders this city will soon be placed on the market in five, ten and twenty-acre sections.

The Longest Sentence.

The prize for the longest sentence ever written may fairly be awarded to the elder Dumas, who probably holds a further record for fertility of production. In the seventh of the twenty-nine volumes which compose the "Impressions de Voyage," there is a sentence describing Benvenuto Cellini which fills three pages, or 108 lines, averaging forty-five letters apiece. The sentence is broken by sixty-eight commas and sixty semicolons; but as it contains 195 verbs and 122 proper names, the reader is somewhat bewildered before the end is reached.—[London Chronicle.

NEAR TRAGEDY.

BULLETS FLY IN ROW OVER VETERAN'S DOG.

WEST LONG BEACH, May 19.—Trouble over a dog nearly caused murder here tonight. W. J. Hancock, a clerk in Dudley's grocery store, attempted, it is alleged, to shoot A. C. F. Hutchinson, a Spanish War veteran, while the latter, accompanied by his dog, was on the way to the station to take a train for Los Angeles. The clerk was arrested and put under a $1000 bond.

Two weeks ago Hancock's small brother was bitten by the veteran's canine, and Hutchinson was warned to kill the animal. Instead of doing so he kept it in hiding, intending to sell it. He found a purchaser in Los Angeles and was about to take the dog to that city when the shooting took place.

Hancock saw the veteran leading the dog muzzled beastand seizing a revolver, ran after Hutchinson. Upon overtaking him, the clerk is charged with having said: "I'd like to kill you both."

The first bullet, supposedly aimed at the veteran, went wild; the second also missed its mark, but grazed a bystander's head the third killed the dog.

Hancock was overpowered and held until officers arrived from Long Beach.

YUMA A SEAPORT.

Citizens Believe the Colorado River Can Be Made Navigable for Large Draft Steamers.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

YUMA (Ariz.) May 19.—Yuma now lays claim to 3000 population. It is claimed that, in addition to her agricultural advantages, which will be so much improved, by the completion of the Laguna irrigation system, that the town will take rank as a commercial center.

It is believed that the Colorado can be readily made available for the navigation by steamers, and that here may be the distributing point to a large part of the Southwest. Yuma now is on a trunk line and has just been given an additional line to Calexico in the Imperial Valley.

To this later line will soon be added a road direct from San Diego, giving ready access in the summer to sea breezes and permitting the shipment to this point of heavy traffic, on which water rates of transportation have lowered the gross cost.

Roy Sexsmith has been appointed by the Board of Supervisors as ranger for Yuma county. The appointee was formerly a Territorial ranger. Thus the only effect upon the country of the passage of the bill in the last Legislature, abolishing the ranger force has been to place the expense of maintenance directly upon the counties.

Charles Ackers, or Ackerman, wanted for desertion from the Signal Corps at the Presidio, San Francisco, has been arrested here. It is said that he is the son of a wealthy railroad man in the East and that his flight from San Francisco was in a private car furnished by friends of the family.

L. Dolan, a Southern Pacific detective, has been fined $30 for assault. His offence was the maltreatment of hobos. It is claimed that he will pretend to arrest the tramps whom he caught on trains in the railroad yards, but would march them up to the depot, where they would be liberated if they would buy a ticket to some point on the road.

LAST PILE IN POSITION.

Santa Monica's New Pier Well Under Way—High School Girls Form Swimming Club.

SANTA MONICA, May 19.—At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, the shriek of the whistle of the electric lighting plant announced that the last reinforced concrete pile for the new municipal pier was in place. The pier, which is the first structure of the kind to be built in the West, and which will cost $100,000, is to support the disposal pipe of the sewage system. It will be 1600 feet long and will be completed by July 4.

Misses Alice Newkirk, Gladys Rhodda, Lida and Nita Sheffield and several other High School girls have formed a swimming club and expect soon to issue challenges to similar organizations of other beach cities and of Los Angeles.

The Teddy Bear baseball team will come from Los Angeles Sunday afternoon, to engage the Santa Monicas in a contest. Covina has made an offer and will perhaps secure the services of Capt. James Forney, first baseman of the local team.

Arrowhead Hot Springs will cure that rheumatism.

SAN PEDRO.

LAID ON TABLE INDEFINITELY.

INDEPENDENT FIGHT UNLIKELY FOR TERMINAL RATES.

Fees Demanded by Lawyers Have Deterrent Effect—Believed Results of Efforts, Without Los Angeles' Assistance, Would Be Doubtful. Fire Alarm System Accepted.

SAN PEDRO, May 19.—The Trustees today laid on the table indefinitely the proposal of Attorney Byron Waters of San Bernardino, to take up the fight for terminal freight rates for this city, prior to consolidation with Los Angeles. Mr. Waters asked a retainer of $1000, a contingent fee of $1000, $30 a day for all time spent away from his office, and $40 a day for all time spent outside of the State, together with expenses incurred in securing testimony. He also imposed the condition that he should have "exclusive control and charge of such negotiations and proceedings."

Probably no action will be taken by the Trustees toward securing terminal rates. The subject was first taken up nearly a month ago, at the request of the Chamber of Commerce. Since the chamber has approved the report of its harbor committee, expressing confidence in the Jobbers' Association of Los Angeles in its efforts to secure terminal rates after consolidation.

The proposal that the Trustees move in the matter met with little favor on account of the cost and doubtful results of any effort that might be made without the assistance of Los Angeles. Trustee Peck expressed doubt as to the jurisdiction of the board to expend money for such a purpose.

The Board of Public Works of Los Angeles has appropriated $600 to improve a short stretch of road within the "shoestring" strip from the end of Pacific avenue to the track of the Los Angeles Inter-Urban Railroad. This is the most important road leading from San Pedro and it has been in bad condition for some time. The work will be done under the supervision of City Engineer Whitman of San Pedro.

INSURANCE RATES LOWER.

The Trustees have accepted the electric fire alarm system installed here by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company. Alarms may be turned in from twelve boxes, covering the entire town, which will automatically tap the number of the ward on the big bell hung in the City Hall tower. The system will be paid for in monthly installments of $84, extending over a period of five years. The reduction in insurance rates in the residence section will more than pay for the cost.

A party of Pacific Electric officials, including J. McMillan, general manager; Thomas McCaffery, general superintendent; A. D. McDonald, auditor, and F. VanVranken, superintendent, made a trip over the local lines in a special car this afternoon.

DEEDS STREET TO CITY.

Proprietor of Ship Plant Gives Long Beach Short Thoroughfare—New Uniform for Band.

LONG BEACH, May 19.—Announcement was made, today, that John F. Craig, of the Craig ship plant, had agreed to deed to the city an 80-foot street on the north side of the draw bridge. It runs through the ship yard property, extending from the foot of Golden avenue to the river. Across the river, or harbor entrance is another street which the Board of Public Works is surfacing with earth, making it a good thoroughfare to West Long Beach. The city will install a free ferry for passengers and teams.

In exchange for the new street, the city will vacate a portion of Third street which runs through the ship yards.

As the police have no report of any missing diamonds, Robinwitz was released.

Henderson has bought the cottage on Holt avenue and will move it to a lot which he recently secured northwest of the city. J. H. Hillen has bought the house on Garey avenue adjoining Lee Pitzer's home, and will move it to a lot next to his own home on Alvado street. A party has an option on the residence formerly occupied by Mrs. Cyrus Burdick and this will probably be sold this week. The new church building will cost $45,000.

The local committee of the G.A.R. and W.R.C. in charge of the observence of Memorial Day here have arranged the programme. The Sunday services will be held at Trinity Methodist Church and the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Dr. A. W. Lamport. The parade to the cemetery and decoration of the graves of fallen soldiers will take place on May 31. The principal speaker on that day will be John Pitman of Los Angeles.

LIQUOR SEIZED.

Isaac E. Hite of No. 320 West Fifth avenue and John E. Turner of First and Caswell streets, have been arrested, charged with violating the liquor ordinance. OVER THE SEA.

PRINCE SCIPIO BORGHESE'S feat in traversing Central Asia, from Peking to Moscow and Paris in a motor car two years ago, has encouraged certain enterprising Chinese and Russian merchants to form an association for the transport of the finest qualities of Chinese tea across the desert of Gobi, by means of automobiles. The very best grades of tea have always been borne across the Central Asian desert by means of caravans of camels.

A chair of aëronautics was established recently at Gottingen University, and Prof. Prandtl has been appointed by the German government to the new post of professor of aëronautics. A gentleman of Portrush sent Lord Roberts an old horseshoe when things looked ill in South Africa. MAT QUAY'S STRATEGY.

Whereby He Stopped Illegal Voting in New York City in the Harrison Campaign.

[Metropolitan Magazine:] Benjamin Harrison was put in the field against Cleveland in 1888. Senator M. S. Quay was in the van of the Republican battle, and Mr. Quay did a thing that will be talked about as long as our political system endures. Four years before there had been grave charges in New York of colonization by both sides—that is, the importation of nonresidents to vote in New York City to help carry the all-important State. Mr. Quay professed to believe this practice had carried the State for Cleveland. He met a man in a small town in Jersey and gave him his secret instructions, to carry out which he was well paid. Shortly afterward a new dirm of directory publishers opened offices in New York City, but no new directory appeared. The campaign was ending in a great burst of accusation. "Colonization everywhere!" was the cry. Then Quay sent for one of the leaders of the Cleveland campaign in New York, and took him to the new directory office, where books were piled to the ceiling.

"These books," he said, "contain the names of the men who have the right to vote. If any others vote the jails won't be big enough to hold them." And there was a minimum of illegal voting, at least on the Democratic side, in New York that year.

Novel Ventilation Device.

A novel but simple device for ventilating cars, factories and houses has just been devised by H. T. Minnitt. In a panel of glass or sheet metal a large number of bosses are stamped, each boss being perforated by a hole about a quarter of an inch in diameter. The panel is mounted in a wall or window and if the bosses project outward the wind causes a distinct current of air outward through the holes, but if the panel is reversed the current passes inward. The action is still the same whether the wind blows directly against the panel or across it. —[Exchange.

NEW THEORY SPREADS RAPIDLY OVER COUNTRY

Colorado Woman Gives Reasons For Her Abiding Faith in Cooper

L. T. Cooper's theory concerning the human stomach, which has been widely discussed in Los Angeles and vicinity, since his recent visit in this city, is being given more respect and comment every day.

Cooper claims that a large majority of all ill health is due to stomach trouble. When interviewed about his theory recently, he said: "Stomach trouble is the great curse of the 20th century so far as the civilized races are concerned. Practically all of the chronic ill health of this generation is caused by abnormal stomachic conditions. In earlier days, when the human race was closer to nature, and men and women worked all day out of doors, digging their frugal existence from the soil, the tired, droopy, half-sick people that are now so common, did not exist.

"To be sure, there was sickness in those days, but it was of a virulent character, and only temporary. There was none of this half-sick condition all the time with which so many are afflicted now-a-days.

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble. The human stomach in civilized people today is degenerate. It lacks tone and strength. This weakness has gradually come through a sedentary existence. I further know that few people can be sick with the digestive apparatus in perfect shape. The sole reason for my success is because my New Discovery medicine tones the stomach up to required strength in about six weeks' time. That is why I have had more people who are now strong believers I have gone to introduce my medicine, than I have had time to talk with."

Among the immense numbers of people who are now strong believers in Cooper's theory and medicine is Mrs. Julia Hofflicker, living at 131 Ussie avenue, Cañon City, Colo. Mrs. Hofflicker says:

"For seven years I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble. I was subject to frequent attacks of severe sick headache. I had to be very particular as to the kind of food I ate. I could not eat vegetables of any kind, nor anything sweet; and even then I would be in distress after meals. Any food of a solid nature caused a feeling of heaviness after eating.

"I tried everything I could hear of, and took many different remedies without benefit. Finally I heard of the Cooper remedies and obtained a treatment of Cooper's New Discovery.

"I never in my life found a medicine so helpful. The first bottle put my digestive organs into good condition, allaying the pain in my stomach as well as relieving the severity of the headaches to a very large extent. Since taking a thorough course of this medicine my trouble has entirely disappeared, headaches and all, and I never felt better in my life. I would not be without Cooper's New Discovery in my house."

The Cooper remedies are sold by Los Angeles at the Owl Drug Store.

ESTATE DISCOVERED.

George Pelton, who committed suicide and who was supposed to have died penniless, left an estate valued at $2,000. His property is willed to a nephew, George E. Pelton, of Georgetown, Ky.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, May 19.—At the meeting of the Trustees Tuesday evening bills to the amount of $276.35 were presented, and ordered paid. One for $35.75, which caused much discussion, was that of A. J. McDonald, a Riverside detective, who was employed by Attorney Maloy for the city to obtain evidence against certain supposed violators of the liquor ordinance. This included charges for whisky, beer, cards and pool to the amount of $35.75. Trustee Hoag objected strenuously to the bill. He said he did not believe that another board could be got together in the town which would pass it. His was the only dissenting vote. The treasurer's report showed but $5.85 in the general fund; $760.85 water fund; $2421.85, bond fund; $35.85 park fund; $178.07 library and $35.85 sewer fund.

BEAUMONT MAY INCORPORATE.

Because of the rapid growth of the town of Beaumont in the past year, the Supervisors called a special election today, to be held in that town June 15, to vote on the question of incorporation. The incorporated limits will include about two and one-half square miles. The election was called on the showing made by the school census marshal, W. J. Baker, that the population of the proposed territory was in excess of 650.

UNION SCHOOL PROPOSED.

Directors of Hemet and San Jacinto Highs Considering Matter—Incorporation Mooted.

HEMET, May 19.—The High School directors have decided to retain all the teachers for another year, with the exception of Miss Carolyn Goodwin, who resigned. The question of a union high school for Hemet and San Jacinto was discussed. Two locations—one on the corner of Santa Fé street and Oakland avenue and the other on the corner of San Jacinto street and Oakland avenue—have been offered. There will soon be a joint meeting of the boards of San Jacinto and Hemet schools to decide the matter. The present buildings are too small and are insufficiently equipped.

TO INCORPORATE TOWN.

The Chamber of Commerce is making efforts to incorporate the town in the near future. A copy of the Beaumont petition was presented by the secretary at the meeting Monday evening, and a committee was appointed to prepare a similar one and to get the necessary number of signatures. This committee was also instructed to determine the boundaries of the proposed town and submit the same at the next meeting of the chamber.

George Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, died Monday. The body was taken to Cottonwoods, Mlgn, for interment. The family came here last fall for the boy's health.

Every claim is to be settled in full.

COLTON.

COLTON, May 19.—Eulalia Rodriges, aged 65 years, died Monday at her home on L street. She was the mother of Nicacio Esparsa, who died from a gunshot wound received in a Mexican fight about two months ago in South Colton. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at the Catholic Church and interment will be at Agua Mansa Cemetery.

The Grand Terrace Woman's Club has elected these officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. John Moon, president; Mrs. L. L. Oaks, vice-president; Mrs. A. A. Bell, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. H. E. Murkett was hostess at a business meeting of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening at her home on Eighth street.

William Green of San Diego is a guest at the Anderson.

The first of a series of entertainments planned by public-spirited women for the improvement of the grounds of the new Public Library was given this evening in Masonic Hall. It was a reception and card party. The Committee of Arrangements included Mmes. G. A. Ferguson, M. A. Hebbard, M. C. Butterfield, E. Wilkerson, W. B. Culross, J. R. Boynton, W. L. Glascock, C. B. Fuller, Seth Hartley and F. H. Pritchard.

SANTA BARBARA.

SANTA BARBARA, May 19.—Joseph Fornaco, charged with the murder, some months ago, of Alexandro Bonetti, probably will know his fate tomorrow night. His trial opened yesterday and will end tomorrow afternoon. Fornaco had a quarrel with several companions. He was beaten and, securing a shotgun, fired on his assailants, killing Bonetti, as is alleged.

POWAY, May 19.—Christian J. Bentson was today appointed postmaster, succeeding P. E. Kent, who resigned.

LARGE ACREAGE TO BE DRAINED.

SUPERVISORS FIX BOUNDARIES OF DELHI DISTRICT.

Land Hitherto Used Largely for Pasturage to Be Devoted to Growing Sugar Beets and Corn—Division of Opinion as to Closing Poolrooms on Sundays.

SANTA ANA, May 19.—An important step was taken today in the procedure looking to the bettering of 7000 acres of land south of this city. The Supervisors set the boundaries for what is to be known as the Delhi Drainage District, and called an election of the voters inside those boundaries for June 15, to determine whether the district shall be formed.

The farmers are practically unanimously in favor of putting through the drainage canal, which will empty into Newport Bay. The Irvine Company goes into the district with 2500 acres, and James McFadden has a large acreage. The lands have been used largely for pasturage. When drained they will be devoted to growing sugar beets, corn and other produce.

Remonstrances were heard today from a few property owners along the edges. The land of some of those whom Surveyor S. H. Finley said would not be benefited by the district is not included in the boundaries as finally adopted by the board.

SUPERVISORS DIVIDED.

The Supervisors are divided on the adoption of an ordinance prohibiting the opening of poolrooms on Sundays. Supervisor Angle stated today that in his district the poolrooms are run in an unobjectionable manner and that in many hamlets they furnish residents honest amusement.

Supervisor Moore said that in his district, including Garden Grove, Los Alamitos, Talbert and Newhope, the poolrooms in general are in disfavor because they are places for drinking and gambling. Supervisor Angle hopes to secure an ordinance that will make the closing optional with precincts. The matter went over to June 3.

On May 27 committees from this county will meet committees from Riverside county at Sycamore flats, in the Santa Ana Cañon, for a conference relative to raising funds for the improvement of the cañon road. During the winter it is impassable and it is proposed to move it from the cañon bottom to higher ground.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF CHURCH GATHERS AT DENVER.

Appeal for Extension of Foreign Missions, Plea for Sectarian School as Against State University and Close of Campaign for Moderator Features of Day.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, May 19.—An appeal for the extension of foreign missions, a plea for the sectarian school as against the State university and the close of a heated campaign for the office of moderator, closed pre-assembly activities today, and paved the way for the opening session tomorrow of the one hundred and twenty-first general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of America tomorrow.

A feature of the assembly will be a labor gathering at the Auditorium Sunday. Rev. Charles Stetzle of New York, superintendent of the department of church and labor, will be the principal speaker.

The campaign for moderator closed late tonight with the feeling that Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, pastor of Third church, of Pittsburgh, has made a winning race.

Dr. James Morrison Barkley of Detroit, Dr. Robert McKenzie of New York, Dr. Edward P. Hill of Chicago and Dr. Howard A. Johnson of Colorado Springs are the other candidates showing strength sufficient to give Dr. McEwan a close race. Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme Court is frequently mentioned also.

TRACING LOST GIRL.

Home of Supposed Runaway Is Entered in Parents' Absence and Her Clothing Is Removed.

Pearl Liston, 19 years of age, of No. 4316 South Olive street, is the third girl in the last three weeks to be missing. Miss Liston disappeared on May 6.

Last Sunday, while members of the Liston family were at church, some one entered their home and removed the girl's clothing and jewelry. The police are investigating the case.

Last night they learned from Anson Bourland, a conductor on the Redondo line, that Miss Liston was seen in the company of a young man on the night of May 9. Bourland knows Miss Liston. He told the officers that she boarded the car at Redondo, and arrived in Los Angeles shortly after 8 o'clock.

SNAPS TELEGRAPH POLE.

A telegraph pole at Sixth and Flower streets as cut in two yesterday morning when a team of horses, attached to a heavy tank wagon of distillate oil, struck it. By a rare chance, neither the driver nor his horses was injured. The shock of collision was terrific, and the pole was snapped off near the ground. The wagon was wrecked.

PLATINUM COSTS LESS.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The price of plantinum has decreased from $24 an ounce to $23. It is used largely in mountings for heavy stones. The discovery of new deposits of the rare metal is credited with the decrease in price.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE.

KENTON (O.) May 19.—The town of Alger, twelve miles west of here, was almost entirely wiped out by fire today. Loss $80,000. George Phillips, a fireman, was probably fatally injured.

REJOICING AT LOWER RATES.

Commission's Decision Gratifies Phoenix.

Independent "Hello" Lines Are Spreading Rapidly.

Lots of Water Flowing Over Roosevelt Dam.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) May 18.—Gratification is expressed locally over the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the Wells-Fargo Company's express rates, affecting Phoenix, must be lowered. The complaint was made by the Maricopa County Commercial Club, and was presented at a hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission in El Paso in November, 1908.

The hearing was attended by President Akers, Traffic Manager Jones and several other members of the local Commercial Club, who presented evidence that the rates were unreasonable and exorbitant in comparison with rates granted other sections. It is understood that the order of the commission particularly affects the express rates from eastern points to this city.

INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE.

Within a very few days service will be started in Mesa by the People's Independent Telephone Company, which already is operating seven or eight miles of line in the suburbs. An independent company of the same character will, it is understood, connect with the new system here.

Still more telephone competition is promised in Northern Arizona, where a number of Prescott citizens have organized the Arizona Overland Telephone Company, proposing to build from Prestcott to the Santa Fé Pacific at Flagstaff, and thence east and west to Needles and Albuquerque.

Phoenix now has more than 20,000 population. The school census that was taken shows 2716 children of school age, a gain of over 12 per cent. above last year. Owing to the large number of new arrivals in the city, it is believed that a fair estimate of the population can be had by multiplying the figures by 8, to secure the total number of souls resident in the district. Several of the best residence sections were found lacking in children; one, embracing the best homes in the town, showing only 408 of school age. Of Mexican children, 600 were found.

PLENTY OF WATER.

Water was running over the Roosevelt dam yesterday. The amount was 3000 miner's inches, and it is expected that the flow will increase until at least 30,000 inches will be coming from Salt River alone. This water is badly needed for the grain and sugar beet crops, and it is probable that the starting of the beet sugar factory at Glendale will be somewhat delayed through the enforced drouth. Unless the crop is irrigated within a very few days, in a large acreage of beets planted late, there will be heavy loss to the farmers.

The farmers around Tempe were doubly unfortunate, through the fact that at the time of the closing of the dam they suffered also the loss of their auxiliary pumping plant by fire. The damage will be repaired at once.

The town of Tempe now has $9000 out at interest at 8 per cent, as part of a sinking fund, for the payment of $30,000 waterworks bonds. It is possible that an additional bond issue of $10,000 will be made for an extension of the water service.

D. Brown, associated with the local brokerage firm of Brogan and Company, has disappeared, and betting is about even that he has committed suicide, or gone to Los Angeles to join his wife. Nothing can be learned about him, however, except that he had been very much interested in discussing the various methods of suicide. He was president of the Arizona Consolidated Gold Mining Company, which has property near Bouse, and is believed to have the deeds of the property in his possession.

NEW FAIR COMMISSIONER.

J. C. Adams, yesterday, was appointed a member of the Fair Commission. This is important, following as it does the trial of Mr. Adams by former Gov. Kibbey.

This affair was one of the sensations of the winter, and was terminated by the resignation of Mr. Adams, presented after he had considered himself vindicated by legislative resolution. The appointment was made on the petition of a couple of hundred Phoenix business men, firms and corporations. Mr. Adams has accepted and has written that he will do all in his power to help make the territorial fair a greater success than ever. It is understood that B. A. Packard of Douglas will remain on the board, and that the third place will go to a northern Arizona man, possibly C. C. Hutchinson of Flagstaff.

Lloyd B. Christy, cashier of the Valley Bank of Phoenix, has been appointed by Gov. Sloan to be a member of the Board of Education of the Normal School of Arizona at Tempe, succeeding C. G. Jones, resigned.

The Catholics at Mesa are erecting a church, the first of that denomination in the town.

The business men of Tempe are assisting the members of Company C, First Regiment Infantry, National Guard of Arizona, to build an armory.

John W. Farmer, Supervisor of the Tonto Forest Reserve, with headquarters at Roosevelt, was married in Phoenix yesterday to Miss Frances Folsom of Prescott.

Dolores Schrivner has sued Jasper Schrivner for divorce on the ground of cruelty. The couple formerly lived in San Diego.

NATIONAL BANK WANTED.

NATIONAL CITY, May 19.—Application has been made to the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington to organize the People's National Bank, with $25,000 capital, to succeed the People's State Bank. The application is signed by B. J. Edmonds, A. S. Hill, E. M. Fly, J. A. McCune and John L. Schon.

MARKET MEETS STOCK UNMOVED.

DEATH OF H. H. ROGERS FAILS TO BREAK PRICES.

Removal of Man Credited With Being Moving Spirit in "Standard Oil Crowd" Passes Practically Unnoticed by Wall Street—Many Issues Reach New High Levels.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—The stock market has nearly met the death of a capitalist of prominence with as little disturbance as was caused by the sudden death of H. H. Rogers this morning. It was concluded from the fact that there was little ground for the anxiety which for several days past that the speculative position had become unstable and that it would have suffered more serious setback from the rollers of Mr. Roger's death or severe slump than happened today following the news. Mr. Rogers has represented to the public just so much as any one man, the centralization of the vaguely defined "Standard Oil crowd," which is the most potent of all the well apprehended forces which work openly from view, and supposedly armed with the most complete knowledge of conditions control over their regulation. The removal of such a force must have its consequences to a speculative position, in the case of the sudden death of ex-Gov. Odell in the crisis of an excessive speculation had been the controlling figure. The lack of encouragement in the outlook, which have been in abeyance for several days past, to play again. United States Steel, of which Mr. Rogers was a director, was conspicuously strong, rising through its previous high price of 58¾ to 59¾. Chesapeake and Ohio, also touched a price never reached before in that stock.

The movement in steel was attributed to the increase of wages by the independent steel companies and the inferences drawn from the action as to the returning profits of the trade, even at the lowered price which the heavy orders have been booked. News from the copper trade continued very encouraging and the buoyant rise in coppers was in response to the London market when the declaration of Amalgamated Copper on account of dividends by the president of the company caused the advance.

Wheat was considered favorable in spite of the rise in the price of wheat. The further rise of 2¢ at Chicago had no influence. Corn continues to arrive in such volume in the interior as to serve as an effective check to the controllers abstract of the National Bank statement April 28, shows an increase of upwards of $122,000,000 in loans over the date of the last reports of February 25, and in comparison with May 14 last year a growth in banking credits of $436,784,000. The showing for a period when the use of money for mercantile issues was sluggish to the extent to which securities have been absorbed by the banks, such holdings are included in the loan account.

Prices were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,000. United States bonds were unchanged.

DROUTH HURTS EUROPEAN CROP.

CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET IS STRONG, BUT INACTIVE.

Demand for Cash Grain by Millers of Minneapolis and Large Decrease in Stock Held There Does Much to Aid Bulls' Campaign—Prices React Heavily Toward Close.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 19.—The wheat market was strong all day, but with the exception of moderate activity, the first hour, of trading was not large in volume. Advances at nearly all the leading European grain markets, and continued light receipts at primary points in this country were the principal factors in the strength here.

Reports of damage by drought to the wheat crop in France and Southern Russia were said to have been largely responsible for sharp advances at Liverpool, Berlin and Paris. Active demand for cash grain at Minneapolis, by millers, and a decrease of 600,000 bushels in stocks there the past four days, were additional bullish influences.

The July delivery sold between 1.14 1-4 and 1.15¾. There was considerable profit taking late in the session, particularly in the deferred futures, and prices reacted more than half a cent from the top point. The close was strong, with July at 1.14 7-8@1.15.

The corn market was strong the entire day, although sentiment lost some of its bullishness late in the session. The close was strong, with prices 1-4 to 1-2 above yesterday's final figures, with July at 68 7-8@69.

The feature in the trading in the oats market was an advance demand for September by influential houses, including a prominent cash interest. An advance of ⅛ to 1 cent in the price of the cash grain also helped the options market. The market was strong all day and closed at net gains of ⅛ to 3-4 with July at 51 7-8.

Provisions developed considerable weakness following a firm tone at the start. Prices closed 5c higher to 2½@5c lower.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour, strong. No. 2 rye, 85. Feed or mixing barley, 71¼@73½; fair to choice malting, 74¼@79½. Flax seed, No. 1 Southwestern, 1.62; No. 1 Northwestern, 1.73. Timothy seed, 3.80. Clover, 9.50. Mess pork, per bbl., 18.37½@18.85. Lard, per 100 lbs., 10.70@10.75. Short ribs sides, (loose,) 10.60@10.80; short clear sides, (boxed,) 10.87½@11.00.

Boston Copper Market.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building.]

BOSTON, May 19.—The market was again without special interest today. Amalgamated Copper was well supported when the reports of H. H. Rogers' death were circulated, and this strength was reflected in the Boston market. The continued strength of Steel Common in the New York—market foretells the rapid return to prosperity in the iron trade, and this can be but the forerunner of a big demand for copper material in all its uses. We still continue to advise the purchase of good copper stocks on all weak spots. Following were closing quotations on the Boston Stock Exchange:

INVESTMENTS

BUYS REALTY ON SPRING STREET.

LOCAL INVESTOR ACQUIRES LEASED PROPERTIES.

Consideration Said to Be More Than Thirty-five Hundred Dollars Per Front Foot—Purchase Located on East Side Between Third and Fourth—Normandie-avenue Sale.

Willard H. Stimson has sold to William M. Garland, through Lee A. McConnell & Co., the business property at Nos. 326-328 South Spring street, which is at present occupied by the Jeffries saloon, and the Charles A. Watts & Co. clothing store. The buyer is said to have paid in the neighborhood of $150,000 for his purchase.

The improvements consist of a three-story brick building with twenty-six rooms on the second floor. The frontage is forty-two feet and the depth 136 feet. The front-foot consideration of $3570 is considered a good indication of the sterling value of property on this part of Spring street.

The purchase is made as an investment. Mr. Garland owns the property adjoining on the north, and the acquisition of yesterday gives him a total frontage of ninety-two feet. He plans to build a large office building in about four years at the time of the expiration of the two ground floor leases.

NORMANDIE AVENUE SALE.

A deal was completed in the southwest section of the city yesterday when Leo J. McGuire & Co., as agents, sold to the McCarthy Company a forty-five-acre tract on the west side of Normandie avenue, between Fiftieth and Fifty-fourth streets, the consideration being in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Tracy Schoultz represented the purchasers. The sellers are J. H. Strine, Lester L. Robinson and R. P. C. Smith of Los Angeles, and the Crookshank Bros. and John Cubbon of Santa Ana.

The Grand-avenue car line is to be extended through this property as is also the Moneta avenue and Fifty-fourth street line, and the tract is soon to be subdivided and placed on the market.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

The Northern Pacific Railroad is testing the efficiency of superheating steam as a means of securing greater efficiency with less coal in the operation of trains over the mountainous sections of Montana. On account of the increased temperature and the consequent "dryness" of the steam used, it is maintained that the engine produces more power with less consumption of fuel and water than does one without the appliance. Trains are taken out of Billings by this engine, and careful records kept of the fuel and water consumption. After making this test, trains of the same tonnage are hauled by engines not equipped with the device, and their records are compared.

A tunnel twelve and one-half miles long will be necessary on the new railroad line from Milan to Genoa, which has recently been approved by the Italian government. The line lies through the Ligurian Alps, and, though other routes were considered, the gradients and alignment obtainable were sufficiently important in the opinions of the government engineers to justify the long tunnel on the line adopted. The plans for construction contemplate the use of five shafts between the portals, thus dividing the tunnel into six sections and allowing the work to be prosecuted from twelve headings.

For more than thirty years European railroads have been applying preservatives to railroad ties and telegraph poles. Figures show that of impregnated poles set by twenty German telegraph lines in 1877, 30 and 38 per cent. were still sound and in use after twenty-six years' service. Of poles set from 1891 to 1893 five lines report 100 per cent. of the poles are still standing and in use. In France, the Eastern Railway Company announced in 1889 that, in the twenty-four years preceding, 67 per cent. of its untreated oak ties had been replaced, while only 16 per cent. of such as had been treated with creosote had been removed. Preservative agents in use have been chloride of zinc, creosote, and bichloride of mercury, applied by imbibition, or by impregnation by injection forced by the pressure of the air. This second method of treatment generally consists in placing the wood in closed metallic receptacles from which the air is pumped, and the liquid then introduced under high pressure.

More than 2000 retired employés of the Pennsylvania Railroad were receiving pensions from the company on January 1, 1909. The payments for the year amounted to $544,245. The average age of those receiving pensions is 73 years and three month, while the oldest employé on the list attained the age of 92 years in 1908. All employés, no matter of what rank, receive pension allowances of relatively equal terms. For every year of service rendered the company, a retired employé receives 1 per cent. of his average salary for the ten years immediately preceding his retirement. In other words, a man who has worked for the company fifty years, and who received an average annual salary of $1000 the last ten years of active service, receives a pension of $500 a year.

The Burlington Railroad has stopped suspending operating employés for infractions of rules on the ground that such punishment is an ineffectual means of discipline. Instead the company has inaugurated a comprehensive system of records which are at all times accessible to the men, and from which promotions and dismissals from the service will be made. The men now know that everything they do in the way of perfect service means another step toward promotion, and every infraction of the rules or lapse of duty means a step toward dismissal from the service, from which there can be no appeal and no relenting on the part of the management. The records are open to the men at any time

EDUCATIONAL.

YUMA IS AFTER HIGH SCHOOL.

Project Soon to Be Submitted to Town.

Burbank's Spineless Cactus Is Flourishing.

Gila River Levee Is Now in Splendid Shape.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

YUMA (Ariz.) May 17.—Yuma is to have a High School, with courses accrediting graduates to universities, if a movement now on foot is carried through. School District No. 1, embracing the Town of Yuma, and the requisite population, will be made a high-school district, or districts 7, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 22, 25 and 28, embracing all of the districts under the Yuma reclamation project, will be combined in a union high-school district.

The last-named project is the favored one, as it would give the residents of Yuma Valley high-school benefits, and the districts outside of Yuma are not populous enough to form a separate high-school district. Petitions to unite the districts named are being circulated. Quarters for the High School may be leased in Yuma, expenses therefor to be defrayed by a special tax levy, which can be issued next August. Upon securing necessary signatures, County School Superintendent DeVane will call a special election, and submit the matter to the taxpayers of the various districts.

SPINELESS CACTUS.

Luther Burbank's spineless cactus has been introduced in Yuma, and the results of its propagation by local agricultural experimenters are highly satisfactory. J. L. Lee last fall secured twenty plants of the most approved variety from Burbank. They have thrived prodigiously. The plants are now from three to four feet high, and each plant has put out from twelve to twenty leaves. These leaves have grown until they are from two to three feet long, a foot or more wide, and two to three inches thick. Mr. Lee will increase his crop this fall.

The Ocotille Club, one of the two women's clubs of Yuma, held its election of officers for the ensuing year Saturday afternoon. The following were elected: President, Mrs. C. D. Baker; vice-president, Mrs. R. G. Stitt; secretary, Mrs. Kirkpatrick; treasurer, Mrs. Heigel; critic and parliamentarian, Mrs. W. F. Timmons; chairman of the Clubhouse Committee, Mrs. S. E. Edgay; chairman of the Town Improvement Committee, Mrs. F. R. Pugh.

INDIAN WITNESSES.

Chief of Indian Police Williams took thirty-eight Indians to Tucson last night, to testify at witnesses in cases now pending before the United States Court. More than forty are now under indictment for selling liquor to Indians on the Yuma reservation.

The work of repairing and strengthening the Gila River levee, east of Yuma, is completed. The river side of the levee has been ditched to a depth of six to nine feet, to divert seepage, the crest of the levee raised from two to three feet, and the entire levee thoroughly worked over and brought up to a uniform height. The levee will hold against a forty-foot rise in the river, and the highest water recorded since the levee was constructed was 37.10 feet, in 1905. In the flood of 1891, the water rose to a little over 39 feet. The work cost about $2000.

The monthly report of County Treasurer Michelsen, on the condition of Yuma county's finances, at the end of April, shows a cash balance on hand of $51,987.53.

YUMA BUILDING BRISK.

Building in Yuma continues brisk. Work on the dining-room for the Southern Pacific Railroad Clubhouse and the residence being constructed for W. C. Peterson is nearly finished. George Fishbaugh is laying the foundation for a double cottage on Orange avenue, near Seventh street. Later in the season Fishbaugh will construct a large rooming-house in the same neighborhood.

Gilman and Reese, who have been farming in Yuma Valley, have been experimenting with Alaska wheat, the bushy-headed variety. They have a fifth of an acre in the crop, the yield approximating 150 bushels to the acre. Their experiment has attracted much attention from Yuma Valley farmers.

GOOD ROADS.

A movement is on foot in Yuma to have the Territory build a highway from Phoenix to Yuma, in connection with other Territorial road enterprises. The Supervisors, the Yuma County Commercial Club, the Yuma Realty Board, and the Yuma County Good Roads Association will be asked to indorse the proposition. In connection with this project is the talked-of bridge across the Gila River, near Yuma.

BEER BRINGS PESTS.

Globe, Ariz., Man, Visiting Here, Says Mosquitoes Are Fierce There Now.

Mosquitoes at Globe, Ariz., are more fierce than ever, reports J. S. Kellogg, a young business man of that city, who is registered at the Hollenbeck. The beer drinkers are blamed for the pest.

Globe is a mining camp in the mountains of Gila county. The rocky hills that surround the town are devoid of water, save in winter, when Pinal Creek is kept running by the melting snows, and this water is neither warm enough nor still enough for mosquito larvae to hatch comfortably. The nearest thing like a pond is on Wightman's ranch, some forty miles away on the San Carlos Apache reservation.

In spite of this lack of water, the mosquitos are growing thicker every year in Globe and vicinity, and investigation has shown that they are imported with shipments of beer.

Globe, as well as a number of towns along the Southern Pacific and its branches beyond the Colorado, gets its supply of beer from points in Texas, sometimes from as far as Houston. When the cold storage cars stand open for any length of time in the eastern part of the Lone Star State, near the marshes, the dark corners and the dampness thereof offer tempting hiding places to swarms of mosquitoes. When the car is filled and sealed, the "skeeters" are prisoners and compelled to become passengers for the desert mining camps, where the heat livens them up wonderfully, even though they cannot find water enough for propagation.

A few years ago, the mosquito was unknown in Arizona, but the importations of beer are introducing the "swamp hummer" more thoroughly than could be wished.

Hanford Fire Laddies to Celebrate Independence Day—Attorney's Daughter Honored.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

HANFORD, May 17.—Subcommittees have been appointed by the Hanford fire department to arrange for the celebration of Independence Day in this city on July 5. A large sum has already been subscribed and the laddies expect to make the celebration the most elaborate one ever held here.

The recently-incorporated Kings County Raisin and Fruit Company, an organization of growers formed to pack its own goods, announces that it will operate at the big Downing packing-house at Armona during the coming season. This plant has been idle for several years, but the company has purchased new machinery.

The latest phase in the so-called anti-vice campaign is the trial of Mrs. Ella Ewing on a charge of perjury, in connection with testimony given at the trial of Emma Hayden, keeper of a house if ill-repute, on a charge of robbery. Mrs. Ewing was the star witness for the prosecution, and gave all the details of the alleged robbery, but two other witnesses, one a physician, who, attending the injured alleged victim of the thief, contradicted her testimony and swore she was not in the resort the night the robbery is said to have taken place. The case has been postponed, after two days' proceedings, in order that an important witness, who has left town, may be located.

ELEVEN CHINAMEN FINED.

The eleven Chinese arrested early last week for selling liquor without a license have pleaded guilty and paid fines. Five conductresses of houses of ill-fame today pleaded guilty to the same charge and were fined $25 each. Charges of vagrancy are still standing against them, however, and will soon be heard.

The Trustees will meet tonight to continue the discussion of the "anti-vice campaign," and it is expected that a more rigid Sunday-closing ordinance will be framed. Through an understanding with the board, the saloon men conducting other business in their establishments than dispensing liquor, have been allowed to keep their doors open on Sunday, but the report of the Mayor at the last meeting, on the work of the special detective employed to investigate conditions here, was to the effect that some of the saloon men were taking advantage of the leniency shown them.

The Hanford Union High School's graduating class has twenty-six members this year. Commencement exercises will be shorter than usual and will be preceded by a class play.

AUTO EXPRESS SERVICE.

An automobile express service has been established between Hanford, Laton and Lemoore.

Miss Mary Louise Phillips, daughter of Attorney Dixon L. Phillips and one of Hanford's most popular young women, won the medal for the highest scholarship in the class of 1909 at the University of California. The award was made Tuesday by President Wheeler at the graduation exercises. This is the highest honor that may be bestowed upon a university graduate, and Miss Phillips's friends are naturally elated.

REAL PROGRESS.

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR GOOD ROADS.

NEW MEXICAN COMMISSIONERS HARD AT WORK.

Planning to Hasten the Completion of the Great Scenic Highway, to Cut Across the Territory from North to South from Texas to Colorado Borders.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) May 15.—A campaign for good roads in New Mexico has been formally launched. The Good Roads Commission, created by the last Territorial Legislature, and consisting of Gov. Curry, Territorial Land Commissioner Ervien and Territorial Engineer Sullivan, held a meeting, at which the various good road projects were discussed.

The Legislature appropriated the sum of $5000, to be used in paying the expenses of the members of the commission when they were engaged in good roads work. The larger part of this sum, however, will be expended in laying out and surveying new roads in the different counties of the Territory.

Gov. Curry is now making an automobile trip from the capital to Raton, on the extreme northern boundary of the Territory, accompanied by the Territorial engineer. This trip is for the purpose of determining what work is necessary to complete the famous scenic highway, between Santa Fé and Raton, part of which has already been constructed. This highway will eventually be extended to El Paso, Tex., on the south, and will make a piked road from north to south across the Territory, the grade of which in no instance will be too steep for a motor car or heavily loaded wagon. It will connect at Raton with the famous Colorado State road, and at El Paso with a scenic road down the Rio Grande.

The total length of the road between this city and Raton is estimated at 225 miles. Of this almost a hundred miles have been built. This is the most difficult part, and crosses the Sangre de Cristo Mountains. The money, which is needed to build this road is to come from the funds received as the Territory's share of the proceeds derived from the national forests in New Mexico, which, last year, were $25,000. In each county entitled to a share of this money, it is proposed to have a special tax levy to raise an amount equal to its pro rata share, the whole to be used in constructing the county's share of the scenic highway. The cost of road building will be reduced to a minimum, as convicts from the Territorial penitentiary will do the greater part of the manual labor, and teams from the penitentiary will also be used. The only expense, therefore, will be the cost of guarding the convicts, feeding them and keeping up the teams. The Territory is already the owner of any quantity of road-building machinery.

The Territorial Conservation Commission, also created by the recent Legislature, will coöperate with the Good Roads Commission, and it is expected that within a few years New Mexico will have the best country highways

GROWING FAST.

Rapid Increase in Membership of the Chamber of Commerce—Aid for Canvassers.

If the present rate of increase in membership should continue for one year, the present roster of the Chamber of Commerce would be doubled. In the past three weeks 157 new names have been added, making a total membership of more than 2600. Of course, the most sanguine members of the chamber do not expect this remarkable campaign can be continued indefinitely, but it is expected that the chamber will have 3000 members by September, if not before then.

To aid the canvassers the membership committee is sending out a second lot of letters to all persons at present on the rolls of the organization, asking recommendations for new members. A compliance with this request provides the committee with a working list of good names. Past experience has shown that a fair percentage of suggested candidates become members.

At yesterday's directorate meeting, forty-two members were admitted. Last week was the record-breaking number of sixty-nine applicants, and the week before forty-six new members were enrolled.

The following were admitted yesterday: John B. Miller, O. J. Wigdal, National Lumber Company, Rev. A. C. Smither, W. F. Holt, H. H. Yonkin, Spohn-Cook Company, J. C. Member of Parliament Calls Dreadnought Programme "Insanity."

He Tells Mohonk Lake Peace Conference President Should Act.

Says Harmony of Nations Rests Largely With the United States.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MOHONK LAKE (N. Y.) May 20.—"Crazy," "mad," "emotional insanity," "sinful," were some of the terms used today by J. Allen Baker, M.P., in telling the Mohonk Lake peace conference about Great Britain's Dreadnought programme.

"I largely indorse," said Mr. Baker, "what President Butler has said as to the emotional insanity of the present mad race for battleships in Great Britain and Germany. Our House of Commons, of which I am a member, is the chief sinner in having started the crazy competition in building Dreadnoughts. But you must remember we have a yellow press in Great Britain, and you must not believe all it says regarding the so-called German war scare."

ASKS PRESIDENT TO LEAD.

Mr. Baker declared that the peace of the world today lay in the hands of the United States, Germany and Great Britain, and that the United States could join with Germany and England, and thus prevent possible warfare and stop the Dreadnought competition. He invited President Taft to take the lead in this direction.

"Business men, representing fifty-eight chambers of commerce, from nineteen States, and Canada, who are attending the conference, adopted a resolution urging President Taft "to take the lead in urging the nations to a concurrent reduction in the navies and armies of the world."

The resolution declared:

"The rivalry among civilized nations for increased armaments is greatly to be deprecated. We believe the time has come in which the nations should depend on justice. Therefore we advise that nations trust to arbitration rather than force, to courts rather than to arms."

SURE OF FRIENDSHIP.

Speaking tonight before the conference, Kokoichi Midsumo, Japanese Consul-General at New York, said: "We are so confident of the sincerity of American friendship that during the last few years, when so many bitter voices against Japan were heard in a certain section of this great republic, the whole Japanese people remained quiet and fully convinced of the fact that the anti-Japanese movement did Negress Mistakes Battleship Searchlight for Glow of Judgment Day.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FOROCHE (La.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Adele Hawkins, a negress, was sitting on her front gallery last night when she saw a strange white light sweeping the eastern horizon. She and her family, thinking it was the "judgment light," became panic-stricken. Adele climbed into her bed, and when the neighbors arrived she was dead. The light was the searchlight of the battleship Mississippi, then at anchor at Bayou Sara, thirty miles distant.

DEFIES SHERIFF AND HIS POSSE.

FREE FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, SURROUNDED AT LAST.

Fugitive, Who Escaped from the State Penitentiary Quarter of Century Ago, Stands at Bay, Hidden in the Dense Underwood of Mississippi Bottom Lands.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NOXAPATER (Miss.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas Atkinson is tonight hidden in the dense woods of the bottom lands, defying the Sheriff of the county, his posse and thirty of the militia.

Atkinson was sentenced to life imprisonment for a murder committed in Mississippi more than twenty-five years ago. He escaped within a few weeks after being convicted and has since led a respectable and exemplary life. He has raised a family and become a wealthy planter.

Now that his identity has been suddenly revealed, all the old daring has returned. The authorities believe that he is desperate and will perhaps die before he will allow himself to be taken, and perhaps kill as many of the officers as possible.

Detective R. C. McKay is responsible for the charge brought against Atkinson. He was working on another clew, for the authorities had long since given Atkinson up as lost, when he suddenly ran upon evidence in the man's life which aroused his suspicions, and led to an investigation at once.

Atkinson learned of the suspicion. He took his rifle and going to the woods defied the authorities, refusing to submit to arrest or interrogation. At a late hour tonight he had not been captured. He is surrounded, however, in a dense thicket and his capture is but a question of time, although, for the moment, it is not deemed safe to rush him in his hiding place.

DANGER.

PEACE OF EUROPE HANGS IN BALANCE.

Trifling Incident Might Precipitate Conflict Between England and Germany, Says Noted Publicist—Edward and Francis Joseph at Outs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Declaring that the relations between England and Germany are now so strained as to constitute an acute menace to the peace of Europe, Friedrich Dernburg, the eminent publicist, father of Colonial Secretary Dernburg, today publishes an urgent plea for the adoption of measures to relieve the dangerous tension.

Herr Dernburg insists that an understanding on the question of limiting naval armament is desirable and should be sought, but declares that the paramount need is for the negotiation of a treaty providing for compulsory arbitration, as the situation is now so serious that even a trifling incident like the firing of a shot at an English fishing smack might precipitate a conflict.

"War," said Herr Dernburg, "might be decided upon before the world had time to realize the immeasurable consequences of such a decision. The ill-will that has been growing in England against Germany would break out in a tempest of popular passion and a similar incident in which the English were the aggressors might lead to the same consequences, for here also there are not lacking ill-advised people who would seize the opportunity to stop the English hectoring."

Herr Dernburg's views in favor of practically limiting armaments are shared by a number of prominent Germans, who lately have expressed the idea that Germany should consent to take up the question, especially as the recent great diplomatic victory in the Balkans gives the opportunity of so doing without the risk of being misun-

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports that King Edward will not visit Marienbad this year cause serious misgivings here and it is feared they will affect unpleasantly the political relations of Austria and England.

It is an open secret that the King and the Emperor had a serious disagreement at Ischl last August on the subject of disarmament, Edward wishing the Austrian ruler to exert his influence upon the Kaiser with a view to inducing Germany to enter into an agreement with England for a mutual reduction of naval expenditures. As, however, the Kaiser only the previous day had met Edward and flatly refused to entertain the suggestion, the Emperor felt himself unable to interfere, much to the King's annoyance.

Later, Baron Aehrenthal's Balkan policy aroused much indignation in Great Britain and the press of both countries indulged in bitter recriminations. A strong anti-English sentiment is still perceptible here, especially among the aristocratic classes. Under such circumstances the King's hesitation to visit the Austrian resort is scarcely surprising.

It is learned that the only solution of the difficulty will be for the Emperor to invite King Edward to visit him at Ischl. The two monarchs have met for the last six years uninterruptedly in Vienna, Marienbad or Ischl; hence it would be practically impossible for the King to go to EVIDENCE DIRECT.

"Skinny" Madden In the Toils.

Prosecution of the Laborite Has More Damaging Testimony.

Piano Manufacturer Tells of Paying Union Boss to End Strike.

Other Witness Adds Details to the Story of Big Grafters.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A sensational climax in the trial of Martin B. ("Skinny") Madden, M. J. Boyle and F. A. Pouchot, charged with conspiracy to extort money in connection with building trades strikes, came today when the prosecution connected the defendants with three more alleged grafting deals and then rested its case.

Frank V. Skiff, prsident of the Jewel Tea Company, testified that he paid $1500 to Madden.

George S. Andres, consulting engineer, testified that he paid $1000 to Madden last November to "settle" a strike at a plant of the Joseph Klicka Company.

MANUFACTURER'S TESTIMONY.

H. P. Nelson, president of the H. P. Nelson Company, piano manufacturers, testified that he paid $1000 to M. J. Boyle to "settle" a strike on a new factory of the concern.

Frank V. Skiff, president of the Jewel Tea Company, testified that he paid Madden $1500 to "settle" a strike on the company's building.

Attorney S. L. Lowenthal testified he paid Madden $200 to "settle" a strike on a building being constructed by Samuel Grossman.

The testimony in each instance was to the effect that the money was paid in order to end strikes. All in all, it was regarded as a most telling day for the State, and when the rapid fire of damaging testimony had ended State's Attorney Wayman expressed himself as being entirely satisfied.

Madden and the other defendants gave marked evidence of worry.

STRIKE OUT COUNTS.

No sooner had Mr. Wayman announced that the State would rest than Attorney James T. Brady, counsel for the defense, began a vigorous attack on the ten counts in the indictment against his clients. Mr. Wayman agreed without parley to strike out counts 9 and 10, charging Madden and his colleagues with committing an act injurious to public justice.

Two other counts, accusing the defendants with conspiracy to extort money, also were criticised by Mr. Brady, who sought to have them stricken out and secure the issuance of the rule on the State to specify the counts on which it wishes to base its case. Arguments were in progress when court adjourned.

ABSORBING STORY.

The most absorbing story of the day was told by H. P. Nelson, for whom detectives from the State's Attorney's office had been searching for two days. They had been unable to serve him with a subpoena and Mr. Wayman already had announced that he would rest the case when Nelson reached the courtroom.

Assistant State's Attorney Benedict J. Short asked that the State's case be reopened in order that the testimony of Nelson might be introduced, and, despite objections from Attorney Brady, the request was granted by the court.

One of the most telling parts of Nelson's evidence related to his payment of $1000 to Boyle.

Wider latitude in the introduction of evidence was given to the prosecution by Judge McSurley today. Judge McSurley's ruling allows the State to introduce witness not directly concerned with the Klicka case, but, who it is said, will give testimony tending to show that the alleged extortion in the case at bar was merely an incident of a general policy pursued by the defendants.

"SKINNY" COMES DOWN.

"I asked Pouchot why the strike had been called and he said certain sheet metal sleeves for the coffee roasting plant had been placed in the plant by non-union labor. I told him that if that was his only kick I would have the sleeves torn out and new ones put in by union men.

"'Oh, don't bother about that, leave them where they are,' Pouchot said. He told me to see Madden and make him a cash offer to settle the strike."

Witness said Madden demanded $2700 for calling off the strike. Later, he said, Madden "came down" to $1500.

FINDS HER HUSBAND GUILTY OF "INFIDELITY."

Co-respondent Named by Ex-Wife of Multi-millionaire Remains Unknown—The Custody of Couple's Two Young Children Is Evenly Portioned Between Them.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Justice Girard, in the Supreme Court, late today signed an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce in favor of Helen Kelly Gould against Frank J. Gould.

The decree was signed upon the recommendation of Edward G. Whitaker, the referee who heard the tstimony.

It sets forth that Gould "was guilty, as charged in the complaint, of infidelity."

The name of the co-respondent was not given.

No provision for alimony was set forth. A provision for the sealing of the papers put in by counsel was stricken out by the court.

The court clerk's assistant said that the papers could not be seen under rule 76, with the exception of the decree.

The decree gives to Mrs. Gould the custody of the two children, Helen Margaret and Dorothy, from December to April, inclusive, each year, and to Mr. Gould from May to November each year. It contains many other provisions relating to the children.

During each of the stated periods the parent not in charge of the children may have them on a visit for short intervals each week.

Neither shall have the right to remove the children to a greater distance than 100 miles from this city, without the written consent of the other.

Until the children are old enough to attend school, Mr. Gould must pay for their instruction and tuition, provided they are sent to his home every morning for such instruction, or in event his residence is closed, to some other suitable place to be selected by him. When the children are old enough to attend school they shall be sent to high school, or such schools as may selected by Gould from a list of ten suitable schools, within a radius of 300 miles of this city.

The decree provides that during their minority, Gould shall at his own expense, whenever needed, provide the children with medical attendance, and the services of Dr. William B. Anderson. The decree sets forth that the children shall pass a portion of each Christmas holiday with each of their parents.

NEW YORK, May 20.—New westbound records were established by the Cunard line steamer Mauretania, which arrived in quarantine from Liverpool and Queenstown at 11:20 tonight. The steamer, according to her commander, cut thirteen minutes from her best previous record and made an average hourly speed of 25.62 knots, as against her former record of 25.55.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GAINESVILLE (Ga.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the Confederate general and postmistress of this place, fought a duel with a man whom she discovered in her home about 3 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Longstreet was awakened by a noise and, securing a pistol, went to investigate. When she entered the dining-room she saw a man trying to open a closet in which the table silver was kept.

She called to him and he turned and ran for a window. Mrs. Longstreet fired and the man drew a pistol and fired once.

Mrs. Longstreet continued firing at the fleeing man until her pistol was empty. She thinks she hit him, as he staggered and nearly fell.

The shooting alarmed neighbors of Mrs. Longstreet and caused a great crowd to gather at her home.

BIG BROKERS NAMED IN A FRESH SCANDAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A scandal of large proportions which may result in the expulsion of three well-known houses from the Stock Exchange may grow out of the failure Wednesday of Rothenberger & Co., an insignificant curb brokerage firm, at No. 43 Exchange Place.

If a statement made by Stephen Brooks Rosentral as counsel for F. Augustus Heinze, is substantiated in court, it will be shown that this Stock Exchange house and David Lamar, whose operations in and out of Wall street have brought him a certain kind of fame, were in a deal to wash an load a mass of it on Heinze, at a fictitious figure.

One of the houses said to be concerned in the shady transaction is known all over the country and does more business in Chicago than any other Stock Exchange house.

Serious charges were made by Heinze's lawyers against Lamar, and equally serious charges were made by Rothenberger and his partners against Heinze. At a conference late in the afternoon between Peter Alexander, receiver of the firm, the partners and the receiver's counsel, Hayes Hershfield and Wolf, it was decided to summon Heinze and Lamar before a United

GRAFT PROSECUTION.

SECRETS ARE OUT.

Spreckels Admits He Was Easy Money for Heney, Burns and Others

Detective Admits Getting Pay from Both Sides at the Same Time.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Many a phase and issue of the municipal graft prosecution, hitherto kept secret, was made public during today's session of the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads. Incidents long since forgotten in the press of new sensations were incorporated in the matter presented to the jury.

Two witnesses of the first importance occupied the witness stand, and between interrogations the attorneys argued with a degree of vehemence that several times elicited caustic reprimands from Judge Lawlor.

Rudolph Spreckels, whose testimony was interrupted yesterday, presented to the defense and to the public a statement purporting to cover his contributions to the cause of the graft prosecution. In a summary offered in evidence it was declared that the total subscriptions received from all sources amounted to $213,391, all of which had been expended. Mr. Spreckels testified that he personally had given $128,478 of this amount, and from his declarations it was inferred that he was still self-obligated for an indefinite amount.

John Helms, the detective called to the stand yesterday as a witness for the prosecution, submitted to cross-examination early in the day and reviewed many of the charges he has preferred against Patrick Calhoun and William M. Abbott, by whom he is alleged to have been employed in a confidential capacity. He had closed his testimony yesterday with a declaration that he resigned from the service of the United Railroads in August, 1908. Today he added to the complications attending his allegiance by affirming that he entered the employ of William J. Burns and the prosecution in November, 1908, and that he drew pay from both sides from November until the following February by virtue of free employment given him by Mr. Abbott, who knew nothing of his employment by Burns.

KEPT FOUR ACCOUNTS.

The final financial statement presented by Mr. Spreckels was divided into four accounts, entitled "W. J. Burns," with a total of $123,250; "F. J. Heney," with a total of $22,328; "C. W. Cobb," with a total of $10,000, and "Sundry," with a total of $86,295.

The allegations put in evidence are as follows:

That the total expended on account of Heney was for office expenses, assistants and body guards. Rent amounted to $3186; telephone exchange $1949; office salaries, $3648; stenographers, $2147, and detective service, $4232.

That the salary paid W. J. Burns amounted to $8548; that he was paid for subsistence, $2081, and for office rent, $1726. His bill for automobile hire was $2700, and for automobile expenses, $4162. The services of the detectives and agents associated with Burns amounted to $70,552, and their expenses to $27,277.

Among the items credited to sundries are $11,000 paid to Hiram Johnson and $13,400 to J. J. Dwyer, attorneys who have aided the prosecution; $3078 to Percy Dolman, an attaché of the District Attorney's office; $17,196 to W. J. Burns, of which Spreckels made special mention, and $5100 for automobiles.

In response to the questions of Mr. Rogers, Mr. Spreckels denied that he had ever paid out a dollar for the prosecution apart from the money accounted for.

On redirect examination, the witness explicity stated that every dollar paid out on account of Heney was included in the statement, and that the money paid Mr. Cobb, who is Heney's law partner, was for his personal services.

Mr. Spreckels, replying to Heney, testified that the latter had volunteered to work without pay at the outset of the prosecution, at which time, he added, there was no intention of attempting to bring to justice any persons other than Mayor E. E. Schmitz, Abraham Ruef and officials of the administration.

Heney devoted the greater part of the afternoon session to an attempted demonstration of the fact that Mr. Spreckels had engaged him to prosecute the investigation prior to the date on which the Supervisors are alleged to have been bribed in the overhead trolley deal. His efforts to place before the jury Mr. Spreckels's statements to that effect were vigorously opposed by the attorneys for the defense, and the argument was waged with considerable bitterness.

HENEY MUTTERS THREATS.

Previously, Mr. Rogers had complained to the court that Heney had muttered, as the attorney for the defense passed his chair, that Mr. Rogers "would get what was coming to

DR. BARKLEY IS MODERATOR.

Detroit Divine Chosen on the Third Ballot.

Hot Contest Averted by Act of His Rival.

Assembly Begins Selection of Committees.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, May 20.—Dr. J. M. Barkley of Detroit, Mich., was elected moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today, receiving 503 votes as against 292 votes for Dr. Edgar P. Hill of Chicago.

Three ballots were taken to decide the moderatorship, and had it not been for the withdrawal of Dr. McEwan after the second ballot, there is no doubt that a long-drawn-out contest would have ensued.

The first ballot resulted in a deadlock, each candidate receiving less than 500 votes.

On the second ballot Dr. McEwan's strength fell away. He took the floor and said that in the interest of harmony he would withdraw.

On the third ballot, Dr. McEwan's strength went to Dr. Barkley.

When the assembly began its sessions this morning Dr. B. P. Fullerton made his annual address as retiring moderator. There were more than 2000 persons in the auditorium of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Following the election of moderator, the selection of standing committees was taken up. There are twenty-one of these, and they are being chosen for the first time, under the new election system, in which each district caucus nominates its candidates for committee membership. Heretofore the selections have been made by the moderator.

One of the features of the assembly is the presence of the Rev. John Standing Buffalo, a Sioux Indian, of the South Dakota synod.

The assembly will celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Calvin tomorrow.

PATTEN STARTS NEW CAMPAIGN.

SECRET HINTS TO FLOUR MEN HELD RESPONSIBLE.

Behind Closed Doors Bull Leader Outlines His Ideas on Supply, Consumption and Decreasing Stock and Wins Over Many Former Critics—Makes Gift to Hospital.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James A. Patten's private views on the wheat situation the world over, expressed at a closed-door meeting of flour men at a dinner last night, had more to do with a fresh bull campaign than all the other wheat news of the morning.

May wheat jumped to $1.30 for the second time on efforts of shorts to cover. Mr. Patten gave orders to sell at that figure, and prevented a further rush in the price toward $1.50. July wheat's price was advanced to 1.16. It became known through expressions of flour men this morning that the Patten presentation of facts about supplies, consumption and decreasing stocks convinced many of the former critics of the Patten bull campaign that the situation is unusual, and that lower prices will only come with greatly enlarged production.

A gift of $40,000 to the Evanston Hospital from Mr. Patten, whose recent sensational deals in wheat stirred the world, has been announced. The money will be used for a new nurse's home. Quarters now occupied by emplyes in the hospital will be turned into additional wards for patients. Work on the new structure, which will adjoin the main hospital building, is to be begun as soon as plans are accepted. It will accommodate about forty nurses and internes.

Six Thousand Hawaiian Sugar Plantation Workers Now Out—Demands Will Be Refused.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HONOLULU, May 20.—One thousand Japanese employed on the Kahuku plantations struck today, making the total number out in various estates, more than 6000. They demanded the discharge of their Japanese foremen, declaring they were spies, and the management refused to comply.

The Oahu plantation is paying off today, distributing $21,000 among its employes, and the strikers have agreed to leave peaceably. Eleven hundred strike breakers have been employed by the owners, and twice that number offered their services.

At the Waialua plantation the Japanese have demanded $1 a day, which seems to be the general demand of field workers in the islands, but pending a reply they are still at work.

The planters hold meetings daily, and have announced that they are determined not to yield.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 20.—Lord Ronoldshay at a public meeting tonight made an abject apology for an attack he made at a recent political meeting upon the Countess Granard, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills, of New York. He had alluded to the Countess as a "dumped American heiress, who had been fortunate enough to secure a title."

In his address tonight Lord Ronoldshay said he wished to apologize for what, he admitted, on thinking it over, was a "singularly ill-chosen joke."

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eva Tanguay is married. She said so today herself while she sat at luncheon with her newly-made husband, Edward Darling. Miss Tanguay wore a diamond necklace and diamond earrings, but though they are of sixty horse power, they were not as brilliant as her smile of joy as she broke the news.

"We were married about a week ago in Waterbury," she said. "That was so mamma could be present. I am glad I am Mrs. Darling—and so is Mr. Darling. He has told me so. I am going over to England in a few weeks to appear at the Coliseum. Mr. Darling will stay right here in New York—you know he is E. F. Albee's secretary and has a lot to do. Beside, married people mustn't see too much of each other. It's a mistake. Yes, you may say we have been wed an entire week and are perfectly happy."

E. F. Albee, Reid Albee, Paul Keith and Martin Beck of the United Booking offices, sat at the next table and drank a health to Mr. and Mrs. Darling.

ENORMOUS ICE FLOES GRIP HUGE STEAMER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. JOHNS (N. F.) May 20.—Notwithstanding all efforts to assist her, the Allan line steamer Mongolian, which has been wedged in an ice pack off the mouth of this harbor since yesterday, was still imprisoned tonight.

The stout sealing steamer Diana will attempt tomorrow to open up a line between the Mongolian and the narrow harbor.

The steamer Prospero, unassisted, managed to extricate herself from the ice field. Five passengers of the Mongolian crossed the uneven ice field between the liner and shore.

The grip of the ice on the steamers Mongolian and Prospero remained hard and fast at dawn today, and while neither steamer was in any immediate danger of being either crushed or pushed ashore, and the 500 passengers on the Mongolian were in a position to gain the land within a few minutes, any strong gale from the east was a menace.

The limits of the great ice field could not be seen from the summit of the highest hill on the coast, but extended to the horizon. Off shore the bergs could be seen grinding and turning as the great Labrador current pushed them constantly to the southward.

The night on board the Mongolian was an anxious one. Fishermen and many other persons from the city went out over the ice during the early morning and many messages were sent ashore.

To those who visited the Mongolian, many of the passengers recounted how the ice pack bore down on the steamer, yesterday, as she neared the coast, until, hemmed in on every side, further progress was completely stopped.

Then came the effort of the little steamer Prospero to break through the ice at the harbor's entrance and open a lane for the larger steamer. There was much disappointment when the ice pack was seen to gather steadily around the little steamer until she also succumbed to its mighty power.

During the forenoon, it was noticed that the ice was jamming up a bit on the shore and the Mongolian had been forced a trifle to the southward. Many climbed Telegraph Hill, overlooking the scene, but there was no sign of clear water for at least twenty-five miles off shore, while reports from the north stated that every bay, harbor and inlet was choked with ice.

The weather today was favorable for both vessels.

Several passengers, including two women, from the Mongolian started to walk across the ice to the coast this afternoon. A tug was sent from the harbor from the inner edge of the ice pack to meet them. They reached St. Johns this afternoon. They were Dr. McPherson and wife, Dr. Hunt, Miss Hutchins and Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. McPherson stated that the Mongolian was uninjured

Many of the older inhabitants are unable to remember such an extensive field off St. Johns. The sight of a mighty procession of bergs floating steadily down the coast is a familiar one, but as a rule these children of the mightier glaciers have marched singly or in groups, and it is unusual for them to mass up in a field forty or fifty miles wide and hundreds of miles long. At noon today the Mongolian was still making a stout fight against the bergs.

The coast steamer Prospero freed herself from the ice jam this afternoon.

PHILIPPINE ASSEMBLY PASSES SECOND RESOLUTION.

Speaker Osmena Declares That While That Body Is Anxious to Act in Harmony With Government, Question of Ultimate Freedom Must Never Be Laid Aside.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, May 20.—With but slight variation from its action on final adjournment of the session of 1908, the Philippine General Assembly in the closing hour of its session today, passed a second resolution declaring in favor of the independence of the islands.

Speaker Osmena said that while the policy of the Assembly was towards harmony with and support for the government in all measures calculated to advance the interests of the Filipinos, the members had not abandoned their original aspiration for independence, and, therefore, he moved that the Filipino delegates to the Congress of the United States be instructed to present the question to that body whenever an opportunity was offered.

Nationalistas voted in favor of the resolution.

The closing days of the session were marked by great harmony between the Assembly and commission. Among the most important measures passed were the railway guarantee bill, which insures the construction of a railway to Baguio, and the extension of the lines in Central Luzon to the extreme southern part of the island, practically making a trunk line across Luzon from north to south, and a bankruptcy act of general application.

There will be no further session until the fall of 1910. The total amount of the budget passed is 16,500,000 pesos.

Registrar Decides on Mineral Claims Law.

Gives Time to Develop Forest Reserve Mines.

Question Now Flatly Before the Department.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HELENA (Mont.) May 20.—The registrar and receiver of the United States Land Office here, rendered a decision today respecting mineral claims in forets reserves, which, if affirmed by the department at Washington, will do much to remove cause of complaint, which has been lodged against the administration of those reserves in Western States.

The case is United States against Garneau and Hickey, prospectors in the Helena reserve, who had located several quartz claims therein. Charges were brought against each location, alleging "no discovery of minerals." The opinion says:

"The only question to be considered here is as to whether a discovery has been made, and the forest service mining expert contends that there has not been because the values obtained by him did not meet his idea of values that should be disclosed in a discovery.

"According to this idea, the expert would have the discovery of mineral in paying quantities at the very outset of the location. Such a contention could not be sustained for a moment because, if such were the case, a prospector would be actually precluded from making a location of a mining claim in the first instance, as paying mines, generally are not disclosed on the surface, and are only made by exploration and development."

Hence, the decision was in favor of the prospectors. The government will appeal to the General Land Office.

Creatures Like Frogs Without Eyes Found in Colorado Excite Interest of Geologists.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, May 20.—Creatures resembling frogs, but unlike them in that they are whitish in color and have no eyes, were discovered yesterday in a sandstorm bluff three miles west of this city by a truck gardener.

While digging in the bluff he uncovered a number of cells, inside of which were soft, mush-appearing balls. When these were rolled out they proved to be living creatures, presumably of another age.

Local geologists are of the opinion that mud beds existed ages ago where now stand the sandstone bluffs, and that a chemical process changing the mud gradually to stone imprisoned the amphibians just discovered.

TO UNVEIL LINCOLN STATUE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) May 20.—Plans were completed yesterday for the unveiling at Hodgenville, Ky., May 31, of the Abraham Lincoln memorial statue. MODEL BOY CITY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DETROIT (Mich.) May 20.—Judge Brown of Salt Lake City announced here yesterday that the model boy city which has been organized each summer for two years at Winono Lake, Ind., will be established this year at Pine Lake, Mich., from July 15 to August 22. It is estimated that more than 1000 boys from several States will occupy the tents of the miniature city. They will print a newspaper, conduct a bank and a grocery, organize a common council, political parties, courts and hold election, the idea being to instruct the boys in "fair play civics."

TO EXHIBIT RECORD CORN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—The National Corn Association has selected December 6-16 as the dates for the national corn exposition at Omaha. By selecting these late dates, all the State shows will have an opportunity to get their prize corn ready and shipped to the national exhibit. When it is taken into consideration that Illinois alone holds 10,000 school district corn contests, some idea may be gathered of the immense amount of preparation necessary for the State and national shows. The Omaha business men have agreed to subscribe $100,000 to promote the 1909 show, and make it much larger than that of 1908.

TO FIGHT PROHIBITION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—The strength of the temperance movement was conceded at the annual banquet of the Society of Brewing Technology, and numerous suggestions were offered on how to combat the opposition. "We must be on our guard, or be put out of business," declared Charles J. Vopicka. "For years the child at school has been taught that alcohol is a poison, and that it is sinful to partake of beer. That is a terrible mistake. None of our predecessors has raised a finger in protest. We must prove by experts that the man who drinks moderately is the healthier man. Then we must teach young men to think for themselves, and not listen to hypocrites. We don't want special privileges—just justice. We must see to it that the men elected to public offices are honest, honorable and liberal. Clean out the indecent from the business and install the respectable element, like Germany and England."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 20.—"I direct that no part or parcel of this property be spent in dancing or card parties, in games of chance or in theater going. This clause forms a part of the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart of Hillsdale, Mich., filed in the Recorder's office in connection with Chicago property. All the estate was bequeathed to her daughter, who is made executrix and directed to give "some portion" to the Free Will Baptist denomination.

Grand Aerie Gathering Is Past and Done.

Big Ball Marks the End of Entertainment.

Delegates Spend Afternoon With Big Trees.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTA CRUZ, May 20.—With the ball given in honor of the delegates, the programme of entertainment for the Grand Aerie of the Eagles came to an end tonight, and the visitors will leave for their homes tomorrow.

During the afternoon 300 delegates were taken by special train to Big Tree grove, and one of the forest giants was solemnly dedicated in the name of the Eagles of California. John S. Perry, Grand Deputy President, delivered the dedication address, likening the massive tree trunk, with its spreading branches, to the strength of the general organization of the Eagles, composed of 1800 far-scattered aeries.

As he finished, Don Ramon Sepulveda, a banker of San Pedro, descended from the old Spanish-Californians, stepped out from among the spectators and announced that he would donate $500 for the erection of a marble slab by which the tree should be marked, and for the care and preservation of the giant Sequoia.

The banquet given last night was a great success. George C. Staffler of this city was toastmaster, and Dr. C. A. Glover of San Francisco, Past State President Rex Goodsell of San Francisco, State President Jesse Shafter of Los Angeles, W. Heald of Ukiah, C. F. Kimball of Redding, E. I. Wolfe of San Francisco, Past State President Judge C. P. Hendon of Stockton, John S. Parry of San Francisco and B. D. Bowman also spoke. During the evening prizes were awarded to the winners of the competitive drill of the uniform rank, as follows: First prize, $75, Vallejo aerie; second prize, $50, Shasta aerie of Redding; third prize, $25, Oak Park aerie.

HANG HIM IN EFFIGY.

Washington Town, Angered by "Knocking" of Customs Officer Shows Displeasure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SUMAS (Wash.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Citizens of this city, last night, hanged in effigy, Harry Edsell, head of the local customs office, who still retains his position. He is in New York on a business trip. He is charged with "knocking" Sumas. A large crowd joined in the demonstration. The effigy was strung up on a telegraph pole on the principal street, where it was allowed to remain today. Placards on it bore the legend "Sumas, but not forgotten." "Knocker." The chief cause of hostility against Edsell is the charge that he was instrumental in securing the removal of the detention house from Sumas, which was a business loss to the town.

About three years ago official charges were filed at Washington that Edsell was smuggling goods across the boundary, but these were dropped by the government after an investigation.

SACRAMENTO TO CELEBRATE.

OPENING OF WESTERN PACIFIC.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Capital City has decided to entertain members of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and others on the arrival of the first through train over the Western Pacific. On that day, when the rails are dedicated to commerce, at many points along the line, ceremonies and celebrations of various nature will be held. Vice-President Bogue of the Western Pacific has assured Secretary A. L. Crane that early notice will be given of the exact date when the first train clangs through the Sacramento yards. Arrangements by the Oakland delegation, a programme, yet uncompleted, will be carried out. Following the celebration in Sacramento, members of the Chamber of Commerce will board the special train and join the Oakland delegation in the welcoming activities at Oakland.

BANK CLEARINGS GROW.

LOS ANGELES'S GAIN LARGE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Bank clearings for the week ending at noon today were as follows, according to the California Promotion Committee's report:

San Francisco, $37,270,100, a gain of 3.4 per cent. over the corresponding week of 1908; Los Angeles, $13,910,413, a gain of 32.5 per cent.; Oakland, $1,-[illegible], a gain of 32.1 per cent.; San Diego, $443,204, a loss of 0.5 per cent.; Stockton, $330,063, a gain of 4.1 per cent.; Sacramento, $309,365, a loss of 11 per cent.; Fresno, $461,353, a gain of 51 per cent.; San Diego, $1,031,686, a gain of 37.8 per cent.

HIS CREDITORS MOURN.

Departure of Supervising Engineer of Stockton Hotel Brings Surprise and Sorrow to Many.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The disappearance of J. [illegible], the supervising engineer of the new Hotel Stockton, leaving behind a number of creditors, was the talk of the city today. He has been spending large sums of money. Only recently he purchased a riding horse and presented it to a lady. A saddle, for which the harness dealer is said to be awaiting his coin, went with the horse.

Before leaving, Pawson is said to have said that his wife was suing for divorce, and he expected Francis J. Carey to come to Stockton and make arrangements for his defense. All efforts to locate Pawson have failed. One firm, which sold a lot of wood, held under a contract against one of the hotel contractors, may swear to a complaint charging embezzlement, as the sum involved for the service was never turned over to the firm.

SOCIETY FIGHTS BLAZE.

FLAMES DESTROY MANSION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BURLINGAME, May 20.—The out-of-door home of Joseph D. Grant, of the San Francisco firm of Murphy, Grant & Co., was destroyed by fire tonight. The flames originated in the roof of the house and spread with such rapidity that the entire roof was soon ablaze. The fire department of Burlingame was called, but the flames had gained such headway that the firemen could do little more than prevent the fire from spreading to the trees and shrubbery surrounding the house. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The Grant family was absent at a ranch fifteen miles distant, and only the servants were in the house. The flames were noticed by the driver of a passing automobile, who gave the alarm, and the entire social colony from San Francisco, composed of members of the most exclusive sets in that city, turned out to fight the fire.

SCORCHED AS HOTEL BURNS.

Score of Guests Have Narrow Escapes from Blazing Nevada Hostelry. Cash in Office Destroyed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A score of guests of the Clairville Hotel at Clairville, Nev., had thrilling escapes from death by burning or suffocation, when fire destroyed that hostelry this morning.

All the occupants of the building rushed from their rooms, unable to save any of their belongings. The frame structure burned like cardboard. Those who stopped to attempt to rescue their valuables sustained severe burns, so rapidly did the flames spread.

James Hallaway carried two unconscious women from the second story down the blazing stairway. His hands were terribly scorched when he reached a place of safety with his human burden. The loss is estimated at $3800, of which $800 was in cash, in the hotel office. An overturned kerosene lamp caused the fire. Four years ago the same hotel burned, and five persons were burned to death. Mark Twain boarded at this place years ago.

LAW PARTS LOVERS.

Youthful Married Couple Arrested on the Complaint of the Child-bride's Parents.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Their dream of wedded bliss rudely shattered by the law's intervention, James Lynn, aged 24, and his bride, formerly Miss Frances Prescil, aged 15, are being brought back to the child-bride's home here in charge of an officer. Against Lynn a charge of kidnaping has been lodged by the girl's mother, who declares it will be prosecuted until he shall be punished.

The youthful couple became sweethearts some few weeks ago, but when parental consent to their marriage was asked the girl's mother refused flatly on the ground that Frances was too young to marry.

Love found a way. One night the twain eloped and went to Eastern Washington. Stopping at Wenatchee long enough to get married, they proceeded to Wilson Creek and set up housekeeping in a tent about two weeks ago. Yesterday they were located.

SEEKS DIVORCE IN RENO.

WIFE OF NEW YORKER SUES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Suit for divorce was filed in the District Court by Wilhelmina B. Nolan, against William P. Nolan, the ground of action being desertion. An order of the court was issued today authorizing a commissioner to take the deposition of Mrs. Grace A. Jeffrey of New York.

Nolan is connected with theatrical and musical affairs in the metropolis. Questions in the deposition to be taken relate to Belle Herbert, an actress, with whom the defendant is alleged to have had relations. The complaint is sealed and sensational developments are looked for when the case comes to trial in the near future.

Mrs. Nolan has been residing in this city for the past year, having been compelled to provide for herself since the time of the alleged desertion.

BASEBALL DIVORCE.

HER HUSBAND'S A FAN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—Superior Judge Shields today granted a decree of divorce to Mrs. Miller H. Upson on the ground of failure to provide, the specification to which the wife testified being that most of her husband's time was devoted to baseball, when he ought to have been earning a living for his two children and herself.

She was awarded the custody of the two minor children and $20 a month for the support of the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Upson were prominent in society circles.

MOTHER'S GAZE STRIKES DUMB.

Murderer Unable to Face Accusing Look of Parent of Girl-Wife He Slew.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HILLSBORO (Or.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Rosalia Dombrower of Los Angeles, mother of Mrs. John D. Roselair, who was slain by her husband last week, arrived here today to claim the body of the dead woman. Proceeding to the morgue Mrs. Dombrower was shown to the room where her daughter's remains lay and burst into a torrent of weeping. She soon recovered herself, however, and made the necessary identification.

Roselair heard Mrs. Dombrower was in the city and asked for an interview with her, which she granted. Once facing her accusing gaze, however, the slayer had nothing to say. When the stricken mother asked him why he had killed her girl, Roselair could only mumble a few words to the effect that she had provoked him and then refused to talk further.

JAPS UNARMED.

VANCOUVER CORDIAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

VANCOUVER, May 20.—Apparently giving tacit respect to the feeling of people whose views are against any parade by Japanese under arms in Vancouver, the procession proposed for this afternoon was practically abandoned. Instead of 700 Japanese coming ashore with full military equipment, and marching through the city streets to Stanley Park, the landing party came in small sections, and came up town to Recreation Park for an afternoon of sport. No arms were carried; the men merely appeared in uniform.

Sports of particular interest are being carried out this afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon with the reception to be held by the officers aboard the cruisers, the official functions in connection with the visit will practically end.

Mayor Douglas dined the officers at a club at noon today.

WOMAN FACTORY INSPECTOR.

GOV. HAY MAKES APPOINTMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Washington is to have a woman factory inspector, Gov. Hay, through the State Labor Commissioner, having appointed Mrs. Blanche M. Mason of Seattle to the position. The appointee has had charge of the outdoor work of the Washington Children's Home Society, which maintains homes in the principal cities of the State. The last legislature passed a bill providing for the appointment of a woman assistant commissioner of labor at a salary of $1200 and expenses. Her duties will be to see to the enforcement of all laws relating to the health, sanitary conditions, surroundings, hours of labor and all other laws affecting the employment of women wage earners. Mrs. Mason is a widow and has had a great deal of experience among women wage earners.

FORMER JUDGE ACCUSED.

BAD CHECK MAKES TROUBLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A warrant was issued today for the arrest of former judge of the Superior Court, William R. Bell, on a charge of uttering a check without having funds in the bank to meet it. It is alleged that Bell drew a check on the Seattle National Bank, payable to himself, signing it "W. R. Bell, Guardian." It was paid to a tobacconist named F. B. Bourg, who cashed it. Bell is a prominent Democrat and was elected to the bench as such. He presided at the trial of former Mayor T. J. Humes and other city officials, who were indicted by the grand jury about eight years ago.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Sues for Damaged Barge.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—The Associated Oil Company has sued the Shipowners' and Merchants' Tug Boat Company for $14,000 damages, claimed to have been sustained by reason of the wreck of the barge, Roderick Dhu, while being towed to Monterey by the tug Relief. The disaster is attributed in the complaint to the negligence of the crew of the Relief.

Reverses Raymond Case.

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—The Appellate Court handed down a decision today, reversing the decision of the Superior Court of Alameda county, in the case of H. G. Williams, against A. H. Pratt and Anna Maria Raymond. Mrs. Raymond appealed from the decision, which settled property rights amounting to about $4000 and her appeal is sustained.

Requisition Issued.

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—A requisition was issued from the Governor's office today for the return to California from New York of W. H. Van, accused of embezzlement by the District Attorney of San Francisco.

Loses Long Fight.

OAKLAND May 20.—After a hard legal battle which has been in progress for two weeks, W. F. Ford, was remanded to the custody of Sheriff J. J. Owens, of Nye county, Nevada, today by Superior Judge Brown. Fifteen minutes after the verdict of the court, Sheriff Owens and his prisoner were en route for Tonopah.

Steps Before Train and Dies.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Mrs. Annia Jewell, a resident of Fifteenth avenue, south, was struck and killed, today, by a Southern Pacific train in South San Francisco. She had waited for one train to pass before crossing the track, but stepped in front of a train going in an opposite direction. Engineer Frank Bishop was ordered to report to the Central Police Station.

Knights Parade.

WATSONVILLE, May 20.—A large and attractive parade of Knights of Pythias this morning, was followed by a prize drill of the various companies of the uniform rank. At noon there was a barbecue. This afternoon there was a baseball game between the Santa Cruz and Watsonville nines. The sessions of the Grand Lodge and Grand Temple will be resumed tomorrow.

ONE IN THREE

Every Third Person Poisoned by Coffee

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is an absolute poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact. A New York hotel man says:

"Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffered from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse.

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was ruining me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken Postum.

"She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared.

"She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum, and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change.

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum."

"There's a Reason."

LOW RATE ON WHITE LEAD.

Senate Committee Reduces First Figures.

Cotton Seed Oil Schedule Comes Down Also.

Heated Controversy on Last Named Article.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The Senate divided its attention today among the three items in the tariff bill, providing a duty on an extract of chestnut bark used in tanning, known as quebrache, on cotton seed oil and on white lead. On each of these articles, the Senate was led by the Committee on Finance, though the committee was induced to change its original suggestions on both white lead and cotton seed oil.

The lead duty fixed by the committee was originally 2¼ cents a pound, but Mr. Curtis, a member of the committee, suggested a reduction of ¼ cent a pound, bringing the figure down to 2¾ cents, and Chairman Aldrich accepted the reduction.

When the vote was taken the committee triumphed, 41 to 32. As usual Senators Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver, Gamble, La Follette and Nelson voted with the Democrats. Senator Borah voted with the Republicans.

Probably the most interesting contest was over the duty on cotton seed oil. Senators Tillman, Bacon and Money fought the Senate provision fixing a tariff of 2 cents a gallon on the ground that it would injure the sale of cotton seed, and after the controversy had gone on for some time, Mr. Aldrich withdrew the provision.

Mr. La Follette sought to reduce the duty on quebrache to ¼ cent a pound, but his amendment was rejected, 29 to 35. Mr. Daniel led the fight for a higher rate, exciting much interest because of his advocacy of low duties in the past. He did not succeed, and the duty was fixed at ½ cent per pound instead of ⅜ cent, as he proposed.

FRENCH IMPORTS GROW.

WOULD FORESTALL DUTY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 20. — An increase of 40 per cent. in the amount of the imports into the United States from France during the months of February and March, is announced by the Bureau of Statistics.

The total value of such imports in February was $10,000,000, as against $8,750,000 in February, 1908, and in March, $11,330,000 as against $8,500,000 in March, 1908.

The imports from all Europe and from all the world during the same two months show a gain of 45 per cent.

According to the deduction of the Bureau of Statistics, this large increase in imports from France probably is due in part to anticipated increases in rates of duty on certain classes of articles coming from that country, especially luxuries.

These are enumerated as diamonds, silks, laces, champagne, feathers, embroideries, automobiles, art works and the like.

MOB ATTACKS POLICE.

Paris Strikers Wound Five Officers Before They Are Charged by the Cuirassiers.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, May 20.—There was an encounter on the streets of Paris this afternoon between a body of workmen, and a detachment of police. Five policemen were wounded in the struggle, in which the workmen were having the upper hand until a detachment of cuirassiers galloped up, cleared the streets and made many arrests.

The trouble began when a body of diggers, after having attended a meeting of building trades that had voted to keep up the general strike until the postmen obtained satisfaction, started to march down the streets singing the "Internationale," and crying, "Down with Clemenceau." For a short time the immediate neighborhood of the encounter was in a panic. Shops were hastily closed and windows strongly barred. The unionist barbers today voted to go on strike.

GETS THE MONEY.

FINDS A "TRIAL WIFE" IS A LAWFUL WIDOW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] By a decision of Surrogate Cohalan, handed down today, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Blackman is held to be the lawful widow of Henry D. Blackman, the wood pulp manufacturer, with whom she entered into a trial marriage after both were divorced.

Mrs. Blackman thus falls heir to a large part of Blackman's estate, valued at about $1,000,000.

When Blackman died his "trial wife" applied for administration papers, on the ground she was his lawful widow. After she was appointed, Blackman's sisters and brother brought an action to have her reduce her marriage certificate, or tell the name of the clergyman who performed the ceremony.

She could do neither, but maintained that her relations with Blackman before his death constituted a legal marriage. She produced letters from Blackman's two sisters, in which they acknowledged her as his wife, and adduced the testimony of persons to whom she had been introduced by Blackman as his wife.

Mrs. Blackman was formerly Mrs. Albert Bussey of Norwich, Ct. In 1890 she obtained a divorce and came to New York. About the same time Blackman obtained a divorce. Ceremonies having failed to help the happiness of either, they decided to live together without one and went to

TO HOLD ROGERS FUNERAL TODAY.

FINANCIER WILL BE BURIED AT FAIRHAVEN, MASS.

Noted Men of Wall Street Will Act as Pall Bearers at Services in New York—Last Resting Place Will Be Mausoleum Which Magnate Had Erected Several Years Ago.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—Arrangements for the funeral of H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, were completed today. The services will be held in the Church of the Messiah in this city tomorrow morning, the Rev. Dr. Robert Collier officiating. A quartette from the Mendelssohn Glee Club will sing.

The body will then be taken to Fairhaven, Mass., and simple services will be held on Saturday in the church which Mr. Rogers gave to that community. The interment will be in the mausoleum which Rogers caused to be erected some years ago in Riverside Cemetery.

The pallbearers at the funeral will be Messrs. Eldridge T. Gerry, George W. Perkins, George M. Moffatt, John D. Archbold, C. A. Peabody, A. S. Paine, William Rockefeller, E. H. Harriman, Edward T. Bedford, James M. Beck, Melville E. Stone, Frederick S. Jordan, John D. Ryan and Samuel Clemens.

STRIKE MAKES BREAD DEAR.

Much Distress When Four Hundred Bakeries Close Down in New York's East Side.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—The closing down of 400 bakeries on the East Side, coincident with the strike of the bakers employed, has caused the price of bread to increase to 15 cents a loaf.

The strikers, in an effort to prevent a serious bread famine, last night discussed the feasibility of starting cooperative bakeshops to relieve the distress.

To create sympathy the strikers have produced a play in an East Broadway theater, in which were pictured police clubbings, meetings of the strikers and other incidents of the strike.

About a thousand reserve policemen are on duty in the affected districts and there have been reports of numerous minor clashes.

LAY CAPITOL CORNER-STONE.

Impressive Services Attend Ceremony in Manila—Building to House the Island Assembly.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, May 21.—The corner-stone of the Philippine capitol building to house the Island Assembly was laid with impressive ceremonies today. Vice-Gov.-Gen. W. Cameron Forbes and Señor Osmena, president of the Assembly, jointly officiating.

President Osmena and Assemblyman Pedro Paterno spoke eloquently of the significance of the event, saying that in the building of the capitol they saw the placing of the corner-stone in the fabric of Philippine independence. They expressed the belief the structure in the years to come would be the seat of a free government for the Filipinos.

Alcad Roxas, introducing Mr. Forbes, who was the last speaker, said that independence was not a thing to be lightly spoken of, but a goal to be attained by work, by proving the worth of the people was such as would warrant the granting of self-government.

GIANT "LOCOS" READY.

Largest Engines in the World Built for Mountain Haul, on Their Way to Sacramento.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The two largest Mallard-compound locomotives in the world made by the Baldwin Works for the Southern Pacific Company for use over the Sierras, between Roseville and Truckee, arrived here this morning. They will be taken to Sacramento tomorrow.

The monsters are each 94 feet long, and weigh 300 tons each. They have each sixteen drive wheels, two pony and two trailer trucks, or twenty wheels in all. Their total heating surface is 6293 square feet. Crowds have viewed the remarkable engines all along the route. They are capable of hauling 3000 tons, and cost $40,000 each.

SIGNIFICANT.

TELLS SOUTH HIS POLICY.

President Taft Talks to People of North Carolina.

Believes Era of Tolerance in Politics Is Dawning.

Mecklenburg Declaration He Considers Significant.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHARLOTTE (N. C.) May 20.—President Taft came to Charlotte today, the home of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, signed in May, 1775, and placed himself squarely on the side of those who look upon the declaration as one of the first significant steps which led ultimately to American independence.

In his address today the President clearly explained the policy toward the South.

"I do not believe we are on the point of a political revolution in the South," he said. "I never have had such a dream. What I do desire, and believe we are on the eve of, is a complete tolerance of opinion, and that there shall grow into respect and power an intelligent, fighting opposition party in each State."

As to his appointment of a Democrat to the bench, the President declared that through the South he intended to pursue the policy of appointing to office only those men who, Republican or Democrat, could command the highest confidence and commend themselves to the community in which they lived.

CLOUDBURST CAUSES PANIC.

A cloudburst during the afternoon just as the splendid floral and military parade was passing in review before the President, threatened serious consequence. It threw the throng in front of the reviewing stand into a panic and there was a wild rush for shelter. The President's box was a goal for many men and women, and the Chief Executive had to be surrounded to save him from the sudden crush.

A passing industrial float became entangled in a live electric wire and tore it from its supports, the slender thread of copper sagging almost to the heads of the crowd below.

To add to the tense situation, there was a blinding flash of flame and a loud report not fifty yards from where the President stood. It developed later that some black powder intended for saluting purposes, had been prematurely ignited. No one was injured.

"HARMONIZER OF HEARTS."

The President received a drenching, and for a time it seemed as if the frail canvas covering of the reviewing stand would tumble about the heads of those beneath.

Among these was Mrs. Stonewall Jackson. When she had met Mr. Taft earlier in the day she had earnestly exclaimed, "I am indeed delighted to know the harmonizer of all our hearts!"

Citizens of Charlotte gave a public reception to the President tonight, and he left on a late train for Washington.

Mr. Taft was quite hoarse as a result of his encounter with the dust of the Petersburg battlefield and the Charlotte rain.

VETERANS SIGN PACT OF PEACE.

CORPORAL TANNER ADMITS HE MAY HAVE BEEN MISLED.

Grand Army Leaders Induce Past Commander Frank Z. Jones to Withdraw His Suit for Libel Against the Present Head of the Famous Organization.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SARATOGA (N. Y.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Grand Army leaders at a conference today induced Frank Z. Jones, Past Commander of Rome, N. Y., to withdraw his $25,000 libel suit against Corp. James Tanner.

At a department encampment here in 1907, Jones sought to be elected Commander. He alleged in his complaint that Tanner wrote a letter referring to him libelously.

Grand Army leaders from many cities were subpoenaed to testify, the case being on today's Supreme Court calendar. These men effected a compromise, whereby Tanner signed a statement saying he was misled, and Jones signed one expressing his belief in Tanner.

After Tanner had agreed to pay Jones's counsel fees, the case was dropped, and the two veterans shook hands.

"SHORTY" HARRIS KILLED.

Discoverer of Bullfrog District Victim of Shooting Affray With Mexican.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Meager details have been received from McDermott, Nev., regarding a tragic shooting affray resulting in the death of the well-known mining prospector, "Shorty" Harris.

Harris and a Mexican named Salio Gonzales became involved in a controversy in a saloon last night, when the Mexican whipped out a gun and shot Harris in the groin. He was carried to a near-by hotel, where medical attention was speedily given him, but he is reported to have died shortly after an operation. Gonzales is locked up in jail.

Harris is known throughout the mining world as the original discoverer of the Bullfrog mining district. Threats of mob violence were made by Harris's friends, but order has been restored.

MILLION-DOLLAR AUCTION.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The assets of A. Booth & Co. were sold at public auction today for $1,000,000 to an agent of the reorganized company.

not represent the true sentiment of the American people at large."

Referring to the exchange of notes between Japan and the United States on the common policy of the two countries in the Pacific and China, which he said, was one more tie of friendship, the consul general continued: "I rejoice with you that that diplomatic declaration was so heartily welcomed by the people not only of both countries, but of the whole world, as a guarantee of peace. But we must not forget that commerce and trade play a more important part than the honeyed phraseology of diplomacy, in bringing together the people of different countries.

MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING.

"The international relations of today no longer consist merely in the exchange of the envoys and dispatches, but they are and must be based on mutual understanding and intercourse between the peoples, and upon the commercial and industrial independence between the countries."

Joseph Shippen, of Seattle, addressed the conference.

Possibility of the adoption tomorrow by the conference of a platform plank favoring a limitation of armaments among the nations is believed to be indicated by the conversation of the leaders. The majority of the prominent men in the conference are outspoken in criticism of the financial and other burdens of militarism, and the unwisdom of war talk between Great Britain and Germany. The attitude of China was declared by Ambassador Wu Ting Fang, to be in favor of making of compulsory arbitration a law of the nations.

COLLECTIVE HEATHENS.

Justice J. J. MacLaren of the Court of Appeals of the province of Ontario said that while individuals in a measure have become Christianized, "we still remain as nations and collectively largely barbarians and heathens."

Gov. Ansel of South Carolina spoke in favor of arbitration and Rev. Frederick Lynch of New York declared that "it is the shame of the age that every church in Germany, England and America is not protesting against these great pagan, overwhelming armaments."

Speaking on the subject of "Popularizing the International Arbitration Movement," the Rev. A. Eugene Bartlett, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, at Chicago, said the success of the movement depended upon a continuous, systematic education of the people in the principles of arbitration. Most of the work so far had been directed toward interesting the leaders of the people, he said.

BURDENS ENORMOUS.

He suggested the wide distribution of books, pamphlets and various reading matter "free from technical terms and illustrated by drawings and diagrams which will quickly appeal to the eye and show to even the casual reader the waste and absurdity of war."

"Comparatively few workingmen of America yet know that we are spending about 66 cents out of every dollar of our national revenue for past and prospective wars," said Dr. Bartlett.

"When they do know this and understand the burden it places on their shoulders, they will have an emphatic vote to register at the polls which will make itself felt in the future legislation of Congress."

LORIMER TO BREAK DEADLOCK.

Hopkins Fails to Get Support But Illinois Politicians Hope to Elect Senator Soon.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An effort will be made to elect William Lorimer United States Senator either next Tuesday or Wednesday. That was the general understanding in legislative circles tonight after former Senator Hopkins had been given a free rein today, with the aid of Gov. Deneen, and failed to make a dent in the deadlock wall. He and the Governor mustered eighty-seven votes, which is five less than the highest vote he had early in the session.

Mr. Hopkins, as the situation is viewed by practically all the leaders, has shown the utmost that he can do in the struggle. According to a tabulation made after heart-to-heart talks with practically all the Republican members, and conceding Hopkins a considerable number who were not interviewed, it seems that Mr. Hopkins cannot force his vote above ninety in the General Assembly, and that is beaten for reëlection beyond all hope.

Those who want to see the deadlock broken in this General Assembly feel that they will have to go to some new man, as the vote today is considered, both by the leaders and the members, with the exception of a few of the Federal chiefs, the final demonstration that it is impossible to elect Mr. Hopkins.

HILL-HARRIMAN FIGHT.

DENVER, May 20.—Another development in the fight between the Hill and Harriman systems was arranged tonight, when the Union Pacific Railroad made public a cut of two hours in running time from St. Louis to Denver in the schedule of their overland limited train.

The new timing is to go into effect May 23, the same day on which the new electric-lighted Burlington train from St. Louis and Denver will be put in operation.

The schedule from Denver to St. Louis is cut only thirty minutes. The Union Pacific also announced a cut of thirty minutes' running time on all through trains from Chicago to Denver, to take effect May 30.

him," and the prosecutor repeated the threat in the hearing of all, declaring he was tired of enduring insults from counsel on the other side.

John Barrett, of the defense, argued that no end would be accomplished by showing any agreements that may have existed between Messrs. Spreckels and Heney, and that the defendant was not to be bound by such conversations.

Heney declared the defense had attacked the motives of Mr. Spreckels; had attempted in every way to discredit his testimony and had charged him with complicity in a conspiracy to convict the defendant and acquire the United Railroads.

"It is a sad state of affairs, indeed," he continued, "if this man, accused of crimes, which, if true, are far worse than those alleged committed by the defendant, be not allowed to disprove the vile insinuations of these attorneys. It would be enough, in itself, to discourage any other public-spirited citizen from going ahead with such a work, however needful."

A. A. Moore, of the defense, complained, somewhat later, that Judge Lawlor had interrupted him in a review of evidence and charged that Heney had misrepresented portions of the testimony. For this he was rebuked by Judge Lawlor, who said:

"The witness is entitled to a fair and full explanation of his motives, which have been attacked. This is an effort by the defense to prevent the people spreading the truth before the jury. Let there be no more of it."

When the court had concluded, Mr. Spreckels, who had attempted several times to speak, obtained permission to make an explanation, and said:

SPRECKELS WILLING WITNESS.

"As far as I am concerned, the bars are down, and they may ask anything they please. I am perfectly willing to let the people of the community judge of my motives."

"Did the fact that you opposed the overhead trolley have anything to do with your taking up these prosecutions?" asked Heney.

"Nothing whatever," said the witness.

"Did you ever express a desire that Ruef should have immunity if he would testify against Mr. Calhoun?"

"Never."

"Why did you employ body guards to attend Mr. Heney?"

"Because I had noticed the sneers and insults offered him and other members of the prosecution in the courtroom, and because I feared he would be assassinated. Mr. Heney did not request me to hire them."

"Why did you engage in this work of prosecution and spend these large sums of money?"

"Because my interviews with Ruef had convinced me that there was corruption in the city government, and because I believed it my duty to wipe out that corruption and place the community on a better and cleaner basis."

This concluded Heney's examination, and Mr. Rogers was given until tomorrow to decide whether or not he would again interrogate the witness.

The cross-examination of Witness Helms was completed during the day, Mr. Rogers attacking all the vital portions of his testimony, particularly those relating to his conversations with Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Abbott.

Heney brought into the record the names of several men who are alleged to have interviewed Helms before his arrival in this city to testify, and the prosecution admitted that witnesses would be called in an attempt to show that several attempts were made to prevent Helms telling what he knew.

PURNS PROVIDED FOR FAMILY.

Robert O. Bokes, an accountant in the employ of Spreckels, was called to the stand to testify that he believed the statement of expenditures produced by Spreckels to be correct. The latter took the stand, and Rogers asked him to explain an item of $17,195, part of the sum paid to William J. Burns.

"That separate item relates to a payment of $10,000 made to Mr. Burns. It was paid in accordance with an agreement made at the time he was originally employed. He told me he wanted to provide for his family in the event that he should lose his life, saying that the business he was about to engage in was doubtless a risky one. He said he wanted it as a sort of contingent fee, to pay off a mortgage and leave something for his family in case of his death. I paid him that money and kept his voucher separate from the others. The sum of $7500 was paid to Golden M. Roy, who was in the service of the prosecution, and who rendered valuable aid in trapping the Supervisors."

Heney asked an explanation of the manner in which Mr. Cobb, his law partner, was paid. Mr. Spreckels stated that Mr. Cobb had given him an estimate of his legal earnings for a year in San José, where he practiced.

"He gave me the statement of his actual earnings," said Mr. Spreckels, "and I agreed to pay him individually as much as he would earn during the time he devoted his time to the prosecution. It was distinctly understood that the payments were for himself alone."

RETURN TO "BIG HAUL" SCENE.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—The jewelry store of T. Lundy, at No. 728 Market street, which was robbed by burglars in April of last year of $50,000 worth of diamonds and other articles, was entered again during last night by crackamen who secured all the watches in the show cases, valued at about $1000. No attempt was made to open the safe, which is protected by an electric burglar alarm. The adjoining store of Fisher & Co., haberdashers, also was broken into and robbed of $25 in cash, a number of hats and other articles. A saw and a jimmy left behind are the only clews to the robbers.

Responsibility for High Prices.

An idea of the responsibility of the labor unions for the high prices on many lines of goods may be gained from the statement of a New York business man, who owns extensive bonded warehouses, and who does the trucking himself from the steamship and railway freight stations to his warehouses and from thence to the mercantile establishments when the goods are withdrawn. Speaking of the trouble in which the unions involve his business in that city, he said:

"I don't fight the union. I don't propose to. If I fought the union and manned my trucks with non-union drivers under the protection of special policemen, my troubles would only begin. In the first place, my expenses would be infinitely increased; in the second place, at every freight station the longshoremen and freight handlers and freight clerks would throw every obstacle in the way of the transaction of my business—it would be almost impossible for me to secure the goods to take to my warehouses. Then when I proposed to transfer them to the merchants to whom they were consigned I would encounter the same trouble with the porters and freight handlers and clerks in the mercantile establishments. Now, I avoid all this trouble by the short and simple method of yielding to the demands of the union. When they demand fewer hours and more pay, or anything involving less work on their part for the same pay, I simply accede to it and say to my customers, 'it will cost you a dollar or two dollars more a truckload to deliver your goods than it has heretofore.' I am quite aware that in consequence of this increase the wholesaler adds a cent or two per yard to the goods when he sells them, and the jobber adds a little more and so down to the retail merchant, who must also get a higher price, and so the consumer is at last made to bear the burden. It is all wrong, but in the way I am permitted to carry on my business without such interruption as would be disastrous to it."

This is quoted merely to give an illustration of how the people, the consumers, the great third party, having no direct interest in the quarrel between employer and employés, are made to bear the burden every time a union secures increased wages or fewer hours at the former compen-

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

WOULD HAVE MATRONS MEET HOMELESS GIRLS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MONTEREY, May 20. — Today's session of the California Federation of Women's Clubs at Del Monte was of much interest and there was an increase in attendance. The Credentials Committee reported 222 delegates present, which is a large representation.

Resolutions of thanks to Congressman Smith and the other California Representatives for saving the big trees were adopted. The report of the philanthropic department outlined the work, in conjunction with the Young Woman's Christian Association, of having matrons at depots of large cities to care for homeless girls and save them from being led astray. The convention indorsed the report.

Mrs. Lovell White of San Francisco, told of the work of saving the redwood forests, in an interesting way. Miss Calthea Vivian addressed the convention on "Arts and Artists," and Mrs. Lilian Hawes Coffin told of her work at Sacramento during the last Legislature. This afternoon the delegates were the guests of the Pacific Grove Civic Club and were entertained at the Japanese garden at that place.

LIFE'S SEAMY SIDE.

MOTHER SLAYS HER OWN BABE.

Shoots Little Fellow as He Lies in His Crib.

Killing Done After Quarrel With Husband.

Woman Then Drinks Poison, But Recovers.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Following a difference with her husband that led to a separation, Mrs. Laura MacDonald shot and killed her three-year-old son, John, as the baby lay in his bed tonight.

The woman then took poison, but when she was removed to the Emergency Hospital the doctors stated that she would live.

Mrs. MacDonald's husband, J. M. MacDonald, left her about ten days ago after a quarrel. He returned on Tuesday, only to announce that he intended to go away again to Portland, Or. The woman brooded over this until tonight when, after preparing her little son for bed, she drew back the covers and held a 38-caliber revolver within two inches of his body, and fired, the bullet passing through the babe's heart.

Mrs. MacDonald then swallowed several antiseptic tablets, which made her sick, but had no other effect. She seized a bottle of carbolic acid and was about to drink the contents when C. M. Green, a fellow-lodger in the hotel where the shooting occurred, broke into the room and knocked the bottle from her hands.

The woman was taken to the hospital, and the tablets were removed by means of a stomach pump.

SHOEMAKERS' ROW.

TWO-COUNTY AFFAIR.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

REDDING, May 20.—Two traveling shoemakers, both under the influence of liquor, quarreled in Manton last evening with a farmer named John Robertson. One of the shoemakers shot at Robertson, but the bullet missed him and went through the postoffice, a small frame building, without striking any of those inside. The shoemakers, whose names are unknown, have been arrested, and are being held to await the coming of Sheriff Boyd from Red Bluff. Manton is a small town on the Shasta-Tehama boundary line. The saloon is in Tehama county, and the postoffice in Shasta county. The shooting occurred in Tehama county, the bullet going through the postoffice in Shasta county.

CONFESSES OUTRAGE.

ENDS LONG SEARCH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

BLUEFIELDS (W. Va.) May 20.—John Thompson, white, aged 19, yesterday confessed to the authorities at Welch that on September 14, 1908, he assaulted and killed Lulu Stafford, aged 13, whose body was found in a clump of bushes in the MacDowell county courthouse yard on September 15.

Rewards were offered and various clues run down without success. Thompson, it is alleged, confessed his crime to his mother several months ago.

NO REPRIEVE.

INDIAN MUST HANG.

[BY LIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Board of Pardons this afternoon refused to grant the application for a reprieve for Charles Kaiser, an Indian, sentenced to hang at the Carson Prison tomorrow. Kaiser became enraged at his wife because she failed to return home, and killed her. This will be the first execution during the administration of Warden Maxwell and every precaution has been taken to guard the condemned man. While awaiting his trial he escaped from the jail and was captured after a long chase.

WELCOME.

GALLANT ELKS GREET LADIES.

FIRST NIGHT FOR FAIR ONES AT NEW CLUBHOUSE.

Beautiful Building Is a Blaze of Lights from Ballroom to Roof Garden and Is Filled With a Brilliant Throng of Handsomely Gowned Women and Their Escorts.

The first "Ladies Night" at the Elks new clubhouse was fittingly observed last evening. More than 2000 members of the antlered herd and their women friends participated in the affair, which was given to show especial recognition to the ladies who helped make the Elks Harvest festival such a success last fall.

The beautiful building was a blaze of lights and from ballroom to roof garden, passed and repassed a brilliant throng of handsomely gowned women and their escorts. Although distinctly a fashionable function, it was given in the delightful informal manner which characterizes all affairs given by Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99.

The reception hall, card rooms, ballroom and other apartments were lavishly adorned with flowers and greenery and music was rendered by vocalists and orchestras.

Many of the younger couples preferred the seclusion of the roof garden, with its cosy corners in the shadows, while others danced away the evening in the magnificent ballroom. The card rooms were filled with eager players, while the members of the older set seemed to fancy the comparative quiet of the reception rooms.

Leo V. Youngworth, Exalted Ruler, and his charming bride were the recipients of much attention. It was the most elaborate function ever given by the local lodge and presages many similar social affairs to be given next winter.

The members congratulated one another on the spaciousness of the clubhouse, for last night's reception showed its great capacity. It was remarked that the visitors next July will be agreeably surprised to find such a splendid place open for their visitation.

The dance orders were dainty little cards adorned with a picture of the clubhouse and printed in purple ink.

The programme opened with an address of welcome given by Milton K. Young. He told the ladies to make themselves at home and enjoy all the good things of club life in order that they might realize how much their husbands, brothers and sweethearts enjoyed themselves in their new home.

In the reception hall a musical programme was rendered, and an organ recital was given in the lodge room by W. C. Stone. The Aloha Serenaders sang on the roof garden, and billiards, pool and cards were played in the social quarters.

The programme was arranged by Frank Bryson, Dr. Charles M. Benbrook and Otto H. Schons. John E. Brink was chairman of the Refreshment Committee and H. L. Cornish headed a band of gallant young men who constituted the Floor Committee. A Reception Committee, of which N. R. Webster was chairman, looked after the wants of the fair guests.

FOR LONG WEAR.

TREAD OF STEEL, SOLID HEEL.

WISCONSIN MAN, VISITOR, TELLS OF SHOES.

Metal-Soled Footgear Develops a Business With Factories at Racine, Toronto and Manchester, England. Some of Advantages as Compared With Old-Style Underpinning.

From a modest clerkship in a Wisconsin store to the head of a great company of his own creation, with factories at Racine, Wis., Toronto, Canada, and Manchester, England, is the record made in five years by N. M. Ruthstein, manager of the Steel Shoe Company, of Racine, Wis., who is in Los Angeles. He is about to go to Germany to start a fourth factory for the making of steel-soled shoes.

Mr. Ruthstein reluctantly told his story in the lobby of the Alexandria last night, when friends commented upon his peculiar watch charm, a little golden shoe, the heel and sole of which are studded with diamonds, like the hobnails in the familiar mountain shoe.

Five years ago, a disheartened inventor who had designed a steel overshoe which was anything but a success confided his troubles to Ruthstein. The young clerk, quick to see the advantages of a practically "wearless" shoe, organized a company for the manufacture of steel overshoes. The original invention, nevertheless, proved a failure, but Ruthstein held the company together and evolved a successful steel-soled shoe from the impracticable overshoe that had been submitted to him.

A factory was built three years ago at Racine and business was at once begun on a practicable basis. The steel shoe was a success from the beginning. The demand grew by leaps and bounds. A factory was started at Toronto, and it too soon proved too small. Another was established at Manchester with the same result. A fourth is to be erected in Germany at an early date.

"We will spend $100,000 in advertising this winter," said Ruthstein last night. "The shoes we make are so much in demand that it is only a question of how fast we can turn them out, but it is an easy matter to enlarge our factories, and that is why we are buying printer's ink to explain to the people what our shoes mean to them."

But a short time ago, the mention of steel for shoeing purposes would have been greeted with derision unless one were speaking of shoeing horses and mules. Ruthstein has devised a metallic shoe that is said to be as comfortable and efficient as any leather shoe, and the steel shoe is being worn extensively by men engaged in hard work of the character which is always hard on footwear.

A thin sheet of steel is pressed into the form of the undersart of the foot forming a sole as well as three-quarters of an inch or so of the sides of the shoe. The upper, made of leather, is riveted to the edge of this metal box. Inside, the shoe is lined with a hair-cushion that keeps the foot warm and comfortable, while the underside of the sole is studded with a number of projecting rivets which may easily be renewed when worn out.

This novel shoe presents first the advantage that it will not leak through the sole, will not shrink when wet, or warp and crinkle up when dry. It can be put on as easily when the feet are wet as when they are dry, the sole will not burn if held up to a fire, and the sides will not cut from contact with rocks, etc.

Ruthstein wears on his watch chain a small golden shoe, a miniature of the invention which has earned a fortune for him. Instead of rivets, the sole is studded with small diamonds which screw in and out to show how the rivets in the shoe may be removed, and this charm attracts attention.

HOW A DENVER MAN CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

Nothing Helped Him Until He Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Then a Permanent Cure Resulted.

When the general health is broken down, if conditions are favorable for the disease, rheumatism is very liable to develop. Without these conditions of low vitality and weakened resistance nature will protect the body against the disease.

In the development of rheumatism a marked feature is the thinning of the blood caused by the breaking down of the blood cells.

The best treatment for rheumatism is rest and what doctors call a "supporting treatment," that is, to restore and retain a high level of general health. Then nature cures the disease.

With these facts in view it is easily seen how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills prevent and cure rheumatism. They tone up the blood and nerves and maintain the general health. Taken after rheumatism has developed they begin at once to rebuild the blood, to restore its broken-down cells, and that is to directly combat the disease. External applications will never cure rheumatism because the disease is in the blood and must be fought there.

In the convalescent stage the pills are also useful, as they lessen the after-effects, which are often more harmful in lasting injury than the disease itself.

A recently reported cure by this treatment is that of Mr. O. N. Jones of No. 3410 West Thirty-first avenue, Denver, Colo. "I was very much run down from overwork," he says, "and rheumatism developed. I had steady pains across the back and at times would get so stiff that I could hardly straighten out. Sometimes the pains would extend down the sciatic nerves of the limbs, then again there would be shooting pains through other parts of my body.

"I kept losing flesh, and could not get a good night's rest. My stomach was in bad condition and I had no desire to eat. All the medicine I took was of little account until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had but little faith in their doing me any good, but after taking one box I felt so much better that I sent for more. They absolutely cured me and although my work of mining engineer takes me in the damp and wet a great deal I have never had the rheumatism since."

The fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure rheumatism is so well established that it is difficult to understand how any sufferer can afford to neglect the remedy. These pills are absolutely safe and harmless. They make new blood, strengthen the nerves and cure rheumatism in the only way that it can be cured to stay cured.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always the same and are sold only in packages bearing the well-known trademark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Pills sold in any other package, or loose, by the dozen or hundred are not the same, whatever the clerk tells you. The genuine are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Millions for Canary Birds.

There are 5,000,000 caged canary birds in the United States, and it costs $7,500,000 annually to feed them, according to a report from Robert T. Thompson, United States Consul at Hanover, published in the daily consular and trade reports of the Department of Commerce and Labor. It is estimated that the ordinary house canary will eat twenty-five pounds of seed a year, which costs an average for each bird of $1.50.

Home-Run Johnson Shows He Has Real Class.

Relieves Carson in Box in the Seventh Inning.

Drives Out Third Baseman in Four Games.

Los Angeles, 5; Portland, 2.

Ote Johnson, third baseman of the Beavers, tried again yesterday to beat the locals, but as he got little or no assistance from the other fellows in the team, the best he could get was the third defeat of the week. He was trying all the time, for he hit a home run, sending in McCredie ahead of him for the only two runs the Beavers made; played third base for seven innings; rapped out two of his team's six swats, and, finally, becoming tired of watching Kit Carson heave, went in and pitched awhile himself and wound up the game in the box. Probably he can drive two horses, wash clothes and make biscuits, for he is a versatile cuss.

McCredie, the champion Marathon walker of the league, makes the mistake of his life in using this Johnson as a third baseman. He should be stuck in to heave about three times every week, for he is strong in the back and from what he has shown in the few games in which he has nobly responded when some of the regular heavers feebly called for help, he might be a real pitcher after all. He has plenty of speed and some curves, and of the six men that faced him in the seventh and eighth innings, he made four of them bounce him the ball and another popped up a fly to him. He was heartily applauded for his good work and was by big odds the hero of the day.

Notwithstanding Carson's apparent indifference, he pitched a good game and was bad only in spots. Three of the locals' five hits were doubles and two of these developed into runs, and as an error, a single and a sacrifice were mixed with the swats, the locals had little trouble in getting around the bases.

FIELDING FEATURES.

Aside from the work of Johnson, the fielding features were a long running catch back of first base by Beall in the third inning; Delmas's fine assisting force out of Kennedy at second base on Armbruster's grounder back of third base, and Dillon's high left-handed catch of a wild throw by Delmas. The locals did not need all of these pretty stunts, for the Beavers played stupid ball at times, Carson and Kennedy being responsible for two runs.

In the third, with two out, Briswalter passed McCredie and then Slugger Johnson hit over the left fence for his third home run in four games, these two runs being all that the Beavers could get. The locals evened the score in the fourth on Breen's error of Howard's grounder, Smith's double and Delmas's sacrifice.

Then the fifth came, with its fine home-headed work, and here is where the locals won the game. Orendorff opened with a double to the Chutes gate and Briswalter bounced the ball to Carson. Instead of throwing out Bris at first, which he could have done easily, Carson stopped a moment as if he were sleeping, and then tried to catch Orendorff at third, which he had no chance to do.

Daley bunted toward Olson and beat the throw, Godwin bounced to Johnson, Orendorff scoring in the out, and Daley and Briswalter advancing a base. Beall was walked because Carson was afraid of him, and Howard followed with a neat sacrifice which scored both Briswalter and Daley. It was a pop fly toward first base, and both Carson and Breen ran for it. They came together, but Howard was thrown out at first, Briswalter scoring. While Carson, Breen and Kennedy were wrangling among themselves, Daley sneaked to the plate from third. Fine business!

SEALS DEFEAT VERNON.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—San Francisco drew away another step in the Coast League lead today by giving Vernon a third straight beating, 2 to 0. Hitt, who pitched for Vernon, allowed only five hits, but one of these was a three-bagger by McArdle and another a double by Nick Williams, which registered both runs in the seventh inning.

Vernon hammered Eastley for seven hits, but errorless fielding shut them off at the plate the only time they looked dangerous. Score:

SACRAMENTO, May 20.—The heavy-hitting Oaks went after Fitzgerald for seven hits in the second inning today, and made five runs which won the game. The final run was made in the fourth when Shinn muffed a throw from Graham and let in C. Lewis.

With one man down and the bases full, Hauser, the busher, went into the game and prevented further scoring. He allowed only three hits, but was slightly wild. Christian pitched a consistent game, but had poor support. Score:

INNER SECRETS.

BRINGS HEAVY SUIT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 20.—The inner workings of major league baseball clubs, with an idea of the expense of their operation and the profits made for them, are partly revealed in a suit brought by Joseph Gordon, former president of the Greater New York Baseball Association, against the association and Frank J. Farrell, the present owner of the New York American League team, for a receiver.

The Appellate division of the Supreme Court is considering the application.

After stating that it was his idea to incorporate an American League team in New York City, and that after doing so he served as its manager from 1903 to 1907, Gordon relates that Farrell, who did the financial backing, agreed to give him half of the profits, and asserts that "the business is of great value, with large profits, and the approximate receipts for a season are about $240,000. There already have been five seasons of exhibition with the annual cost of operation about $80,000, and the net receipts over and above such costs have been very large, and far exceed the moneys put in by the defendant Farrell."

Gordon asks for an accounting of the business and profits and an inspection of the books, also for a decree that he is the owner of one-half of the business.

SULTAN WANTS PEACE.

His Address at Opening of Chamber of Deputies Makes Excellent Effect.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20.—The members of the Chamber of Deputies took oath this afternoon in the presence of the Sultan to uphold the constitution of Turkey, and to protect the sheriat and the rights of the nation. The ceremony occurred in the chamber itself.

A great crowd gathered outside and gave an ovation to Mehemmed V, when he appeared. Accompanied by the Grand Vizier, His Majesty ascended the presidential tribune. He then handed his speech to the Grand Vizier, who read it. The address made reference to the good relations existing between Turkey and all foreign powers and the desire of Turkey to strengthen these ties.

Referring to the disturbances in Asiatic Turkey, the Sultan expressed his keen regret, and gave assurance that they would not occur again. This passage made a good impression. The reading of the address was punctuated by applause and ejaculations of "Inshallah."

At the conclusion of the speech, His Majesty repeated his oath to uphold the constitution, and the Grand Vizier administered the oath to the various ministers and deputies individually.

WISE TALKS

BY THE "OFFICE BOY"

The teacher was telling Johnnie that the camel can go eight days without water. "So could I," said Johnnie, "if ma would let me." That reminds me of the answer Uncle Hiram made to the hotel clerk, who asked him if he'd have a room with a bath. "Wa-al, no. I don't calculate I'll be here Saturday night." Did you ever drop in at one of our stores on a Saturday evening and see how awfully busy we get? There is something about our stores. I think it must be an atmosphere of personality that seizes you as you enter the door—that indescribable something that grips the customer and causes him to decide within himself, "I want to buy here." Merit alone is the only reason the Silverwood Stores have become so popular. We sell no questionable merchandise. We employ only high-class, gentlemanly salesmen. The Old Man says, "A merchant can tear a good trade to pieces quicker by supplying it with poor quality than by any other means under the sun." FAIR CARD OF SHORT SCRAPS.

WEEKLY SHOW OF YOUNG PUGS LOOKS PROMISING.

Seven Bouts Are Down for Decision and All Should Be Speedy—Frankie Sullivan and Johnny Hugo Are to Furnish the Main Event—Number of New Faces Will Be Seen.

Plenty of action and short bouts make up the programme for the weekly boxing show tonight at the Pacific Athletic Club pavilion at Naud Junction, and those fight bugs who are complaining about the class of the card will surely be satisfied with its make-up, for there are no less than seven bouts to be decided, if all the boys toe the line. This will doubtless give every one all the fights he cares to see in one night.

There will be three bouts of four rounds each and four of six rounds and the final or main event will bring together Frankie Sullivan and Johnny Hugo, who are to make 124 pounds at 8 o'clock this evening. Both have fought here several times and are well known to local bugs and there should be little backing up in this bout. The semi-final will be between Mike Kutchos and Young Togo, and this looks promising, for both boys, in their previous contests, have always carried the battle to their opponents and neither knows what it is to back up. Kutchos has always been unpopular here on account of his crouch fighting, but this time he says he will show a different style. Eddie Robinson is authority for the declaration that his Jap boy, Togo, has greatly improved since his former fights and expects to win tonight.

Steeplejack Martin has thrown aside his motoring for the time being in order to prepare for his meeting with Willie Mack, and is using every spare moment for his training. The preliminaries will bring some new faces into the ring, and the short bouts should result in fast work. The show will begin at 8 o'clock.

HAD NO CHANCE.

LAUDER KNOCKED OUT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kid Harrison of San Francisco, tonight, knocked out Leonard Lauder of Los Angeles at the close of the first round. Lauder never had a chance to strike a blow and was down and out almost before the 800 fans knew what had happened.

Harrison caught Lauder on the left jaw with a right cross as they came out of a clinch. It was several minutes before Lauder recovered. On July 4 it was announced, Harrison will fight Joe Carroll of Salinas, in this city.

Lauder and Harrison fought at 120 pounds. A month ago they fought a 15-round draw. Harrison was the favorite in the betting. Ed Cobb of San Francisco won the preliminary from Red Fitzsimmons in five rounds. Fitzsimmons broke his wrist in the fight.

FOXY O'BRIEN.

GETS THE LION'S SHARE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It became known today that it was Jack O'Brien who really engineered last night's bout with Jack Johnson, not the National Athletic Club, and that the white man made the big end of the profits. Johnson, as he expected, did get 25000 for his work, but he did not know that O'Brien was paying him that sum of the end of the proceeds. The white man signed the articles with the club whereby he was to receive 75 per cent of the gross receipts, which came to about $18,800; of this he gave Johnson his 25000, which left him about $6800 for himself. The club's end was $4800.

"I am satisfied with the result of the bout," said O'Brien today. "Johnson had fifty pounds the better of the weights, his reach and height were against me, and still I had to force all the fighting. I was better against Johnson because of my condition than I was against Ketchel. I will be even better in my next bout. I have a dozen theatrical offers, but I don't think I will accept any of the engagements."

"I won," said Johnson; "everybody knows I did, but I must admit I never dreamed O'Brien was so fast and clever. I am going to England; then I will return to America and whip Ketchel and take that flyer at James J. Jeffries."

HYLAND'S ATTACK.

TO GO AFTER NELSON'S BODY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fighting Dick Hyland counts on beating Battling Nelson when they meet May 29 by attacking the champion on the body. Hyland believes the man does not live who can hurt Nelson on the face or head, and the fighter who relieves him of the championship will be one who will punish him about the body.

Hyland reverts to Britt's last fight with Nelson at the Auditorium, in which the Native Son nearly knocked out Nelson. Hyland believes had Britt directed his attack to the body earlier in the fight, instead of in the eighteenth round, he would have made Nelson take the count for the first time in his career.

Hyland's sparring partners use body protectors so as to allow Hyland to peg away. Otherwise they could not stand before him for half a round. Hyland himself knows Nelson's every punch, and has mapped out his own plan of battle. He was sparring partner for the Dane for over a year, and knows all his tricks.

PAPKE IS COMING.

TO VISIT HERE FOR FEW WEEKS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Billy Papke, accompanied by his brother, Ed, left today for Los Angeles, where he will remain for several weeks. Before departing Papke said he had decided to accept terms offered for a match with Stanley Ketchel, and he will be ready to sign articles with the champion at once for a fight July 5.

Coffroth is now endeavoring to get the financial end fixed up with Willis Britt, who is in New York, and if he can get the champion to fall into line, the match is as good as cinched, as Papke and Coffroth have agreed on terms. This fight would draw a very large crowd, as Papke's easy victory over Hugo Kelly has made him a favorite here.

IMPROVE MARKSMANSHIP.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The United States army has greatly improved its marksmanship since 1907, and California leads all other departments of the army in this respect. Figures have just been issued showing the results of the pistol and rifle firing of the troops of the regular army, excluding those who are stationed in the Philippines for the target year of 1908. The department of California's general figure of merit was 79.47; department of Colorado, second with 78.69.

WATER POLO GAMES.

First of Series of Contests to Take Place at Bimini Tonight.

The water polo team of the Los Angeles Athletic Club is to meet the Bimini team at the Bimini Baths this evening in the first of a series of aquatic events to be conducted by the Southern California Swimming Association for the purpose of raising funds to send a team to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle.

Contests are to continue for five consecutive Friday nights. Tonight and next Friday there will be water polo games, while on the three succeeding Friday evenings the association will conduct its Southern California indoor championships.

In addition to the polo game tonight there will be fancy and high diving by Prof. J. Cox assisted by Charles Colt, Andrew Scholz, and Clifford Bowes. Bowes, who is but 11 years old, is the champion juvenile diver of the south.

The A.A.U. has sanctioned both the polo games and the indoor championships, and all events will be pulled off under its rules.

On the evening of June 4, the fifty and 100-yard dashes will be contested, and the championship high and fancy-dives decided. The 220-yard dash, the quarter mile and the under-water championship will take place on June 11, while on June 18, the last evening of the tournament, are carded the half mile, the fifty-yard juvenile and a women's race for the same distance. All the 150-yard races in the tournament will be in heats.

ALFRED BENJAMIN SUITS

There are fads and fancies—freaks and frauds—but throughout the years gentlemen demand the same standard of refinement and good taste.

Cheap cutters attempt to create individuality by sensational and extreme fads—by loud and obtrusive innovations that quickly become offensive to all careful dressers.

Your kind of clothing is here, made by a house whose label carries the dignity of a government seal. No clothing so full of individuality, but its exclusive character is due to its perfect tailoring, its accurate interpretation of prevailing fashion, its rich refinement. Extreme in exclusiveness but not one atom of foppishness.

Chalmers-Detroit Sinks in Dangerous Quicksands and Crew Returns for Block and Tackle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) May 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The pathfinder for the flag to flag automobile endurance run returned again to El Paso this morning at 2 o'clock, completing a 112-mile desert trip. They were compelled to secure extra block and tackle, rope, jacks and planks. The little Chalmers was found half buried in dry quicksand, a stiff wind since Monday having cleared part of the sand road, but almost buried the car, which could not be moved an inch.

Tomorrow a number of novel expedients will bring about a resumption of the trip. Guides are waiting all along the line now and the roads are reported passable. W. A. Degress of the City of Mexico has joined Spooner and Knipper, and MacArton has returned to Denver, sick from the terrible experiences of desert travel.

PERSONAL—TO "LINER" ADVERTISERS:
Dating from June 1, classified advertising in The Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday.
Close calculations, covering a period of several months, develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1.
Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The present "want" ad. rate has been in effect for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 80,000 daily and 90,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares with The Times in "want" ad. service.

PERSONAL—TO "LINER" ADVERTISERS:
Dating from June 1, classified advertising in The Times will be charged by the word at the present established rate of 1c per word in the daily issue and 1½c Sunday.
Close calculations, covering a period of several months, develop the fact that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1.
Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the manner of handling it. The present "want" ad. rate has been in effect for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 80,000 daily and 90,000 Sundays, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares with The Times in "want" ad. service.

UP
PER ACRE, WITH WATER.
¼ CASH, BALANCE 1, 2 AND 3 YEARS.
Here is the opportunity to own a ranch of two and one-half to five acres upon which you may raise oranges, lemons, berries, alfalfa, or, in fact, everything to make you independent.
There is an abundant supply of crystal artesian well water piped in steel mains to each ranch from the cement reservoir containing over half a million gallons, supplying one-half miner's inch to the acre.
All of the land is nearly level with a gradual slope to the south. The soil is a rich, sandy loam that has raised large crops, and $100 per acre is being realized from alfalfa at the present time.
Adjoining property is selling from $300 to $1500 per acre.
These acres will, undoubtedly, bring over $1500 each in eight or three years.
During the hot summer months, the ocean breezes sweep over this elevation, making the temperature about the same at all seasons.
The macadamized Main Street Boulevard from Los Angeles to San Pedro will go through these acres.
This property will not be on the market long at present prices.
Take the Moneta-avenue Redondo car any place on Broadway to Rosecrans avenue.

CASA BLANCA, MOROCCO, AND ON THE JOURNEY.

American Tourists
who enjoy the summer sledding in Madeira.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CASA BLANCA, April 27.—With characteristic Moorish speed, the damage done by the French bombardment of over a year ago is now nearly repaired. It was a job that would have taken a dozen American masons two months, at most. One well-to-do English family, who were forced to leave their house hurriedly when the uprising took place, returned after the bombardment to find that the place had been occupied by the Moors, and consequently shelled by the French guns and well-nigh wrecked. In due course representations were made to the government, backed by the French authorities. In process of time the claim for damages was allowed, and I was assured last week that, to judge from previous instances, the injured property holder would be getting his money in about four years.

The incident is worth mentioning as being characteristic of the state of affairs all along the Atlantic coast of Morocco. In the last week I have visited the Morocco coast cities of Casa Blanca, Saffi, Mazagan and Mogador, and find Casa Blanca much the most progressive, owing, doubtless to the greater activities there of the French, and to the fact that the town boasts a landing place. In Saffi, till even in Mogador, the metropolis of the North Atlantic coast of Africa, one has to be carried ashore from surf boats on the backs of natives, and in Mogador the cargo had to be transferred in the same primitive fashion. The absence of quays in these places would amaze any one but a Moor, considering the fact that the Royal Mail steamers visit all these ports direct from London twice a month, bringing trade that would rapidly enrich these ancient and sleepy towns if the Moors would take any active interest in the matter, or would permit the Jews, who average perhaps a third of the population of these coast cities, to engage in commerce free from extortionate and oppressive taxation.

Except perhaps in Mogador, it would appear that there is scarcely a genuine "curiosity" purchasable by European visitors in any of these towns. The main streets—often a morass of mud and filth in the rainy season—are lined with shops that are merely cubby-holes in the masonry, and few of which are larger than steamer cabins. Here are displayed antique Moorish daggers—"Come, look, gentleman, very old"—which can be seen in the making in the side street around the corner. Prices of these fall from any height to which Arab imagination can soar down to 50 cents and a dollar, if the buyer is indifferent enough.

The fortnightly arrival of the Royal Mail steamers, with well-fed passengers from London, seems to have become the chief event in the life of these towns, except for occasional affrays arising out of the jealousy of the native troops, who get their pay how they can and when they can from the Moorish government, and the native police in the towns, who get their pay promptly from the French government.

The Royal Mail steamers on the Morocco service call at the Canaries and Madeira, and we found that the principal hotel at Funchal, in Madeira, was full, although it is a huge place comparable in most ways with the best American hotels. The town was crowded with English and Americans, all of whom made a rush at first for the carros, the sleighs with broad runners, drawn by a team of bullocks, which take the place of motors and horses in Madeira, and which slide over the slippery cobbles with an ease which signifies truly that walking is difficult. On the steep slopes from the hotels and gardens high up above Funchal, summer sleds replace the summer sleighs, and, instead of bullocks, the passenger has two men holding onto the sled by ropes at either side to keep the conveyance from running away. As most of the great liners making excursion tours from New York to the Mediterranean stop in Madeira, Funchal in March and April looks and sounds like a "little bit of home."

It ought to be added, for the benefit of smokers, that Las Palmas is worth visiting, for the sake of its cigars, if nothing else. Cigars of all the famous Havana brands are brought on board ship by the local merchants and offered at from 4 to 8 cents each, with the expectations that the purchaser will offer half that sum, and eventually buy for about two-thirds of the asking price. But these so-called Havana cigars are of doubtful quality and pedigree, and the wise buyer "plumps" for the native "twisters," in football-shaped bundles of ten each, at the price of 12 cents a bundle. Most of them are astonishingly good—better than Havana tobacco except when it is in finest condition. You can get the same thing in Teneriffe at double the price, and in Madeira at three times the price. If the Las Palmas tobacco growers were enterprising they could speedily build up a good export trade to the United States in these native "twisters," as they are called by the English visitors.

NO LIMIT.

EXPLOSION BY WIRELESS.

INDIANA INVENTOR PLAYS WITH ELECTRICITY.

Can Set Off Explosions Several Miles Away—Has Experimented at His Own Home and at a Distance of Three Miles With "Williamsite."

[St. Louis Times:] By pressing the key of a wireless electrical apparatus at his home, No. 206 Sunset avenue, 18-year-old Charles Williams caused an explosion three miles away with a blast of such strength that it shook buildings in many parts of the city and startled residents, many of whom thought that an earthquake threatened the city.

Young Williams is the inventor of the wireless apparatus by which the explosion was caused and of the explosive, which he says is about forty times as strong as dynamite. He calls it Williamsite. In causing the blast he used only three ounces of it.

Though he is but a boy in his teens and never go much as went to high school, Williams for the past four years has been studying high explosives and electricity and has acquired an extensive knowledge of both subjects. In a flimsy wooden shed behind his home he has been working with the most dangerous substances known to science. The result of his efforts is that he has discovered a compound of fearful power.

Williams is a youth of quiet, retiring manners, robust, large for his age, with light hair and blue eyes that regard one in a mildly inquiring way. He lives with his widowed mother, Mrs. Dora Williams, and a younger brother.

"Yes, that was me," he said with a laugh when asked about the explosion.

"I took three ounces of the stuff," he said, "and went out in the country with it. I walked out past the water works and about three miles out I found a tree. Then I walked back home and waited after supper. About 9 o'clock I got things in shape and set it off.

"Why yes, the experiment was successful. I knew it would be. You see I've been studying it a long time and I knew just how it would act."

Concerning the negotiations for the disposal of his secrets young Williams was not willing to say much.

MERCURY IN COMBINE.

The experiments which he has been conducting have been with products rich in nitrogen, the gas which enters largely into all forms of explosives. Some months ago he obtained a quantity of a substance which is a waste product of the nitrate mines of South America. It was sent to him from Argentine Republic. By experimenting with it in connection with fulminate of mercury he discovered the compound which he used. This, he says, is more effective than explosives now used by the governments and can be manufactured more cheaply.

"I wouldn't make it a life work," he declared. "I'd kill myself in a year's time. But I like it," he went on enthusiastically. "Think of it," he said, earnestly, "to be able to take a piece of stuff no bigger than that," and he held up his clenched fist, "and wreck a mountainside with it.

"So, I'm going to be a railroad man," he went on. "This other thing will just be a form of recreation with me."

Asked if his work might not be a menace to the safety of his family and to residents of the neighborhood near his home, Williams emphatically declared there was no danger.

"I don't take any chances of any kind," he said. "I have a little magazine out in the country where I keep my explosives, and I never bring any dangerous quantity into town. I keep it buried.

CAREFUL WITH INVENTION.

"I've been making tests right here at home for some time," he said. "But I have only been using minute quantities. One of the first tests that I made was right in our parlor. I set off a little explosion by wireless across the room. When I work with larger quantities of the stuff I always do it out in the country far away from anybody."

Williams seems to have provided for emergencies. When it was pointed out that some farmer might have wandered into the charge of Williamsite that he placed in a tree, he smiled.

been standing under the tree when it went off," he said. "Might have scared him to death, but it wouldn't have hurt him. You see it's easy to direct a blast. Make it go any way you want—if you know a little about it." It seemed extremely simple to Williams.

"Now, that charge," he went on, "I had that fixed so that you could have stood right by it when it went off."

Questioned whether he had done any practical work with this explosive, Williams said that he had done some things.

"I have never thought of any uses for the high explosives in industrial work," he said. "But they might have value in some lines. I've done some blasting. I saw a farmer up near Rockport wasting dynamite on boulders the other day. I talked to him about it, and then showed him how to do it quicker and much more cheaply. Did a part of it myself. I've done considerable work of that sort."

Some few weeks ago attention was called to Williams by an explosion which occurred in Sunset Park. He was required to give an explanation to the police, and did so. Asked about that matter he said:

"That wasn't anything at all. It was just a little charge of plain dynamite that didn't amount to anything, only it made a little more noise than I thought it would."

Japanese Boys as Nurses.

Are Japanese "boys" to usurp the duties of nursemaid in up-to-date American families? That query forcibly presented itself a few days ago in Madison Square when a girl about 5 years old strolled along with a fluffy little dog and a grinning Jap as escorts. The Jap, who was about 20 years old, wore a blue suit, a light overcoat and a brown derby hat. His little charge wore the most thoroughly up-to-date garments. Her hat was of the accepted "peach basket" shape. She wore a long white coat, cut Directoire, white stockings and white shoes of undressed kid. Her manner was that of a person sure of her position in the world and of the dignity necessary to uphold it. To the Jap she was all condescension. This is a fragment of their conversation: "My papa says our soldiers are going to fight with you, Kito. Then you'll have to go back papa is playing an April fool joke." It may be wise for the ambitious young women of Ireland, Germany and France to beware lest the encroaching Mongol oust them from their places as nurses in the American home.—[Exchange.

The Coldest City.

Yakutsky, in Eastern Siberia, is said to be the coldest city in the world. It is the great commercial emporium of Eastern Siberia and the capital of the province of Yakutsky, which in most of its area of 1,517,063 square miles is a bare desert, the soil of which is frozen to a great depth. Yakutsky consists of about 400 houses of European structure, standing apart. The intervening space are occupied by winter yoorts or huts of the northern nomads, with earthern roofs. The doors are covered with hairy hides and the windows are of ice.—[Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Fifty Symbols on a Gravestone.

Hannibal Clark, a wealthy farmer in Platt county, Ill., recently lost a favorite daughter, and was so affected that he determined to have cut on the granite shaft erected over her grave the things the girl liked. The stonemasons have chiseled in high relief no less than fifty symbols. They include a house, fence, plow, grain, cradle, rooster, hen, turkey, cow, horse, side saddle, pair of scissors, thimble, violin, copies of love letters, owl and fish.—[Baltimore News.

Why Don't You Get Well?

Because you are not getting treatment applicable to your disease. It is an acknowledged fact among medical men that most diseases are due to some form of germ. What are known as chronic diseases are some form of infection and blood poisoning from certain germs peculiar to those as Catarrh, Bronchitis, Tuberculosis, Appendicitis, Jaundice, Female Diseases, Joint Diseases, etc. All chronic diseases begin as acute diseases, and by neglect or failure to diagnose and treat them properly, become chronic. These diseases are amenable to treatment and cure. To do this it is necessary to locate the disease and then determine the particular germ responsible for this disease by microscopical examination of the fluids and tissues of the body. We have given a life study to these diseases and have the results of the researches of the best medical authorities of the world to confirm our diagnoses and treatment. We especially recommend our treatment as applied to diseases of women and children, as well as all forms of acute and chronic diseases, medical and surgical.
